Oil Problem Is Complex

Ottawa Journal

One of the most tantalizing and complex questions the Canadian economy faces today is the problem of the Montreal oil refining market. The question is tantalizing because while this country is looking for customers for its oil, Montreal refineries which constitute 40 percent of all Canadian oil refining production are being supplied entirely by foreign crude oil.

In the midst of such an incongruity, the case for a larger West-to-East flow of oil within Canada has an obvious appeal and certainly some validity. It is far too complicated an issue to be resolved by emotional appeals to national fervor. Yet the economic arguments in favor of Canadian crude oil for Montreal can be countered by very considerable economic and political arguments against it.

The advocates of the proposition to serve the Montreal market with Canadian oil say rightly that Western oil must find markets, that it is important to keep the economy of the Prairie Provinces diversified and healthy. A Canadian oil pipeline would conserve the country's foreign exchange, cutting down our trade deficit. Canada would have a new self-sufficiency in oil, would be far less vulnerable if world conditions shut off foreign supplies.

Yet even those in the oil industry admit how expensive any Montreal pipeline would be. If it were to be feasible, i.e., profitable, it would have to be guaranteed capacity operation for at least 15 years. To be able to enter into such a contract, controls on oil imports into Canada would be required — the same kind of import quotas we so vociferously objected to when the United States imposed them against us.

If a pipeline were to be constructed, Canada then would be bound to an inflexible device which would set our oil prices artificially, whatever the conditions of the world market.

Nor is this a matter which can be solved by closing our collective eyes to the world Canada lives in. Oil is an expanding resource and it exists in surplus supply. Middle Eastern countries and South America cannot lose big customers without harmful effects to their economies. And economic consequences always have political repercussions.

It should be said that Canadian oil producers do not find themselves in an unfavorable competitive position because the industry has greedily priced itself out of world markets.

A penetrating study of the question called "Oil and Canada-United States Relations," points out that the price of Middle East oil is low not only because development costs are low, but because the oil flows are so much more prolific than in North America. The average well in the Middle East produces about 5,000 barrels a day. Fewer than 1,000 wells are sufficient to maintain present levels of production for some years.

But in Canada and the United States the astounding total of 570,000 wells are in operation with an average daily output of 12 barrels. Even the new wells in the largest oil pools in Alberta produce only 200 barrels a day. These are basic natural handicaps which greatly complicate a whole problem too often glibly over-simplified (and perhaps over-simplified here in these observations).

It surely should not be over-simplified here in these observations).

It surely should not be over-simplified by the Royal Commission on Energy whose second report promises to grapple with the vexed issue. Happily the next report of the Borden Commission is due within a month and the country will have the benefit of some informed advice.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

EROSION OF THE CERVIX MAY REQUIRE CAUTERIZATION

"Dear Dr. Molner: My doctor advised me to have my cervix 'burned' six weeks after my baby was born, as he said it was eroded. It seems that every woman I have talked to has had to have this done, so I am wondering if it is a new 'fad' which is unnecessary. — Reader."

Look, dear "Reader," I'm discussing your letter because I have some more which ask the same, or similar questions. By and large, I throw away unsigned letters, but I'm using yours as an opportunity to tell everybody how to sign letters when written to me.

I do not use (or reveal) names. My customary practice is to use just initials, and sometimes I even scramble them. If, for reasons of your own, you don't want your initials used, then sign your real name, and underneath that, put down any initials you prefer. I'll use the initials only. And now to work.

The cervix is the neck of the womb which projects into the vagina. Normally it is a rather thick structure although during childbirth, of course, it is stretched and thinned out.

Under such circumstances the cervix may be torn ,either because of the size of the baby, or because of the speed of the delivery. Or, of course, there may be a bit of tearing or stretching in a perfectly average birth. You can't help it.

Sometimes immediate suturing (maybe a stitch or so) is required. More often, with small lesions, the cervix heals by itself.

If such a bit of damage does not heal by itself, an ulcer can form. This is "erosion of the cervix." These ulcers may presently heal anyway but then again they may become infected — as a sore toe or finger may become infected.

CHRONIC IRRITATION

The net results is chronic irritation, and a certain amount of discharge which often worries patients all out of reason, since they don't know the cause. (It's not the only cause, of course.)

I want to add, plainly, that childbirth isn't the only thing that can cause a small ulcer in such a mucous surface. Single women may encounter it, just as anyone can acquire a sore spot in the throat or small ulcer of the nose.

As a rule topical treatment (applying some medicine to the ulcer) is not very successful. "Burning," as it is often called, or cautery or cauterizing or conization, removes the damaged superficial cells, and allows a regrowth of new, solid tissue. As with any moderate ulcer, you may suffer along with it for a long time and realize later that immediate treatment would have been wiser. More important, the cervix seems to be a type of tissue that is subject to cancer, so it is much better to avoid extended irritation of it. That's perhaps the best reason for cauterizing these ulcerated or "eroded" spots.

You perhaps never considered the reason, but this is a sound one for the "six-week checkup" after a baby is born. By then the cervix has returned to normal size, and if an "erosion" spot persists, it can be detected and treated.

No, cautery of these erosions is not a fad. It's simple, but useful and wise. And if you find that "every woman I have talked to" has had it, it might be because you talk to many mothers. It's not a rare thing at all.

Mrs. R. S.: Apple cider vinegar for "neuritis and general fatigue"? I have nothing against vinegar, but pretending that it is a "medicine" is in the same class with depending on good luck charms to treat what ails you. There is no substitute for finding out what causes a specific trouble, and then treating it.

"Potato Bug": I can't see any reason why you shouldn't eat a raw potato every day if you find it tasty. It certainly has no connection with that other trouble you mentioned."

Canadian PLACE NAMES

VIRDEN, MANITOBA

The oil capital of Manitoba had its origin in 1790 when the North West Company established a trading post three miles west of the present site, then known by the unlovely name of "Gopher Creek." This name persisted until 1885, when Lord Mount Stephen's relatives from Scotland settled in the district. They named the place Virden, after their native Virden in Scotland. The place became nationally known when oil was discovered in 1951.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

We have all sorts of Khrushchevs of our own amongst us. But such is our social setup that we don't let them get to the top. To suppose that Khrushchev is a peculiarly Russian type is absurd. I imagine we could line up five thousand loud, hearty, knob-headed bullies in any of our larger cities, and two or three in almost any township in the country. We have all seen them. Most of us know them. They are in foundries, warehouses, on docks and wharves, ceasinally they are in minor posts in civic or government employ, and now and then on police forces. They are big cheerful bulldozers. They have their virtues. But we don't let them rise very high in the scale of authority. It must be several hundred years now since we decided in the English speaking nations to keep our Khrushchev types in hand. The highest we let them get is regimental sergeant-majors.

Let us not be too critical of Russia for submitting to Khrushchev. For there was a time in our history when we were at the helpless stage the Russians are in now, when we had out Khrushchevs. Henry VIII was almost unquestionably the prototype of Khrushchev. Among our swaggering and battle-axe swinging kings and nobles who took charge of us back in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries were any number of knob-heads who won their way to the top by the loudness of their bellows, the heartiness of their laughter and appetites, the self-sufficiency with which they looped off their rivals' heads. It took a long, long time for us to get rid of them and instal in their place the genteel knob-heads who now boss us around.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LONELINESS OF SPIRIT

Most of us get lonely, I believe, even the great among us. It may be a thing of the Spirit, for few seem to want to commune with others. Mostly we prefer to have this loneliness all to ourselves, which isn't wise. It's better to share our loneliness — and soon it passes, like the silent glitter of a star.

Nothing is more natural than to get lonely. But, if practiced, it is liable to bring unhappiness rather than happiness. We must keep close to our friends and invite them to help share our loneliness, but before we give that invitation our loneliness is apt to be over and we feel as though a new life had entered at the front door! It's not always welcomed, however. Strange as it seems many people like being lonely! I don't.

It is comforting to have others share our loneliness, for then a certain understanding is created, and the loneliness disappears as though it had never been! We rarely get lonely when new interests help us to rise above that loneliness of ours. It may be a form of selfishness which no one would want to lose and forget.

I believe, however, that God watches over those lonely in spirit, and will, in time, light a way before them that will guide them back to themselves. We get lost. I have kept a few lines that I discovered at the Bok Iron mountain bird sanctuary near Lake Wales, Florida. They were written by John Burroughs, the naturalist. He said: "I come here often, to find myself. It is so easy to get lost in the world."

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

BEWARE OF DEFAULT

Someone has said that there are more people in the world today living in huts than living in comfortable houses. There are more people throughout the world today who walk than ride. There are vast areas in the world which have no doctors or medical equipment whatsoever. Hundreds of millions of people cannot read or write their own language. Through Asia and Africa and in other parts of the world also most of the children born into a family die within a few years. The survivors are in the minority.

These are awful conditions we have to face. Especially are they reprehensible in an age which prides itself in being progressive. We talk about human service, and yet the number of distressed people in the world today exceeds the number of happy people. About five per cent of the world's population own almost ninety per cent of its property. This is the kind of thing which breeds communism. Communism, of course, is no answer. It is even worse than poverty. But many people are incapable of much thought and fall victim of the Big Lie.

Let us not pat ourselves on the back too heartily. We live in a world which is filled with the things of hell rather than the things of heaven.

What are we going to do about it? If there is a solution, where can we find it and start making things better? For be sure that if we don't try, communism will. Much can go by default.

Prepare to Seek Out Ruins of Santa Maria

Travis Ingham, 53, of Jupiter, Fla., and John Larter, 36, a diver from Niagara Falls, Ont., have refurbished a nine-ton, double-ended motor yacht built in 1910.

Ingham says he has a friend who knows the location of a recently discovered Spanish galleon off the Florida keys. The galleon carried tiles dating to the time of Columbus. Ingham's friend believes the ship may have been with the Santa Maria when she sank during a later trip to the Americas.

Ingham's queer craft has somewhat the appearance of a surf boat or whaleboat with bluff bows and cabins at either end. The vessel steps a stubby mast for a steadying sail. It is having its ancient gasoline engine replaced by an English diesel.

Devise Means Of Improving Social Services

Recently, the Belleville General Hospital was host to a conference of workers in the field of Community Psychiatric Services in Eastern Ontario, with delegates from Peterborough, Kingston and Brockville.

The psychiatrists, psychologists, social worker and public health nurses, 15 in all, discussed mutual problems and devised means for improving community services. Time was spent also in reviewing the considerable amount of research that is being done in this area. This is the first conference of this sort to be held in Eastern Ontario and arrangements have been made to hold such meetings regularly.

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) George Baker of Peterborough has purchased the bi-weekly Courier-Advocate at Trenton, 12 miles west of Belleville, from J. A. Sisson, it was learned today.

Mr. Baker said he had no plans for conversion to daily publication. The purchase price was not disclosed.

Mr. Baker, a native of Woodstock who had worked on newspapers at North Bay, Kirkland Lake and Timmins, is the former owner of two Peterborough district weeklies, the Hastings Press and the now-defunct Lakefield News. The Trenton paper has a circulation of 3,200.

Gives Reason For Little Gain By Communism

TORONTO (CP) — Progressive legislation was credited by United States Senator Stuart Symington Saturday as one of the reasons communism has gained so little ground in Canada and the U.S.

Such legislation has been a guide by which both countries have sought to better the lives of their citizens, the Democratic senator from Missouri told the concluding session of the Fraternal Order of Eagles' international convention.

He said humanitarian organizations such as the Eagles had helped stamp out inhuman conditions which were spawned in the Industrial Revolution and which fostered the Marxian doctrine to which communism adheres.

Steel Strike Contract Talks Resume Today

NEW YORK (AP) — Contract talks seeking to settle the steel strike resume today with the two leading negotiators absent.

Joseph F. Finnegan, director of the federal mediation and conciliation service, said Sunday: "I have seen no indication of any change since the talks recessed last week."

Absent from today's talks was United Steelworkers' union President David J. McDonald and R. Cooper, chief industry negotiator and executive vice-president of United States Steel Corporation.

McDonald and the union's general counsel, Arthur J. Goldberg, decided they could be more useful attending to union matters elsewhere. McDonald's decision may have led Cooper to decide to stay away. They may rejoin the negotiations later this week.

The strike of 500,000 members of the union will have been under way four weeks at midnight Tuesday. An estimated 107,000 employees in allied industries have been made idle.

The union seeks a wage increase of 15 cents an hour in each year of a new contract, plus fringe benefits.

Pre-strike wages in steel plants averaged $3.10 an hour.

SEA VETERAN DIES

BOSTON (AP) — Sir Gordon Illingworth, 75, commodore of the liner Queen Mary for seven years until his retirement in 1948, died Friday in a nursing home. He had served the Cunard line for 40 years. During the Second World War, he commanded ocean convoys for the Royal Navy.

Soviet Wars In Kitchens Far From Cold

quarrels are so flooding Soviet courts that special courts will be created to deal with them.

Izvestia, the government newspaper, cites the case of an elderly couple named Khrenov and their dog and citizen Novikova and her daughter Lilya, all sharing the same apartment, as an example of the kind of troubles the new courts will handle.

The dog disappeared. Apparently the Khrenovs blamed Mrs. Novikova. Mrs. Khrenov banged Mrs. Novikova's windows at night with a lump of iron tied to a string.

Mrs. Novikoa next discovered somebody had punctured her cooking pan. Then Mrs. Krenov found her laundry in the mud after somebody had cut the clothesline.

While Mrs. Khrenov was washing a potato under the tap, Mrs. Novikova wrung out a floor rag over the potato pot. Mrs. Krenov died of a heart attack.

Izvestia did not say who sued whom. But it reported the case had gone twice to the Soviet Supreme Court.

New Satellite Slices Through Wider Orbit

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's new paddle-wheel satellite sliced through the sea of space today in an orbit wider than expected.

Scientists were delighted. The extended orbit provided a bonus factor, they said.

New calculations by the space agency showed that Explorer VI was whirling out 26,400 miles from the earth, then swinging down to within 157 miles at the low point.

The satellite was orbiting the earth in 12 hours, 45 minutes, six times longer than the orbit time for any U.S. satellite launched so far.

Tracking stations around the world indicated the 142-pound satellite launched Friday at Cape Canaveral, Fla., was relaying back to earth valuable information on its 15 intended scientific experiments. Most of the experiments are aimed at providing information needed for sending man into space.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the new satellite travels 91,140 miles in each sweep around the earth.

The agency said the satellite appeared to be in smooth flight, with no evidence of tumbling. Any wobbling or tumbling would ruin the television-type of cloud-cover-scanning experiment that is an important part of the project.

Nasa said the maximum speed of Explorer VI—it moves fastest at perigee or the closest point to earth—is 22,957 miles an hour.

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The flags of 72 nations are appliqued and embroidered on a quilt made in 1899 by a former Ontario dressmaker, Mrs. Gertrude Logan Wood, now 91.

Mrs. Wood presented the quilt to the London Historical Society earlier this year, and now it is on display in the society's museum here where it provides a striking background for an exhibit of old uniforms.

Mrs. Wood, unmarried at the time, used a dictionary to help her reproduce the flags. Many of the flags have since disappeared, some have changed. The flag of the United States had fewer stars. The flag of Siam, now Thailand, boasted an elephant. The flag of China was yellow with a black dragon.

USED GOWN MATERIALS

Miss Logan and her sister had a downtown shop at which they made gowns for the London ladies—long, full - skirted dresses that swept the floor, with high necklines and wide leg-of-mutton sleeves. Scraps of fine materials from the gown were used to reproduce the flags. Bright red, yellow and beige wool blocks were used for the background of the quilt.

The young dressmaker scurried home on her bicycle at lunch-time to work on the quilt, finished it in 1899, then put it away. Married 17 years later to Benjamin Wood, who died in 1944, Mrs. Wood would occasionally take her quilt from its box, air it on the clothes-line and replace the mothballs.

When she took it out this year it was as bright and fresh as ever and she decided to give the precious keepsake to the citizens of London.

Mrs. Wood was born in Waterloo, Iowa. She moved to London when she was eight and has lived here since. Things have changed a lot in that span of time and Mrs. Wood said "the styles are a lot more sensible now than when you could sweep the floor with your skirt."

"I don't mean those half-dresses," she added. "I don't think the city should allow them."

FOOTLOOSE BULLOCK

WATFORD, England (CP)—A five-year-old girl watching her mother try on shoes in a shop in this Hertfordshire town exclaimed: "Look, there's a cow." A 1,120-pound Black Poll bullock had wandered into the shop. It had escaped from a slaughter-yard with four others.

WOMAN SHORTAGE

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — India will face an acute shortage of woman power by the end of its third five-year plan in 1966, reports a study group set up by the planning commission here. It estimates there will be an overall shortage of 18,000 women teachers, 5,000 woman doctors and 47,000 midwives and nurses.

FLAGS OF ALL NATIONS — Mrs. Benjamin Wood, 91, of London, Ont., holds a quilt she made 60 years ago and this year donated to the London Historical Society. Embroidered on the quilt are the flags of 72 nations, many of which have since disappeared or changed. Some of the flags were made from scraps of material left over at the London dressmaking shop owned by Mrs. Wood and her sister. (CP Photo).

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Wilson Papke are shown following their recent marriage in the Christian and Missionary Alliance Tabernacle, Belleville. (Photo by Mac McGrimmon, Belleville).

PAPKE — BUXTON

Baskets of pink and white gladioli, interspersed with ferns, formed a pretty setting in the Alliance Tabernacle, Belleville, on Saturday, July 25th, at 2.30 p.m. when the Reverend Sackville Palmer, united in marriage Bertha Ellen Buxton, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dell Buxton, to Frederick Wilson Papke, also of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Papke.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her floor-length bridal gown of white Chantilly lace and net over taffeta fashioned with fitted bodice with bateau neckline and long sleeves ending in lily-points over the wrists. Each tier of the four-tiered skirt was accented by a wide border of matching lace. She wore a Juliet-type headdress of lace with elbow-length veil edged with lace, and carried a cascade bouquet of red roses with net accent and tied with a large net bow.

Miss Delcie Howes, of Belleville, attended the bride as maid of honor, gowned in waltz-length turquoise blue net over taffeta with matching bolero; seed pearl bandeau, white gloves and carried a bouquet of blue and white 'mums set in blue net and tied with blue ribbons.

Miss Shirley Langille of Belleville and Mrs. Marie Boulton of Belleville, sister of the bride, were bridesmaids, gowned in waltz-length pink net over taffeta with matching boleros, with white bandeau headdresses, white gloves and carrying bouquets of pink and white 'mums set in pink net, and tied with pink satin ribbon.

Little Miss Melonie Black was a sweet little three-year-old flower girl in her short pink nylon frock, with white lace collar and white lace back panel. She wore a pink bonnet-hat, with white gloves and carried a nosegay of pink carnations mingled with white 'mums.

The reception was held in the Pine Street hall, where the bride's table was appointed with white damask, and centred by a two-tier all-white wedding cake on pillars, topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom beneath an arch of white roses and flanked by white candles in silver holders. White rosebuds encircled the base of the cake and the bridal bouquets added their nuptial accent.

The bride's mother, wearing a gown of romance blue satin fashioned on princess lines, with white accessories, and corsage of pink roses, received the guests. The bridegroom's mother also assisted wearing a blue nylon sheath over taffeta with white accessories, and corsage of pink roses.

For travelling to Toronto and Niagara Falls, the bride donned a suit of Romance blue with pink and white accessories, and corsage of pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Papke will make their home at 73 Emily Street, Belleville.

Previous to her marriage the bride was entertained at a miscellaneous shower given by Miss Delcie Howes of Belleville.

The Bay of Quinte Country Club ladies division can add another feather to their cap of golfing achievements.

Their annual Field Day on Saturday attracted some 73 distaff side golfers from district clubs, and the event goes into the archives as an unqualified success.

There was some excellent golf, good scores and fine prizes while the host club lived up to its fine reputation in post - tournament hospitality.

The mere males of the club dropped in after the tourney, and official presentation of prizes at the popular Murray Hunter smorgaszoard, and enjoyed dancing until a late hour.

Betty Ingrams's 95 won for her the first flight second low gross, with Monica MacDonald capturing first low gross in the second flight with a 91. Second low gross in this flight went to Alice Stuart with a 95.

In the third flight Helen Smith carded a 103 to take first low gross honors with Gerry Carscallen next with a 104. Ana Ryan won first low net with a 77.

Helen Marsh had a 107 to take the fourth flight first low gross with Helen McCorquodale second with a 109. Second low net went to Jean O'Riordan with her 73.

Joy Bowerman and Barbara Graham won the putting prizes in the second flight with 29 and 31 respectively. The "hidden hole" award was won by Anne Acton with Kay Hogg taking the consolation.

Hilda Dolan won the "closest to the pin" on the fourth hole her ball stopping 51 inches from the hole.

The field day was excellently organized and brought to a successful conclusion by captain and co-captain Anne Acton and Ena Corke.

Melrose WMS Enjoys Alaskan Travelogue

The regular monthly meeting of Melrose W. M. S. was held at Melrose United Church on August 5th at 2 p.m., with the president, Mrs. J. Milligan, in the chair. Eight members were present.

Mrs. Milligan conducted the worship service, the theme of which was, "The Joy of Living". The call to worship was given by the president. The Scripture readings, Psalm 104: 1-3; 10-28, and John 15: 9-12, were read by Miss Margaret Bailey, and the litany taken.

Mrs. C. Osborne gave an interesting reading stressing the idea that people can change their mode of life if they learn not to worry.

A short business session was held.

The treasurer reported that the total amount raised to date was $165. The collection amounted to $5.50. The September meeting will be held in the church

Mrs. J. Milligan then took charge and an interesting program was given. Mrs. R. MacFarlane gave a reading on "Self-Sacrifice," quoting the vision of Sir Lawnfal; Mrs. S. Demille; a reading about the debated topic "Why Do Good People Suffer?" Mrs. Roy Badgley read an article "It Is Later Than You Think".

Mrs. C. Bates, Sr., gave a travelogue on 'Alaska', illustrated by pictures She described the physical features, climate, cities and the great variety of things grown in Alaska. Owing to the long hours of sunshine, the growth was extremely rapid, in spite of the short summer season. The country even produced cotton. Mrs. Bates also referred to the excellent defence system of the north.

The president thanked Mrs. Bates for her delightful talk, which was enjoyed by all.

Oshawa Girl Enjoying Trip To Britain

By SYLVIA HACK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—A year ago last spring, Kay Simons was walking along the street in Oshawa, Ont., thinking of Robert Browning's line: Oh, to be in England now that April's there.

April and 25-year-old Kay arrived simultaneously this year and the shapely brunette, who once had her own radio program in Kitchener, Ont., plans to see a few more Aprils before she goes back.

A radio and press interviewer with the British Travel Association, she travels all over England with a tape-recorder and camera, interviewing and photographing tourists in historical or picturesque spots. The tapes and pictures are sent to radio stations and newspapers all over the world to help publicize travel to Britain.

Kay says she's having a wonderful time. In the course of a week her job may take her to Canterbury, Stratford - on - Avon and the Tower of London. Shortly, she plans to go to the Edinburgh Festival.

When the tourist season ends in September, she intends to become a tourist herself, following the sun on the Continent for three months. After that she hopes to move on to look at central or South Africa. She's studying Afrikaans just in case.

Meanwhile, her headquarters is on a houseboat moored near Battersea Bridge on the Thames. She shares it with two Australian girls.

"It's really a one-person boat." she says. "But we manage all

Barn-Storming Days Recalled By Anna Russell

VANCOUVER (CP) — Anna Russell, the blonde comedienne whose music satires have won her international fame, says she has discovered that the secret of happiness is the ability to laugh at one's self.

The English - born artist who came to Canada to make her career said in an interview that she used to take herself seriously.

"I tried to be gorgeous, didn't quite make it, and people laughed at me," she said. "So I figured if they were going to laugh at me, I might as well make a buck out of it."

Miss Russell, here for five performances at the Vancouver International Festival, has earned a good share of "bucks" in a career of kidding classical music.

"BRATTY" CRITICS

She said:

"The only people who get "bratty" about what I do with classical music are people who are not at the top—I could do as well as they do."

Host to Miss Russell is Mrs. Stanley Hope of Vancouver, who, as Helen Morton, appeared with the star in her barn - storming days.

They recalled the time in 1943 on a concert stage in Timmins, Ont., when a pretty dark-haired girl was singing a Victor Herbet love song.

Suddenly there was a loud thud and a big, jolly blonde woman strode on the stage and broke up the act with an hilarious routine.

"From then on things got crazier and crazier," recalled Miss Russell.

Mrs. Morton interjected: "Yes, and nobody in the act could keep a straight face."

TOURED ONTARIO

Miss Russell grinned: "We were hot stuff" referring to her tour of Ontario towns with Mrs. Hope, her brother, William Morton, and Rex Battle, well-known Toronto musician and conductor.

"And I'll never forget the night in Sudbury when a windstorm and a crowd of youngsters tried to knock our tent down, or the night the reeve of Picton asked me to inspect his herd of prize cattle and me in a long white dress."

"My act is mostly a technical parody on musicians who take themselves too seriously. And since I write my own songs, no one can say they were sung better last week by a Madame so-and-so."

Women Bound to Challenge Order for Knee Length Dresses

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Will American women bow to foreign dictate and expose their kneecaps?

The famed House of Dior in Paris says they will. But a rebellion is already brewing.

A few years ago U.S. ladies humbly and gladly wore longer skirts in compliance with the Dior New Look edict. But the new House of Dior decree for knee-length dresses is bound to be challenged—not by the men, by the women.

American men, by and large, are always in favor of shorter skirts — so long as their own wives don't wear them. They welcome the prospect of the breeze-swept feminine knee, just so the knee doesn't belong in their household.

But women are smarter.

They don't mind following any clothing style, no matter how ridiculous, so long as it is the clothing that looks ridiculous.

RIDICULOUS PACKAGE

A prime example: the brief-lived "sack look." It made a woman look like she was ambling along in a tent. But it was the package that looked ridiculous—not the contents it veiled.

When a fashion makes the woman herself look ridiculous, however, it is bound to run into real trouble. And that is the problem the House of Dior seems to be boldly running up against.

The average lady's kneecap serves a highly functional purpose, but it is not an ornament of nature. Poets have sung the charms of practically all other parts of the feminine anatomy. But who ever wrote an "ode to milady's kneecap?"

Now and then you do hear of a girl with lovely dimpled kneecaps. They are only the exceptions that prove the rule.

But few sensible advertising men would buy space on the average girl's kneecap to distribute his message to the world. The ordinary feminine kneecap is crinkly rather than dimpled, or so I am told by specialists in this field.

KNOBBY KNEECAPS

They are also—let's face it—often on the knobby side. So that a line of feminine knees looks pretty much like so many television sets out for a stroll. Go to any beach and see for yourself.

Or, if the lady happens to be much overweight, her kneecaps aren't really visible at all. They look like wrinkles in twin columns of dough.

When you get right down to it, only about one in 10 girls has legs she can look at in the mirror herself without a feeling verging from mild depression to total despair.

They bow out too much or they bend in too much. They are too thick or too thin. Why should she expose them willingly in a losing competition with the few girls whose gams are charming?

The answer is—she shouldn't.

One lady remarked: "Sure I'd wear one of those short skirts out of the house—if the house caught on fire!"

DIVORCES DECREASE

LONDON, Eng. (CP) — The number of divorces filed in Britain last year was 26,444, a decrease of 1,618 compared with the previous year.

HAND-ME-DOWNS should never be regarded by your children as objectionable if your attitude is always one of "aren't-you-lucky!" Velvety High Hat

By ALICE ALDEN

A pleasing method of going high hat is to don a tall fez fashioned of velvet. This hat, tucked in vertical lines all around, comes in a glowing array of colors, some pale, others deep and rich. Light as a feather, radiant with its special affinity for color, the velvet hat provides its own aura of elegance to enhance a costume. The designer of this little hat gives it a hint of the lampshade silhouette that is starting to appear in the new fashions.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Keith J. — I've got to foot the responsibility for my parents alone.

Marian J. — Why should we be stuck with it?

• • •

Keith . — My wife and I have been married eight years and have three children. I am making a pretty good salary and things could be nice and smooth for us if I didn't have my parents to worry about.

The folks are in their 70's and Dad retired because of poor health five or six years ago. They have nothing but their social security and what I give them. My kid brother is up to his neck in debt and my sister has a husband who is a real tightwad. He wouldn't give a cent to his own mother.

My wife keeps nagging me and telling me to make the others pay their share, but I know they just haven't got it. I can do it, so I've got to foot the responsibility.

• • •

Marian J. — Sure he can do it and his brother can't! Why? Because I watch every penny, because I haven't had a new dress in two years, because I worked for two years after our marriage and put every penny into our home. My sister-in-law quit her job two months after marriage and didn't have her first baby until a year and a half later. They buy everything they feel like having. No wonder they're in debt !

As for my sister-in-law's husband being a tightwad, he is. I want to be one too. I'm willing to make a fair contribution to my in-laws' support. Why shouldn't he?

My husband says the folks expect it of him because he's the oldest. Since when is the oldest supposed to pay a special tax?

• • •

The Council: We're with Marian.

We think the responsibility for aged parents should be divided among the children. If one child has a very much higher income than the others he may want to assume a little more of the burden, but the others shouldn't be exempt. They have a natural obligation in this direction and it shouldn't be evaded without very good reason.

The son or daughter who insists upon taking over full responsibility for an elderly parent does not do his sisters and brothers as big a service as he thinks. In many cases the sisters and brothers feel quite ashamed and guilty about the arrangement. It may be easy on their pocketbooks but it's hard on the ego.

The child who takes on the full burden does not always act out of pure goodness. In many cases this son or daughter has always wanted more power in relation to the parents and has tried to shove brothers and sisters out of the way. Another common motive is a sense of guilt toward the parents. Many individuals feel this — with or without real reason — and try to rid themselves of this uncomfortable feeling by doing more than their share.

In any case, Keith owes it to himself, his family and his brother and sister to settle this business more equitably. It's not up to him to solve their problems for them — merely to let them know that he has taken on the full responsibility in this matter long enough.

Hot Cheese Rolls Steal Limelight

by Mary Moore

How would you like to be so slim and tall and young and hungry that you could eat 4 or 5 fresh-from-the-oven hot rolls, knowing that next morning the scales would not show an ounce of weight gain? Golly! — maybe you are!

Marianne had a two-table bridge party just before I left for home. I made two dozen cheese rolls to serve with coffee. One of the girls, Mona Faye, had to leave at 11 P.M. before the food was served. That left seven of us. Marianne and I ate one roll each. There were one and one-half rolls left which Gary and Davey found and demolished before breakfast next morning. So somehow five slim young matrons tucked away twenty and one-half buns. They were served with sweet Danish butter. You too can buy sweet butter to go with them European style.

Served fresh and hot from the oven these rolls are as light and feathery as French croissants — full of flavor and economical.

CHEESE ROLLS (YEAST):

Two tablespoons butter or margarine, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 tablespoon sugar, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 cup milk, 3-4 of an 8-oz. jar (3-4 cup) cheese whiz (preferably pimiento-flavored), 1-2 cup lukewarm water, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 package granular yeast, 3 1-2 cups sifted all-purpose flour plus additional flour for rolling out. In a saucepan mix together over low heat until blended the butter or margarine, flour, sugar and salt, then stir in the milk until thick, then add the cheese whiz, stir to blend and then allow to cool to lukewarm. Add the 1 teaspoon of sugar to the 1-2 cup lukewarm water and sprinkle the yeast over and let stand 10 minutes. Stir. Stir yeast liquid into lukewarm cheese sauce, and stir in all of the sifted flour. Scrape down bowl, press into rounded mound, cover with wax paper, then a plate and store in refrigerator overnight. (Dough may be allowed to rise at room temperature if you want them the same day.) About 4 hours before serving time remove dough from refrigerator and let rise until doubled. Punch down on well-floured board and knead for 2 minutes. Shape into oval and cut in halves. Press and roll one half into a roll about 2 inches in diameter and about 14" long. Cut into 12 equal pieces. For Cheese Pocketbooks: Flatten the 12 pieces into rounds 1-4" thick. On each put 1-2 teaspoon butter and 1 teaspoon raspberry jam. Fold over like halfmoon and press edges to seal them. Line them up in 3 rows of 4 each on a buttered cookie sheet and let rise until doubled. With remaining half of dough make Apricot Swirls: Shape up dough into a roll, cut into 12 even pieces as above but roll these under your palms on well-floured board into little rolls about 1-2" in diameter and 6" long. Coil them neatly into buttered muffin tins. On top of each drop 1-2 teaspoon apricot jam (or marmalade). Allow to rise until doubled. (If desired this rising of the shape rolls may be retarded by storing them in refrigerator until about 1 1-2 hours before baking time.) When rolls are well risen bake at 400 deg. F. about 10 to 15 minutes or until just tinged with gold on tops and bottoms Serve hot with unsalted butter.

These rolls alone will start you on the road to a baking reputation that you can write home to mother about.

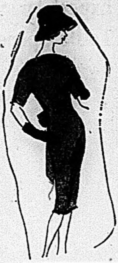
Scarf Trick



By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Sheer wool in a soft olive green — one of the new season's popular shades — goes in for a softening touch via the matching silk chiffon draping across the neckline. Straight in front, the neckline dips to a slight V in back. At the waist the chiffon seems to slip through, but merely joins , the seaming of the bodice, forming a bow-tied sash in back. Sleeves are full at the shoulders, tapering to elbow length. Top width is one of the signatures of the sartorial season just ahead, and this scarf detail handles the line neatly.

Mother's Helper

FRUIT JUICE frozen in cubes makes a wonderful refresher for hot moppets. Serve the cubes in paper napkins, and have the children take them outside, if possible. Or, they can be popped into a glass with some cold juice to make a welcome drink.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

DON'T "CONGRATULATE" ENGAGED GIRL OR BRIDE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What you said the other day in your column (that it is never correct to "congratulate" an engaged girl or a bride) made me realize for the first time that apparently I've always been wrong, for I'm sure I've always used the word "congratulate" or "congratulations" to both an engaged man or an engaged girl, and to both the bride and the groom. Will you please set me straight about this difference in what I should say and what I should not say on these occasions? Thank you, if you will, for I certainly want to be right about this at future weddings. — W. G.

This is the important difference to remember: to the engaged man or to the groom it is correct to offer "congratulations" or to "congratulate": but to the engaged girl or to the bride, it is not correct to use "congratulations" or "congratulate." That's easy to remember, isn't it? To the engaged girl or to the bride you offer your "best wishes," phrased sincerely and gracefully.

Let's say you are going down the receiving-line at a wedding reception: To the groom you may correctly say, "Congratulations, Peter! Your Anne is a lovely bride, and this is such a beautiful wedding"; then to the bride you might say, "Anne dear, I wish you every happiness, now and always. And I shall never forget your beautiful wedding."

These are only suggestions . . . what you say to each (except that you don't say "congratulations" to the bride) depends on how well you know her or him.

NEW NAME FOR REMARRIED WIDOW

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a widow and will soon be married to a widower. I am uncertain as to how I should use my present married surname in my new name. Today a close friend told me that I am supposed to use my first husband's surname for a middle name. Please explain. — Reader

After your marriage you drop all parts of the name of your first husband. Your second husband's name will then be your name, with the title Mrs.: Mrs. John Allen Blake.

Expectant Married Nurses Find Sack Uniform Helpful

TORONTO (CP)—The sack is helping to make it possible for married nurses who are expectant mothers to stay on the job.

Sacks and other specially - designed maternity uniforms are being worn by a number of nurses in Toronto hospitals.

According to the supervisor of nurses at one hospital, the nurses look "very neat in the new uniforms." The nurses say they find them comfortable.

While most hospitals don't encourage nurses to continue working during a pregnancy, most hospitals will keep them on if a doctor's permission is given. Some work up until the sixth month.

EASES SHORTAGE

One hospital said this helped ease the current shortage of registered nurses.

"There's nothing wrong, they're still good nurses," said an official at the Sick Children's Hospital.

By allowing the nurses to continue, the hospital had fewer staff changes. Some left for a short period, then returned to duty after their babies were born.

The spokesman said she personally did not like the look of the sack uniforms, but preferred two-piece outfits modelled from standard maternity clothing.

A mother-to-be who is expecting twins in less than three months said she thinks the uniforms are a good thing. She approves of nurses continuing on the job. She switched to a doctor's office after working for several months in a hospital.

"Some doctors want them to work," said a St. Michael's official. The nurses wear their regular uniforms.

At the Salvation Army's Grace Hospital, two nurses have continued to work wearing the new uniforms. "They look very neat in them," a nursing supervisor said.

The new fashions have also been accepted at the Hamilton General Hospital, where a nursing authority said the practice would have been frowned upon 10 years ago.

"As long as they have their doctor's permission to work it helps us both. It eases that nervous waiting period for the woman and fills a vital job at the hospital," she said.

HE'S GROUSING — An Alberta government naturalist weighs a sharp-tailed grouse as part of a three year study to establish the life pattern of the province's No. 1 game bird. The study, sponsored jointly by the provincial lands and forests department and the University of Alberta, also involves marking the birds, determining their sex and close field observation of behavior. The investigation extends to laboratory analysis of wing and tail feathers. Game administrators hope to use the information gathered from the east-central and north-western Alberta areas to assure a large future grouse population and subsequent good hunting. (CP Photo.)

Alberta Experts Net Grouse In Effort to Boost Supply

It is hoped in the three-year study to establish the life pattern of the grouse, Alberta's No. 1 game bird. It is sponsored jointly by the provincial lands and forests department and the University of Alberta. The investigation may find a guide to the drafting of sound management policies.

Trapping and marking of birds is an initial part of the project, now in its second year. Two nylon nets, about 100 feet in length and 10 feet high, are strung a couple of feet above the ground and at right angles to "dancing" grounds frequented by the birds. When flushed into flight before daylight the birds become firmly entangled.

Each bird trapped is examined for sex, weighed and double marked. The marking consists of a metal leg tag and two strips of plastic in contrasting colors fastened about the neck. Varying color combinations enable quick identification of the places the birds come from. Feathers are removed for laboratory study and a measuring system has been devised to determine age.

Experts are agreed that dancing-ground activity is closely linked with drastic fluctuations in population. It is now believed that practically all mating takes place on the dancing grounds.

Biologists hope to find out what factors influence establishment of new grounds and by what order the males set up their territories.

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican secretariat of state has sent a circular letter to 2,700 prelates and priests around the world asking for their suggestions on the ecumenical council, world-wide meeting of the Roman Catholic Church. The council was called by Pope John six months ago and will take place at an undetermined date, presumably near the end of 1960.

Expect Tunnel Beneath Alps To Be Opened in Two Years

MARTIGNY, Switzerland (Reuters)—A 3½-mile tunnel under the great St. Bernard Pass in the Alps, to provide a year-round road link between Switzerland and Italy, is expected to be opened to traffic in the summer of 1961.

Work on the Italian side started last year and so far about 985 feet have been excavated. However, because the workers have met unexpectedly hard rock, progress has been slowed down from 26 and 30 feet a day to little more than six feet a day.

When completed, the tunnel will provide an all-weather road route between Aosta, Italy, and Lausanne, Switzerland, and will benefit travellers coming through Switzerland from the north and northwest into Italy.

AT HIGH ALTITUDE

To shorten the length of the tunnel and thus hasten its completion, it was decided to build it comparatively high up the mountain, starting at an altitude of about 6,200 feet and making use up to that point of an existing road over the pass

The road will be improved and given a concrete foundation from the village of Bourg St. Pierre, Switzerland through the tunnel to the village of St. Rhemy, Italy. If necessary, part of it may be covered to ensure that it remains negotiable in winter. The pass normally is blocked by snow from November to May.

The tunnel will be about 32 feet wide, including three-foot sidewalks on either side. There will be emergency areas, each 187 feet long, to allow cars and even trucks with trailers to park or turn around.

The entire ventilation system will be automatic and will vary according to the amount of traffic and of carbon dioxide from the exhausts.

RIVAL ROUTE

The total cost of the Swiss side of the tunnel is estimated at 26,500,000 Swiss francs (about $6,380,000).

The tunel will become a serious rival to a neighboring one being built under Mont Blanc. This will link France with Italy through the Chamonix Valley, emerging at Entreves in Italy and, like the great St. Bernard tunnel, converging on Aosta for Turi and Genoa.

NEW SATELLITE IN ORBIT — A Thor-Able rocket (right) boosts a new 142-pound satellite into orbit Friday. Officials said the "paddlewheel" satellite, Explorer VI is in orbit and will remain aloft for more than a year. Its name comes from the solar vanes which pop out from the sides in space to convert the sun's rays into electrical energy for the radio transmitter. It contains instruments to perform 15 major experiments. The 11-hour orbit will take it 23,000 miles into space and back as close to the earth as 160 miles. (CP from AP).

"Sky Clipper" Wins Rich Sapling Stakes

NEW YORK (CP) — A chestnut son of the great Citation, Sky Clipper, confounded the punters at Monmouth Park on Saturday by winning the $139,670 Sapling Stakes.

Sky Clipper, a 34-to-1 long shot, surged up along the rail in the final stride to head out Bally Ache in a photo finish. Big Biz finished third in the six-furlong event for two-year-olds.

Steady rain made the Oceanport, N.J., track sloppy but the winner's time was an surprisingly good 1:11 3-5.

Sky Clipper paid $70.60, $23.40 and $12.40.

Parkes Wins Kingston Golf

KINGSTON (CP) — Bill Parkes of Woodstock, Saturday shot a one under par—139 to win the eastern provinces amateur golf tournament and the Whig-Standard Trophy.

Parkes toured Cataraqui's 6,526-yard par-70 layout in a threesome with three-time champion Bruce Castator and Bill Bell of Aurora.

His 68 in the afternoon round was the lowest score ever posted in the 24-year-old competition. He had a 71 on the front 18.

Parkes trailed early leaders Eric Bently and H. Johnson of Brockville by one stroke after the morning round as he familiarized himself with the course.

In the afternoon he birdied the short 148-yard eighth to tour the first nine in par and then birdied the 11th, and 17th in going two under on the way in.

He held a three-stroke margin on Bentley and Johnson, a four-handicapper, who each posted 70-72—142s.

The 28-year-old pro from Athens, Ohio and Tequesta, Fla., shot a three-under-par 68 over Seneca golf course's 6,966-yard layout for a 72-hole total of 276, eight under par, to nose out Gene Littler of Singing Hills, Calif., and Mike Souchak, of Grossinger, N.Y. by a stroke.

In addition to the first prize of $3,500, Finsterwald received a $5,000 bonus as a repeat winner in this tournament which he first won in 1956, plus $300 in appearance money.

Souchak had a one-under-par 70 on the last 18 and he and Littler picked up $2,050 for their second-place deadlock.

He shot 76-68-71-70—285.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Belleville sportdom opened its hearts and purses in a fashion unparalleled in the city's sports history last night.

At the CNRA Park over 1,100 softball fans, and others, joined to pay tribute to one of Belleville's finest athletes, citizens, and generally all-round prince of fellows.

It was "Herbie Henn Night" and unprecedented success climaxed the efforts of thoses who organized, supported and took part in it.

The outstanding climax to three brief weeks of outstanding effort and co-operation was the presentation of $1,003 to the "Old Clucker." $935 of this amount was presented in the form of a cheque in mid-diamond ceremonies, while the balance was obtained through the medium of a bleachers collection.

Herb Pointer, secretary of the Belleville Umpires' Association, sponsors of "Herbie Henn Night," made the presentation to the guest of honor, following a fine eulogy by OASA honorary president, Harry Rollins.

Present at the ceremonies were OASA first vice-president Don Lee, District League past president and former teammate Cy Barriage, and the fourteen members of the Umpires' Association headed by President Al Kelleher.

The Ole Clucker was also presented with a memento of the occasion, a brand new softball autographed by umpires, OASA officials and members and officials of the Belleville Bobcats and Point Anne Cementmen who staged an outstanding eight-innings game, won by the Ox Pointers 6-4.

Visibly moved, Herbie stood with Mrs. Henn at the midfield microphone and in a low voice expressed his heartfelt appreciation of the gesture of his many friends.

"I would like to say thank you to Al, Shud, Harold and all the fine fellows of the Umpires' Association, the merchants who donated such lovely prizes, to the many fans and friends, to the Bobcats and Point Anne softball teams and the CNRA Club. On behalf of my wife and family a million thanks everybody."

The crowd which crammed the bleachers to capacity and spilled over in the end zones rocked the park with their applause. It was a grand tribute, worthy of a fine sportsman.

A comedy highlight of the "Night" was furnished by Don Foster whose clown costume made hilarious with its references to the umpires made a distinct hit with the crowd. A pet rooster on a leash which got away and led Foster and Timmy Williams a humorous chase was not in the script, but nevertheless very funny.

The tremendous success of "Herbie Henn Night" was due mainly to the fine organizational efforts and follow-up work of the Umpires' Association. President As Kelleher and Shud Ethier, who gave birth to the idea, were backed up wholeheartedly by their fellow members of the Association. Harold Bawden and Secretary Herb Pointer worked tirelessly on the production and sale of tickets, and the "Herbie Henn Fund" and deserve special commendation.

Merchants and business men of the city who contributed to the success of the "Night" with gifts included Shaw's Men's Wear, Dover's Men's Wear, Don Thomas, Lipson's, the Belmont Restaurant, O'Connor's Jewel Box, Booth's Radio -TV, and Seven-Up. The winners were: Goldie Fitzgibbon, Ernie Palmer, Allan Gray, M. Doyle, Ken Watson, W. Rush, Carmen Cook, W. McMeekin and R. Plumpton.

The fourteen members of the Umpires' Association include: President Kelleher, secretary Herb Pointer, "Shud" Ethier, J. McBride, Harold Bawden, D. Dixon, Bill Hurst, Ted Hurst, Don Thomas, Mike Whalen, C. Belsh, Jim Tebworth, K. Bertram, Timmy Williams. All with the exception of Messrs. Kelleher, Tim Williams, Harold Bawden and Herb Pointer "worked" the softball game. These were busy with organization work and sale of tickets.

The Cats and the Pointers put on a fine exhibition of softball with Managers Bob Temple and Phil Loft working out practically their entire rosters. Pat Maracle and Al Carkner hurled for the Pointers with the two Bobby's, Hull and Green doing mound duty for the Cats.

There was some fine fielding and a few "boo-boos" by both sides. Two home runs by "Wiener" Brown and Gary Goyer had the fans excited, but there were not too many other hits. Point Anne had four off the Bobcat hurlers while the Cats managed five off the Ox Point twirlers.

Chisox Pull Away As Yankees Share Third Spot

Sweep Brace From Senators As Bombers Beat A's Twice; Indians Lose 2, Giants Win

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

New York Giants won the 1951 pennant because of the trade they made the year before for Eddie Stanky and Alvin Dark. They repeated in 1954 because of the trade they made the winter before for Johnny Antonelli.

If San Francisco Giants win this year it will be because of the trades they made for pitchers Jack Sanford and Sam Jones. They have added 26 victories to the Giants' cause and, along with southpaw Antonelli, a 16-game winner, are chiefly responsible for the Giants' game-and-a half lead over Los Angeles Dodgers and 2 1-2-game bulge over Milwaukee Braves today.

Jones, due to pitch against St. Louis Cardinals tonight, has won 15 and saved a number of others in relief roles. Sanford 11-9, hurled a strong five-hitter against Cincinnati Redlegs Sunday as the Giants won 4-3 in 10 innings on Orlando Cepeda's home run.

DODGERS BEATEN

The triumph enabled the league leaders to pick up a full game on the Dodgers, who were beaten 8-7 by the Braves. Pittsburgh Pirates defeated Chicago Cubs 5-3 in 10 innings for Elroy Face's 15th triumph without a defeat. It also was the Pirate's 15th victory in 16 overtime games this season.

Philadelphia's last-place Phillies swept a doubleheader from St. Louis, 8-3 and 4-2.

The Reds knocked off the Giants 9-6 Saturday and the Dodgers beat the Braves 4-2. The Pirates scored a run in the top of the 14th inning and edged the Cubs 4-3. The Cards swept a doubleheader from the Phillies 4-3 and 5-4.

Cepeda's homer, his 23rd of the year, enabled the Giants to defeat Don Newcombe for the first time this season. The Reds forced the game into overtime when Jerry Lynch hit a home run with one out in the ninth.

CAN'T KEEP LEAD

The Braves gave Bob Buhl an early 8-0 lead with six runs in the third and two more in the fourth. But the veteran righthander gave back all but one of the runs and finally gave way to Don MacMahon in the ninth inning after Duke Snider's two-run homer had narrowed Milwaukee's margin to one run.

Dick Groat's scoring single in the 10th inning broke a 3-3 tie and gave the Pirates their second overtime victory over the Cubs in two days. The Pirates scored two in the ninth to tie the score at 3-3.

Face, who relieved Vern Law in the eighth, gave up an unearned run in three innings and was rewarded with his 20th straight victory since May 31, 1958.

Gene Conley and Jim Owens pitched the Phillies to their double win over the Cards. Conley, 11-7, tossed a steady seven-hitter and drove in what proved to be the winning run in the opener. Owens, 8-9, got an assist from Dave Philley whose pinch single in the ninth broke a 2-2 tie.

The ability to win the close ones makes championship clubs. Chicago White Sox have won 28 of the 33 one-run games they've played this season.

Therein lies the reason why White Sox are in first place in the American League enjoying a three-game lead over the runnerup Cleveland Indians.

White Sox swept a doubleheader from Washington Senators Sunday, winning the first game 4-3 on the superb relief pitching of 39-year-old Gerry Staley and the second game 9-0 on the shutout pitching of 39-year-old Early Wynn.

Yankees won two uphill battles from Kansas City Athletics, 4-3 in 14 innings and 3-2 in 11, to climb into a third-place tie with Baltimore although the Orioles defeated the Indians 4-3. Detroit Tigers moved past the Athletics 3-0 Saturday. In the only other league game the Red Sox beat the Tigers 4-3 in 10 innings. The Cleveland - Baltimore and Chicago - Washington engagements were postponed by rain.

LEADS LEAGUE

Wynn became the American League's biggest winner when he blanked the Senators Sunday on three hits in the nightcap for his 15th triumph.

Chicago won the opener in the eighth. A poor throw by Roy Sievers on an easy roller allowed Jim Landis to score the winning run. One of Washington's runs came on Harmon Killebrew's 35th homer of the year.

Milt Pappas, Baltimore's 20-year-old righthander, limited the Indians to six hits for his 12th victory against five defeats. Jim Perry lost his fourth in 12 decisions.

A four-run ninth, featured by Harvey Kuenn's run-scoring single and Gus Zernial's single that drove in two more, gave Detroit's Don Mossi his 11th triumph against five defeats.

Gil McDougald's bases-loaded single in the 14th inning of the opener and Elston Howard's home run in the 11th inning of the nightcap gave the Yankees a double triumph over Kansas City and stretched their winning streak to four straight, longest since they won five in a row in June.

Ancient Archie Down to Scale For Big Fight

MONTREAL (CP) — Ancient Archie Moore tipped the scales at an even 175-pounds—the light-heavy-weight limit—Sunday and was pronounced fit and ready for his title defence against Yvon Durelle of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., here Wednesday night.

"We'll have no excuses", said Moore's manager Jack Doc Kearns. "We've had plenty of time. Moore is in just as good shape as a man his age can be."

Moore's exact age is a secret but as one ring observer put it: "He's fighting at an age when many parents are afraid to spank their children". He is about 43. Durelle is 29.

Reports from Durelle's side of the gym—both fighters are training in the same east-end gym—indicate the fighting fisherman is also in top shape.

The challenger weighs 176. He has stopped sparring and will work out "just according to how he feels" for the next two days, said manager Chris Shaban.

Durelle's trainer, Charlie Goldman, thinks the challenger has polished up his boxing a bit and won't be as open to lefts as he was in his first title go with Moore here Dec. 10.

In that wild brawl Moore, after being decked three times in the first round, wore Durelle down with left jabs and hooks and finally knocked him out in the 11th.

PEARCE QUITS

WINNIPEG (CP) — Veteran defensive halfback Keith Pearce who came out of retirement late last week to rejoin Winnipeg Blue Bombers has left the club, manager Jim Ausley announced Sunday.

Toronto Leafs Now at Bottom Of Int. League

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It may or may not be coincidental, but Rochester Red Wings' pitching staff has suddenly come alive in the International League since the arrival of Clyde King as manager.

King replaced Cot Deal July 26 and the Wings have won six of eight games. The pitchers have recorded four complete - game victories in the process. Cal Browning and Howie Nunn Sunday joined Bob Keegan and Dick Ricketts as the latest to go the route.

Browning won a 5-4, 13-inning first game over Miami Marlins and Nunn won the nightcap 3-2.

Columbus Jets swept a doubleheader from Toronto Maple Leafs 3-2 and 4-3, Montreal Royals beat Richmond Virginians 6-4 after losing 3-2 and Havana Sugar Kings edged the league-leading Buffalo Bisons 2-0 in a five-inning, rain - curtailed first game. The nightcap was rained out.

On Saturday the Red Wings shut out the Marlins 5-0, Montreal edged Richmond 6-5 in 10 innings and Columbus beat the Leafs 4-3 in 12 innings. Havana at Buffalo was rained out.

ALLOWS 13 HITS

Browning 13-8 scattered 13 hits and struck out eight as the Wings scored the clincher Sunday in the 13th inning without a hit. Loser Herb Moford 4-5 hit leadoff man Lee Tate, intentionally walked the next two batters and when he hit Charley James, Tate scored.

Rochester scored three times in the second inning of the nightcap. Helped by Luke Easter's home run, Nunn evened his record at 6-6, scattering seven hits. George Zuverink 3-3 lost.

Leo Rodriguez's two-run homer in the top of the ninth evened Ron Blackburn's record at 2-2 for Columbus. Don Johnson 6-13 lost.

Jim King hit his 15th homer for Toronto and Hec Rodriguez had an inside-the-park homer for Toronto. Second baseman Larry Raine's error scored Joe Christopher, who had tripled, for the winning run in the nightcap. Julian Javier and Tom Burgess homered for Columbus. Joe Gibbon 13-7 was the winner. Bill Presko 0-1 lost.

Tom LaSorda 10-7 won the nightcap for Montreal thanks to a four-run sixth inning. Ed Dick 5-8 lost. Zack Monroe 8-7 limited Montreal to five hits in the opener with Paul Lapalme 3-3 the loser as Frank Leja's sacrifice fly scored Bob Deakin to break a 2-2 tie in the sixth inning.

Larry Novak's double and Len Cardenas's two-run single helped Havana overcome a 2-0 Bisons lead in the fifth inning. Emilio Cueche 8-7 won and Warren Hacker 8-7 lost.

Marlene Streit Picked to Win Canadian Open

By JACK SULIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Marlene Stewart Streit, a cool customer on the golf course and acknowledged as probably the greatest Canada has developed in the female ranks, lined up her best shots with the aim of winning her sixth — and a record — Canadian Open championship. The experts figure she can do it.

The 25-year-old former caddie, a native of Cereal, Alta., now living in Toronto, has the equipment to beat out a top - heavy field of nearly 180 golfers from Canada, the United States and England. She is long off the tee, her irons are accurate and she rarely needs more than two putts.

If she can do it, she'll become the first person in history to win the event six times.

The 18-hole medal-play qualifying round is scheduled today over the extremely tough St. George's course and the top 32 settle down to match play Tuesday. The tournament, which dates back to 1901, ends Saturday.

Marlene showed she hasn't lost her touch in preliminary skirmishes Friday and Saturday when senior and junior interprovincial team matches and the individual junior championship were staged. She finished the 36 holes in two-under-par 150, the only one in the field to beat regulation figures.

TAKE TWO TITLES

When it was all over, Ontario had won two titles, the senior team and individual junior, and British Columbia the junior team. The seniors, with Marlene leading the way, made it a walkaway over seven other four - member provincial teams, but the junior events went down to the wire.

Marlene put together rounds of 73-77. The final count showed Ontario with an aggregate of 635, 12 strokes better than the previous record of 647 set by an Ontario foursome in 1947 and equalled by Ontario last year.

Thirty-one strokes behind at 671 was an all-Edmonton team from Alberta. Other provinces never were in contention.

Gail Harvey, 16-year-old Torontonian, won her second consecutive Canadian junior title in the first hole of sudden - death over 15-year-old Gayne Hitchens of Vancouver who became jittery on the last green and blew her chances. Each ended the 36-hole championship with 161.

Miss Hitchens had some consolation when she and Ja-Ann Percy of Vancouver teamed up for a 316 net score to win by one stroke over Ontario's team of Suzanne Hilton of Goderich and Nancy Smith of Tecumseh. Ontario started the second round in fourth place.

Bobcats Drop Thriller to Cobourg, To Square Semi-Finals at 2 Each

By GARRY ALEXANDER

"Chub" McIvor blasted a two-out, two-run triple in Cobourg Saturday night in the bottom of the ninth inning to give the Merchants at 3-2 victory over the Bobcats, evening their best-of-seven B. and D. softball semi-finals at two games apiece.

The fifth game is slated for CNRA Park here Tuesday night at 6.30 p.m.

Bobby Hull, who had homered the previous inning to provide the 'Cats with a 2-1 lead, was the victim of McIvor's blow. Coach Temple had brought Hull in from left field when Bobby Green walked the first man up in the inning.

Hull got pinch-hitter Clarey on a long fly to Smrke and fanned Harnden for the second out. "Sleepy" Dawe stepped in to pinch-hit and rapped a sharp single, sending the tying run to third. McIvor then teed off to score both runners and end the ball game at 3-2 with his triple over the left fielder's head.

Winner Rolly Campbell and Green had duelled all the way. Belleville took a 1-0 lead in the third with Cobourg tying it in the next frame. Hull smashed what appeared to be the winner leading off the ninth, a screaming line drive over McSporran's head in centre field.

Feature play of the night was a triple play executed by the Bobcats in the fifth inning. McIvor and Jim Hart hit singles to open the frame. O'Brien attempted a bunt and both runners took off immediately. Pitcher Green dived on his stomach to snare the ball before it hit the ground, tossed to Crawford covering first base for two, who in turn fired to Stacey covering second base. The Cats also had double plays in the fourth and sixth frames.

Campbell gave up six hits, setting half a dozen down on strikes while passing five. Lefty Bob Green gave up five hits in eight innings plus, whiffing eight and walking six. Hull gave two hits, fanned one.

A walk and Harnden's single put two on with one out for Cobourg in the fourth. Smrke made a fine catch of Church's fly and both runners raced home. A double play was called and the second run erased, however, when it was ruled that the man on second had not tagged after the catch.

Earl Cousins slammed what appeared to be a home run leading off the second frame. But the umpires differed in their call, Tebworth at the plate calling fair and Bawden at third shouting foul, on the ball hit down the left field line. After a five-minute discussion the officials ruled foul and Cousins was brought back. He promptly singled to centre only to be called out later on a very close play at third base.

McIvor with his triple and a single topped the Merchants at the plate. Dawe rapped his clutch single. Dick Turpin, Bryan Hart, Clarke Harnden and Jim Hart also hit safely.

Hull homered for Temple's nine with the other base knocks shared by Floyd Crawford, Bert Faulkner, Denny Hayden, Earl Cousins and Green.

Canadian Junior Tennis Stars Well Prepared

By DON ATTFIELD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The annual race for Canadian open junior tennis honors was under way today on Rideau Tennis Club courts with a large Canadian contingent braced to hold off an onslaught by strong American competitors.

The open section follows week-long Canadian closed junior championships which ended Saturday in some surprises.

Fourth-seeded Tom Bell, 18, of Montreal upset second-seeded Don Curtis of Toronto with sets of 3-6, 6-3, 8-6 and 7-5 to win the junior men's crown. Favorite Harry Fauquier of Toronto had been ousted earlier.

Veronica Holdup, 16, of Toronto captured the junior women's crown by defeating Ottawa's Pat Ryan 9-7, 6-3. Miss Holdup had been fourth seeded.

RETAINS TITLE

Vicki Berner of Vancouver did as expected in winning the girls' title for her second consecutive year by ousting Judy Shakespeare of Halifax 6-3, 6-2. And top-seeded Mike Belkin won the boys' crown by defeating fellow Montrealer Andre Tielemans 7-9, 7-5, 6-2.

Some of the 250 Canadians entered in open competitions played first-round matches Sunday but, there were no upsets. Foreign entries, numbering about 60, played their first matches today.

Canadians are given their best chances in the open in doubles competitions, which were to start late today, and in the girls' singles. Miss Berner is backed up by Misses Urban and Ryan, both still under 15 years, against top-seeded foreign girl Julie Heldman of Hamtrack, Mich.

Miss Heldman, just 12 years old, is defending junior women's champion after an upset win last year and will also be a threat in this class.

CORNWALLERS LOSE

Two Cornwall players were defeated in the junior men's singles first round. J. Jacobson lost to D. McDougall of Montreal, 6-1, 6-0 and G. Henderson lost 6-1, 61 to Montreal's D. Welch. However R. McAllister of Cornwall defeated M. Hyndman of Montreal 2-6, 6-3, 7-5.

In the open junior men's singles, two Cornwall players also lost. B. Gridley lost 6-0, 6-1 to J. Cooper of Halifax while J. Fournier lost to R. Sikvon of Regina 6-0, 6-0

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., player P. Kent was defeated in the junior men's singles 6-3, 5-7, 6-0 by A. Tielemans of Montreal.

Soccer Results

Northern Electric defeated Kingston Dynamos 4-1 in an Eastern Ontario Soccer League game on Saturday.

WORLD RECORD

STOCKHOLM (AP)—James Caspers, 28, Racine, Wis., set a world archery record Sunday as the United States swept all four titles in the world archery championships. Caspers amassed 2,247 points in the four-day competition, wiping out the record of 2,231 held by another American, O. K. Smathers of Brevard, N.C., since 1957. Ann Corby, 34, Bloomfield, N.J., won the women's championship.

Detroit Club Wins Fourth Rowing Title

DETROIT (AP) —Detroit Boat Club scored a record 223½ points Sunday in winning its fourth straight United States rowing championship at which a 15-year-old St. Catharines boy also helped make history.

Seattle's Lake Washington Club, organized just this year, was a surprising second with 118¼ points.

Philadelphia Vesper Boat Club was third with 81 points.

Lake Washington took second by winning the senior eight shell, last event on the program which was good for 30 points.

The Canadian is Jim Cavers. So small that he needed lead weights to qualify, the youngster brought in the St. Catharines Rowing Club as winner of the 2,00-metre intermediate eights.

FIRST WIN

The victory, by one length of the 62-foot shell, was St. Catharines' first in the 85-year history of the classic. The time of 5:03 matched a 50-year-old record set by the Toronto Argonauts Rowing Club.

Cavers, who weighs only 85 pounds, took 25 pounds of lead into the boat with him in order to meet weight specifications of the event.

In a Pan-American Games trials event, the Lake Washington Rowing Club of Seattle scored a sensational victory while qualifying for the hemisphere games. Upsetting the favored Dertoit Boat Club, the Seattle club made up seven lengths in the last 500 metres to capture the contest for four-oared shells without coxswain.

The boats today defied a 15-mile- an-hour cross wind which caused an interruption in the regatta Saturday.

Shouting out his count against the wind, Cavers timed his eight in the intermediates to a record-equalling finish over the handicap of stroke oar Chris Leach's broken oar. Leach broke his oar at 1,00 metres.

Detroit was four seconds behind.

Aussies Oust Italy in Davis Cup Play

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Wimbledon champions Neale Fraser and Roy Emerson have sent Australia into the inter-zone Davis Cup tennis finals against India by defeating Italy's Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola 3-6, 11-9, 6-3, 9-7 Sunday on a court drenched by heavy rains.

The triumph gave captain Harry Hopman's charges an insurmountable 3-0 lead in the best-of-five series between the American and European zone champions and put an exhibition status on today's final singles.

Rod Laver was to play Sirola in the first match, followed by a meeting of Emerson and Pietrangeli.

TO PLAY INDIA

The Australians, aiming at recovery of the Davis Cup which they have won seven of the last nine years, now move to Brookline, Mass., to play India. The victor challenges the United States for the trophy at Forest Hills, N.Y., Aug. 28-30.

Only the superb play of Fraser, the 25-year-old veteran of the team, saved the day for the Aussies against an Italian tandem bent on an upset.

A crowd of 1,500 turned out at the Germantown Cricket Club for the clincher and became so demonstrative that the six-foot, seven-inch Sirola stopped at one stage in the opening set, looked at the gallery and said:

"Shut up."

In the second set he paused once and said, "will you please keep quiet."

His verbal darts were aimed principally at a vocal and enthusiastic Italian segment which kept yelling "bravo" at their Roman heros.

South Hastings Baseball League

Latta got away to a good start in the best-of-five South Hastings Baseball League semi-finals Saturday night, defeating Cannifton 4-1 in the series opener.

Latta whittled away at the offerings of Gord Oliver, Cannifton hurler, scoring single runs in the first, second, third and seventh innings, on six hits. Oliver struck out seven and walked four.

Cannifton touched Stan Reid for a half-dozen hits, but failed to capitalize, scoring their only counter in the sixth frame. Reid also whiffed seven, but strolled none.

Forsythe and Locke were the big batting guns for the winners, each smashing out a pair of singles. Other hitters were Baker and Harvey.

Frank Ray and Ross Park led the Latta attack with doubles, while Rollins, Stan Reid, S. Reid, Buskard and Wayne Gow hit singles.

The next game between these teams is scheduled for Foxboro tomorrow night, starting 6.30.

Maverick Wins Gold Cup Speedboat Race

SATTLE (AP) — The Maverick of Lake Mead, Nev., won the Gold Cup speedboat race Sunday, but motion pictures, meetings and mathematical experts had to provide the final decision.

The race had been over more than two hours before Maverick was announced as the winner.

It was the Maverick's average speed for the 90-mile, three-heat race which finally gave the victory to the boat owned by William Waggoner of Phoenix, Ariz. Maverick and Miss Thriftway were tied in points earned with 1,325 each and a race rule gives the win to the fastest boat in case of a tie.

Thriftway won the final heat, with Wahoo of Seattle second, Miss Spokane apparently third and Maverick fourth. But Maverick was moved up to third when the officials ruled Miss Spokane had jumed the starting gun.

Maverick and Nitrogen of Washington, D.C., which finished third Sunday with 714 points are among the three leaders for selection as the United States representative in the International Harmsworth Trophy race, this year against Canada.

The Harmsworth is raced only when a challenge is issued by a foreign country. Canada has challenged on behalf of Miss Supertest III, owned by James G. Thompson of London, Ont., has challenged the U.S. on behalf of Canada.

Miss Detroit, which did not bid for the Gold Cup, is the third U.S. leader.

Canada, Russ Soccer Team to Exchange Visits

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian and Russian soccer teams will exchange visits next summer, it was announced Sunday following a weekend meeting of the executive committee of the Canadian soccer Football Association.

The committee, representing districts from Nova Scotia to British Columbia, also extended an invitation to the Glasgow Rangers to tour Canada next year.

Secretary - Treasurer George Anderson of Winnipeg said the association felt certain the invitation would be accepted and the tour probably would begin in late May.

The Rangers would play two games in Vancouver and Toronto and one in Montreal, Calgary and New York. Three would be against Manchester United and the others against Canadian or area all-star clubs.

WORK OUT DETAILS

Details of the Canada-Russia exchange have not yet been worked out Anderson said, but the tours will be about three weeks long each and will be consecutive. The Canadians will send an all-star team while the Russians may send the Moscow Dynamos.

For the second time Canada will compete in the next World Cup play, held every four years. World play will be in 1962 with qualifying rounds in 1961. In 1957 Canada defeated the United States twice in qualifying games, then lost two to Mexico in Mexico City.

The committees also decided to distribute $4,500 to provincial associations to promote soccer in their areas. The money is part of the profit of this year's tour by West Bromwich.

It also was decided to hold the Dominion Challenge Cup finals in Toronto Sept. 19 or 20.

'New Providence' Takes Feature At Fort Erie

FORT ERIE (CP)—New Providence, owned by Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Taylor, survived a claim of foul and won the $16,800 Prince of Wales stakes at the Fort Erie Jockey Club Saturday. New Providence now has captured two of the three "triple crown" races sponsored by the jockey club, adding the Prince of Wales to his victory in the Queen's Plate.

The third "triple crown" event —the $15,000 Breeder's Stakes— will be run at New Woodbine, Toronto, in October.

New Providence, ridden for the first time by the talented Avelino Gomez, defeated Sunday Sail by four lengths while Major Flight was third, almost six lengths behind the winner.

Hugo Dittfach, riding Sunday Sail, protested to the stewards that New Providence had impeded his mount five furlongs from the finish. Gomez had gone into the lead at that point. The stewards disallowed the claim.

New Providence paid $6.40, $3.50 and $2.50.

Garrido Beats Brother to Win Tennis Crown

By TOM MITCHELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP) — Reynaldo Garrido, a stocky, hard - hitting tennis player who ignored the rankings, is the new Canadian tennis singles champion.

The 24-year-old Cuban captured the title Sunday with a 6-4, 1-6, 6-4, 6-1 upset win over his brother Orlando, 28, in finals play at the Canadian tennis championships.

Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., and Toronto's Don Fontana saved one title for Canada when they won the doubles final against Orlando Garrido and Ecuador's Eduarda Zuleta 6-3, 1-6, 6-3, 2-6, 6-1.

Reynaldo's singles win was his third upset of the tournament. He was seeded fifth among the outside entries. He knocked out Bedard — the first - rated Canadian — in quarter - finals play, defeated second - ranked Whitney Reed of Alameda, California, in the semi-finals and polished off his brother, rated third, to take the Meldrum Cup.

The all-Cuban singles final was fought in the worst weather of the week-long tournament. A 25 - mile - an - hour wind, with gusts up to 40 miles on hour, made play difficult. The 450 spectators in the gallery at the clay courts of the civil employees tennis club wrapped themselves in blankets and topcoats.

It was so strong that one of Orlando's lobs, dropped just over the net, was blown back across the net before Reynaldo could hit it.

In the doubles match the teams traded games on service until the Canadians broke Zuleta's service in the sixth, took a 4-2 lead and went on to win. In the second set the Latins broke Fontana's service in the second game and won handily although the last game was at deuce nine times.

In the third set the lead traded to 3-3 but the Canadians broke Zulet's service in the eighth and won. Bedard and Fontana had trouble keeping the ball in the court in the fourth set but played a bang-up game in the final as they surged to a 4-0 lead, dropped one game, then took the match.

Women's play was wrapped up Saturday. Australia's Marie Martin knocked out Mexico's Martha Hernandes 6-1, 6-3 in the final then teamed with Panama's Dorothy Head Knode to win 6-1, 6-1 over Miss Hernandes and Marilyn Montgomery of San Antonia, Texas.

In mixed doubles play Sunday, Bedard and Miss Laframboise wound up the week-long tournament with a 6-4, 1-6, 6-4 win over Miss Hernandez and fellow-countryman Antonio Palafor.

The Other Day

Ken Pinder

We were asked if we knew how fast a jack rabbit can run, and had to admit that we didn't.

But we soon got answers from an expert, who says that a jack rabbit can maintain a top speed of 40 miles an hour for quite a while! Ordinary dogs simply cannot overtake a healthy jack rabbit in full flight; the only dog that can catch up with them is a Greyhound.

So, if you're ever tempted to outrun a jack rabbit you'd better first don your seven league boots.

However, we understand that Mr. Jack Rabbit reserves his top speed for emergencies, which gives him something in common with modern automobiles. Their excess power is there only for your emergencies, and all of us would do well to emulate the jack rabbit by using that automobile power only to save our lives, never to endanger them.

Of course, to follow through in a campaign for safe driving, first of all you need a thoroughly safe car, and then you urgently need conscientious safety maintenance. We can fill the bill for you on both scores, faithfully and economically.

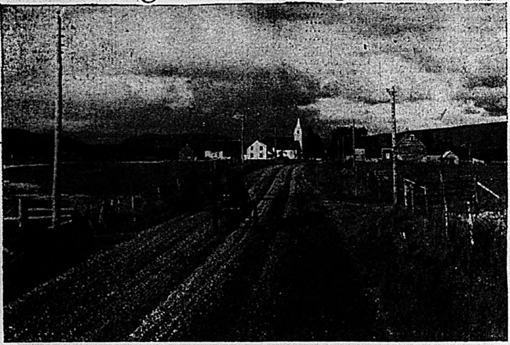
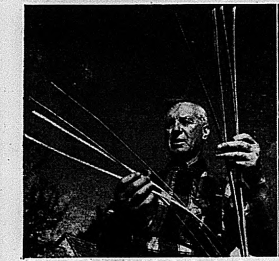
Ernest Hart: Chairmaker

Preserving a Vanishing Trade

CANADA



Amid the quiet charm of Cape Breton Island's picturesque Margaree Valley, old-timer Ernest Hart is kept busy, despite his 75 years, turning out carefully wrought ladder-back chairs for which he and his family for generations back have been famous. Above, he uses his favourite trotting horse for pickups and deliveries in the nearby town of Margaree.



Chairs are made from birch, beech, ash and maple trees which grow in the valley. No glue or nails are used in the construction of the chairs, noted for their durability.

Chair seats are made from splints of black ash. Mr. Hart, who exemplifies the hard working virtues of the Scottish immigrants who settled the district, operates one of the last mills in Eastern Canada still worked by water-power.

"HERCULES" HELD OVER

When the jet-propelled C-130 needed a name; when the British Navy wanted to tag a new, big battleship; when a powerful cement mill had to be characterized; the name "Hercules" was chosen as a symbol of strength.

Who was this Hercules, this legendary hero, man to some, myth to others, and even a god whom some worshipped? As with all legends, the descriptions and the stories vary. In art, he's big and bold, and very muscular. Generally, he is described as an enormously strong man, although moderate in height. He ate, drank and loved a lot. Although he had a brutal temper, he was generally kindly.

The stories agree that Hercules was the son of Zeus and a mortal. He was hated by Hera, who sent serpents to kill him while he was yet in his cradle. As punishment for a disgression, he had to perform twelve labors, among which were the strangling of the Nemean lion and the killing of the Cretan bull. Other exploits included the crumbling of the famed Temple of Jolco, his visit to the island of the beautiful but savage Amazons, and his thrilling adventures with Jason in recovering the Golden Fleece from the wild island of Colchis.

The reckless and heroic deeds of this superhuman figure of ancient lore are brought to the screen in the monumental new film, "Hercules", held over at the Park Theatre Belleville only, for three more days, with Steve "Mr. Universe" Reeves in the title role. Capturing the thundering excitement of the savage and sensual era in which he lived, the fascinating drama of palace intrigue and murder, the thrill of voyages to distant lands, "Hercules" covers a broad canvas as only the screen can. To complete the program a Three Stooge comedy and a Walt Disney cartoon are shown.

Former Yankees Win Over Oldtimers 2-1

Sixty-four former world series greats, including 11 Hall of Famers, appeared as Zach Wheat, newest member to be enshrined at Cooperstown, was honored.

The invited guests were players who had represented the New York Yankees in each of their 24 world series and men who had opposed them in the fall classic.

The greatest ovations from the crowd of 60,000 were given to Roy Campanella, paralyzed ex-Dodgers catcher, and Joe Dimaggio, the great Yankee Clipper.

AT THE BELLE — Karen Steele, Michael Dante and Randolph Scott in a tense scene from Warner Bros. "Westbound", action-packed outdoor drama filmed in WarnerColor, the picture also stars Virginia Mayo. Guaranteed laughs in abundance are promised in "The Smallest Show on Earth", the 2nd new feature attraction co-starring Bill Travers and Virginia McKenna, opening today at the Belle Theatre.

Casey Stengel Gives Hint He Will Be Back

NEW YORK (AP) — Casey Stengel hinted — ever so indirectly—today that he'll be back as manager of New York Yankees next year.

The Yanks, riding a four-game winning streak after dropping Kansas City Athletics 4-3 and 3-2 in a doubleheader Sunday, are far from the exit of Stengel's doghouse, though.

Some of the younger players have him sore because they haven't been playing head-up ball. He was grated all the more when former Yankee on hand for the old-timers game Saturday called his attention to some blunders.

"I'm going to change all that in camp next spring", Casey said while waiting for the scheduled night game against Boston Red Sox. "We're going to work on those things and if we can't do it one way, we'll find another."

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Tuesday, August 11

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — During early A. M. you have an opportunity to resolve a certain ticklish situation ideally. Then be sure you do not run off somewhere new for the evening — loyalty to loved one brings a most happy and satisfying evening.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)— Don't sidestep that chance now to cement better relations with associate or others vital to your well-being. Steer clear of argument with close tie in afternoon. P.M. fine for coming to better understanding with kinfolk.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Upsetting conditions could result from your not attending strictly to duty now, or refusing to cooperate with fellow workers. Avoid arguments. Work through into evening or utilize time for coming to better meeting of minds with others.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Some pressing obligations could somewhat disturb you today and take away from the pleasure jaunt you had planned. Take heart — evening can be very nice, amusements enjoyed and the person you are fond of will be very sweet.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Take care you do not get on the nerves of some close tie, and do not start any arguments with others in outside world. Tonight you should be most affectionate with family and have a relaxing and satisfying evening at own fireside.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)— Fretting about a private worry would be somewhat distressing and disastrous today, since many pressing affairs require calm thought and deliberate action. P. M. confer with influential friend. Do some studying and shopping.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — A good pal could get into monetary trouble today which would all affect you, if you are not careful. P. M. attend to repairs on home or real estate. Also, look after health matters.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)— Be very sure not to break any regulations that will seriously injure your career or personal affairs. Latter part of day is fine for putting your finest creative ideas before the right persons. Be specific and very sociable.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Better get right down to chores or obligations that have to be met, though you would much prefer to be out and about. This helps to bring you a higher revenue and you can then assist those who need you.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — It will be impossible to be out for pleasure until late in the afternoon today, or to express your artistic talents. Then you can be with persons who have good sense and co-operate nicely with them.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Steer clear of getting into that situation with associate or higher-up that needs settling until midafternoon. P. M. an influential person comes through with the support you sorely need at this time.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)— You can go ahead with obligations you have made and work you promised to do, despite the efforts of another to steer you in a different direction. P. M. all works favorably for you and you get data you want. Be broadminded.

If your child is born today ... The interesting child born today is the type who will vacillate often from the most progressive ideas to the very, very old ones. So it us up to you early to teach how to correlate the two for best results throughout life. Inculcate spiritual Truths early, also, so that the real success indicated in this chart will early manifest itself. Right training and education is the whole answer here.

Nixon Describes Khrushchev in Televised Films

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice-President Nixon said Sunday that in dealing with Soviet Premier Khrushchev one has to be on guard every moment because he likes to do the unexpected when he can.

"A very vigorous and articulate defender of his point of view, and one, incidentally, who always knew how to grab the headlines, and at times to keep them, whenever he had an opportunity . . .

"In dealing with Mr. Khrushchev, thing's don't go as you expect, because he is a man who likes to do the unexpected whenever he possibly can . . .

"You find that you have to watch every moment when you are with Mr. Khrushchev . .

"He doesn't like to concede anything."

Nixon was asked if he saw any indication that Khrushchev needs approval from anyone before making decisions.

"I would say that he can do pretty much as he wants," Nixon replied. "But I would also say that he is sensitive about public opinion outside the Soviet Union."

Belgian King Leaves on Lone Vacation

Sources close to the palace disclosed earlier that the 28-year-old king made the trip alone and kept it completely private.

The report sparked fresh speculation here that he was planning a secret meeting with 25-year-old Princess Marie-Therese of Bourbon Parka, with whom his name has been linked romantically in the past.

Rumors of a romance have been denied officially and only a week ago palace officials were saying they knew of no plans for Baudouin to visit France.

July Production Motor Vehicles Noted Increase

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian production of motor vehicles rose to 34,278 units in July from 27,075 a year earlier, the bureau of statistics reported today.

Passenger car production in July rose to 27,339 units from 21,847 in the corresponding month last year while commercial vehicles advanced to 6,939 from 5,228. In the seven-month period, passenger vehicles increased to 227,769 from 204,529, commercial vehicles to 49,439 from 36,547.

CASTRO EXPECTED

Several shots were fired from a speeding auto Saturday night at Castro's villa in a Havana suburb. The gunmen escaped despite police roadblocks. Castro was reported to have been away at the time.

Heavy firing also was heard early Sunday morning in Havana's country club section.

After weeks of indecision, the cabinet finally decided Sunday to send a delegation to the meeting this week in Santiago, Chile, of the Organization of American States. The meeting grows out of charges by the Dominican Republic that Castro is aising Dominican exiles in Cuba who are plotting to overthrow their homeland's Dictator, Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo.

Scientists Work Day, Night To Build Most Powerful Atom Smasher in Existence

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—In this physics laboratory, a sign on the wall reads:

"Early risers are conceited in the morning—and stupid in the afternoon."

A scientist who hates to get up in the morning hung it there to josh colleagues who, to him, are grievously bright and alert in the morning.

But it goes well that this team includes both morning-people and night-people.

For this team is working by day and many nights to build the most powerful atom smasher on earth.

It might have 10 times more effective energy than any machines now built or planned anywhere else, including Russia.

RIP ATOMS APART

Their goal is to rip apart atoms and bits of atoms far more thoroughly than ever before, to learn what atoms are made of, what everything in the universe is really made of, and what forces hold atoms and people together.

The super atom splitter is a project of MURA, the Midwestern Universities Research Association. Scientists from 15 midwest U.S. universities are engaged on it, with the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission footing most of the cost. The physical work is centred here near the University of Wisconsin.

Breaking atoms into significant tell-tale pieces is a major goal of basic science. The practical results could be fantastic.

The tiny hearts of atoms are marvelously complicated. More than 30 different particles have been identified. They now make up a confusing collection of strange atomic particles, explains Dr. Ragnar Rollefson, Wisconsin physics professor and director of MURA.

But if all of them can be sorted out and made sense of, then man may learn to change matter into energy, and energy into matter, safely, and at will. There could be vast medical, economic and other benefits.

YIELD SECRETS

Exploring atomic inner space is done by hurling bits of atoms—protons or electrons—at targets of whole atoms. The smacking collisions break up the hearts of the target atoms, so they yield some secrets.

This takes tremendous energy, hence the drive for ever more powerful machines.

Russia now holds the lead, with a machine hurling atomic particles at energies of 10,000,000,000 electron volts. And she's building one to reach 50,000,000,000 electron volts.

Stanford University is building a linear accelerator that will shoot electrons down through a copper tube two miles long, kicking up their speed until they hit their target with frightful energy.

DIFFERENT VIEW

The MURA team wants to make two moving streams of protons collide with one another. Then all the energy could go into breaking up atoms or bits of atoms. Machines flying a single beam lose much energy in kicking bits of atoms out of stationary targets.

Before the MURA scientists aim colliding beams at each other, they will try breaking up atomic nuclei with a single beam 100 times as intense as any yet created.

Increasing the intensity of the beam—that is the number of particles in the beam—makes the beam more effective, just as increasing the energy of the particles makes them more effective in smashing a target atom.

The ideas are sound in theory, Dr. Rollefson says. MURA now is testing a model—the third one built—to work out practical designs and cost estimates.

The model is 20 feet in diameter, a doughnut of wedged-shaped magnets and hollow aluminum tubing through which the atomic particles can whirl and orbit. This could be the forerunner for the giant machine, measuring 1,200 feet in diameter—almost a quarter of a mile—containing 144 specially-shaped magnets weighing 63,000 tons. It might cost upwards of $120,000,000.

Japs Will Build Training Depots In Asian Lands

By TKESHI SATO

TOKYO (Reuters) — The Japanese government will bluid technical centres in several Asian countries this year to provide practical training in the use of Japanese machinery and agricultural methods for an increasing number of youths in the region.

Japanese machines and equipment will be installed for demonstration while Japanese experts will give instruction to local students who wish to become agricultural experts or industrial engineers.

In this way, officials believe, Japanese techniques will be closely integrated with the development of local agriculture and industries, particularly smaller enterprises, in these countries. In future, Japan may also ship model factories to the region to teach local experts and businessmen how to run industrial plants.

To finance part of the program, the Japanese government is supplying funds totalling 491,000,000 yen (about $1,227,500) during the current financial year.

The money will be spent to establish an agricultural centre in Pakistan, a fishing centre in Ceylon, a telecommunications centre in Thailand, a small enterprise centre in Iran, a machinery centre in India and a wood-working centre in Malaya.

JOINT PLAN

These six technical centres will be built jointly by the Asian countries, which will supply land and buildings, and the Japanese government, which will provide machinery and technical experts.

Japanese officials say the programs are designed to supplement, and in part to supersede, the present system of inviting Asian youths to Japan for instruction in engineering and agriculture.

The new method of establishing technical centres on the spot will mean that more students are trained at lower cost and the training will be closer to the actual needs of the countries concerned.

FIRST CHILD AT 84

British Film Firms Seek To Get TV Channel of Own

By JOHN GALS

LONDON (AP) — The British movie industry, taking a terrible beating from television, hopes to save its skin by a raid on the enemy camp. It wants a new television channel expected to be opened in Britain.

Attendance at movie houses has fallen since 1952 to 162,000,000 from 325,000,000. Hundreds of small movie houses have closed down. Many of the survivors shut for the afternoon or offer cheap off-peak rates to old-age pensioners.

The movie industry now proposes to grab for itself a share of the rewards offered by commercial television. There are two television networks.

A third unused channel is available under international agreement.

Parliament will within the next few months debate what use is to be made of the additional air space.

"We hope to move in," said John Walton, general secretary of the British Film Producers Association.

"It is a natural development for an industry of our background, and although we may be passing through difficult times, we have not lost our dynamic attitude."

EMBRYONIC SCHEME

Walton stressed that the scheme is still embryonic, but a trade committee soon will open a study of how the big screen can get into the little screen business.

"At the back of our mnids is the millions of pounds invested in the bricks and mortar of the film industry throughout the country," he said.

"That investment has to be protected and the availability of a television network would make our opportunities to do so almost limitless.

"Take the big new film which is going on general release in a couple of months. If you gave your stars a personal television appearance in advance, it might work wonders at the neighborhood cinema when the film came out."

Walton said there is no despair in the movie industry — even if the movies failed to get into television.

"Cinema admissions can't keep going down for ever. Somewhere there is a new level for cinema going, and it will not be long before we reach it."

Injunction Aims At Closing $6000,000 Bridge

MONTREAL (CP) — Rothwell Grant, a former St. Lawrence Seaway inspector, has sent Prime Minister Diefenbaker a telegram rebutting remarks made by a spokesman for the U.S.-Canadian Bridge Corporation.

Mr. Grant has filed a writ of injunction with the Ontario Supreme Court aimed at closing a new $6,000,000 bridge over the St. Lawrence Seaway between Cornwall and Massena, N.Y. In the action Mr. Grant claims that the bridge constitutes a public nuisance and that its construction and design are faulty.

The unnamed spokesman for the bridge corporation said in Cornwall Friday that the action was a "purely political" move. He said Mr. Grant had sought a bridge job but had not been hired.

Mr. Grant said in Montreal Sunday that he sent a telegram to Mr. Diefenbaker calling the spokesman's statements "a wilful distortion of facts. They were made by persons having neither the authority nor the jurisdiction to do so."

He asked the prime minister to "deal in appropriate fashion with the spokesman if he be a Canadian government employee."

Mr. Grant said he "emphatically" denied the claim he had sought a bridge job.

The bridge linking Cornwall and Massena, N.Y., is still open and the spokesman said no action is planned unless the Ontario Supreme Court — now in summer recess—should order it.

Ian N. McKinnon Named Chairman National Energy

New Board Will Assure Best Use of Resources

OTTAWA (CP) — Ian N. McKinnon, chairman of the Alberta oil and gas conservation board, has been appointed chairman of the new national energy board, Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced today.

Other members of the board:

Jules A. Archambault, Montreal, president of Canit Construction Company and a member of the board of research on traffic and transportation problems of Montreal;

H. Lee Briggs, an electrical engineer who has been general manager of the Winnipeg Hydro-Electric System and general manager of the British Columbia Power Commission;

Douglas M. Fraser, an economist who has been director of the energy studies branch of the federal trade department.

Mr. McKinnon has been appointed for a two-year period on leave of absence from the Alberta government. The other appointments are for seven years.

The announcement gave no information on salaries, but past speculation has been that the chairman would be paid $20,000 a year, the vice-chairman $18,000 and the other members $16,000.

TO ENSURE BEST USE

The prime minister's announcement said the board is being established "in order to assure the best use of energy resources in this country, regulate in the public interest the construction and operation of oil and gas pipelines subject to the jurisdiction of Parliament, the tolls charged for transmission for such pipelines, the export and import of gas, the export of electric power and the construction of those lines over which such power is exported."

"The board is also to study and keep under review," the announcement said, "all matters relating to energy within the jurisdiction of Parliament and is to recommend to the minister of trade and commerce such measures as it may consider necessary or advisable to the public interest with regard to such matters."

FOR TWO YEARS

In explaining Mr. McKinnon's short-term appointment, the announcement said the Alberta government has consented to release him for a two-year period to enable him to serve as chairman of the national board during its initial phase.

Mr. McKinnon has served in various capacities as a civil servant in the Alberta government for about 30 years. He has been chairman of that province's conservation board since its inception.

"His very wide experience in the oil industry will be a most important asset to the board," the prime minister's announcement said.

Mr. Diefenbaker was in the West today and the announcement was issued from his office here.

Firemen Rescue Six From Ford Hotel Fire

TORONTO (CP)—Six persons were carried 85 feet down firemen's aerial ladders early today as flames ate through the sixth floor of the downtown Ford Hotel.

No one was killed, but an estimated 100 persons were driven from their rooms. Four persons were taken to hospital.

Damage was estimated at $16,000 to the hostelry at Bay and Dundas Streets.

Mrs. Dorothy Day, 53, a room clerk and her 15-year-old daughter Patricia were reported to have suffered severe burns. Mrs. Sidney Thatcher, 59, of Windsor was taken to hospital for treatment. She suffered from choking smoke.

Don Neilson of Toronto was burned about the hand.

HUNT FOR TWO

Police today are searching for Jack Eves and E. McDonnell, both of Regina, who registered about 11:15 Monday night and who have not been seen since the blaze started.

The fire is believed to have begun in the vicinity of their room about 3:30 a.m.

Firemen said that when they arrived they could hear sixth-floor guests screaming.

WOKE GUESTS

Police constables John Barber, Ken Worthington and Jim Newsome crawled along the floor, beneath the heavy smoke, pounding on doors and wakening guests.

Mrs. Day turned in the alarm when she smelled smoke. She warned the switchboard operator, then opened her door to the sixth-floor corridor.

"The flames smacked me in the face," she said.

Mrs. Eileen Lacey, the operator, called the other guests on the room telephones.

Mr. Neilson, a Toronto lawyer, was burned when he tried to turn on a hose. The nozzle was red hot.

AIR CRASH KILLS 'GOLDEN HAWK' TWO AMERICANS

Planes Collide Near Calgary Air Field

CALGARY (CP) A member of the RCAF Golden Hawks aerobatic team and two United States civilians were killed Monday in a mid-air collision between a Sabre jet and a light plane.

Names of the Americans were not released upon the instructions of U.S. consul officials but it was believed the plane, a Piper Tri-pacer, was owned by the medical and scientific research centre of Philadelphia.

PREPARING TO LAND

The crash occurred about a mile west of Calgary's McCall Field when the jet, the last of the seven-team flight to approach for a landing, collided with the small plane, which also was preparing to land.

An RCAF spokesman said the collision occurred at about 2,000 feet when the jet was moving at 160 miles an hour. He said the Sabre had overshot the runway on its first approach, pulled up and had started another approach when the accident happened.

Future of the Golden Hawks was not known but it was learned they will continue with their scheduled Air Force Day demonstration at the RCAF station at Penhold, Alta., Saturday. They had arrived in Calgary from the Lakehead where they performed Sunday.

TWO INVESTIGATIONS

An official said whether they continue to fly after the Penhold show may depend on the findings of an air force board of inquiry which was to start examining the wreckage today. Department of transport investigators were on the scene hours after the crash to make a separate examination.

The crash was the first involving the Golden Hawks, a prestige group formed by the air force last March to commemorate the 50th aniversary of powered flight in Canada and the 35th anniversary of the founding of the RCAF.

Since its formation the team has been seen by thousands of Canadians at fairs, exhibitions and air force displays. The group is led by Sqd. Ldr. Fern Villeneuve, 31, of Ottawa.

Says Authority Failed to Give Flood Warning

BROUGHAM, Ont. (CP)—Pickering Township council Monday night criticized the Metropolitan and Toronto Conservation Authority for failing to give adequate warning of a flash flood which hit the township Sunday.

About 20 children in Sun Valley Park near this town 20 miles northeast of Toronto were moved away from a stream minutes before the crest of the flood hit the area.

"I don't believe the township is getting value for the money paid into the authority," said Deputy Reeve Jean McPherson. She said township police had not been notified.

Reeve Sherman Scott said he checked with authority officials and was told the authority was not obligated to spread flood warnings.

2 Female Members of Parliament Disagree on Life of Geisha Girls

TOKYO (AP) — Two female members of the Canadian Parliament fought a private debate today on geishas, the Japanese entertainers who make a life study of charming the male.

"A depressing system . . . an incredible life for modern girls, aside from the morals involved," Miss Margaret Aitken Conservative member for York-Humber, said of the institution which places girl trainees in geisha houses before they are 10 years old.

"I don't find it at all depressing—I think the geishas are quite gay and charming, enjoying life to the fullest," retorted Mrs. Jean Casselman, Conservative member for Grenville-Dundas.

The MPs were interviewed after they and 14 other Caandian tourists visited a Kyoto geisha house, were served by geishas and understudies and heard the facts of geisha life.

Referring to the Japanese definition of a true geisha as an artist in music, dance and conversation, Miss Aitken said, "I certainly don't consider it a high form of art . . . the dance is ver highly stylized and very obscure . . . imagine four hours to prepare their hair, and sleeping at night on boards — incredible!"

Miss Aitken suggested most geishas hoped to find rich husbands or "at best, become mistresses." Many modern Japanese women make similar criticisms.

Mrs. Casselman rallied to the defence of the age-old institution, saying, "Lots of people are

SAM NEUA, Laos (AP)—Laotian government troops are hunting a Red fifth column in Sam Neua province, where an army commander estimates 30 per cent of the population is pro-Communist.

Brig.-Gen. Amkha Soukhavong said the Communist Pathet Lao movement had years to sway the people in the north Laotian region before it reached an armistice with the royal regime two years ago.

And before turning over control of the area to the royal army, Amkha said, the Pathet Lao set up an underground network which now is aiding rebels attacking army posts in the northern mountains of this Indochinese kingdom.

The skirmishes have been hit-and-run affairs.

Amkha said his forces have killed 90 Red soldiers, captured nine and wounded an undetermined number in Sam Neua province. Government losses have been 50, about half of them listed as missing.

The general said 100 Red underground operators have been seized within the last two weeks and sent to a government camp in the south.

The general repeated the government's charges that Communist North Viet Nam is arming the rebels, who he said totalled about 3,600 men inside Laos. With paratroops and veteran jungle fighters flown in since the border incidents began, the government strength is 3,000 troops, in addition to 1,900 civil guards in the region.

Amkha said royalist troops were employing guerrilla tactics in prowling the jungles so the rebels "don't know where we are and we can ambush their patrols."

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada and India are discussing what possible action might be taken to ease the situation in Laos, authorities said Monday.

The two Commonwealth countries would like to do something to help but Laos is opposed to reestablishment of the Canada-India - Poland truce supervisory commission, disbanded 13 months ago when Laos apparently had achieved stable government.

Death Toll Has Reached 619 In Flood-Stricken Formosa

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — One out of every 40 Formosans was homeless today, victim of the Nationalist Chinese island's greatest disaster in memory.

Weekend floods in the wake of torrential rains drove 246,807 of Formosa's 10,000,000 people from their homes. They took shelter in schools and other public buildings.

The toll of the disaster still was being counted. Police said 619 persons are known to have died, 459 still are missing and 963 are injured. An earlier police announcement of 773 dead was attributed to a telegraphic error.

With large areas of rich farmland under water, the Chinese Nationalist government banned the export of pigs, poultry and vegetables to conserve food supplies and prevent prices skyrocketing.

The governor of Formosa, Gen. Chow Chih-jou, said newspaper damage estimates of $25,000,000 were conservative.

A group of American and Chinese officials flew to the hardest hit regions in south and central Formosa this morning to make a survey. Nationalist officials indicated they will seek American aid.

The weather bureau said 46 inches of rain fell on Mount Ali, in southern Formosa, in 72 hours up to 9 a.m. Monday.

The floods virtually swept away villages.

Witnesses said the 17th-century city of Cranghua, a thriving rail and highway centre midway between Taipei and the southern port of Kaohsiung, was like a dead city.

There was no light or water and not a single restaurant was open. Some 10,000 houses collapsed in the town, leaving more than 100,000 persons homeless.

Police said the storms destroyed or damaged 394 bridges. About 185,000 acres of farmland were flooded.

Mom Whyte and Waifs Case Goes Before Court Tomorrow

Out of the judicial hearing may eventually come the answer as to whether this strong-willed woman will fulfil her desire to remain foster mother to the swarms of children who until recently romped around her Whytehaven farm home.

The hearing before county Judge W. R. Philp is expected to decide whether the 100-odd children taken from Whytehaven Aug. 7 were neglected as the Ontario health and welfare departments contend, and what their future custody shall be.

They now are housed in a number of children's shelters.

Mom Whyte bristles at the suggestion of neglect and replies that Whytehaven gave "my kids" the home, care and affection that they could find nowhere else.

Meanwhile Mrs. Whyte announced Monday night that she had incorporated her home and would seek to have it registered under the Charitable Institutions Act, which would entitle Whytehaven to provincial grants provided it met exacting regulations on administration, supervision and accommodation.

As of Monday she still had not decided whether to attend the court sittings at Hampton, a village a few miles from Whytehaven Farm at Bowmanville.

The final decision will be up to her lawyers, "but I don't know whether I could sit and listen to all those things being said about me and my kids."

"Those things" include complaints by health and welfare authorities that the home operated by Mrs. Whyte and her husband, Bert, was overcrowded, understaffed and lacked the facilities to provide proper care for the big brood, ranging from infants to 15-year-olds.

There are 12 statutory provisions defining neglected children. They include a child who is being kept in "an unfit or improper place," a child "whose life, health or morals may be endangered by the conduct of the person in whose charge he is," a child deprived of proper medical care or one who, on the evidence of a psychiatrist, has been deprived of the affection necessary to his emotional well-being.

The move that finally emptied Whytehaven was touched off by outbreaks of infectious hepatitis and gastro enteritis. It followed about two weeks of repeated warnings to Mrs. Whyte by Welfare Minister Cecile and other officials to send children back to their parents because of the danger of infection.

Dr. W. G. Brown, deputy health minister, said inspectors had been calling at the home daily since the outbreak and found the situation getting worse. A few hours before the decision was taken, he described the Whytehaven situation as "dynamite."

There were 35 babies there at the time, he said. When gastro enteritis struck a hospital nursery, it was "immediately quarantined and emptied."

Asked later what prompted the evening evacuation of the home, he put it simply: "A child might have died."

W. H. Bury, director of child welfare, said his department joined in the move on the report of health officials that because of inadequate medical, sanitation and isolation facilities at Whytehaven, it was dangerous to leave the children there any longer.

Eight of Crew Land Safely After Bail Out

Six of the crew were picked up immediately after landing and the other two, including the pilot, were picked up several hours later. None was badly injured.

The crewless eight - engine plane, set on a course away from populated areas, fell from 14,000 feet and crashed in a remote section of Epping, some 15 miles east of Candia.

Capt. George E. Kusch, 41, issued the abandon - ship order after the speed indicator and altimeter went awry at 30,000 feet and the huge plane began to lose altitude rapidly.

KIDNEY TROUBLE FORCES MASSEY TO CANCEL TOUR

Governor-General Will Not Go North

PORT HOPE (CP)—A kidney infection has forced Governor-General Massey to relinquish plans for a final trip about Canada before stepping out of his job.

The 72-year-old governor-general—he's believed to have travelled Canada more than any representative of the sovereign before him — was scheduled to leave Wednesday for a visit to Vancouver and then a northern tour that would have taken him inside the Arctic Circle for the second time.

But his son and secretary, Lionel Massey, announced Monday night that the governor-general, with great reluctance, had decided to heed his doctors' advice and call off the strenuous trip. It was to have been his final tour before leaving his post to be succeeded Sept. 15 by Maj.-Gen. George P. Vanier.

EXPRESSES REGRETS

The announcement said Mr. Massey is deeply disappointed and asked that his regrets be expressed at the inconvenience caused his hosts and those making arrangements for the visits.

The illness laid Mr. Massey low about a week ago. His temperature rose and his personal physician, Dr. Peter Burton of Ottawa, twice was summoned to his bedside at the Massey family home here.

The governor-general remained in bed and his temperature had subsided Monday. He was expected to be well enough today to spend an hour out of bed.

Illness has seldom interfered with Mr. Massey's duties during his record 7½ years in office. A severe chill and fever forced him to cancel the traditional New Year's Day levee in 1958 and continuing fatigue a month later sent him to the West Indies for a three-week holiday in the sun.

Later in 1958 he developed bursitis and spent many weeks with his right arm in a sling.

Think Arsonists Responsible for Forest Fires

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — RCMP in British Columbia's southern interior are attempting to track down arsonists whom officers believe started 14 forest fires during the weekend.

Eight of the blazes swept through timber in the Castlegar-Slocan-Taghum area, the district in which members of the Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect live.

Police said the fires erupted after explosions.

An aircraft engaged to combat the fires crashed and sank in Kootenay Lake, near Nelson, B.C. late Monlay. Its pilot escaped with minor injuries.

B.C. forest service crews are also fighting the fires.

An RCMP officer at Crescent Valley said evidence showed that bottles filled with gasoline or other explosives were detonated by fuses or electricity.

The "bombs" were controlled by a timing device.

Police said three of the fires broke out near Krestova, a settlement of Radical Freedomite Doukhobors.

Store Owner 'In' on Robbery Plans Convicted Youths May Be Released

TORONTO (CP) — Reformatory sentences given two Toronto youths may be cancelled because the owner of a store they robbed has admitted he was in on the deal.

Attorney-General Kelso Roberts instructed William Bowman, director of public prosecutions, to look into the case after Bernie Schrieber, 26, the store owner, pleaded guilty in Newmarket court to a charge of false pretences.

In July Ronald Stork, 16, was sentenced to Guelph reformatory until he is 18 and Gary Gibson, 19, was sent to Guelph reformatory for six months definite and six months indefinite.

Schrieber was remanded to Aug. 17 for sentence Monday by Magistrate O. S. Hollinbrooke.

"It appears as if they (Stork and Gibson) are not guilty," he said. "Here's Schrieber sitting at home while two men serve a sentence inspired by him. Any man who does such a thing does not deserve much leniency."

Crown Attorney Arleigh Armstrong said the youths could be pardoned by the provincial cabinet or allowed to appeal, but it is likely they would be tried again, possibly on conspiracy charges.

Cecile Bans 'Mom' As Supervisor Children's Home

Will Be Operated By Responsible Board

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario Welfare Minister Cecile said today full control of her Bowmanville home for children will never again be allowed in the hands of Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte.

Mr. Cecile said in an interview today a responsible board would have to be set up to run Whytehaven, where Mrs. Whyte has cared for up to 150 homeless waifs at a time in the past.

"I would refuse completely to have her in full control," he said.

Regarding Mrs. Whyte's application to have her home registered, Mr. Cecile said she would have to make it conform to the law before he would permit it.

"I suppose if she conforms to the law," he said, "we would go along. But her whole history so far has been in a contrary direction."

Mrs. Whyte said in Bowmanville Monday night that her mission has been incorporated and that her application to register it is under the Charitable Institutions Act.

She said she believed Mr. Cecile "will not see our present buildings at Whytehaven go to waste when there is such an evident need." She referred to a statement by the welfare minister that Whytehaven buildings are adequate to care for 35 to 40 children and asked she be allowed to care for that number at once.

Today, she said she plans to gather up her files and records and go to Hampton, Ont., where custody hearings will be held Wednesday concerning the 107 children swept up from her home in a welfare department raid about 10 days ago.

"But I'm not even sure they're going to let me speak," she said.

Aussies Want Our Scientists And Technicians

OTTAWA (CP) — Australia is bidding for Canadian scientific and technical talent for employment at its weapons research establishment.

F. T. Homer, first secretary of the Australian High Commission here, said the ads were placed at this time because of Australian need rather than because of any belief Canadian scientists are particularly available now.

The Australian government's main undertakings currently are concerned with various guided missiles, with the Australian-developed Jinduvik pilotless aircraft, and with various electronics projects such as a system for tracking earth satellites.

Wages being offered are $3,000-$5,000 for scientific officers and $2,451-$4,400 for engineers and experimental officers. Promotion opportunities and fares to Australia are offered.

These wages are comparable with those paid in Canada when Australia's lower cost of living is taken into consideration.

PIONEER CAR MAKER

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Charles E. Stutz, 76, designer of a pioneer sports car that helped put the roar in the roaring 20s, died Monday of cancer. He built and widely raced the famed Stutz Bearcat—more for business than excitement, he said afterward.

Credit Cards Were Good Even for Jail

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—For 10 days, credit cards opened the door to luxury living for Bruce Anderson. Monday, they opened the door to a Miami jail.

The credit cards worked like magic to satisfy Anderson's taste for expensive cars, travel and parties. The trouble was, they were not his.

Police found the 25-year-old Anderson asleep in a rented car. A friendly young man, Anderson praised the institution of the credit card and told freely what it did for him after he found himself broke in Los Angeles July 30 while staying with a man named Floyd Dollar.

To remedy his financial situation, Anderson lifted Dollar's three credit cards and started on a cross-country tour during which he ran up $5,000 in bills.

The cards were for gasoline, air travel and cash on the Bank of America.

"No one ever questioned the cards," he said. "It was like magic."

When he was arrested, he was sleeping off the effects of an 18-hour champagne party in his $100-a-day hotel suite.

Fidel Castro Says Revolt Is Crushed

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro was expected to take to radio and television today to tell the Cuban people of the first major conspiracy to overthrow his revolutionary regime and spell out to them how his forces smashed it.

It was generally agreed that the bearded leader would lump together big land owners affected by his land redistribution law and holdovers from Fulgencio Batista's army as the nucleus of the conspiracy.

Officials said the plot had been crushed. Unofficial reports said some 1,500 persons had been arrested. But a telephone blackout continued over Las Villas province in central Cuba.

Remnants of an armed band that clashed with Castro's army Sunday were said to have taken to the hills in the southern part of the province, where a number of conspirators have been reported arrested.

Missile Bases Up to Canada Says McElroy

OTTAWA (CP)—United States Defence Secretary Neil McElroy said today it is "distinctly possible" that the Canadian government might want to establish intercontinental ballistic missile bases in Canada.

He said at a press conference shortly after his arrival here that this would be a decision of the Canadian government alone. The U.S. government was not proposing American ICBM bases in Canada. The ICBM range was adequate to carry the missile to its target from the U.S.

Mr. McElroy also said more radars will have to be built in Canada to control the operation of interceptors and anti-aircraft missiles.

The U.S. government, however, was not urging that Canada establish more Bomarc missile bases in Canada. This was strictly up to the Canadian government.

Boy Missing At Buckshot Lake Found Unharmed

Michael Lootsma, 15-year-old Bowmanville boy, missing in the Buckshot Lake area 30 miles north of Kaladar since Monday afternoon, was found unharmed in the bush this morning by a search party.

The lad was found about five miles west of Buckshot Lake after being in the bush all night.

Police at Kaladar said that the Lootsma boy with Bill White, 15, also of Bowmanville, had gone into the bush on a hike Monday and somehow had become separated. The White boy made his way back to camp and raised the alarm.

Police raised a 40-man search party which hunted the bush in the area until dark last night without result and searchers were again in the bush early today. The boy was located about nine o'clock.

Better Business Bureau Outlined at Rotary Club

"Man is the only animal, which can be skinned more than once", stated Arthur R. Haskell, guest speaker at the weekly dinner meeting of Rotary International of Belleville, yesterday afternoon. The general manager of the Toronto Better Business Bureau gave local Rotarians an insight into the purposes of the Better Business Bureau across Canada and the United States.

These bureaus are non-profit organizations formed for the purpose of protecting the public and thereby increasing public confidence in business methods generally. They are also dedicated to protecting the businesses which subscribe to and support them from unfair practices on the part of unscrupulous business people. Many pamphlets are available to the public concerning business practices which the bureaus, through careful examination as a result of complaints from citizens, have found to be operating just within the fringe of honesty and respectability. "Report what you know is a racket to the police", advised Mr. Haskell. "What you suspect to be a racket report to the Better Business Bureau".

The success of a racket is in direct proportion to its resemblance to a legitimate business, but it finds its profit in deception and fraud, stated the World War I veteran. The first recorded racket occurred in 3,400 B.C. in supplying of a hair growing preparation to the ancient Egyptians.

Today many of the rackets come into Canada from the United States via Vancouver and the operators work their way east. Giving a few examples such as the pyramid clubs and the selling of coupon books (these are sold for around $2.00 to $4.95 and offer goods or services to the value of about $75.00 from local merchants, the former Montreal resident advised that the most effective way to combat these rackets is to expose their methods and make them common knowledge to the general public.

POPULAR PRACTICE

A popular practice used by shady operators in the "unordered merchandise" operation. A person will receive some goods in the mail accompanied by a letter giving a glowing account of the merchandise and advising him to forward a certain sum by return mail to the sender. The merchandise involved may be socks, ties, Christmas or Easter cards and varies with the season. The recipient of these unwanted goods must either return them or pay for them, either way an expense and imposition upon him. Mr. Haskell advises that the best thing to do is to write a letter to the senders advising them that you do not want the goods and for one of the representatives to come and collect them by a certain time after which the recipient will charge the sender for storage.

The Better Business Bureau in Toronto handles over 11,000 calls a month and has saved its subscribing businesses an estimated $400,000 over the past year. There is no charge for its services to the general public and many informative booklets are available for a few cents worth of stamps to cover mailing costs. These cover such subjects as: oil heating equipment, home insulation, advertising, contracts, 33 ways to save coal, confidence schemes, and food freezer plans.

MAN OF WEEK

The speaker was introduced by Freeman Burrows and was thanked by Bob Lanning. Joe Shortt, former general secretary of the Belleville YMCA, was selected as Rotary's "Man of the Week" and was given a fine introduction to the club members by Newt Thompson. Mr. Shortt, who is 84 years of age, is a regular member of the local Rotary Club and has been very active in church and community affairs. "Joe has probably done more to mould the lives of young people in Belleville than any other man," stated Mr. Thompson.

The former circulation sales manager of the old Toronto Globe and two-time winner of Canada's largest bicycle race, the Dunlop trophy, in 1898 and 1899, expressed his thanks for the honor and commented that he never thought he was doing anything out of the ordinary, but just the best he could at what he did.

Mr. Shortt also commented that he had been visiting honorary club member Harry Ackerman and brought greetings to the members from him.

A brief tribute was paid to club member, the Reverend Ralph Middleton, who passed away so suddenly over the weekend.

Joe Shortt and Ernie Burnham conducted a sing-song. George MacIlhern introduced the guests and Ed Bernstein's birthday was recognized. Club president Fred Wilson was the chairman of the meeting, which was opened by Dr. Jack Marshall giving grace.

Tweed-Sulphide Road Work To Start Soon

Preliminary work preparatory to the commencement of a rebuilding program on the Tweed Sulphide road is expected to start some time this week, it has been reported by Hastings county road engineer Larry Langlois.

Arrangements have been made for the purchase of a considerable section of right of way by road committee chairman Alf Wickett, Reeve of Thurlow township and it is expected the cutting of brush, clearing of the roadbed and fencing will be started this week.

Construction of the new road may extend over a two or three year period owing to the limited heavy equipment available by the county for the work.

The reconstruction program will be financed by the Department of Highways as a development project. Two or three hills will be cicumvented and dangerous curves will be eliminated. The roadbed will be much wider than the existing one.

Napanee Chief Accepts Blame

NAPANEE (CP)—Police Chief Harry Benn said Monday night he accepted full responsibility for irregularities relating to parking meter tickets.

The statement followed investigation of the police department by Inspector K. W. Grice of the Criminal investigation branch after town council charged "laxity and discrepancies."

In his statement chief Benn said "It has been found that irregularities have occurred mostly due to the unsatisfactory system of accounting and inadequate records.

"As chief of police I feel I must accept full responsibility for this situation which has occurred."

The council's police committee said a new accounting system has been installed.

Canada Likely To Be Member Of Commission

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada is likely to be a member of any revived United Nations disarmament commission, informants sry.

One of the offshoots of the stalemated Big Four foreign ministers' conference at Geneva was an apparent agreement by Britain, the United States, France and Russia on the size of a new UN disarmament commission.

It is understood that the number of UN members on the commission will be eight to 10, a figure still considered here as too large for proper negotiation.

But the Canadian government welcomes any opportunity to get disarmament discussions going again in the UN.

DEADLOCK IN 1957

Disarmament negotiations in the UN collapsed two years ago with the deadlock in the five-member commission subcommittee comprising the Big Four and Canada.

The UN General Assembly added 14 members to the 11-member commission after Russia's complaint that the original commission was weighted in favor of the West.

This still didn't please the Soviet Union and last year the commission was enlarged to take in all 82 UN member nations.

This group has never met, however.

The UN disarmament commission is likely to leave the question of a ban on nuclear tests to Britain, the U.S. and Russia while it looks into the broader aspects of disarmament.

Informants here say it appears that the west must accept parity—the same number of UN members from the West and the Communist bloc—if it is to get Russia to the disarmament commission negotiating table.

Engine Using High-Energy Fuel Cancelled

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Air Force has cancelled a $100,000,000 program for an advanced aircraft engine using high-energy chemical fuel.

It appeared to be another step in the switch from manned aircraft to missiles as the chief instrument of modern warfare.

The defence department has been under heavy criticism for continuing development of expensive new manned-aircraft programs instead of concentrating on missiles.

The contract cancelled Monday was for development of the General Electric Company's J93-5 engine. The action also knocks out of operation a new $45,000,000 chemical plant built by the Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation near Buffalo, N.Y., which was to produce the fuel.

FOR SPEEDY PLANES

The J93-5 engine was an improved version of the J93-3. Both engines were scheduled for the B-70 bombers and the F-108 Rapier fighter - interceptor. These planes are designed to fly 2,000 miles an hour at altitudes of 70,000 feet.

An air force spokesman said the prototypes of these planes will not be affected by the cancellation. They will use the earlier J93-3 engine and still attain the planned speeds, he said.

The advanced turbo-prop engine had an afterburner that would use boron fuel to give additional bursts of speed. Boron is a non-metallic chemical element which is a constituent of borax.

An informed official, who refused to be quoted by name, said he believed the B-70 and F-108 never would get beyond the prototype stage and never would go into production.

Defence Secretary Neil H. McElroy said recently that a "good, hard look" would be given to marginal-value development programs.

The plant has been under construction for about two years and was to begin full operation in two months.

Despite the passing of the years.

New Radar Detection Device May Make Others Obsolete

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The new United States intercontinental radar detection device may eventually make all of the huge and expensive radar systems in Canada old-fashioned and perhaps even obsolete.

And it may reduce the importance of Canada's north as a radar detection outpost.

But Dr. William J. Thaler, inventor of the new device, warns against junking existing systems. In fact, the more systems available, the better.

"I've suggested to our technical people we shouldn't put all our radar eggs in one basket," the U.S. navy research scientist said. "I don't think we should put all our trust in any single system."

The enemy might find means of jamming one system, but not another. Multiple systems would provide extra insurance in the event of a nuclear war.

But there i sno doubt Dr. Thaler's invention, announced last week, will revolutionize radar detection plans. Once his device becomes operational—and this may take place in less than two years—the U.S. may be able to do most of its world radar detection work right within its own borders.

The Thaler invention is a form of radar which can "look" over the curve of the earth and detect instantly the launching of any rocket, intercontinental missile or atom bomb almost anywhere in the world.

It is reported to have already successfully monitored some Russian missile and satellite firings and provided valuable information about the general Soviet missile program.

Dr. Thaler says his device can do the detection job far more efficiently than any of the systems in Canada—the Pinetree, the Mid-Canada and the Distant Early Warning (DEW) line in the far-north and at much smaller cost.

By instantaneous detection, project Teepee, as Thaler's invention is known, can double the warning time in North America of any Soviet intercontinental missile attack to about 30 minutes from 15. This still doesn't give much time for evacuation from cities. But could mean that more persons can get out before a missile drops.

Thaler says his invention must still be tested operationally before the technicians can be completely convinced of its merits. But he is confident it will pass all its tests. The construction of only a few stations will be required to put the invention on a full military basis. Thaler says the costs will be small. Compare this with the Canadian systems which cost more than $1,000,000,000.

In southern Canada, the Pinetree cost $450,000,000 with two-thirds paid by the U.S. and one-third by Canada. Along the 55th parallel, Canada put up its own mid-Canada line at a cost of $200,000,000. And in the far north, the DEW line extending from Baffin Island to Alaska, cost the U.S. some $500,000,000.

Outer Space Blasts To Be Controlled

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union formally agreed at the nuclear test ban talks Monday to write into a test suspension treaty a system to control high altitude and outer space blasts.

Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin told the three-power conference his government accepted the findings of a working group of U.S., British and Russian scientists. The scientists recommended a system of artificial satellites to prevent sneak explosions far away from the surface of the earth.

U.S., Britain Welcome Move By Soviet Union

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union has agreed to a system of artificial satellites to detect any sneak high-altitude explosions once an agreement is reached banning nuclear weapon tests.

Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin beat the United States and Britain to the punch Monday by giving Russia's formal acceptance to the plan at the three-power conference negotiating on an agreement to end the tests.

The satellite detectors were recommended by a group of U.S., British and Russian scientists named by the conference. But the Western delegates have not yet received their governments' instructions to enter formal approval on the conference record.

U.S. Ambassador James J. Wadsworth and Sir Michael Wright of Britain said they welcomed the Soviet move and will put the scientists' recommendations into treaty language for consideration by the conference.

The scientists suggested sending five or six satellites thousands of miles up to watch for nuclear explosions in outer space. The satellites presumably would be launched by the three powers.

95 Candidates Seek Seats In Newfoundland

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — A record of 95 candidates set out today to win the voters' support in an Aug. 20 provincial election that Liberal Premier Smallwood hopes will erase the Progressive Conservative party from the 36-seat legislature.

Only one man was unopposed when nominations closed Monday. Capt. Uriah Strickland, who represented Bonavista South in the 1956 provincial election, won Trinity South for the Liberals by acclamation.

Liberals named the most candidates—33. Progressive Conservatives led by Opposition Leader Malcolm Hollett have 32, four short of the full slate they forecast earlier. Candidates from two newly-formed parties swelled the election lists.

The labor - backed Newfoundland Democratic party named 19 candidates. The United Newfoundland party, formed by two renegade Conservative House members, has nine.

There are also two independents in the race, bringing the slate of candidates to 17 greater than in the 1956 provincial election.

The Liberals, Democrats and the UNP claim Newfoundland was "betrayed" when the federal government passed a special grants act giving this province $360,500,000 over a five-year period ending March 31, 1962. They maintain the grants should be carried out indefinitely.

The PCs point out that the preamble of the Newfoundland Grants Act provides for a review of Newfoundland's financial position in 1962.

Service for Glory or Not?

"Most of us here in Ottawa are here because we have devoted our lives to public service and not because of glory or personal gain." So says William Anderson, MP for Waterloo South, pinch-hitting for a columnist in the Thomson daily newspapers.

He may be right. It is to be hoped that he is right. But it is doubtful.

Senator Charles "Chubby" Power, who devoted long years of public service to both Houses, once expressed the wish to write a book on the House of Commons, and for a title he suggested, "Vanity of vanities; all is vanity."

It is probable that Senator Power is closer to the truth.

Their Best Holiday

A family of our acquaintance piled into their station wagon, three children, parents and one stout mother-in-law—and headed north.

Where? They didn't know.

They passed through Pembroke and Algonquin Park, pausing here and there for a day or so, where the setting appeared inviting, to do a little fishing and hiking and sitting around the campfire.

On to North Bay, Haileybury, Cochrane, and there, obliged to abandon the car, left it locked in the station yard and took the twice-a-week train to Moose Factory.

In Moose Factory they found a number of barge-houseboats, vacant and beached, used for workmen during the winter. They hired one, slept in it and explored the district thoroughly.

The father claims it was the best holiday they ever had.

It is truly Canadian.

Almost Unbelievable

Peak demand in 1958 was 5,139,000 kilowatts, compared with 2,438,900 kilowatts in 1948. It is interesting to note that peak capacity in 1958 was 5,761,100 kilowatts, exceeding peak demand, but in 1948 peak demand exceeded peak capacity by 273,100 kilowatts. Shortage of power is a thing of the past, at least temporarily.

While peak demand has more than doubled, the number of customers has risen only approximately 75 per cent, from 1,004,330 to 1,757,405. People are using more electricity.

Nobody will be surprised to learn that this expansion has increased the debenture debt. It has doubled, from 75 million to 150 million. But net revenue has increased three times, from 63 million to 198 million. That looks healthy.

A comparison of assets and liabilities now and a decade ago can be interpreted in two ways. One can say that assets now exceed liabilities by three-fifths of a billion dollars, while in 1948 the excess was only three-tenths of a billion. Or one can say that whereas in 1948 assets were double liabilities they are now only four thirds of liabilities. The facts are, though, that assets have quadrupled, from three fifths of a billion to two and two-fifths of a billion, while liabilities have jumped from three-tenths of a billion to one and four-fifths of a billion.

What's so unbelievable about these figures?

Nothing at all, not when we remember the decade of expansion through which this province has just come.

The unbelievable part is left for the last line in the statistical summary, under the heading "Staff Average." In 1948, 16,400 were employed by Hydro. How many do you suppose are working for the HEPC today? About 33,000 to take care of the doubled capacity and demand. Over 40,000 because Hydro is publicly owned and must be subject to Parkinson's Law? The answer is—only 17,700, just 1,300 more than ten years ago.

That's what is almost unbelievable.

CHEERING WORD

By EDGAR A. GUEST

Somebody spoke a cheering word,
Somebody praised his labor,
And something deep in his soul was stirred;
That night he smiled at his neighbor.
He kissed his wife with a hearty smack,
He rode the children upon his back
And he sang a tuneful ditty.
"Ho, ho," he cried to his patient wife,
"I vow that never in all my life
Have I seen you look so pretty."

And nobody knows how far it went,
And nobody here can say
When the morning came and he bravely went
To his labors for the day,
How much of the courage he showed was due
To the smile and the cheering word or two;
But this we know, anyhow,
That he climbed the ladder to wealth and fame,
And a cheering word may do the same
For somebody else right now.

Do Children Really Change?

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Change is exciting, but repetition is just as wonderful in its own way. The change of seasons would not be so impressive if it were not part of nature's cycle of repetition.

Observing a child grow up is an engrossing experience—partly because the child is a unique individual, but also because the child repeats the same patterns that reawaken our own childhood memories.

Carolyn has sent me a column called "Campus Quips" from her school newspaper. She and another girl write the column, and it is amusing and interesting—but (and I hope her feelings will not be hurt) it is exactly like all the campus columns I remember as a youth.

Nothing has changed in the quarter century since I edited my school newspaper. The same jokes are still making the rounds; the same sly digs at faculty members; the same impish reflections on homework and vacations and study periods and gym classes.

This is not plagiarism, however; it is originality that simply does not know it is following a time-worn formula. Each generation thinks it makes these discoveries, and cannot believe that its parents had the same jokes and the same attitudes.

We can see it beginning even in very small children. How do they learn to adopt the identical tricks for staying awake later at night? What does a child of 2 pick up the technique of calling for water, for milk, for toileting, for another story, for a second glass of water? It's almost as if someone gave each infant a "Handbook for Handling Parents" at birth.

"The more things change, the more they are the same," goes an old French saying. This is surely true in the life - development of children. Today's youth grow up at a faster tempo, and know more things than we did, but their similarities to us are greater than their differences.

Those who despair of the younger generation see only the superficial differences and not the deeper similarities. The basic structure of the personality changes very little — the humor and trust and candor and skepticism, and the whole mixed bag of emotions that make human beings so fascinating and unpredictable and predictable at the same time.

Of course, changes in the culture do affect the personality; but it is easier to see change than to note persistence. There is a heritage in civilization that is hardy and resistant, and the same old jokes in school papers give witness to the encouraging fact that our radical children of today will, as always, become the traditionalities of tomorrow.

Nuclear Bomb Danger Looms

Peterborough Examiner

The gradual spread of nuclear weapons is by no means encouraging for the future. It sets a precedent, so to speak, which the Soviet Union is quite free to follow.

Had we restrained ourselves, at least until the conclusion of the Geneva talks on weapons-testing and disarmament, our bargaining lever would have been much stronger. As it is, we have destroyed our case.

It was within our power to emerge as an international guide and mentor in such things. It required moral courage and faith to do so, it is true. But we have not been endowed with that kind of courage. We have been content to take the easy path, the convenient refuge of jittery men, the revolver in the bedside drawer.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE MIND OF AMERICA

Calm. Watchful. Front forward. Alert. Stalwart. Determined. Fearless. Unbending. Prophetic. Just. Tolerant. Hopeful. Clean. Its aim always: to carry on the American "way of life" and pass it intact to succeeding generations.

The mind of America is the suppliant forge of the world, ever seeking for a better deal. America's constitutional government is designed to serve its people, foundationed on a fundamental belief in God. To back up her "Credo," America has ever been willing to hurl her legions and her life. Hot unto fierceness is her heart, but not unto hate. For America battles for principles, not principalities!

A darkness has now come upon much of the world. Certain countries have been enslaved. Fear and subtle intrigue have hypodermiced the healthy and innocent veins of many peaceful peoples who have sought only a chance.

Freedom must and shall not be killed. America's Constitution calls for: freedom of Speech, of Press, of right to Petition, of right of Assembly; of worshipping the God of one's choice, of being secure in one's person, home, papers and effects; of Right of Trial by Jury ("innocent until proved guilty"). And — among other rights — to look to good Government for protection as well as the right to freedom from arbitrary government regulation and control.

Oh, America — all America. Your freedom code is the mind of all free peoples of the world — the thought of the humblest. But the entire world must come to know the clean air of freedom. Then — only then — can happiness, for all, be sustained. Then, comes Victory!

Test Theory Of Einstein

Christian Science Monitor

Some 36 years ago the first lady astronaut was launched from the pages of Punch. She was a young woman named Bright, whose speed, limerick-lovers will recall, "was far faster than light; she set out one day in a relative way, and returned home the previous night."

With Soviet and American rocketry teams busy perfecting missiles, antimissile missiles, and presumably anti-antimissile missiles, it is somewhat reasuring to hear that the speedy but peaceable Miss Bright is at last being given her serious due.

Two current American plans for putting atomic clocks into orbit to check Einstein's special and general theories of relativity are the kind of basic scientific research we are always pleased to see on the launching-pad agendas of both major rocket powers.

Einstein's revolutionary view of the laws of the physical universe has long since gained general acceptance among natural scientists as well as among the doggerelists of Punch. But astro-physical proof has not been taken in all fields.

The bending effect of gravity on light travelling through space has been accurately observed by telescope.

But only the launching of an extremely accurate clock into high-speed orbit in space will prove or disprove the great physicist's theorems regarding the bending of time by gravity and speed.

The atomic clock is such a clock, being accurate to about one second per millennium. And, while it hasn't the advantage of Miss Bright's tremendous speed to bring it back earlier than it is launched, it should record in a few weeks of orbiting just how right was Mr. Einstein.

Power at White House

By Ross Mark in The London Express

Ike's man, James Campbell Hagerty, gazes at the world through glasses with two-tone frames, and he works with a knobby blachthorn shillelagh by his left hand.

Until recently Americans called him "the greatest press officer in the world". Today, with Mr. Hagerty's power in the White House at its peak, they wonder.

Mr. Hagerty is Ike's man "Friday - and -every-other-day-of-the week". Sharp at 8.15 every morning he takes 37 brisk paces from his glass-topped desk to the airy, oval office of Mr. Eisenhower.

Without knocking, he walks in and sets the tone of the president's day with a brisk briefing on the news of the world he thinks Ike should know about.

Mr. Eisenhower, (Head of State, Head of Government, and C.-in-C. of all American Armed Forces) listens without interruption.

• • •

Mr. Hagerty is a chunky man, five-feet-nine tall, weighing 174 pounds. On a strict diet, he nurses a batch of stomach ulcers which give him ceaseless gyp.

His temper depends very much on those touchy ulcers.

He is a part slick modern American with the town hall Irish politician's love of a parade. He is charming, disarming and readily availble.

About Jim Hagerty's job and function there is general confusion in American and along Embassy Row.

No one quite seems to know his rank. People know only that he is a very powerful man.

Letters come to him at the White house addressed to "The Right Honorable James Hagerty", just as though he were a cabinet minister. He is not, of course. His salary of $18,000 is $4,000 less than a cabinet minister's.

• • •

Neither in America nor anywhere else has there ever been a press officer quite like Ike's man Jim.

Not only does Mr. Hagerty announce policy, he has a big say in making it. No one in Washington has closer contact with Ike.

There is also his inclination to announce only good news from the White House, leaving the failures to come from other departments.

Many people are wondering whether it is time Mr. Hagerty's power was trimmed. But this is unlikely as long as Mr. Eisenhower remains in the White House.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE REAL THING

The Greek philosopher Plato once wrote that the unexamined life is unworthy and ineffective. We Christians would go even further and say that the uncommitted life is unworthy and ineffective. We not only have to examine our lives; after we examine them, we need to direct them toward good ends. We want to commit ourselves to something. Better still, to somebody — and that Somebody is, for the Christian, Jesus Christ.

People often complain about the fact that their religion means little to them. here may be many reasons why they have this feeling, but certainly one very prevalent cause is the fact that Christians are often not committed Christians. They believe a few things. They meet a few church requirements such as payment of dues and more or less regularity in church attendance. But this is far from the committed life. The committed life has spiritual potency in it, for the committed Christian takes his life and puts it in truth into the hands of God.

"Not quite surrendered." This is the diagnosis which experienced Christians often make of the people who are indifferent to religion, who scoff at it, or are hostile toward it.

Religion requires belief. Religion requires faith. But belief and faith together cannot give us a religion which really works. In order to get a religion which really works we have to commit our lives to the object of our worship and to the enterprises which our faith establishes.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

ENLARGED HEART DOESN 'T NECESSARILY MEAN HEART TROUBLE

"Dear Dr. Molnor: I am in my early 50's and have had high blood pressure for about the last 20 years. The doctor tells me I have an enlarged heart due to this, but he says I don' have heart trouble. Woudn't an enlarged heart be called heart trouble? — Mrs. R. H."

Let's translate human bodies into other terms for a moment. Let's think of the heart as a "pump," which is precisely what it is, and the blood vessels as "pipes," which is what they are. These "pipes" have many branches, constantly smaller with each branching. No mechanical system could ever be so complicated.

Now if, for one or for several reasons, it becomes more difficult to push the blood through the "pipes," the heart has to pump harder to get the work done.

As the heart is forced to work harder, it gradually enlarges. In this respect, of course, it is entirely unlike a mechanical pump, which if called upon to do too much simply fails on the job. But the living heart tries to adjust to the load.

The cause of an overload on the heart may not be just one thing. There may be a fault in the valve of the heart, so that blood leaks back through the valve, thus requiring more "pumping strokes" to move the necessary amount of blood.

Or the "pipes," or arteries, may have one or more places where they are too small to carry the necessary volume of blood at normal pressure, so the heart works harder and hence increases the pressure. Yet the heart itself may be without any flaw of its own.

Or — and you didn't tell me whether you happened to be overweight — the body may be unduly large, and require more circulation. You see, as you put on flesh, you have more tissue which requires circulation of blood. Some people who should weigh 120 really weigh 240, and have twice as much tissue to nourish.

NORMAL WEIGHT BEST

But they have to do it with the same heart, and I think that's a fair to middling explanation of why people with high pressure, with circulation troubles, or with heart trouble, should get their weight down to normal.

The answer to your specific question — doesn't an enlarged heart amount to heart trouble — is "no." Not necessarily. It may or it may not. It may be overweight. I may be some flaw or fault in the circulatory system. It may be hardening of the arteries.

An "enlarged heart" means that the heart has been required to work too hard. It may be the result of some defect in the heart, out it may be from some cause other than in the heart.

It is possible, of course ,that a heart can become enlarged and then the cause is corrected but the heart does not return to normal size again. There may be some modest return toward normal size, but I do not think a heart, once enlarged, ever gets back to its original compact size. All the same, if the basic trouble has by that time been corrected, there is no reason to say that any enlarged heart amounts to "heart trouble." It does, however, mean that there has been, at some time, a serious overload on the heart.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My brother, aged 60, has cirrosis on the liver. He enjoys rare steaks. Will the action of a tenderizer be destroyed enough in the few minutes of heat so as not to harm him? — Mrs. M. G."

Yes. The tenderizers depend on enzymes, which loosen the fibers of lean meat. Heat destroys them. But even if the heat didn't destroy them, they wouldn' hurt you because the lining of the stomach isn't lean meat. It's a mucous membrane, and entirely different. The enzymes wil merely be digested and absorbed.

Mrs. A. B.: No, sauerkraut juice will not prevent the need for suitable treatment (proper diet, pills, insulin) for diabetes, and your father is running a needless risk.

Canadian PLACE NAMES

ST. THOMAS, ONT.

This city was earlier known by the names of Sterling, Kettle Creek Village and Kettle Creek. David Mandeville came in 1810 and built a log cabin by the road newly surveyed by Col. Thomas Talbot. The same year another settler, Daniel Rapelje, an enterprising promoter, picked a choice location and divided it into building lots, one of which he deeded to the Church of England. There seems to be some difference of opinion as to the origin of the name "St. Thomas." Some believe it was called after Col. Talbot, who built the first road. Others believe it was named for the first Anglican church established there, which was known as St. Thomas Church.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A pipe smoking friend of mine, as he knocked the ashes out of his pipe in the press club ashtray, pointed out the pile of cigaret butts that heaped the tray nearly full.

"The reason the cigaret industry is so prosperous," he said, "is because one third of the cigaret is thrown away. There used to be a story about mustard. It was said that the great fortunes founded on the manufacture of mustard, fortunes which ultimately resulted in peerages of the realm for the shrewd pickle-packers of England, were so prosperous because half the mustard went down the drain. It is the same with cigarets. The consumer uses only two thirds. The rest goes into the ash can."

He set his pipe to cool on the table. The rest of us went on lipping our cigarets, inhaling into our lungs, blowing the smoke out our noses, coughing, dusting the ashes off our neckties, thipping with our lips at the crumbs of tobacco that stuck to them, stubbing the butts out.

In about ten minutes, the piper picked up his pipe and from a frayed old pouch thumbed into it some moist, dark, fragrant tobacco that was the color of figs. Leaning back, he lit it slowly with a homely match. Through half-closed eyes he gazed kindly at us through the fog he had made. A pipe smoker can create a curious restlessness in cigaret smokers.

Study of Births in Hiroshima 'Shows It Is Safe to Marry Survivors' of H-Bombing

Atom bombs were dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki 14 years ago, in August, 1945. There was instant devastation. The dead were buried and the cities rebuilt, but effects of nuclear bombardment still remain—along with a cloud of anxiety. This article explores the survivors' difficult adjustment and the scientific basis for their continuing concern.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

HIROSHIMA, Japan (AP) — A go-between was arranging pretty Katsuko Tanaka's marriage, and her heart was singing.

Parents of the young man learned Katsuko had lived in Hiroshima that shattering day 14 years ago when a city first died under an atomic bomb.

To them this meant she was tainted by radiation, genetically dangerous, likely to bear malformed children. Katsuko in fact had not been exposed to radiation—but that didn't matter. Katsuko's name is fictitious. The incident is real, one expression of tragic psychological scars and anxieties in the wake of atomic warfare.

Young trees flourish now in Hiroshima and Nagasaki, which was bombed three days afterward. The cities have been rebuilt.

FEAR AND MYSTERY

But there walks the spectre of fear and mystery of radiation and radioactivity, the new element unleashed by A-bombs. Much of this new tragedy appears avoidable.

Fear of "bad seed' leads some parents to oppose marriage of their children with A-bomb survivors, almost threatening a new class of atomic outcasts.

This fear persists despite an American-Japanese study of all 70,000 children born during 1948-54 in both cities. It found no significant difference in numbers of malformations, stillbirths, or defects between the offspring of survivors, and the children of parents not exposed to A-bombs.

Rumor, at least, says some employers hesitate to hire survivors because they may sicken later, obligating the boss to pay expensive benefits.

Officials and doctors tell of persons not wanting to become listed publicly as survivors, for marriage, job or other reasons.

Many survivors complain of chronic fatigue, although physicians cannot detect any physical causes. Some physicians think this a psychological effect; a few wonder if it is due to undetected liver damage.

Dr. Yoshiso Kubo, social psychologist of Hiroshima University, interviewed 500 or more survivors. He found many beset by vague psychological fears, including anxiety that physical examinations when they feel badly might bring the chilling diagnosis that they had been affected by radiation.

CHECK IS TRADITIONAL

Japanese parents traditionally have checked on lineage whether any diseases known or supposed to be hereditary ran in the family their own son or daughter would marry into.

Some now have added fear of inheritable radiation effects to the list. It is difficult to plumb the extent of this.

The genetic study for the first generation now is finished, although new babies are still being checked for sex ratio study, adds Dr. Hiroshi Maki, associate director.

One next step is trying to gauge the long-term or delayed effects which radiation may have brought.

Market's Scare Bringing Forth Bevy of Doubters

Everyone hopes that the Eisenhower-Khrushchev talks can live up to advance billing and lead to a thaw in the cold war. But just how much of a thaw is likely and how it would affect U.S. industry is another matter.

Those who doubt that more than a temporary thaw can be expected have precedents for their views. They can point to the last summit meeting in Geneva where Soviet promises were made — and later broken.

Some believe the most that could happen would be a drop in U.S. defence spending of around $10,000,000,000 a year. That is the amount that it fell in the two years following the end of the Korean War.

Those two years saw the 1953-54 recession. But they also saw the start of the business boom that lasted into 1957.

SPUTNIK SPUR

And with the launching of the first Sputnik came the big buildup in U.S. defence spending that has thrown the federal budget out of kilter and stifled hopes for tax cuts.

Supposing that the Eisenhower-Khrushchev talks do lead to a cold war thaw that looks trustworthy, what would happen to the economy?

If defence spending can be cut by $10,000,000,000 or more, the first to feel it adversely will be the defence industries. The next to feel it may be the American taxpayer—and pleasantly.

Many companies making weapons also are heavily involved in the space age. The urge to conquer outer space may well go on unabated with or without a cold war thaw.

SOME WOULD SUFFER

Communities where armament factories are a mainstay would be hit hard by a $10,000,000,000 drop in defence spending — supposing that to be possible after the summit talks.

But observers point to the big upsurge in the over-all economy in 1955 when defence spending was $10,000,000,000 less than in 1953. Consumers' peace - time needs more than took up the slack.

The biggest hope this time would lie in the chance of a cut in federal spending that would justify a comparable cut in federal taxes and put more money into consumer pockets.

Segregationists Rounding up Support for Rally

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Segregationists rounded up support today for a rally in front of the Arkansas state legislature that will demand action blocking racial integration of two Little Rock high schools.

The rally is planned for Wednesday, the day the schools will open their doors to six Negroes in a token mixing of the races in classrooms.

Mrs. Margaret Jackson, president of the League of Central High Mothers, said she had had dozens of calls from people wanting to know what could be done to stop integration.

"So in response to this," she said, "we are inviting every patriotic citizen to meet us on the state . . . grounds to pay tribute to our great governor and tell him that we need and want his continued leadership in our fight against federal dictatorship."

FAUBUS HAS PLANS

Governor Orval Faubus has remained silent but he has said that he has plans. The governor stopped integration in the high schools last fall by closing them but the law he used then has been struck down by federal court.

The Little Rock school board has assigned three Negroes to Central High School and three to Hall High. It used a court-approved pupil - placement law to keep out some 55 other Negroes who applied to attend the white schools.

But it appeared that only one Negro would attend Central High. Mrs. L. C. Bates, Arkansas president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said one of the three assigned there was attending summer school at Chicago and another apparently has enough credits for graduation.

BOYCOTT IGNORED

No support was evident meanwhile for another last-minute segregationists manoeuvre — a boycott of main-street stores.

Amis Guthridge, lawyer for the segregationist Capital Citizens Council, called fo rthe buyer's strike", charging that main-street merchants were helping Negro leaders to obtain integration.

But spot checks of stores showed plenty of customers and chamber of commerce officials ignored the threat.

Wedding

WHITNEY — HARBRON

FRANKFORD — On Saturday, August 1st, at 2.30 p.m. in Burn's Presbyterian Church, Ashburn Ontario, a double-ring wedding was solemnized by the Rev. B. D. Armstrong, uniting Anna Bernice Harbron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Harbron of Ashburn Ontario and Lawrence Wayne Whitney, formerly of Frankford, son of Mrs. Lorne Whitney of Brighton and the late Lorne Whitney.

The bride, gowned in a long, white classic gown of peau de sole with an overskirt flowing from the waist to form a train trimmed with imported Irish lace and carrying a white Bible, gift of the bridegroom, was given in marriage by her father.

The wedding music was played by Mr. R. Nicolson of Whitney. The soloist, Mr. Omer B. Edgeley of Whitby, sang "The Lord's Prayer", before the ceremony, and "I'll Walk Beside you", during the signing of the register.

The church, decorated with white and yellow gladioli, formed a striking background for the bridesmaids who were gowned alike in short, bouffant dresses of cotillion blue nylon chiffon featuring floating streamers from the neckline at the back. They carried nosegays of white gladioli and yellow shastas with white streamers.

The maid of honor was Miss Susan Thornton of Myrtle and bridesmaid, Miss Glenna Neale of Toronto. The junior bridesmaids were: Miss Helen — Marie Fennell, of Peterboorugh, and Miss Ina-Jean Harbron, sister of the bride.

The two petite flower girls, Lenore Ewing and Gaye Reddom of Brighton were dressed in short gowns of white nylon with blue cummerbunds forming wide bows at the back. They carried nosegays which were miniatures of the bridesmaids.

The best man was Mr. Francis Stickle of Frankford and the ushers were Messrs Gordon Fennell of Peterborough, Bruce Neale of Toronto and Don McMaster, of Trenton.

Following the wedding, the reception was held at Sandalwood in Oshawa. The bride's mother received wearing a cocktail-length gown of beige with tones of beige and brown, with matching hat, and beige accessories completed by a corsage of Talisman roses. The bride's mother was assisted by the bridegroom's mother who wore a cocktail-length gown of beige Chantilly lace over taffeta with organza trim, matching hat, and beige accessories and corsage or red roses.

For the wedding trip to Quebec, the bride chose a beige-knitted cotton suit with a beige pill-box hat and white accessories. Her corsage was red rosebuds. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Whitney will reside in Ajax.

Out-of-town guests were from Hilton; Peterborough, Frankford, Port Weller, East; Fort Erie; Batawa; Trenton; Toronto; Brougham; Highland Creek; Dunbarton; Whitby; Myrtle; Port Perry; Agincourt; Brooklin; Montreal; Burlington; Windsor and Wellington.

Welcome Wool Prints

Supple, lightweight beige woolen with a widely spaced, delicate, floral print in black is the fabric plot for this two-piece daytime dress. Separates have taken on new urban airs this season in darkened tones and sophisticated prints. From Rhoda Lee, noted designer of blouses and co-ordinated skirts, comes this crisp costume in deep-colored cotton with an over-all provincial print.

Canadian Men Handsome but Lack Gallantry

BRISTOL, England (CP)—A 23-year-old Bristol girl, back from a year as an exchange teacher in Kitimat, B.C., says she found Canadian men unusually handsome but lacking in the gallantries of an Englishman.

"No Canadian man would dream of opening a door for a girl or helping her on with her coat," says Barbara Tann. "If he did, the equality - conscious Canadian girls would take it as an insult."

Miss Tann, daughter of Bert Tann, who manages Bristol Rovers soccer club, adds that she'd be happy to open her own doors during another Canadian teaching assignment if she gets the chance.

"As a teacher, I earn three times more than I did in the same job at home. The cost of living is only double what it is in England."

She found Canadians forthrightly honest, an honesty so vigorous that at first she took it for bad manners.

"We don't speak English, we speak Canadian," her junior class told her when she took her first language lesson.

Of British emigrants, she says some of them expect a land of milk and honey where fortunes can be made for no work.

"They don't realize that they must work, and work hard, at jobs more menial than they had in England before they can begin to succeed."

Young Couple Feted With Purse of Money

On the evening of August 5th, neighbors, relatives and friends of the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Richards, (nee Joan Campbell), of Belleville, gathered in Marsh Hill school house for a shower in their honor. Approximately 50 people were in attendance.

Mr. Farley Lindenfield was chairman for the evening and led in a round of community singing with Mrs. Ivan Clare at the piano. The program consisted of a solo by Betty Sine; guitar selections by Charles Mayell and Gary; reading by Gwenda Detlor; and a piano selection by Carol Lindenfield.

Mrs. Bert Finkle read the address and Mrs. Charles Ross presented Joan and Keith with a purse of money, on behalf of the community.

Joan and Keith voiced their thanks, Mr. Fred Heasman was called on for a few words on behalf of the community and Mr. Howard Richards on behalf of Joan and Keith.

Refreshments brought the evening to a close.

Belleville, Kingston So-Eds Holds Picnic

The Outlet Provincial Park was the scene this weekend of a joint picnic between Belleville and Kingston So-Ed Clubs. In spite of the threatening weather both groups arrived in good numbers totalling approximately 45-50 people.

The early part of the afternoon was spent in swimming followed by two challenge softball matches (Belleville losing both) and a buffet luncheon. So-Ed has been active this summer wiht picnics, miniature golf and archery, roller skating.

A group attended the Shakespearean Festival in Stratford and saw "Orpheus in the Underworld" and "As You Like It".

Future plans include more roller skating; a picnic at Crystal Beach; the Canadian National Exhibition; and an Eastern Ontario regional Conference at Aragain Lodge, Harlowe, in September.

Children Read Many Books In Holidays

A summer club of 85 youngsters tear themselves away from sports and games long enough each day to read up to 50 books during the holidays.

Miss C. A. Busby, Brandon public library supervisor, says three of the children have read more books in one month than many adults read in a lifetime.

Wilhelmena de Hoog, 9, read 41 library books in July. Her eight-year-old brother Peter read 26, and Carman LaPointe, 8, finished 28.

The first 10 children to read 50 books during the holidays will receive a free book. Miss Busby says the children in the club have read at least 2,400 books in July —twice as many as during the same month last year.

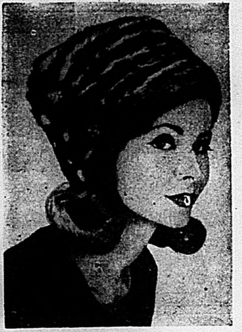
Furs Are Favored



By TRACY ADRIAN

This season furs are favored by millinery designers both at home and abroad. Here is a dramatic example of the trend, by Irene of New York.

Bold black and white civet cat is used for this chechia, which is completely soft in construction and may be draped at any angle that suits the whim of the wearer.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. N. R. — You've got to blow your own horn in this world.

Betty R. — I am 16 and I'm very unhappy at home, mainly because of my mother. She embarrasses me by always showing off.

I happen to be good at art. I like to paint and have had my things in some exhibitions. I won a few honorable mentions, but never a top prize. Whenever one of my things gets sent to an exhibition my mother runs around telling all of her friends, neighbors and relatives about it. Then when I don't win, she shoots her mouth off about the prize must have been fixed and my picture was certainly the best.

My mother makes me look like a first class sap. Soon I won't be able to hold up my head in public.

• • •

Mrs. N. R. — Betty is entirely too backward and shy. I was that way when I was her age and since then I've learned that you have got to blow your own horn in this world or nobody will even notice you.

I know that Betty has talent and that's certainly nothing to be ashamed of. Plenty of youngsters without nearly as much ability get written up in their local papers and go on to do big things in life.

I don't know why that daughter of mine should be ashamed to hold up her head. She won't let me hang her pictures around the house. She wants them in her room only. Why make a secret of it? I'm proud of her. Shouldn't I be?

• • •

The Council At the rate she is going, Mrs. N. R. stands an excellent chance of killing whatever talent Betty has.

This mother has placed entirely too much emphasis on Betty's abilities and we can sympathize with Betty's withdrawal from this unpleasant limelight.

In effect, Mrs. N. R. is really taking all the glory for herself. She has produced Betty and now Betty is turning out to be a superior production. This kind of parental pride is understandable, but it must be held in check if the child is to feel any pride in himself.

Betty will naturally feel pride in her accomplishments if she can feel they are for and by herself. Her impulse to keep her pictures in her own room is a natural one in view of her mother's excessive horn-blowing.

The business about complaining about the results of a competition is particularly unfortunate. It makes Betty appear to be a poor sport among the youngsters of her own age — and these are the people whose approval means most to her at this time. When all these unpleasant associations are added up in Betty's emotional ledger, she will lose her pleasure in drawing and painting.

Mrs. N. R. would do better to seek some public glory entirely for herself and let her daughter develop her own abilities in quiet. The girl's talent is evidently so strong that it requires only moderate amounts of the nourishment of praise.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP

The two most important and useful coins in your manners-purse are "Thank you" and "Please." Spend them lavishly!

LET YOUNG PARTY GUESTS BEGIN A GAME AT ONCE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I've never given a birhday party for my little daughter, but this year I want to give one. I've been wondering if I should plan to have all the children begin a game or other activity very soon after they arrive, or if I should let them get settled first?
— Mother

Make the wise plan to have them all take part in some game. or other group activity, very shortly after they arrive at the party. "Joining in" at once to do what the other birthday pary guests are doing takes away from any possible self-consciousness, makes them feel more at home with one another and with the party-surroundings.

A RIDICULOUS IDEA

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'd like to know if, as I've been told, it is considered a must that one should leave some food on one's plate "for manners' sake"? — S. R.

Not today! In these practical days this is considered a waste. a most ridiculous waste. The sensible idea is this: If you aren't going to eat the food, you shouldn't take it.

WEDDING RING AS ANNIVERSARY GIFT?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I are to celebrate our Fifteenth Wedding Anniversary in about two months, and I would dearly love to give him a wedding ring. I did not give him one when we were married. Would it be permissible for me to give him this ring now? If so, what date should I have engraved inside of it, the date of our marriage fifteen years ago, or the date of our anniversary? — Wife

Have you asked your husband if he would like to wear a wedding ring? You should be straightforward about this, absolutely sure about his wishes. Ask him . . . don't give him a wedding ring as a "surprise"! For some men like to wear a wedding ring, while others don't, in fact don't like to wear a ring of any kind, even a wedding ring. If you give this ring, it is not necessary to have it engraved, but if you do, it would be best, I think, to have the wedding ring engraved with the wedding date.

WHICH PRESENT IS TO BE THANKED FOR?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a bride-to-be plans to exchange a wedding present, either because it is a duplicate or is an article for which she has no use (or enthusiasm!), should she, when she writes the thank-you note, thank for the specific present sent, or explain the exchange and thank for the article for which she exchanged the present? — F. T.

This is a question that often perplexes the bride-to-be. It is more considerate and tactful for her to thank for the present that was sent. Certainly, in the thank-you note, she should not mention any plan to exchange the present!

Gooseberries I Remember

by Mary Moore

My British born father used to refer to gooseberries as "goosegaws" and my mother made for him at least one gooseberry tart pie per summer.

When we were in Honeton where the famous lace is made in England, we had Devonshire cream on individual gooseberry tarts and when I see them on our local fruit market I wish (fleetingly!) for a family of about twelve to cook for and to eat all the lovely things I could dream up.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

TUESDAY (Guests)

Jellied Consomme with Lemon; Crumbed Deep-fried Scallops; Cauliflower with Cheese Sauce; Hot Cheese Rolls (see Monday); Sliced Tomatoes with Chive French Dressing; Plum Cobbler with Ice Cream; Iced Coffee.

So in memory of father I bought some gooseberries. I guess it is fitting to admit that I wept a little tear into the pie.

FRESH GOOSEBERRY PIE

Gooseberries must not be fully ripe for this or juice will not be clear. One quart fresh green gooseberries, 1¼ cups sugar, 1 tablespoon constarch (try the new "spoon-deep" package), ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon butter. Wash berries and top and tail them. Allow to drain well. Mix together the sugar, cornstarch and salt, and sprinkle ¼ of this mixture over bottom of pastry-lined — 9" pie plate. Cover with the prepared gooseberries. Sprinkle over remaining dry mixture being sure it is evenly distributed. Dot with butter. Seal on gashed top crust. Brush top with mixture of 1 tablespoon milk and 1½ tablespoons sugar. Bake at 450 deg. F. for 15 minutes, then reduce heat to 325 deg. for about 20 to 30 minutes longer. Serve with Devonshire cream or Cornish cream or Danish cream—Oh — go ahead serve it with Canadian Cream or Cheddar cheese.

Four cups large ripe gooseberries, 2 medium onions peeled and sliced, 1½ cups seedless raisins, 1 cup brown sugar, 2½ tablespoons salt, ¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper, 1 teaspoon each ground mustard, ginger and turmeric 4 cups white vinegar. Wash and top and tail gooseberries. Mix together all ingredients and place over low heat and bring slowly to boiling. Cook until fruits and vegetables are tender stirring almost constantly. Rub through sieve to remove seeds. (This is not absoluetly necessary to old "goosegaw" lovers.) Return to low heat, bring nearly to boil stirring and pour into sterile ½-pint jars and seal.

GOOSEBERRY FOOL

Wash and top and tail 1 pint green or ripe gooseberries and put on to boil with ¾ cup water and simmer until tender. Force through fine strainer. Stir in ½ cup sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt and 1 tablespoon butter. Beat 2 yolks and stir into this sweetened puree. Beat 2 eggs whites stiffly and slowly add ¼ cup sugar until stiff and shiny. Stir puree over heat until begins to bubble a bit and thick. While very hot pour berry puree over whites, cutting and folding until blended. Cover and chill in refrigerator. Serve in chilled stemmed glasses with topping of whipped cream and a berry or a cherry or nut for decoration.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Don't look now but in case you've missed some or all of these Bobcats-Cobourg semi-finals clashes, they're taking on all the earmarks of down-to-earth thrillers.

Twice now the lakeshoremen have risen from what appeared to be the ashes of defeat, smote back right lustily and sent the Cats home licking their paws in disappointment of defeat.

The other night Chief Tabby Bob Temple, after his ace southpaw Bobby Green muzzled the foemen for eight innings, and Bobby Hull had smashed out a mighty 2-1 lead home run, purred with more or less contenment on the bench. An inning to go and his Cats would tuck the game away and come home with a 3-1 margin in the best-of-seven series.

But he hadn't reckoned with the hitherto dormant sock abilities of the homesters, nor the current yen of Dame Fortune, to cast a smiling countenance their way. In fact both factors entered into the thrilling climax of the game.

It was a typical Chicago White Sox finish. It was stated some 1,500 loyal Cobourg fans sat in the bleachers of the lakeshore open-air stadium. They had been on seat edge all evening as their doughty righthander Roly Campbell fenced on even terms with the Cats' Bobby Green with neither yielding an inch until Bobby Hull sent the ball screaming down the stack of a westbound freighter in Lake Ontario.

But as the irate parent said to an erring offspring when he whacked him on the south end of his lap with a barrel-stave, "Everything must come to an end" — and it did.

And it came suddenly, proving beyond a doubt that you definitely cannot tell by the looks of a frog how far he can jump, nor by the seasonal plate antics of a softball player how hard he can hit.

It was the bottom of the ninth. The first Cobourg batter drew a walk. "Sleepy" Dawe, Cobourg's nonchalant ace flipper, drew a bead on a Bobcat shoot and jetted it into centre field for a clean single. That put runners on first and third.

To the plate strode Chub McIvor, the Cobourg catcher. Chub, who from his build might have been a star halfback for dear old Cobourg High, had shown no Ruthian ability at the plate this season. In fact with two down and Chub at the plate, the Temple purrs in the Bobcat dugout waxed louder, and more confident.

It is not known if McIvor merely closed his eyes, prayed and swung. However, swing he did, and 3,000 tonsils came topside in a roar of exultant triumph. For Chub hit the ball squarely on the well-known button and it sailed over the left-fielder's head for a triple, two runs and the ball game. That, as Ole Diz is often wont to remark "evens the count at two and two."

Tonight at the CNEA Park the Cats and Cobourg clash in the fifth game of the series. We do not know whom the Cats will start, neither does Bob Temple, but we'll hazard it will be Robert Hull, Jr.

This one is the stranglehold battle. The winner grabs a 3-2 lead in the series, and a better chance to cop the gonfalon. The Cobourg strategy might send Campbell to the mound tonight, and keep "Sleepy" for the big one on Friday. Then again, it may not.

Meanwhile, tomorrow night at Ox Point, Phil Loft's crew are hosts to the hard-fighting Trenton Garretts. The up-westers upset the Ox Point chances for a clean sweep the other night with a 10-8 victory and they just might narrow that 3-1 games' margin tonight.

Dougie Hull and Johnny Batchelor, we understand, are sidelined for tonight's tilt after that umpire's hassle the other evening, so Manager Loft will have to bring up the reserves.

However, the Loft-Shawmen are confident they can wrap up the series tonight, then settle back to gird their loins for what should be a thrilling series with the Bobcats-Cobourg winner for the league championship.

These games are scheduled to start at 6.45. To date any games this department has covered have started anywhere from ten to fifteen minutes later than that time. We do not know if the powers-that-be have noticed it but the days are beginning to get shorter. We humbly suggest that the starting times for all future games be set at 6.30 instead of the current 6.45, and started on time. This in fairness to teams, fans and all concerned.

Bisons Blanked By Richmond; Wings Beaten

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

While Jim Bronstad didn't swoop through Yankee Stadium like a comet during his June and July stay he didn't stand idly about either. New York Yankee pitching coach Jim Turner had an interested pupil.

It's paid off for the International League's Richmond Vees who got Bronstad at the end of last month for more seasoning. He has won his three starts, the latest Monday night being a 1-0, one-hitter over league-leading Buffalo, with relief help from Johnny James in the ninth. Columbus defeated Rochester 6-1 in the only other International League action.

Bronstad has pitched 24 innings for the Vees since his return and has allowed only 20 hits, four walks and six runs, four of which were earned. He has struck out 13 batters, Monday night getting four in upping his record to 5-6.

Bobby Deakin scored the only run in the sixth after getting the game's first hit. He singled and loser Chris Short then walked Daron Johnson and hit Jerry Thomas to load the bases. Frank Leja's walk forced home Deakin.

Bobby Morgan's one out single in the eighth was Buffalo's only hit, while Short (12-5) gave only two and struck out seven. Max Surkont pitched the eighth for the Bisons.

Columbus' Al Jackson followed up his two-hit, 1-0 victory last week over Montreal with a four-hitter, retiring the last 18 Rochester batters in order. His record is now 10-3, as he struck out six, and gave the only run on Gene Green's 16th homer.

Columbus scored four runs on four singles and a triple in the fourth to help sink loser Dick Ricketts (3-7).

M. Chamberlain Wolves Coach

SUDBURY (CP) — Murph Chamberlain, a veteran of 12 years in the National Hockey League, has been appointed coach of Sudbury Wolves in the new Eastern Professional Hockey League.

Last year, Chamberlain coached Windsor Bulldogs in the OHA north-south series, and finished the year coaching Cornwall Chevies in the OHA eastern playoffs.

Giants Stretch Margin; Colavito Back On Warpath

Three in Ninth Whips Cards With Mays in Starring Role; Rocky Hits Four, Yanks Win

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Rocky Colavito, the guy who must hit if the Indians are to win the American League pennant, is back on the beam.

In 25 games before Monday night, Colavito managed only 17 hits in 94 times at bat for a .181 average and the Indians skidded from a first-place tie with Chicago to three games in back of the league-leading White Sox.

The Rock came to life Monday. In five times at bat, he hammered a home run, a double and two singles. He drove in two runs and scored twice in the Indians' 6-4 victory over Kansas City.

CLOSER TO LEADER

Colavito's clouting moved him nearer to league leader Harmon Killebrew in the battle for the home run and runs batted in titles. Rocky hit his 33rd four-bagger in the fourth inning off loser Rip Coleman for Cleveland's first run. That put him two behind Killebrew. His two runs batted in boosted his total to 85, one under Killebrew's total.

Cal McLish was credited with the victory, his 14th, although he needed help from Jack Harshman in the eighth.

The Yankees staged a real Merriwell finish to defeat the Red Sox. Held to four hits and no runs through eight innings by Frank Sullivan, and trailing 4-0, they put together a walk, hit batsman and four singles to score four runs in the ninth to tie. Elston Howard, Hector Lopez, Cletis Boyer and pinch hitter Norm Siebern all got singles.

In the 10th, two walks and singles by Yogi Berra, Howard and Lopez, off loser Al Schroll and Nelson Chittum, produced three runs for New York.

Pity poor Willie . . . Mays, that is.

He's having a bad year. He's hitting under .300. His home run output is way below par. Even his fielding has been somewhat less than spectacular.

San Francisco fans can't understand all those raves that emanated from the east where Willie, Mays, that is, was the pride of the Polo Grounds. Last year while Mays was struggling to reach .350 and hit 30 home runs (he finished with .347 and 29 homers), it was a rookie, Orlando Cepeda, who became the darling of Seals Stadium.

This year Mays continued to be just a mirage, an over-rated player. The real thing, the new darling, has been another Willie . . . McCovey, that is. This Willie captured the fancy of the fans by hitting four home runs in his first eight games as a Giant. This new Willie won game after game since his elevation from Phoenix of the Pacific Coast League late last month.

SHOT IN THE ARM

Unquestionably, the new Willie, McCovey, that is, gave the Giants a much-needed shot in the arm with his prodigious hitting. But the old Willie, Mays, that is, hasn't been exactly loafing either during the past week.

Take Monday night, for instance. Shut out by Larry Jackson for eight innings, the Giants rallied for three runs in the ninth to defeat St. Louis Cardinals, 3-2. All Mays did was drive in the first Giant run with a single and score the winning run on a double by still another Willie, Kirkland, that is.

The victory, fifth in the last six games, extended the Giants' first place lead over idle Los Angeles Dodgers to two games. Milwaukee, also idle, fell three games back. No other National League team was scheduled.

Stu Miller was the winning pitcher in relief of Sam Jones, who gave up two runs and four hits in six innings before bowing out for a pinch hitter. The loss was charged to Jackson, who got ineffectual relief from lefthander Dean Stone and righthander Ernie Broglio in the ninth.

Moore, Durelle Ring Futures At Stake in Wednesday Fight

By JOHN YORSTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Archie Moore and Yvon Durelle will be fighting for more than the world light-heavyweight championship when they meet here Wednesday night.

The fistic futures of both men will be at stake.

Durelle, lumbering, awkward, unpolished in the ring, will hardly get a third chance at Moore's crown if he loses. He was within an ace of taking it last Dec. 10, but his inexperience and Archie's savvy were his undoing.

For Moore the fight means more than the championship he has held for almost seven years.

WANTS HEAVY BOUT

He wants a crack at the heavyweight crown. He's had two, but was knocked out by Rocky Marciano and Floyd Patterson. Now he'd like to try Ingemar Johansson.

"I hope to use Durelle to springboard myself back into heavyweight contention," Archie says.

"I want one other thing. I want to get Ray Robinson into the ring. Of course, I'll insist on dictating the terms. After all, it will be my title that's at stake."

But if Durelle takes his title, Moore won't be in much of a position to demand shots at Johansson or Robinson. He'd have to take it back before he could. And at 43 it wouldn't be easy.

DURELLE IMPROVED

Durelle, 29, who's looked more polished in training for his second crack at Moore, wants the championship so badly he can taste it. He's a hungry fighter who's come a long way from back woods brawling.

His trainer Charlie Goldman summed it up:

"Durelle will be in there giving it everything he's got. This fight will determine whether he's going to be a rich man or a poor one."

That probably was one of the reasons for an outburst Monday. Yvon said he wouldn't sign a return bout contract unless it guarantees him more money should he win.

"The return contract calls for each of us to get 30 per cent," he declared. "That's not enough for me. I haven't anything to show for 14 years of boxing. If I should win I want to get at least $100,000 for a title defence."

For this fight, Moore was guaranteed $175,000 or 40 per cent of the gate and television receipts. Durelle gets $15,000 or 20 per cent. Yvon, if he wins, would like to be in a position to set his prices.

Yuke, 'Hag' Alligator Here Friday

Don't think you're seeing things in Memorial Arena come Friday — and rush out to sign the pledge.

For what you see in the ring will be an honest-t-gosh live alligator, a throwback from an original pachyderm, which figured it could make more money fooling around with humans in a ring than gobbling them in a jungle river.

Tuffy Truesdale brings his overgrown lizard to town and will wrestle the animated feminine purses in a special feature of the card. Up to now Tuffy has had to use his head in his bout with the crocodilic cuss. After Friday he may not have one.

In the main bout Hardboiled Haggerty who hates himself so much he smashed three mirrors trying to punch himself in the nose, takes on mighty Yukon Eric. This is a grudge battle and the fur should fly.

Toughie Dick Hutton is back and takes on the popular Honolulu star Sam Steamboat. Sam lost a toughie to Hardboiled last week—but this time twill be different, says he.

'Cookie' Lashes His Senators

For 30 minutes last night, he sternly lectured his players, who have lost 22 of their last 23 games.

Lavagetto will see whether his new approach works when the last-place Senators open a two-game series against the Yankees in New York tonight. They have no game today.

The Post said Lavagetto singled out American League home run leader Harmon Killebrew and rookie Bob Allison for lack of heads-up play during the losing stretch.

Alouettes Drub Sasky Riders With Payoff Ground Attack

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes closed out their three-game exhibition football season Monday night by drubbing Saskatchewan Roughriders 53-19.

Alouettes rolled to four unanswered touchdowns in the first nine minutes then coasted to four more.

A raincoat-and-umbrella crowd of 18,734 watched Montreal confine most of its attack to the ground. Als' only touchdown on a pass play was a seven yarder from Sam Etcheverry to Red O'Quinn.

NEWCOMER GETS TWO

Veteran fullback Bobby Marlow notched two touchdowns for Saskatchewan and Menan (Tex) Schriewer got the other. Montreal native Reg Whitehouse kicked one convert for the Riders while Alouettes' Bill Bewley made good five of his eight attempts.

Montreal's Bill Glosson, an end-defensive halfback from San Antonio, suffered a concussion in the second quarter when he was kneed in the head by Tommy Whitehouse. He was taken to hospital for examination.

FIELD SLIPPERY

Misty showers made the field slippery and the ball tough to handle. Montreal fumbled four times, Saskatchewan five.

Saskatchewan had the edge in passing, gaining 187 yards and 10 first downs on 23 attempts and 14 completions. Montreal picked up 181 yards and five first downs on nine completions and 16 trys.

On the ground, Saskatchewan grabbed 137 yards and 10 first downs. Montreal had 23 first downs.

Bombers, Eskys Expected to Top Western Loop

EDMONTON (CP) — Attention is focused on third place in the Western Interprovincial Football Union, with the opening game of the 1959 season Thursday night in Vancouver.

The top rungs are expected to be occupied by Winnipeg Blue Bombers, 1958 Grey Cup champions, and Edmonton Eskimos, who finished second last season.

There hasn't been too much talk about the Esks upsetting the Bombers, who are stronger this year if anything.

But third place—the last playoff berth—is the subject of plenty of speculation.

British Columbia Lions, who haven't made the playoffs in their five seasons in the WIFU, take their first step and a tough one Thursday against Winnipeg.

Calgary Stampeders and Saskatchewan Roughriders, the other playoff hopefuls, meet Friday in Regina in the second game of the season.

The schedule is in full swing next Monday, with the Esks host to the Lions and the Stamps going to Winnipeg.

Calgary was elbowed out of third place by Saskatchewan last year after a fast start. B.C., losing the first 10 games, finished last.

Fullmer Uses Baseball Bat On Punch Bag

By ALAN CLINE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The old-time fight manager, walking into Billy Newman's downtown gym, heard a tremendous splat of something hitting a heavy bag.

"Holy cow," the manager cried. "Find me a contract. Any tiger who can hit like that is a cinch to take a title."

Sorry, old timer, that noise you heard was a baseball bat—not a fist—hitting the heavy bag.

Middleweight Gene Fullmer, an ex - champ, was on the swinging end. And he's signed.

The Aug. 28 winner will be recognized as champion in all but two states. Neither New York nor Massachusetts are members of the NBA.

Fullmer's manager, Marv Jenson, started the bat routine. He painted a bag with baseballs and told his son Ray, 13 to swing away in their West Jordan, Utah, gym. Marv thought it would help the lad learn to keep his eye on the ball.

Then the manager decided it would be good for his fighter. Jenson claims and Fullmer agrees that whacking the bat into the bag strengthens the shoulder muscles, wrists and hands and improves timing.

Jenson said he had one constructed of sponge rubber after Fullmer damaged the ribs of five sparring partners. "I was the fifth," Jenson added.

Aaron, Kuenn Still Tops In Batting

NEW YORK (AP) — Ernie Banks of Chicago Cubs has wrested the National League home run lead from Milwaukee's Ed Mathews and, on the basis of his previous performances, Banks' most productive slugging of 1959 is still to come.

Banks, a strong finisher, slammed three homers in the last week to boost his season's total to 32. Mathews hit only one out of the park and trails with 31. Banks also is the leader in runs batted in with 102.

The hard-hitting Cubs' shortstop had 18 of his 47 homers in the final two months of 1958 when he won the circuit's most valuable player award. In 1957, Banks walloped 21 in the last two months and wound up with 43.

Banks is also eighth in the batting competition with a .308 average including games of Sunday, Aug. 9. However, his chances of winning the championship are microscopic.

AARON WAY AHEAD

Hank Aaron of Milwaukee, the No. 1 batter, shows no signs of slumping. The Braves' star kept his percentage at .366 last week, neither gaining nor losing any points with an 8-for-21 showing.

Joe Cunningham of St. Louis remained in the runner-up position despite a three points drop to .340. Cunningham had five hits in 17 attempts. Johnny Temple of Cincinnati advanced to third place at .322.

In the American League, Harvey Kuenn of Detroit came off the injured list to open a 16-point lead over Baltimore's Gene Woodling. Kuenn, who was out with a leg injury, moved up three points to .346 while Woodling tailed off 11 points to .330. Kuenn had six safeties in 15 trips last week and Woodling had 3 for 19.

Al Kaline of Detroit climbed from fifth place to third as a result of a three-point pickup to .326. Nellie Fox of Chicago dropped to fourth at .323. Fox lost nine points with six hits in 30 at bats.

Harmon Killebrew of Washington continues to lead in home runs with 35 and RBI with 86.

Veteran Ada Seeks Sixth Golf Title

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Ada Mackenzie, 65-year-old spinster from Toronto who has won 39 major tournaments since she first took the Canadian women's open in 1919, today sets out in search of her sixth open title.

The Torontonian proved to disbelievers Monday she has the shots to compete with the best amateurs by turning in a six-over-par 82 over the suburban St. George's course, a 6,025 - yard bunkerstrewn layout. It was the fifth lowest score in a field of nearly 180.

MARLENE FAVORED

The honors in the dawn-to-dusk 18-hole qualifying round went to 25-year-old Mrs. Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto, favorite to win an unprecedented sixth open when the five-day match play tournament ends Saturday.

The shooting was marked also by a young Montreal girl's hole in one.

Mrs. Streit, who shares the record of five open titles with Miss Mackenzie, shot a one-under-par 75, the only golfer to conquer the course. Her first opponent in the 32-entry match-play competition is Lou Evans of Toronto.

Mary Darling, blonde 18-year-old Quebec junior champion, canned her tee shot on the 135-yard par-three sixth hole with a six iron. She had a 79.

Canada fills 25 of the first-round spots. Ontario is in the lead with 12. Alberta and Quebec each has four, Saskatchewan and British Columbia two each, and Manitoba is represented by Margaret Kiggins.

TWO ENGLISHWOMEN

England's two entries made it with 81s. They are Elizabeth Price, British amateur titleholder and Mrs. Marley Spearman of Sudbury, England.

The United States have five including Mrs. Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio.

Ontario qualifiers included Mrs. Kay Helleur of Woodbridge with and Mrs. S. J. Dalrymple of St. Catharines with identical 83s.

Olmedo claimed he's "satisfied" with his form after winning his first tournament since Wimbledon with a 6-4, 3-6, 6-0, 6-2, victory over Mike Green, Miami, Fla., in Monday's eastern grass court championship finale at South Orange, N.J.

He began practicing today at Forest Hills, where he's due to lead the U.S. Davis Cuppers in the challenge round.

Italy Grabs Single Point From Aussies

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Unpredictable Nicola Pietrangeli salvaged a consolation point for Italy in the Davis Cup inter-zone semi-finals Monday when he defeated Australia's Roy Emerson in the final singles match 6-4, 6-0, 6-4.

Australia had clinched the series with a doubles victory Sunday and had gone ahead 4-0 in the first of Monday's meaningless matches at the Germantown Cricket Club. Rod Laver, 20-year-old Wimbledon runner-up, smashed giant Orlando Sirola of Italy 4-6, 6-4, 6-0, 6-3.

The free - loading season for Canadian professional football clubs is over. Now, the red ink is expected to flow as the country's nine top teams go out in earnest with the $50 Grey Cup trophy their season's - end goal.

Intra-squad pre - season exhibition games between East and West clubs usually pay the training-camp bills. It's the usual dodge of club executives of the Big Four and Western Interprovicial unions.

These games prove nothing to the fans or experts. Their only purpose is to get the clubs off the hook for training expenses and to give the coaches a close look at their off-season signings.

In many cases, an all-American this or that signed in January turns out to be another heavy-padded player in August. Great gobs of publicity handouts are issued as the result of coaches' shopping expeditions in the United States and when chopping time comes around, little is heard of the departing heroes.

30 DRAFT CHOICES

This year, coaches of the nine teams gobbled up 48 National Football League draft choices. A good bet is that 30 will be on their way home before the Big Four season opens Aug. 14 and the Big Four Aug. 18.

Along with these NFL choices are holdovers from previous years and American players passed up by the U.S. clubs. The result is that each Canadian club has nearly 35 Americans trying for places.

Only 12 imports may play in one game, and by the time the regular scredule opens the clubs will keep 15 or 20 to provide for injury replacements and other changes. After each team's third league games it must name 12 Americans, and from then until after their third-last game in the schedule, they can make seven changes for any reason. At that time they must stick with the 12 Americans finally chosen.

Bidding for Americans this season was as intensive as ever. Canada - U.S. football relations are solid, although there were a couple of off-season disputes over players that could have reopened the costly player-raiding war of a few years ago.

TAKEN TO COURT

Chicago Cardinals and Edmonton Eskimos went to court to settle their differences over the signing of Jerry Wilson, an end from Auburn. Wilson signed with the Eskimos after he accepted $1,000 on a promise to sign with the Cards. The Chicago team won the case.

There was a great howl from Hamilton Tiger - Cats when Detroit Lions tried to entice tackle John Barrow, one of the outstanding linemen in the Canadian game. He was offered a two-year, no-cut contract by the Lions but Commissioner Bert Bell of the NFL stepped in and told Detroit to lay off.

These differences made good reading and kept up an interest in football when summer sports were in full swing.

And just to prove that there was no feuding between the Canadian and American leagues, Chicago Cards officially opened Toronto's new Canadian National Exhibition stadium with an exhibition game early last week against Argonauts.

This was the fourth time that American and Canadian clubs have met in this country. Each time the U.S. team won easily.

Eight Rinks In Hunt for Bowling Title

TORONTO (CP) — Only eight rinks remain in the hunt for the Ontario lawn bowling rinks championship today and one of them is defending champion R. H. Edney of Kingston.

Edney and his rink of L. D. Duncan, E. Dennison and W. Duncan pulled a repeat of last year's final in Monday's third round as they edged Neal Salkero of Caledonia, 12-11.

SEEK OTHER CUPS

The losers among the 64 who started out in the opening round are relegated to sub-trophy play.

W. Gilbert's Niagara Falls, Ont. rink, A. G. Walker's Allandale foursome, C. V. Charter's Brampton entry and A. Merrin's Niagara Falls, N.Y. rink also survived the first three rounds undefeated.

Merrin ousted J. E. Rolneau, Cornwall, in the second round, 17-5. Rolneau previously had won an extra - end match from T. James, Toronto.

Lacrosse

TORONTO (CP)—Dates for the two Ontario Lacrosse Association senior semi-final series were announced Monday night by Chuck Rowan, secretary - treasurer of the OLA.

Opening first is series B with Brampton Excelsiors travelling to Welland to meet Switsons on Saturday. Series A between Peterborough Mercuries and Long Branch - Dixie Castrols, opens next Monday in Peterborough.

Series B—at Brampton, Aug. 18; at Welland, Aug. 20; at Brampton, Aug. 22; and if necessary at Welland, Aug. 25; at Brampton, Aug. 27; at Welland, Aug. 29.

On completion of the semi-finals, dates for the finals will be announced.

Riders Cut Four Players

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders of the Big Four announced cuts of four American football players. All were newcomers.

They are Ed Denk, tackle from the University of Cincinnati; Bob Fiveash, a Florida State halfback who broke in with Toronto Argos in 1954 and was with London Lords of the ORFU the last two years; Bob Cravens, half from University of Kentucky; and Jim Hanifan, end, formerly with Argos and originally from the University of California.

Coach Frank Clair said he may have some trades with Western Interprovincial Football Union clubs to announce within the next three or four days.

American League Crowds Note Big Increase

NEW YORK (AP) — Major league baseball attendance, rocketing toward the 14,000,000 mark, has received a big lift from Cleveland Indians, New York Yankees and Chicago White Sox and shows a five per cent increase over last season.

The American League, an Associated Press survey revealed Monday, has pulled 6,599,333 customers through the turnstiles for a gain of 1,174,794 over 1958. The National League shows a decline of 533,372, so the over-all major league pickup is 641,422.

Connie Francis Has More Fun Working Than Having Dates

By BOB THOMAS

The pert, dark-haired 20-year-old from Newark, N.J., is virtually the only female singer who can score with a million-seller these days—her current You're Gonna Miss Me appears headed for her fourth good record.

How does she succeed in this man's—or boy's—world?

"Because I sing cute songs," she explained. "Rock 'n' roll is a masculine kind of music. The beat and the aggressive nature of the lyrics—'come on out, baby, we're going to rock' and so forth—are better suited for a man to sing than a woman.

"The mistake that many girl singers have made is trying to compete with the men. I haven't done that. I've tried for the cute angle in lyrics, things like Lipstick on Your Collar and Stupid Cupid.

CAN'T CLICK

"Another reason why the established singers like Patti Page and Teresa Brewer and Joni James haven't been able to hit in the pop field now is teen-age identification. The teen - agers can't identify with some singer in her 30s or even 20s. They want to hear someone their own age."

At 20, Connie realizes that she is in jeopardy. But she is planning for the future: "I'm going at it album-wise. I'm doing nine albums and only one of them is rock 'n' roll."

Also planning wisely for the future, she said that she isn't touching a cent of her record royalties. They all go into a trust fund.

Connie was here to tape a TV show with Roy Rogers and Dale Evans which will appear next month. She's a petite girl but she admitted there was a time when she wasn't so.

ACCORDION HID HER

"When I was 12, I was four-feet-11 and weighed 135 pounds," she recalled. "I played the accordion then, and it was good to hide behind.

"I appeared on Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scouts show one Christmas and decided I might do better if I sang as well as played. I wasn't very good. I got a week's engagement on his morning show, and he suggested I should develop my singing more."

She shed the accordion and 37 pounds as well, all in two months. Her first hit record was Who's Sorry Now? It died in its first two weeks, then Dick Clark started plugging it — and whammo!

Connie has been so busy that she had only two dates in 1958 and two so far this year.

"Dates bore me," she said. "I have more fun working."

New Television Department To Give Out Facts, Trends

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Many people are found of saying what's wrong with television. Few bother to say what's right with it—often because they don't know the facts about it.

Now there is being formed the Television Information Office, supported by the industry, which will collect co-ordinate and disseminate facts and trends in American TV.

The idea was endorsed at the annual convention of the National Association of Broadcasters last spring. Subcommittees explored the various problems connected with it. As soon as a director has been appointed, the office will begin its work in New York with an annual budget of between $600,000 and $700,000. About half the amount already has been subscribed, $195,000 of it by the three major networks.

HEADS COMMITTEE

A pivotal person in the organization of the new office is C. Wrede Petersmeyer, president of the Corinthian Broadcasting Corporation and head of the committee appointed to study means of improving the industry's relations with the public.

Petersmeyer emphasized in a conversation the other day that the TIO office is not designed to whitewash the industry against the attacks of any and every critic. Rather, it seeks to keep the public informed about the facts of television by means of studies, surveys and co-ordinating existing information.

How does this affect the individual viewer? Let Petersmeyer explain:

A parent probably wonders often about the effects of TV viewing on your children. The office might encourage an objective, thorough study of the subject. There has been such a study in Britain, which showed no harmful effects on the average child. But there has not been such an intensive study in the United States.

Petersmeyer is especially interested in the psychological effects and cultural influences of television. He feels that TV commercials represent a communication between producers and consumers that has become a significant element in the economy.

Underworld Enters Into Fight Probe

NEW YORK (AP) — Former bookie kingpin Frank Erickson agreed Monday to testify before a grand jury looking into the promotion of Ingemar Johansson's recent heavyweight title victory.

District attorney Frank S. Hogan talked with Erickson about an hour and then said the former bookmaker would appear before the grand jury later this week.

Hogan said as far as he is concerned there is no question of any fix in Johansson's upset victory over former heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson.

Hogan indicated his office is interested only in the promotion of the fight and the later squeeze-out of promoter William P. Rosensohn. The district attorney said there were pre-fight meetings between Rosensohn and an unidentified underworld character.

Gilbert Lee Beckley, 47, of Surfside, Fla., described as a professional gambler, also will appear.

He was said by Hogan to have been present during Rosensohn's meeting with the unidentified underworld character.

Medal Presented For Heroism

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP)—Citizens of a town that refused to die despite three major disasters in two years Saturday were awarded the Royal Humane Association's gold medal for heroism.

Nova Scotia's Lieutenant-Governor E. C. Plow presented the medal to Springhill's Mayor Ralph Gilroy, 52, whose fighting words rallied the townspeople through two mine disasters and a major fire.

The medal, the 19th presented by the association in 60 years, was in recognition of the town's heroism in last October's mine disaster that took 75 lives.

forced into lots of things they obviously don't take to as well as these girls take to their gay life."

Miss Diana Michener of Toronto, daughter of House Speaker Roland Michener, said, "For a woman who has got to have a job, a geisha job might be higher up the scale than any others open. The thing I don't like is they are chosen at such an early age.

"An eight-or 10-year-old has no understanding of what she's getting into. From a Western point of view, this is a very sad thing."

The Canadians, led by Toronto travel agent Claire Wallace, leave this week for Hong Kong and a three-week tour of Communist China.

Mrs. Casselman expressed surprise at finding "so much individualism in Japan, much more than I expected," and more than in European countries she has visited.

The MP added that modern Japanese show a sophisticated gaiety and "I can't tell whether it is a surface gaiety that covers up lack of depth or great depth . . . our guide tells us that the people are not serious about religion."

Van Doo Officer To Give Prince French Lessons

LONDON (Reuters — Queen Elizabeth has chosen a French-speaking Canadian Army officer, Lieut. Jean Lajeunesse of Montreal, to give French lessons to Prince Charles during the Royal Family's summer vacation in Scotland, Buckingham Palace announced today.

Lajeunesse, 27, of Montreal, is an officer of Quebec's Royal 22nd Regiment of the Canadian Army.

Lajeunesse, now in London, will travel to Scotland later this week and will stay for several weeks.

"It is a great honor for the regiment and a great personal responsibility and honor for me," he said.

Summer French lessons continue a long tradition for the royal children, though previous tutors have been from France.

The Royal Family instituted "French days" while they were staying at Sandringham in January, 1958, in which for one day of each week the royal children must speak only French and must be spoken to only in French.

Sterling Area Problems Will Be Discussed

LONDON (Reuters) — Authoritative sources said today Commonwealth finance ministers will meet here Sept. 22 for about three days to discuss sterling area problems and Commonwealth financial, economic and trade matters.

Following the meetings, they will attend the annual sessions of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund, starting Sept. 28 in Washington.

The Commonwealth finance ministers met in Montreal last September at the Commonwealth trade and economic conference and in May their experts and senior officials held a full-scale review of world trade and economic problems here.

Countries expected to be represented at the discussions here are Britain and her colonies and Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Ghana, Malaya and the Central African Federation.

Financial observers said topics to be discussed will cover sterling area balance of payments prospects, Commonwealth capital investment, expansion of Commonwealth trade and progress of the Colombo plan for economic development of South and Southeast Asia.

WALKING WHALE

A sperm whale taken by Russians in the Behring Sea had a pair of under-developed paw-like hind legs.

May Be Year When Man Will Fly Like Bird

LONDON (AP) — This may be the year when man at last learns to fly like a bird—powered, that is, by nothing but his own muscles.

The problem had been under attack by no less a body than the British Royal Aeronautical Society since January, 1957. H. B. Irving, a member of the society's manpower flight group, now says:

"I think it is possible that some sort of manpowered craft will be in the air before the end of 1959."

Irving, in his 60s, is a former assistant director of aerial research for the government supply ministry.

He says the manpower flight group hopes to come up with a light plane which will be pushed through the air by a pedal - driven propeller. It probably will be a tandem job for two.

For the sake of lightness, the flying machine may have an inflatable fabric wing, kept rigid only by the pressure of the air pumped into it.

The manpower flight group's medical expert, Dr. D. R. Willkie, figures one man in reasonably good shape can exert half a horsepower for half an hour or more.

Dr. Willkie found that one man can put out the equivalent of two full horsepower for a burst lasting only a second. Two men could produce four horsepower, which should be enough to get the thing off the ground.

If a manpowered takeoff proves to be too wasteful of energy, the plane could be shot off the ground by an arrangement of elastic cords like a giant slingshot, although purists might regard this as cheating.

Will Start Soon To Eliminate Underground Fire

CARBONDALE, Pa., (AP)—A project costing $3,000,000 and expected to take three years to complete will start here soon to eliminate an underground mine fire that threatens to spread under the city's business district.

The fire broke out in 1946 on the west side of this northeastern Pennsylvania community. Since then, in addition to proving fatal in 1952 to an elderly couple who died of carbon monoxide poisoning, the fire's noxious fumes have made hundreds of others ill.

Officials have tried to kill the fire by drilling holes into the earth and pumping silt-bearing water into them. This was proved unsuccessful. The flames have spread underground through a network of abandoned mine tunnels.

Engineers feel that the earth must be ripped apart to get at the mine fire and put it out once and for all. Steam shovels will dig huge trenches in a carefully planned pattern to surround and seal off the fire. Then the burning coal will be taken out, dumped on high ground and sprayed with water.

Rayon, Nylon Tires Reduced By Goodyear

TORONTO (CP)—The cost of rayon and nylon automobile tires will be reduced by up to 15 per cent effective immediately, the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Canada Limited announced today.

Goodyear President L. E. Spencer said the price of all 14-inch sizes of tubeless rayon has been reduced by 15 per cent and 15-inch tubeless and tube type custom super cushion by 10 per cent.

"Substantial price reductions" have also been applied to certain types of nylon tires. He said increased sales volume coupled with economies resulting from capital investments in improved manufacturing and distributing facilities brought about the reductions.

W. B. Flora, vice-president sales for B. F. Goodrich, Kitchener, commenting on the price cut said it was news to his company.

"We will have to study carefully the details of our competitor's announcement. We realize we will have to make a competitive move."

Will Be Given $10,000 Yearly Next Three Years

BOWMANVILLE (CP)—Whytehaven children's mission, put out of business by the Ontario government, will be given $10,000 a year for the next three years by an anonymous Canadian, Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte says.

Mrs. Whyte made the announcement Sunday as hundreds of persons ambled about the buildings of Whytehaven, the subject of a great deal of recent controversy. The government removed the 107 children 10 days ago, claiming sickness and overcrowding.

The open house marked the start of Mom Whyte's campaign to get back into business. Chatting with dozens of visitors, she told of her plans to start a country-wide speaking tour to get more money.

The government has indicated it won't allow Mrs. Whyte to operate her mission again outside of the law. She has applied to register Whytehaven under the provincial Charitable Institutions Act.

A court hearing is to be held Wednesday in Hampton, five miles north of here, to determine custody of the children taken from the home. Mrs. Whyte has not decided whether she'll attend.

TO PAY ON LAND

At present she's concerned with raising $10,000 which she says will be a down payment on 86 acres of land three miles west of her present home.

She said Sunday she intends to build a $500,000 children's home on the new site, putting her faith in God and in her speaking tour to provide the money.

Mrs. Whyte said she opened her home yesterday "so you could see that I'm no witch woman and so you could see how clean this place is."

Ministers Agree More Radar Posts Are Necessary

New Policy Must Be Approved by Cabinet

OTTAWA (CP) — The defence ministers of the United States and Canada are agreed that more radar is needed for continental defence.

Understanding on this point was reached here Tuesday in talks between Defence Secretary Neil McElroy of the U.S. and Defence Minister Pearkes of Canada. But Mr. Pearkes made clear the cabinet must still approve any such policy for Canada.

Mr. McElroy paid a one-day visit to Ottawa to seek Canadian co-operation in constructing more heavy radars in Canada to fill the prairie gap.

Reaction of Mr. Pearkes to the suggestion was favorable.

GAP ON PRAIRIES

The Pinetree radar network, which controls the operations of jet interceptors and anti-aircraft missiles, extends from the east coast to the region of Winnipeg and from Dawson Creek, B.C., westward to the Pacific coast.

It is the gap from Winnipeg to eastern British Columbia that defence planners wish to fill. Plans have been drawn up for seven new heavy radars—two in central Canada and five on the prairies—but Mr. McElroy said more are needed.

Canada's participation in the expanded program would require cabinet approval, Mr. Pearkes said.

Cost of the project was not given but it probably would run to $100,000,000. The United States would pay at least two-thirds—it put up two-thirds of the money for the Pinetree line.

TO COUNTER JAMMING

Mr. McElroy and Mr. Pearkes told reporters more radar is needed to make sure warning facilities are not paralyzed by electronic jamming.

Additional radars would provide alternative facilities for control of interceptors and Bomarc missiles in the event existing radars were jammed.

After the discussions between the two ministers, the Canadian defence department issued this statement:

"Among matters discussed was the question of improving present arrangements and equipment for defence of the North American continent.

"It was confirmed that there is no question of the redeployment of the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile defence and associated equipment from its currently planned location, nor is there any question of the deployment of inter-continental ballistic missiles on Canadian territory."

BOMBERS STILL MENACE

The defence secretary, who returned to Washington Tuesday night, emphasized to reporters that interceptors and not missiles are the first line of defence against manned bombers. The bomber threat would last for an indefinite period.

He suggested it might be possible eventually for Canada to have U.S. nuclear warheads under its own control. Under an nuclear warheads stored in Canas required by U.S. law.

Seven-Year-Old Sits, Knits Wins Prizes

Denis Weiler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Weiler, took up knitting last winter when Sierra snows drove him indoors. (So did two brothers, but they didn't like it.)

Everyone but Dennis' grandmother, Mrs. L. W. Payne, was surprised when the boy carried off a blue ribbon and a third-place white one. Grandmother had entered his handiwork, three sweaters and caps.

Cal Gardner Named Coach Kingston Pros

KINGSTON (CP) — Spokesmen for the Kingston entry in the new Eastern Professional Hockey League announced today Cal Gardner has been appointed coach for the coming season.

A 35-year-old centre and veteran of 12 years in the National Hockey League, Gardner comes to Kingston after playing one year with Providence and another with Springfield of the American Hockey Leauge.

Major William T. Mills, who called meetings 10 days ago which resulted in Kingston raising enough money to guarantee operation in the six-team pro league, said Gardner "was Boston's number one choice to come here and handle the players that will be sent to Kingston."

Following two emergency meetings July 31 more than $8,000 was raised and since then another $5,000 has been subscribed by a new group. A minimum target of $20,000 has been set and the club plans to be incorporated with shares selling at $10.

Four Members Of the Platters Facing Charges

CINCINNATI (AP)—Four male members of the Platters, internationally known rock 'n' roll singing group, were brought into police court Tuesday to answer charges of aiding and abetting prostitution.

The four Negro singers were granted a jury trial Aug. 28. They posted bail of $2,800.

They were arrested in a downtown hotel Monday with four 19-year-old girls—three white and one Negro. The girls were charged with prostitution and they too were granted a jury trial Aug. 28.

The platters' lawyer, Ed Shott, said they had a booking into the Palladium at London "in the near future."

The four are David Lynch Jr., 30, and Tony Williams, 31, both of Hollywood, Calif.; Herbert E. Reed, 31, of Los Angeles, and Irvin Robi, 26, of El Centro, Calif.

Conviction of either aiding or engaging in prostitution calls for a sentence of up to one year and a fine of up to $1,500.

NEGROES ATTEND 2 HIGH SCHOOLS IN LITTLE ROCK

Board Is Called Traitor by Faubus

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Three Negro girls walked into Hall High School today, opening Little Rock public high schools to integration.

There was no demonstration from some 20 spectators, watching from residential lawns across the street.

The girls arrived in a private automobile. They got out of the car in the street in front of the school, and walked calmly together into the building.

Their entrance restored token integration to a public school system which was without high schools last year. Hall and the other three high schools were closed last fall in the racial dispute.

The auto carrying the Negro girls had no police escort. Police Chief Gene Smith had said the Negroes would have to come to school like everyone else.

The car drove away after the girls got out. Identity of its driver was unknown.

GIVE TO GIRLS

Three white boy students were stationed on the porch at Hall High, distributing orientation material. The boys handed copies to the Negro girls, and the girls went on in. They exchanged no words.

The streets around the school were barricaded. Fifty patrolmen were on the scene to keep order.

Hall High, located in an upper-income residential district, was the first of two once-white high schools scheduled to open on an integrated basis today. The other is Central High, due to open this afternoon.

Tech High, a small vocational school, was to open with white students only in attendance. The all-Negro Horace Mann High School opened this morning without incident.

HAS NO COMMENT

Governor Orval E. Faubus, who Tuesday night harshly criticized local officials but warned against mob action, had no comment this morning.

Only one Negro boy was expected to attend Central among the hundres of whites.

Only half-day classes are scheduled this week with a regular full-time schedule to begin Monday.

POLICE DETERMINED

Police Chief Eugene G. Smith would not reveal his plans to keep order but said that he would not "put up with any foolishness." School board officials said they would deal "firmly, fairly and effectively" with any students causing trouble in the schools.

Faubus spoke on television Tuesday night and accused the school board and the police chief of becoming puppets of the federal government.

He called the school board members traitors and told them: "Your troubles are only beginning."

He urged citizens to fight integration through the election of officials who would not betray them.

Even as Faubus spoke, the state president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Mrs. L. O. (Daisy) Bates, reported her house had been fired upon from a speeding car.

THREE MEN DROWN

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—Three fishermen were drowned Tuesday in the Delaware River when their 14-foot motorboat hit a submerged jetty. A fourth member of the party managed to cling to the side of the overturned craft for four hours before he was rescued by two other fishermen.

Council Describes CBC Film Show 'Disgusting, Offensive, Poor Morals'

NORTH BAY (CP)—City council voted Tuesday night to make a formal complaint to the CBC about the broadcasting of a television play last month which it described as "disgusting, offensive and of poor moral standard."

The move was made even after the council learned that a telegram of apology had been received by the private television station CKGN here from the CBC. The wire said that the CBC erred in screening the play The Kidders in the Playhouse UK series.

"It was the most disgusting program I have ever seen", said Alderman Cecil Hewitt. He moved a formal protest be sent to CBC President Alphonse Ouimet.

"Its moral and language were very bad and it was certainly not the type of program to be shown on a Sunday night.

"It was about two young families where the wives and husbands get all mixed up. There was constant talk of infidelity," he said.

General Manager Bruce McLeod of station CKGN said it was inexplicable that such a play was telecast on the national network.

NORAD Cuts Gap Between Warning, Launching Missile

WASHINGTON (AP)—NORAD, the North American Air Defence Command, is being streamlined to shorten the gap between a warning and the launching of interceptors and missiles.

The heart of the reorganization plan is elimination of a system of three separate air defence headquarters. Orders from NORAD headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo., had to go through them to the air divisions that direct the fighter planes and missiles of the air force, army and navy.

The joint chiefs of staff approved the reorganization plan June 23, forwarding it to Gen. Earle Partridge, then NORAD chief who since has retired. Partridge had urged the defence department for months to tighten up the Air Defence Command system and give more control over units of the individual services coming under his command.

The three air defence force headquarters—Eastern at Stewart Air Force Base, N.Y., Central at Richard-Gebaur Air Force Base, Mo., and Western at Hamilton Air Force Base, Calif.—are being abolished.

Instead of air defence warning and operational orders funnelling through the three headquarters and then being relayed to three subordinate air divisions, the latter organizations will work directly with NORAD headquarters.

These divisions are built around the SAGE system. SAGE, which stands for semi-automatic ground environmental, is a combination warning and control system which sends interceptors or missiles toward approaching enemy bombers. The three SAGE division headquarters are at Syracuse, N.Y., Robbins Air Force Base, Ga., and Truax Field, Wis.

The air force says that elimination of the air defence force headquarters "is in consonance with the Air Defence Command's efforts to speed up the processes of receiving, reporting and transmitting air defence information to keep pace with the increasing speeds of enemy-manned bombers and the weapon systems now being used in air defence."

Nixon Convinced Rockefeller To Seek Republican Ticket

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice-President Richard Nixon is convinced that, come what may, Nelson Rockefeller intends to battle him for the 1960 Republican presidential nomination.

The New York state governor has indicated he will make a decision by November. If private polls then show Nixon trailing leading Democrats in popularity, and Rockefeller feels his appeal to independent voters would make him a stronger nominee, he will take the plunge.

Nixon's reaction to all this, it can be said on the best authority, is that anyone can get any kind of result he desires from private polls. He thinks Rockefeller wants to run and that he will find that the polls support such a course.

But Nixon never really believed he could get the nomination without a fight and since Rockefeller's election as governor he has regarded a battle between them as almost inevitable.

For this reason, Rockefeller's recent demonstration of near-eagerness for the contest does not alter plans for Nixon to attend almost exclusively to government duties until November.

If Rockefeller comes out in the open then—or makes an earlier announcement after talks with strategists impatient to get him into national circulation—the Nixon plans could change accordingly.

At this point Nixon has no thought that President Eisenhower might designate him to accompany Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev on the latter's scheduled tour of the U.S.

Nixon appears to be convinced he will do all right in the public opinion canvasses for some time to come as a result of his Russian trip.

Consequently he is planning no obvious campaigning efforts in the next two months or more.

Ottawa Army Wins Team Rifle Shoots

The group won the Aylmer Gard Trophy for top four-man military team in the match fired Tuesday, at Connaught Ranges near Ottawa, scoring 383 points of a possible 400.

It also copped the Barlow Trophy for highest-scoring team at the 600-yard range, shooting 188 of a possible 200.

Members of the winning Ottawa bankers squad were Maj. A. H. Smedmor, Capt. C. M. Brown, WO1 H. E. McDonald, Maj. W. J. (Bill) Strachan. Capt. W. V. Hall replaced WO1 McDonald on the Barlow squad.

In second place for bankers trophy competition was the headquarters blue team of Capt. W. V. Hall, Col. R. B. MacKay, Sgt. G. R. Handly, Capt. J. F. Sampson. RCMP Regina blue team was third with 377, three points below the runner-up.

PLACE IN BARLOW

The headquarters tyro team set a hot pace, scoring 950 points of a possible 1,000 to win the Victoria rifles competition, based on total scores in tyro, Bankers and Macdougall matches.

On the tyro team were Sgt. G. R. Handley, Capt. H. R. Gardner, Cpl. R. R. MacKay and Lt.-Col. R. A. McAlpine.

Another big Ottawa winner was RCMP S. Sgt. C. C. Wilson who shot a blistering 173 of a possible 175 to win the J. Pennington MacPherson aggregate, based on total points in Connaught and Macdougall matches.

BOY DIES IN DRYER

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—The 19-months-old son of an air force captain was fatally burned Tuesday when he climbed into a front-loading automatic clothes dryer which was in operation. William N. Forsytre, son of Capt. and Mrs. William N. Forsythe, was found by his mother after she had reported him missing.

Paper Charges Dope Peddling In Buffalo

BUFFALO (AP) — Charges that dope peddling, gambling and prostitution are flourishing openly here were levelled Tuesday, but the police commissioner said he has received no complaints.

Commissioner Frank N. Felicetta said: "I think we have one of the cleanest cities in the United States."

The Buffalo Evening News reported Tuesday that reliable sources gave a picture of "narcotics traffic, gambling, vice and after-hours tavern operations flourishing openly in Buffalo's downtown section and near east side."

The newspaper said "uniformed men are fraternizing openly with men and women known to be engaging in illegal activities."

20-Year-Old Is Indicted For Murder

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP)—A 20-year-old youth was indicted on a first-degree murder charge Tuesday in the highway death of a 13-year-old bicyclist.

The indictment was based on a rarely-imposed section of the New York penal code that allows the severe charge even though there is no premeditation.

The indicted youth, Jonathan McLain Young, son of a partner in a Wall Street investment firm, is in a hospital for observation and a determination of his sanity.

Westchester county officials said that if Young were convicted by a jury, the judge would have no alternative but to sentence him to death in the electric chair.

District Attorney Joseph F. Gagliardi said Young admitted hitting bicyclist Richard Sullivan, 13, and Michael Dill, 15, with his pick-up truck July 1. Sullivan died but Dill recovered.

Gagliardi said Young admitted driving his truck toward the two bicyclists "just to scare them and not to hurt them, but I misjudged the distance."

The district attorney said Young did not stop after his truck hit the two boys.

STUDYING USE OF LIVE POLIO VIRUS VACCINE

Would Produce Longer Immunity

By JOHN E. BIRD

Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Possible future use in Canada of a live polio virus vaccine is being studied by the federal health department and the Connaught Medical Research Laboratories in Toronto.

Health Minister Monteith told The Canadian Press Tuesday that the new vaccine—taken in the form of a single pill instead of three injections—still is in the test stage in this country.

Until there was positive proof that it would work, there would be no letup in the cross-country campaign to persuade all Canadians, especially those ranging in age from 20 to 40, to be inoculated with proven Salk vaccine.

RESEARCH SUCCEEDING

Mr. Monteith said research in Canada, the United States and elsewhere on a live polio vaccine represents another "major advance" in the struggle against the devastating effects of paralytic poliomyelitis.

Tests in the U.S. indicate one pill of the new vaccine will give protection against all three types of polio virus. The Salk treatment includes three spaced injections.

Some scientists say that if the new vaccine is proved and its use permitted it may replace Salk vaccine.

It is expected to produce longer immunity, possibly for a lifetime. Salk vaccine is effective for only several years.

MORE CASES THIS YEAR

News of the study comes at a time when cases of paralytic polio in Canada continue to climb as compared with 1958.

During the first seven months of this year 137 cases were reported, up from 46 in the corresponding period last years. Deaths in the period totalled 10 as against six last year.

The health department said that about 7,750,000 Canadians now have received one or more doses of Salk vaccine. They include 70 per cent of the population up to four years of age, 90 per cent between five years and 19 to 20 per cent between 20 and 40.

Durelle, Moore Weigh in At Below 175

Moore, of San Diego, Calif., weighed 173¾ in his first meeting with Durelle last Dec. 10. The New Brunswick fisherman was 172 pounds that time.

This was the second time that the 43-year-old Moore had to make the division's 175-pound limit since he knocked out Tony Anthony in the seventh round at Los Angeles, Sept. 20, 1957.

Just before the weigh-in, the Montreal Athletic Commission announced that six-ounce gloves would be used tonight. Both fighters said they were satisfied with the decision.

Eight-ounce gloves were used in the first fight, but both Durelle and Moore requested the lighter gloves for their second match.

Khrushchev Will Be Invited to See Military Installation, Says Ike

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower said today that Premier Khrushchev is being invited to see some military installations during his visit to the United States if he wishes.

The Soviet leader will be given a wide range of choice on the kind of installations open to him, the president told a press conference. But if he does not want to see any establishments, that will be agreeable to Eisenhower too.

Khrushchev told a Moscow press conference last Wednesday that if he were invited to see an American military installation "I would not go." He added he would go to the U.S. as a peaceful man and would not have any rocket sticking out of his pocket.

Discussing the unprecedented Khrushchev visit, Eisenhower said he intends to tell the Soviet leader that U.S. bases abroad are purely defensive and threaten no one.

He also plans to ask why Khrushchev does not permit the progress in improvement of East-West relations which Eisenhower considers necessary for a summit conference.

In response to a series of questions Eisenhower also said his decision to invite Khrushchev here and to go to Russia is not by any means a reversal of the policies of the late secretary of state, John Foster Dulles.

He often talked with Dulles about such visits and as long ago as the last month of 1958 they began to feel that their diplomacy should be reinforced by something new in this respect.

On domestic affairs, Eisenhower said he has no intention of intervening in the steel strike unless it devlops into a national emergency.

Castro's Raiders Continue Search For Conspirators

Small Band at Large In Central Cuba Hills

Maj. Raul Castro, brother of the Cuban premier and commander-in-chief of the armed forces, told an American marine who had been caught accidently in the dragnet that 3,000 suspects had been seized.

Unofficial sources said most probably would be released after police sort them out in a hunt for ringleaders.

The report of the holdout conspirators came from Mario Kuchilan, a Cuban journalist and radio commentator close to Fidel. Kuchilan said a small group was at large in Las Villas province in central Cuba but gave no details.

AGRICULTURAL AREA

There had been unconfirmed reports earlier of government troops skirmishing with anti-Castro forces in this agricultural region, which is deeply concerned with the revolutionary regime's land-reform program.

Kuchilan also charged that the Dominican Republic's dictator, Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo, had contributed $52,000 and a ton of arms toward the conspiracy. Kuchilan urged students and other Cubans to cable the inter-American foreign ministers conference in Santiago, Chile, demanding the expulsion of the Domican Republican from the Organization of American States.

No date yet was set for Castro's television and radio report on the alleged conspiracy. This led to speculation that there still were some remnants to be cleaned up. But a government spokesman said Castro is about ready to take to the air again.

Presidential Minister Luis Buch denied Washington columnist Drew Pearson's report that Castro had been wounded last weekend.

Two more Americans — a woman journalist and a photographer—were picked up by police Tuesday night.

Jean Secon, a part-time employee of United Press International, and Alexander Rorke, a freelance photographer from New York, were taken into custody after they went to the home of Maj. William N. Morgan, an American serving in Castro's forces, to seek interviews.

Sneaky Wave Pinches Purse From Swimmer

The wave snatched up her purse containing a diamond and ruby wrist watch valued at $500, two diamond rings worth $600, a pair of glasses and $15 cash.

Nkrumah First Negro Member Privy Council

The Privy Council is a body of statesmen and other public figures appointed by the Queen to advise her of high constitutional matters.

He flew from Accra, capital of his West African country, Monday at the Queen's invitation to be her guest at Balmoral.

This pending birth caused her to postpone a November visit to Ghana, formerly the British colony of the Gold Coast. It gained independence within the Commonwealth in March, 1957.

There now are some 300 members. Viscount Hailsham, a leading member of the Conservative party, heads the council and has a seat in the cabinet as lord president.

Says Doctors 'Rarely Charge' Telephone Fee

TORONTO (CP) — It is "most unlikely" Canadian doctors will adopt a United States practice of charging $1 for telephone advice, Dr. A.D. Kelly, secretary of the Canadian Medical Association said Tuesday.

He was commenting on an article in the American Medical Association Journal that says charges for telephone advice in Milwaukee, Wis., range between $2 and $5 with the idea of discouraging unnecessary calls.

The Ontario Medical Association fees schedule lists a $1 fee for telephone advice, but an OMA official said it is rarely charged.

Three Negroes Sentenced to Die for Rape

LAGRANGE, Ga. (AP)—Three Negroes charged with raping two white women were convicted Tuesday night and sentenced to die in the Georgia state prison electric chair.

The 12-man jury included one Negro.

George Alford Jr., 18 of Dayton, Ohio, Clifford Johnson, 22, and Branon Epps, 24, both of Lagrange, were charged with raping a 20-year-old married woman. Epps and Alford also were charged with raping an 18-year-old cousin of the older girl.

The women were said to have been taken from their white escorts and later from two Negroes who tried to help them.

Friendliness of Canadian People, Especially in City, Noticeable Says Brazilian

LUIGI PICARDI

For six months a special group of ten students from Brazil, Italy, Spain and Greece has been in Canada to study the methods and procedures of the Canadian Department of Citizenship and Immigration. This program is arranged by the department and the Intergovernmental Committee for European Migration, a specialized organization composed of 28 member countries with its headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland.

The Committee was conceived as an instrument to restore the equilibrium between the over-crowded and the under-manned nations through orderly migrations of those Europeans who could not move without international assistance. ICEM was organized to concern itself not only with the nationals of the countries suffering from over-population but also with refugees for whom migration opportunities might be found.

Mr. Luigi Picardi, a personable young Brazilian, was recently in Belleville assigned to the local Department of Citizenship Office. Previous to his stay in this city he studied the department's activities in Ottawa. Toronto, Malton Airport, Fort Erie, and Quebec City. He left Belleville for further study at Hamilton this past weekend.

Commenting on his impressions of Canada and Canadians in general, the Brazilian visitor thinks that the organization of the various aspects of the Canadian scene and the friendliness of the Canadian people were most noticeable. Belleville, stated Mr. Picardi, is a very friendly city, more so than some of the other centres which he has visited and said that it is "sadly I have to leave Belleville."

His stay in this city, where he has been the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Follwell, 269 George Street, has given him the opportunity to become acquainted with a Canadian family. "This is a real privilege," commented Mr. Picardi, "and I have nothing but the best compliments on Canadian family life. The meaning of a family here is wonderful."

GREATLY IMPRESSED

Canada was chosen for the site of his group's studies, he explained, because it has one of the finest immigration systems anywhere, and added that he was greatly impressed by the capacity of the staff in the immigration department and was extremely thankful to Mr. Herbert C. Parker, Immigration Officer of the local office, whose experiences in Sweden and Finland and his authoritative knowledge of Canadian immigration has made Mr. Picardi's studies in Belleville very successful.

Another facet of Canada which impresses Mr. Picardi is the National Employment Service. There is a similar organization in Brazil, he commented, but there is no such thing as unemployment insurance.

Talking about his home country, he drew a comparison between Brazil and Canada in that both countries are large, expanding their industries and developing their natural resources. Sao Paolo, the industrial centre of Brazil, has a population of about 3,500,000 and has 48,000 industries as compared with Toronto with approximately 1,500,000 people and 6,000 industries.

A dynamic period of expansion is now underway in Brazil. President Kubitschek has initiated a program of expansion into the interior of the country and has created a new capitol city, Brazilia, which is in the geographical centre of Brazil. This is to promote colonization of the interior in what Brazilians call the "March to the West". Currently most of Brazil's 62,000,000 people are concentrated along the coastal plain.

DOUBLE MILEAGE

Highways are playing an important part in this program, commented Mr. Picardi. The Kubitschek government has almost doubled the mileage of highways in Brizil during the past three and one-half years, with the new roads cutting across regions of the interior where man had never been previously.

Many new hydro-electric power stations are in progress of construction to supply new industries and a program to encourage the use and training of skilled workers for new industry is also underway.

Mr. Picardi will soon be returning to his native land but will not forget his experiences in Canada. He likes Canadian customs and the peaceful existence of Canadians and would like to have some of these customs back in Brazil.

"A Canadian must feel very proud to be a Canadian", said Mr. Picardi.

$6.90 Per Second Said Payroll Of McFarland

Operating a big industry carries heavy responsibilities—one being the meeting of the payroll.

At the present time, the McFarland Construction Co. has a payroll of more than half a million dollars a month.

Based on a five-day week, this means $250,000 is paid out every two weeks, or $25,000 a day, $2,500 per hour, $415.00 per minute or $6.90 per second.

More than two thousand persons are on the McFarland payroll and of these nearly sixty per cent are Prince Edwarders.

Junior Farmers Enjoy Tour of Western Ontario

Thirty-five Juniors from Hastings, Northumberland and Durham Counties visited Middlesex and Lambton counties on the weekend of August 9. Leaving early Friday afternoon and returning Sunday evening, a most enjoyable and educational trip was experienced.

On Friday night and the first part of Saturday, Lambton County Juniors were the hosts. During this time there was a tour of the 1,400 acre Imperial Oil refinery at Sarnia. Agriculture in Lambton county was found to be very diversified with land suitable for fruit and vegetable, livestock and poultry and field crops. Here visits were made to a fruit farm and a swine farm. The girls spent some time studying the layout of a new farm home. The operations of Imperial Poultry Processing plant was explained by an able veterinarian. Finally a tour of a large seeds cleaning plant was made before departing for Middlesex county.

Everyone was impressed with the topography of the land in this area—few hills or slopes were seen. Several farms were visited in Middlesex County, Saturday afternoon. An intensive type of agriculture in this area was found; special crops like tobacco and sugar beets are grown. Saturday evening about 250 Juniors attended a dance and wiener roast. Being billeted with Middlesex Juniors for the night the trip came to an end Sunday with an open-air church service and picnic. While this was one of the first intra-provincial Junior Farmer exchange visits, it proved to be most successful.

Open Seasons Are Announced

Pheasants — October 10th to 31st. 3 birds per day, one of which may be a hen.

Ducks — Central Zone (Tweed District), September 19th to December 15th. 6 birds per day, 12 in possession.

Because there has been a setback in the Canvas-back and Redhead population, it has been necessary to place some restriction on the number of these birds that may be taken. The daily bag limit in the aggregate for these species is 4 per day and a possession limit of 8.

The deer season for the southern portion of the Tweed District has not as yet been announced.

Judge Henry Visits Kiwanis To Tell Murder Story

An intriguing tale of a wife-murdering Episcopalian minister, who was born a Jew and started his ecclesiastical career as a Roman Catholic priest, was unfolded Tuesday to members of the local Kiwanis Club by Munro County Judge and former District Attorney Clarence J. "Cas" Henry, of Rochester, N.Y.

Judge Henry, who spends his summers at Presqu'ile made his sixth address to the club in as many years. A master story-teller, he is invited annually by the club to relate one of the numerous gruesome crimes he has encountered during his sleuth-tracking career.

He described this case as "the liveliest murder case . . . and the most bizarre in my career of criminology"

The Judge, who was District Attorney during the 1940's, related that on April 29, 1949, the body of a pretty, blond woman was found in the Genesee River. She had been shot. It was taken to the Rochester, N.Y., morgue where it lay, unidentified, for three days.

Fingerprints sent to the F.B.I. finally identified the body as that of Jean Garris of Sacramento, Cal. Her prints were on record because she had worked in a shipyard during the war, the Judge explained.

When her father had been located and told of his daughter's death, he pointed the finger of accusation at her husband, an Episcopalian minister by the name of George Hetenyi, who was living at the time at Amherst, N.Y., near Buffalo.

The Munro County Sheriff went to Amherst to question Hetenyi. The Sheriff, a clever man with inherent intuitiveness merely asked the 300-pound minister to go Rochester and identify his wife. He did not mention anything about a murder.

Hetenyi "took the bait" and made a grave faux pas. He retorted he would not go to Rochester — that he would stand on his Constitutional Rights."

WENT TO LAWYERS

The Hungarian-born murder suspect had been to several lawyers with a copy of the Rochester newspaper account of the finding of the body, prior to the Sheriff's arrival.

Hetenyi was brought back to Rochester for interrogation. He refused to talk about the murder when questioned by the Sheriff and his officers, so D. A. Henry asked to talk to him alone in the Sheriff's home.

"If I had known what was about to happen later, I wouldn't have," Judge Henry stated.

They talked for awhile but when the murder was brought up, Hetenyi clammed up. Finally in desperation, Henry suggested the minister go and identify his wife's body.

"He agreed to go, but when I went into the next room to telephone arrangements, all hell suddenly broke loose," the Judge related.

The 300-pound Hetenyi went on a rampage, smashing furniture, etc., and broke out of the Sheriff's house, with a little deputy hanging onto his neck. "It took several officers to finally capture and subdue the rampaging minister," the speaker said.

Subsequently from a jig-saw of circumstantial evidence" a case was built against Hetenyi, the Judge said. He was tried three times, however, because of "grave technical complications." The third trial, (each was six weeks long), was held in Syracuse, N.Y. Witnesses were brought from all over the country to testify, among them Hetenyi's mother.

His mother disclosed some interesting facts about Hetenyi's many-denominational ecclesiastical career. Born a Jew in Hungary, the family found it "expedient" to change their religion. They became Roman Catholics, and Hetenyi later was ordained a priest.

ORDERED TO STOP

He and a friend came to the United States, but got into difficulties with immigration officials, resulting in Hetenyi's arrival in Canada for a short stay. He later succeeded in returning to the U. S. where, equipped with a truck and small portable altar, he began celebrating mass at various factories during noon hours. He got into difficulty with his bishop, however, for keeping all the collections.

The bishop ordered him to stop, but Hetenyi gave up the priesthood instead. He had met a girl in California, about this time, and after knowing her only three days, proposed marriage.

The girl, Jean Gerris, and Hetenyi, were married by a bishop of the Greek Orthodox Church, Hetenyi had represented himself as a minister of that church.

Then in succession, he became a minister of the Methodist Congregational, and Episcopalian churches, for short periods. He got into trouble with all his superiors, and was finally dismissed from the Episcopalian church parish in Amherst, for, among other things, beating his wife, the judge related.

At the conclusion of the third and final trial, the jury deliberated two and one-half days before bringing in a verdict of guilty.

Hetenyi, his preaching days over, is currently serving a long penitentiary term, the Judge concluded.

The speaker, an honorary member of the Lakeshore Kiwanis Club, in Rochester, was introduced by L. A. Kells and thanked by J. C. R. Punchard. He was presented with a gift on behalf of the club by president Gerry Wishart.

A new member was welcomed into the club by president Wishart. He is Don Kennedy, assistant superintendent at the Ontario School for the Deaf. A former member of the Cochrane, Ont., Kiwanis Club, Mr. Kennedy was also presented with a one-year perfect attendance pin.

Long distance guest for this week was Mr. Nelson Pinder, of Rouyn, Que., a guest of his son, Ken Pinder.

Tibet Helpless Terror-Tinged Says Newspaper

NEW DELHI (Reuters) A New Delhi newspaper, The Statesman, reported today that a state of "helpless acquiescence tinged with terror" exists throughout Tibet.

The newspaper's correspondent in the Himalayan town of Darjeeling, quoting usually reliable sources, says that "in the present fluent and transitory stage every Tibetan is suspect until he is able to prove otherwise."

Since the abortive March revolt against Chinese Communist rule people in the Tibetan capital of Lhasa are reported to have been divided into groups of 12 to 15 under section leaders believed to be members of the secret security force.

The correspondent said these leaders are expected to report any misdemeanor or "reactionary action" to military headquarters in the Tibetan capital.

Lhasa itself, the correspondent said, is reported to be "overwhelmingly Chinese, with Tibetans comprising only one quarter of its total population."

Bottle-Tossing Proved Costly To Toronto Man

TRENTON — Few cases were heard at Trenton's Magistrate's Court yesterday afternoon, when Magistrate T. Y. Wills, Q.C., was the presiding magistrate.

Gordon Nelson Brown, of Toronto, was charged last Tuesday with causing bodily harm to Carl Arthur, R. R. 2, Trenton, on Saturday afternoon, August 1, when a pop bottle thrown from a car by Brown struck Arthur on the head.

Accused was remanded until today, while his family in Toronto sent the necessary money to pay Arthur's hospital and doctor fees. Brown was sentenced to 15 days in custody, from the 1st of August, and ordered to pay $18.00 costs.

Jerry Angelotas and Peter Maiatos who had been accused of theft, were fined $1.00 and $8.00 costs each. Magistrate Wills said that the act concerned was a technical intent of theft.

Henry Lukie was charged with causing his wife, Mrs. Elma Lukie, bodily harm. This case was dismissed.

Gerald Finkle, R. R. 6, Trenton, was charged with driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, and leaving the scene of an accident. The incident referred to occurred at the weekend, when a car driven by accused ran over a cycle belonging to Byron Walsh, Edward Street, completely wrecking it.

This case was postponed until August 25 to enable accused to obtain personal service on both charges.

Cases concerning Charles B. McCormack and Ellen Gonyea were also enlarged for personal service.

Home Accidents Send 2 Persons To Hospital

TRENTON — Two people, one a young boy, and the other a senior citizen, are in Trenton Memorial Hospital today as the result of accidents in their homes.

Disabled as a result of tripping at his home, R.R. 5, Picton, yesterday is ten-year-old Terrie Eames, who has a fractured right arm. He is under the care of Dr. E. W. Dow.

VEHICLES CRASH

TRENTON — Two trucks and a car were involved in a minor accident at Loblaw's parking lot on Dundas Street, yesterday when a truck owned by Argosy Carriers, Toronto, and driven by Raymond Rockall, 148 St. Paul Street, Belleville, backed up to the unloading doors of the supermarket. However, the Argosy truck backed into a truck owner by E. L. Ruddy Co., Toronto, and drove the Ruddy truck ahead into yet another vehicle, owned by Donald R. Anderson, R.R. 2, Trenton.

While the Argosy truck was undamaged, the Ruddy truck was dented at the rear, and the right rear tail light and splash pan of the third vehicle were damaged. Damage to both vehicles, $40. Constable Sid Vickers investigated.

Not Sufficient Members Present To Form Quorum

TRENTON — Although several members of the Trenton Parks Board met at the Municipal Building last night, while reporters from three newspapers waited expectantly to take notes there were not enough members present to form a quorum.

Present were parks board secretary Marion Baker, Ted Parker, chairman and Bill Ireland. John Saylor, a board member, was unable to be present because of pressure of business. Claude Smith, another member, recently resigned to go to Fort William, and Alton Georgeson is on holiday in Nova Scotia.

So the reporters put away their notebooks and departed, until the next Board meeting.

Beauty, Friendliness of City Main Reasons for Location

"We liked the bay (of Quinte) and the picturesqueness of Belleville" was Mr. T. K. "Ted" Handing's reply to the question as to what was the first thing which impressed him when he came to Belleville in the summer of 1953. At that time the owner of the recently-opened Amplifone of Canada plant was supplying a large number of Canadian television manufacturers with transformers made in his Chicago plant. In order to meet the requirements of his Canadian customers and to provide them with a Canadian-made quality product, he was considering moving into Canada.

Belleville stuck in his mind, not only because his firm supplied the local Stewart-Warner firm with television parts, but because of the beauty of the city and its natural surroundings, and when he finished the trip he was making from Windsor to Montreal looking at possible locations he found that Belleville had other advantages as an industrial location. It was about halfway between Toronto and Montreal, where several of his largest customers were. It had a good labor market. And he found the people extremely friendly and helpful.

Mr. Handing credits Jack Yanover of the Industrial Commission with being of great service to him in making contacts and meeting people. Mr. Art Young of Stewart-Warner also gave him considerable assistance and advice concerning the possibility of locating in this city. Through the auspices of Messrs. Goodwin and Jarrett of the Bank of Montreal, he found the capital he would require to get a Canadian plant initiated in a modest fashion. Mr. Handing believes that it is best to start small and let the business build itself up. The city fathers also offered their assistance in finding a location.

Eventually a plant was in operation on Water Street and then Mr. Handing found out a few more good things about Belleville and her people. The "help is pliable and can be readily trained," commented the Amplifone head, who is now one of the city's biggest boosters.

MAKES SUGGESTIONS

The people are "very gratifying, very dependable, and very regular," stated Mr. Handing, adding, "you know this factory is really a sort of monument to these people. They made it possible.

T. K. HANDING

Commenting on the possibilities of new industries being attracted to Belleville, he commented, "If Belleville citizens will do for others (prospective industries) what they have done for me . . new industries should be coming into this town." Then after a moment's thought, he added, "When people stop looking directly for the almighty buck they will find they can profit indirectly.

Questioned as to what he considered to be important to make Belleville more attractive to prospective industries, Mr. Handing said, "The riverfront should be improved opposite the river drive along the front of the Corbin Lock plant — it unsells more than other points sell—if they raise the water level to allow more freighters to make use of the wonderful protected harbor — progressive thinking — this city could really grow."

There is no doubt that Mr. Handing has fallen to Belleville's charms. His new plant includes an apartment which will be a second home for him, his wife, and his two children. "We really love Belleville," he enthused.

Child's Knee Caught in Tree

Little Margaret Saulnier of 25 Chatham Street, aged five years, likes to climb a tree near the new Board of Education building. Yesterday afternoon she got up in fine style but when it came to getting down she didn't want to jump, as she usually does, because she was in her bare feet. Unfortunately in manoeuvering about for a easy descent she slipped and caught her knee in a crotch of the tree.

A nearby neighbor, Mrs. Jack Bond, of 11 Chatham Street, noticed these proceedings and hurried to Margaret's assistance. Unable to extricate the little girl's leg by herself, Mrs. Bond called the fire department and George Woodhouse and Enis Meritt answered the call.

After some manipulation Margaret's leg was freed and, in childlike manner, after a few minutes contemplation of her adventure carried on playing. The firemen credited Mrs. Bond with having saved the girl from anything more serious than a scraped knee.

Firemen were also called out to answer a chimney fire on South Foster Street. No serious damage occurred.

JAVELIN KILLS SISTER

LOS GATOS, Calif. (AP)—A javelin thrown by a 14-year-old boy practising with hope of making the high school track team bounced off a tree limb Tuesday and killed his eight-year-old sister. The blunt wooden end of the spear struck Maria Englert in the neck beside her collarbone with such force it penetrated her lung, pulmonary artery and her heart. She died 50 minutes later in hospital.

Seal Thinks It's Anything But a Seal

SEATTLE (AP)—What does it take to convince a seal he's a seal? Scuba, a 21-pound baby of two weeks, just won't believe it.

He hates water. He thinks a skin diver is his mother and he won't eat fish.

Scuba, a hair seal either orphaned or abandoned, followed a skin diver ashore from Puget Sound 10 days ago.

A veterinarian said the little creature was about three days old then and mistook the diver for his mama. Scuba finally wound up in the care of skin diver Glen Bristow.

He wouldn't eat until Bristow finally nailed a sponge to the bottom of a dog's dish and saturated it with pulverized caned salmon mixed with goat's milk.

That did it. Scuba buried his face in the sponge and went to town. He gained five pounds in a week.

Bristow decided to try him on the real thing. He took the seal back to Puget Sound Tuesday and released him in a school of fish.

Epidemics May Follow Floods In Formosa

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Medical teams worked around the clock today to prevent epidemics in the wake of Formosa's worst floods of the century. Forty cases of typhoid and dysentery were reported.

With 248,184 homeless on the Nationalist Chinese island, sanitation was a major problem. More than 185,000 acres of land were flooded and nearly 41,000 homes were destroyed or damaged.

Officials said the latest count of the known dead after the disastrous weekend was 645, with 519 persons still missing.

Vacation Artists Enjoy Many Activities at Madoc Art Centre

It's "the top o' the summer season to you" at Madoc Art Centre in the scenic highlands of Hastings, where groups of vacation painters average 10 to 15 fresh Canadian landscapes daily.

A showing at the Centre this week included more than 20 oil paintings of streams, rocks, old shacks and barns, country roads and snake fences chosen from a countless variety of subjects abounding in the area, by Anthony Cooper, art director of a Hamilton lithographic firm; Doris Gillespie, Toronto portraitist and Alex Abugov, vacation sketcher from Cornwall.

Of more than 200 visitors each season, 80 per cent come again; for some it is their fifth visit. Nightly studio discussions of paintings of the day, led informally by resident art instructors, have been attended by enthusiasts on holidays from Arnprior, Cobalt, L'Amable, Peterborough, Belleville, Bancroft, Kingston, Karo, Hillsboro, Thomasburg, Montreal. Whether they convey on canvas the wholesome vigor of Ontario's brilliant summertime or the muted, pensive aspect of cloudy days, all appear to be serious painters out to make each effort artistically better than the last.

"I take as a compliment one visitor's observation that our paintings are predominantly traditional, representational in style," comments Mrs. Mary Schneider, resident director and genial hostess at the summer art centre. "The object of the Centre is to develop artists to the fullest extent of their capacity. When they have acquired the fundamentals and are 'standing on their own feet artistically,' they may wish to do non-objective painting. But to do non-objective painting they must first be able to paint an object," she claims. "Non-objective painting is a very good thing when it is good work. It is a very bad thing when someone who doesn't know anything pretends to know much."

Now in its sixth season, the Madoc Art Centre was founded in June, 1954. On Highway 7, five miles from Madoc, its accommodations combine city conveniences with the good fellowship of outdoor sketching, painting, ceramic crafts, swimming, fishing and barbecues.

Advising artists are Dr. A. Y. Jackson, RCA; John A. Hall, OSA, and Joisey Horne, AOCA. Art instructors this season have been Mr. Hall, Mary Schneider, Charles Wakefield, Don Fraser and Jack Pepper; ceramics, Dr. Roman Schneider.

MR. D. M. COUGHLAN, Stirling, who is a delegate from Lodge No. 66, Belleville, to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen convention being held in St. Paul, Minn.

Driver Should Have Joined The Railroad

The bus went by him. Police said Bryan took a taxi, overtook and boarded the bus and punched driver Walter L. Crowley.

Crowley sought a complaint in district court Tuesday charging Bryan with assault. The issue is scheduled to be decided next week.

Great Scott, Let the Guide Do That

Within 25 miles of Belleville are some 20 creeks, stocked by the Ontario Government with brown, brook and rainbow trout, open to anyone who wants to fish for them.

Such fishing for everyone is not to be had in Quebec, where trout fishing is almost altogether restricted to private clubs. There are more than 900 clubs in the province. Each has its own lakes, which are leased to them by the Government.

Thus a club has exclusive rights to one or two trout-stocked lakes, perhaps six or eight, or even 20 lakes, a clubhouse and quite often one or two outlying cabins, a day or two canoe trip distant, all nestled in the woods, some within easy driving distance, others a few hours by plane from Montreal or Ottawa.

Most of the clubs are American. About three-quarters of the club membership is American. Club fees vary from about $100 to $150 a year, and with travel and various other expenses, most members probably spend an average of $450 a year for two weekly or fortnightly visits, spring and fall.

Some clubs are comprised of members who never remove the fish from a hook, let alone clean or cook it. (Great Scott, man, let the guide do that!)

Some use $100 rods with automatic reels and could be outfished in ten minutes by a farmer's boy with a bamboo pole. A number of clubs are so exclusive that a member is not allowed more than one guest a year; no talk about business or women is permitted.

Others stay up and drink and talk about anything or play poker half the night—or all of it. They don't care much about fishing. They want to get away from the hectic madness of city life, telephones, alarm clocks. They crave the tranquility of lake and forest.

Some don't care what tackle they use as long as they catch big trout and have their pictures taken to show the family "what a wonderfful fisherman Daddy is!"

On the other hand is the real sportsman who prefers pitting his wits and skill against those of the fish, exploring a difficult reach of stream, casting to awkward, almost inaccessable pools. He uses light tackle, plenty of gut and a dry fly. As a rule he prefers a stream. It is difficult but more satisfying.

He crouches, concealed, casting no shadow, for perhaps half an hour, simply watching where a trout fly rises for a natural fly. He sees a gentle ripple upstream in a pool. He casts a long line, making the fly touch just above the pool. From a slack line the fly floats down with the current. The old brown trout that has grown big defying all others, is fooled. It rises for the last time.

But without belonging to a club or being a guest, almost the only way to catch trout in Quebec is by using outfitters as guides. Of these there are many and they charge from $15 to $20 a day.

Whereas here in Ontario, Mr. Whitman or anyone can drive a few miles from town and catch 10 pounds or five trout a day in government-stocked creeks and lakes.

Unduly Alarmed

Seven conservation authorities, including that for the Moira watershed, are worried because the provincial government now regards as loans, grants of money which the conservation authorities thought were outright gifts. The money was used to purchase land for reforestation projects.

Mr. Bruce Smith of Belleville, chairman of the Moira Authority, says that the Authority's agreement is for 50 years, "but we don't want to leave a mess for someone else to clean up."

Mr. Smith's conscientious approach to this matter does him great credit, but we still cannot avoid the feeling that he is unduly alarmed. Fifty years is a long time and in that time many changes will occur. Even the Frost Government may not last that long.

LIFE'S BEFORE AND AFTER

By EDGAR A. GUEST

The hill looked big a mile ahead;
I thought I'd never reach the top.
A dozen times or more I said
Unto myself: "You'd better stop;
You'll never, never make the grade,
It's more than you can do, you'll find!"
But when at last the climb I made,
The hill looked small a mile behind.

The road seemed long when I set out;
I thought I'd never reach the end.
And I confess it was with doubt
I looked upon each turn and bend.
But looking back when I had passed
From end to end with steady gait,
What had appeared at first so vast
A distance didn't seem so great.

My troubles looming up before
Seemed insurmountable to me,
And no way out, on sea or shore,
Of hopeless ruin could I see.
But still I kept upon my way
And one by one I waded through them.
And looking back on them today,
It seems that there was nothing to them.

Strictly Personal

Good Workmen Never Crude

By SYDNEY J. HARIS

The most obvious truths in the world are often the hardest to grasp. The simplest facts of human relations are often the most difficult to make some people see.

Such as the question: the more respect you give, the more respect you get back. Since everybody wants respect from others — indeed, the struggle for money and prestige is simply a means of trying to attain respect — why don't more persons try this easy, proven method?

I have had lots of men working around the house since I bought it early this summer. Two or three of them have been Old World characters, who did their jobs not only with competence, but also with dignity and courtesy.

Two others have been the brash and sloppy workmen we have become so used to these days. They roll into the house as if doing the homeowner a favor, are dirty in their habits, crude in their department, and even seem contemptuous of their own skills.

When they are treated in the manner they seem to invite — for everyone is treated in the manner he seems o invite—they build up a further supply of resentment, and the vicious circle begins anew.

TREATED WITH RESPECT

The other workmen — and I am sorry to admit that they are most of native birth, but bring with them a sense of craftsmanship from Europe — are treated with the respect they earn and deserve. They carry an aura of dignity that gives them stature as human beings.

They are courteous and deferential, not because they are weak, but because they are strong and can afford the emotional luxury of politeness. When a man has genuine respect for his own person and his powers, he then has enough respect to spare for others.

Crossness is always a sign of weakness; the blusterer is full of fear; the sullen workman who is afraid of being imposed upon is secretly convinced of his own inferiority — when he has to say, or think, "I'm as good as any man," he doesn't quite believe it himself.

The good workmen never doubt their status, either as human beings or as craftsmen. They think well of themselves, and therefore are thought well of by the people they work for.

It is a curious psychological fact that the man who seems to be "egotistic" is not suffering from too much ego, but from too little. When the ego is strong and well-developed, there is no nagging need to impress others — by money, by rudeness, or by any other show of false strength.

New Yorkers Like Vanier

New York Times

In the way they govern themselves Canadians draw upon British, not French, precedent, even though they will now have a Governor-General from French Canada. The one thing one must never do with British government is to take it literally.

Britain has a sovereign who does not rule even though, with good reason, they cherish her very much. Queen Elizabeth II, at the end of her six-week tour of Canada last weekend, named a new Governor-General whose powers, if anyone takes the trouble to read the Constitution of 1867 and the British North American Act, are going to make him nothing less than the dictator of Canada for the next seven years.

Of course, nothing of the sort has happened or will happen. It was not the Queen who chose Maj. Gen. George Phileas Vanier as Governor-General; it was Prime Minister Diefenbaker. The Governor's functions will be purely ceremonial, and in that sense, like those of the sovereign he represents, they will be arduous. The political powers will rest with Parliament and its responsible Cabinet. The chief political figure will be the Prime Minister, not the Governor-General.

Yet in Canada, as in Great Britain, one must not be fooled into believing that the figure at the top is a piece of fiction and means nothing. The Governor General is that touch of pageanty which makes Canadians and Britons kin. He has been called "the symbol of a symbol", but nations need their myths and Canada, more than most, needs whatever contributes to the unity of her British and French components.

General Vanier will be the first Roman Catholic, French-Canadian Governor-General. He succeeds a Canadian of English descent, Vincent Massey, who was the first of his nation to fill the post—which he, incidentally, did with great skill and dignity. Both these men are not only nonpartisan; they are nonpolitical. This is important because the main fear of those who criticize the appointment of two Canadians in a row is that the post will, in time, become a political plum.

With General Vanier there need be no fears. He is a Canadian of great distinction in many fields and one who can only command the respect of his fellow-citizens and the good wishes of all of us.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

NATURE BLENDS ITSELF

I look out into a small forest. There are some two dozen varieties of leaves, evergreens, birch, maple, chestnut, and great towering hemlocks. The Sun's rays touch all about these glorious trees, but there is no confusion. It's a picture of beauty with all blending to a perfect design. Nature blends itself, out of its rich substance.

Being a friend to nature is to get a seat next to God who created all this beauty and miracle of the wild. There are great hemlocks that reach high to get close to the blue sky, and to join in the whispers of the winds. Clouds seem to wave a goodwill toward these towering creations. They calm one's spirit, and give rest to troubled minds and hearts. There is no ugliness to things in nature. All is beautiful to the lover of these blended colors with shadows communing with one another.

Birds fly about these children of the earth and sing their songs at break of dawn, often far into the night. Peace and goodwill hover about the thick masses of trees that will long outrun our own brief journey upon this earth. And all over the world are to be noted the sweet, untroubled songs of birds, friends of ours. They know nothing about this world's worries. They sing out their joy and fly high to get out of harm's pathway. They know this earth far better than we do.

Wars, and rumors of wars are tested by these feathered friends of ours, and still they sing out their happiness, not knowing the brutality of man. When it is darkest they sing their sweetest! Let us get beauty and comfort from their understanding ways of life!

Letter To The Editor

Lauds County Home Management

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

After a short visit with my sister in the Hastings Home, I am impelled to write this letter.

In life it seems that usually only the complaints are recorded and the good things remain unrecorded and unsung.

In so many institutions around our country there seems to be the visiting day and things are polished up for visitors.

Due to the distance I live from Belleville my visits to the Home, the day and the time of arrival necessarily are uncertain.

The cheery atmosphere, the cleanliness and hominess at all hours surely is a proof of the excellent management of the place. a proof of the excellant management of the place.

I feel that the Hasting Home and the City of Belleville are most fortunate in having such people as Mr. and Mrs. Yorke and their staff in charge.

We have found that mixed with the careful serious thought to the administration of such a place is the very necessary kindness and understanding required.

I certainly hope that this note of commendation may give to those unacquainted with the Home, a sense of real pride that the aged of Belleville are cared for with such real dignity and thoughtfulness.

My very sincere thanks goes to all concerned.

High-Powered Boats Curbed

Ottawa Journal

The rising public tide of indignation against reckless boating finally gives some hope of bringing order and sanity to the waterways.

The example of the Grand Lake Home Owners' Protective Association should be followed by more responsible persons who do not want our lakes and rivers ruined for all other activities except spinning high-powdered boats around in unpredictable directions. Collective action against marine hot-rodders is the only effective way of enforcing some sanity.

The assumption seems to have grown that a high-powdered craft has priority on the waters. A rowboat, canoe or sailboat have in law not only as much right to enjoy an unchallenged path, but are given right of way. The fast motorboats often make other modes of travel not only unpleasant, but highly dangerous.

The admirable new boating regulations are only a start. They need to be implemented by watchful enforcement by citizens who must take over a considerable part of the policing job.

Canadian PLACE NAMES

BRANTFORD, ONT.

Named to honor Capt. Joseph Brant, local soldier of the British Crown; flower of the Six nations Indians; a Mohawk; War Chief of the Confederacy whose Indian name was "Thayendanagea." He forded the Grand River in 1784 to establish Mohawk Village and in so doing he gave Brantford its name. A wise and courageous soldier, he rendered yeoman service to Great Britain. Brantford's more recent claim to fame is that it was he place where Alexander Graham Bell invented the telephone.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

CROSS THE LINE

Do you drive or do you draw? Do you try to compel people to obey or do you persuade them to follow you?

Personnel directors and public relations officials are constantly dinning into our ears the value of drawing as over against driving. The outstanding weakness of Communism is that it relies entirely upon driving. It has an ideology and it is going to beat into people's heads the principle which a small minority espouse. Christianity, on the other hand, is definitely committed to the program of persuasion. It tells us that God loves man, that He is on man's side, that He wants to draw man into a continuing personal relationship with Him. It warns us to stay away from methods which utilize the big stick, the mailed fist, the loaded bludgeon. It tells us not only to love our fellow men but to love them when they are our enemies.

Have you ever stopped to think that perhaps much of your own frustration may be due to the fact that, contrary to nature and Christian faith, you are trying to make the philosopry of drive win out and you are neglecting the philosophy of persuasion? Try the philosophy of persuasion, of drawing, on some delicate situation in your own home. Lay aside thoughts of bitterness and revenge. Throw away the club. Get over on the side of the softly spoken word.

Try it. You will find it works.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

A RED NOSE DOESN'T ALWAYS DENOTE AN ALCOHOLIC

"Dear Dr. Molner: As a child I noticed people of middle age who had red broken lines in their faces. Being of Irish extraction, it was a family joke that this condition was caused from alcoholic imbibing.

"Now that I am middle-aged, I notice that more and more of my friends, men and women who are non-drinkers, have this condition.

"I've noticed a few small red lines on my nose and also my husband's, but not to the degree we see on others.

Is there some specific cause for this? Why do only some have it and not all if it comes from an age problem? — J. L."

The red nose doesn't necessarily denote an alcoholic, it isn't necessarily old, and it certainly isn't characteristic Irish.

As I've mentioned from time to time, in regard to other matters, the blood stream leaves the heart through a very large artery, the aorta. Then there are major branches, and smaller branches from those branches. It is just like a tree. You have the trunk, and some main branches, and then smaller ones, until you get down to the thousands of little twigs, and then the leaves, and then the little "veins" in the individual leaves.

In the human body, it is incredible how small the little blood vessels are. There are millions of them.

So you ask about red noses.

Well, there are various factors involved. One is that in some people the very small, tiniest branches of the blood-supply system are inclined to be more fragile than in others.

AGE IS A FACTOR

For a second thing, they tend to become more fragile as we grow older. They become brittle. In that way, age is a factor, as you mentioned.

With a person of dark complexion, the reddish cast doesn't show much if any. But if somebody has a fair skin, and perhaps with the little blood vessels lying very close to the surface, the color shows up very clearly.

The Irish, who have lived for generations in the moist, temperate climate of their beautiful land, are inclined to have fair skins. So there you are so far as the Irish aspect is concerned.

Now for the alcohol. It is also true that alcohol tends to dilate, or expand, the arteries. This applies to small as well as large ones. So alcohol, too, is a factor. A factor — just one factor.

Most certainly there are people who have drunk alcohol to excess for years, yet don't have a "red nose." There are total abstainers who do not have reddish complexions because of the other elements.

It isn't just age. Nor just alcohol. It is in part heredity. It is in part the physiological makeup of the individual. And, I feel certain, there are other factors which have a bearing. But pinning it down only to race, drinking habits or age won't give you a satisfactory answer. Is this good enough.

"Dear Dr. Molner: For the past few months I've had a buzzing in my head. What can be done to stop it? — Mrs. L. J."

First find out the cause in your case. There are multiple possibilities.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Will a pinched nerve in my neck make my legs and lower part of my back hurt? — Mrs. A. C. B."

It's possible, although not especially common.

Want to lose weight? It can be done if you follow the advice given in my pamphlet, "The Lost Secret Of Reducing." For a copy, write to me in care of The Chicago Sun Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill., enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and 5c in coin to cover handling.

Queen Prefers Nature's Way

Windsor Daily Star

Royalty, sometimes by chance, has established many fashions of conduct or etiquette. It is quite possible Queen Elizabeth will re-establish one that is as old as humanity itself but which has been abandoned by many modern women.

It is now related that, acting on the strong advice of her doctor, she breastfed her first two children for the first three months of their lives. Presumably she will do likewise with the babe to be born early in the new year.

In the past few decades on this continent there has been a trend away from this natural feeding of infants. A large proportion of them are weaned practically at birth, being fed by a bottle with cow's milk or formulac of various kinds. Many physicians have advised against this, using arguments having to do with both the physical and psychological development of an infant.

The arguments in favor of artificial feeding are that it is more convenient to mothers, or even that it saves time. (Anyone who has helped warm up the bottles, etc., doesn't easily recognize the time saving element.)

If Queen Elizabeth finds it not too much trouble to feed her babes by the natural process, it shouldn't be much trouble for other women. We might produce a happier, healthier race of people.

Some women do not provide all the sustenance a babe requires. In that case, supplements are necessary. But Queen Elizabeth seems convinced the natural methods are best.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In a busy wayside restaurant full of tired tourists waiting to be served, I was surprised to hear an elderly gentleman with a loud hearty voice at a nearby table congratulating the little fat waitress on the blueberry pie.

"Just like mother used to make!" he cried jovially.

This astonished me, because I had just eaten blueberry pie, and it had about as much taste and character as, let us say, spinach pie.

"My mother," he told me, realizing I had been impressed by his remarks, "was the baby of her family and was the worst cook, the most confused housekeeper and generally the most dithery and utterly lovable person in the world. Every time I go into a supermarket and see all the prepared food, the fantastic canned goods, I grieve for my mother. She would have been a wonderful cook today. One thing the present generation will never be able to say, and that is 'just like mother used to make.' Mother doesn't make anything."

"Get in here, George," she interrupted sharply.

Canadians Have Own Language Says Linguist

VANCOUVER (CP)—Pronouncing "khaki" with an "r" stamps you as a Canadian, Dr. Walter S. Avis, noted Canadian linguistics authority, said in an interview.

You can be pinned down to the province of British Columbia if you refer to the "salt chuck" (sea or ocean) of a "teelhead" (type of trout).

Reference to a "fiddlehead" (young fern frond) of a "tilt" (see-saw) will mark you as a Maritimer. And if you talk about "fire reels" and "pool trains" you are from Ontario.

Dr. Avis, assistant professor of English at Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont., heads a group of lexicographers compiling the first Dictionary of Canadian English. It is hoped to publish it in 1960.

"British and American dictionaries do not reflect Canadian usage satisfactorily," he said. "Such terms as 'riding' (parliamentary constituency), 'separate school' and 'cushion' (hockey) have distinctive Canadian meanings which seldom, if ever, find their way into British and American dictionaries."

CANADIAN ENGLISH

Dr. Avis said Canadian English resembles American English in some repect and British in others. It includes a great deal which is singularly Canadian. This stems from the settlement history of Canada.

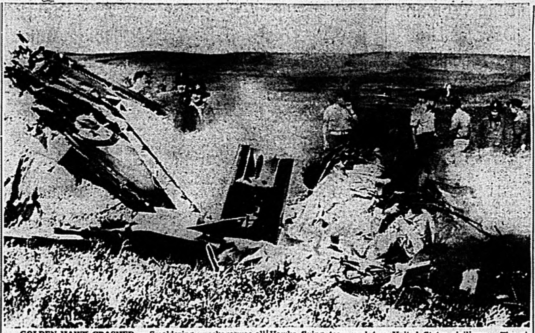
"As the eastern regions of Canada opened for settlement before, during and after the American Revolution, Americans were predominant among the settlers. The great stream of British settlers who later flowed into the country adopted the speech of their community.

"Countering this influence to some extent has been the prestige of British English, especially among the educated, and the conscious practice of 'teaching English' carried on by Egerton Ryerson and others.

"Fewer Americans were drawn to British Columbia because the type of farming land was not to their liking. Nevertheless, American influence on B.C. speech has been stronger than in the rest of Canada because of the strength of the north-south lines of communication."

LAST FLIGHTS FOR PLANES

LONDON (Reuters)—The Hurricane and Spitfire fighters that traditionally lead the RAF fly past to commemorate the Battle of Britain will make their last flights at this year's celebration Sept. 20, it was learned today. Both planes now are nearly 20 years old and the air council has decided it is impracticable to keep them sufficiently serviceable to permit their continued inclusion.



GOLDEN HAWK CRASHED — Smoldering wreckage was all that remained of a RCAF Sabre jet after it and a light plane collided in Calgary Monday and killed a member of the Golden Hawks flying team and two United States civilians. The air force pilot was identified as Flt. Lt. P. J. Kerr of Welland, Ont. (CP Photo).

Weddings

WHITEMAN — KELLER

Pink and white gladioli and ferns adorned the home of the Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Flatt, 284 Bridge Street east, on Saturday, August 1st, for a quiet but pretty double-ring wedding, solemnized by Mr. Flatt, when Helena Rose Keller, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Keller, became the bride of Archibald James Whiteman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Whiteman, of Cooper, Ontario.

The bride was charmingly gowned in floor-length nylon lace over taffeta featuring a fitted bodice having a "V" shaped neckline and short-sleeved matching bolero jacket. The bouffant skirt was accented by tiers of lace over net. She wore a bandeau of orange blossoms and seed pearls with shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion, and carried a white Bible crested with red roses and rosebud knotted streamers of white satin ribbon.

She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Leonard Scott, of Belleville, gowned in orchid nylon over taffeta with corsage of white carnations and pink roses.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother-in-law, Mr. Leonard Scott, of Belleville.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, 6 West Street, Belleville. The bride's table was appointed with white damask, centred by a three tier, all-white wedding cake, flanked by tall, white candles in silver holders and bouquets of pink and white gladioli.

Guests were present from Belleville; Thomasburg; Tweed; and Cooper.

Mr. and Mrs. Whiteman will reside in Belleville.

KAY — STEENBURGH

MARMORA — A quiet, but pretty wedding took place in Marmora Free Methodist Church on Saturday, August 2, when Donna Lee Steenburgh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Steenburgh, was united in marriage to Allen Kay, son of the Rev. and Mrs. C. W. Kay, of Marmora. The ceremony was performed by the bridegroom's father.

The wedding music was rendered by Mrs. Harry Mawer, and Mrs. Esther Elliot was soloist, singing "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a waltz-length dress of white organza and net over taffeta, fashioned with a bolero, having long lily-point sleeves. The skirt was a bouffant style. Her finger-tip veil of nylon illusion was held by a tiara studded with rhinestones and she carried a white Bible crested with red rosebuds and stephanotis, with streamers caught with tiny rosebuds.

Miss Marjorie Steenburgh, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Miss Carol Ann Steenburgh, also a sister, was bridesmaid. They wore identical dresses of nylon over mint-green taffeta in street-length, featuring cummerbunds with large bows at the back in matching green taffeta.

The maid of honor wore a picture hat in white and the bridesmaid's head dress was a white feather hat. Both carried bouquets of white 'mums and pink carnations.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Eldon Kay, and the ushers were Messrs. Reg. Chisholm and Ray Elgie.

The recetpion was held at the bride's home, where the guests were received by Mrs. Steenburgh, who was wearing a medium blue dress with white accessories, assisted by Mrs. Kay wearing a blue-and white figured dress with matching accessories.

For their honeymoon to Northern Ontario the bride chose a two-piece ensemble in light blue with lace bodice. Her hat and accessories were in matching color and she wore a corsage of roses.

The young couple will reside in Denbigh at the beginning of the school year where the bridegroom has been engaged as a teacher.

Little Woman Devotes Life To Teaching

VANCOUVER (CP)—A course in the psychology of exceptional children is being given at the University of British Columbia this summer by Professor Wilda Rosebrook of Ohio State University.

Miss Rosebrook, a little woman with greying hair and boundless enthusiasm, has devoted her life to teaching.

She is impatient because progress is slow in the training of children who deviate mentally and physically from the normal.

At first she was a high school teacher and then became a clinical psychologist.

In this role, she says, she realized that gifted children as well as mentally or physically retarded children could best be helped in school, and by well-trained teachers.

ALSO HELPS PARENTS

So she started her present career of teaching teachers, administrators and phychologists.

"When one realizes that five per cent of the children have defective speech, 10 to 15 per cent have learning problems and one to two per cent are gifted, one realizes the importance of such training," she said in an interview.

"The teacher - training is important, but one must realize it is equally important that parents learn to live with and work with these children 24 hours a day.

"Always encourage people to give money towards basic research and teacher training. Let's modify the football fields if necessary."

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Murray Brinkert are pictured cutting the cake following their recent marriage in St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Belleville. The bride is the former Miss Karen Evelyn Kunka, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Kunka, of Trenton, Ont., and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. N. Brinkert of Belleville, and the late Mr. Brinkert.

BRINKERT — KUNKA

Standards of pastel-tinted gladioli and ferns adorned the chancel of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Belleville, on Saturday, July 25, at 1.30 p.m. for a lovely summer wedding when the Rev. A. Kramer, of Kingston, united in marriage Karen Evelyn Kunka, of Trenton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Kunka, to Earl Murray Brinkert, of Belleville, son of Mrs. N. Brinkert, of Belleville, and the late Mr. J. H. Brinkert.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother Mr. E. Kunka, was radiant in her waltz-length bridal gown of Chantilly lace over satin, fashioned with full skirt, and fitted bodice featuring a "V" neckline, with small collar, and long sleeves of lace coming to lily-points over the hands. She carried a white Bible crested with red roses, and wore a matching headdress with fingertip veil of tulle illusion.

Miss Judy Wodzak, of Belleville, attended the bride, gowned in waltz-length turquoise chiffon and net, with full skirt, molded bodice, and wearing a matching headdress. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations with white and turquoise ribbons.

Mr. Louis Buckley, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held at the Dutch Mill Inn, Trenton, where the bride's mother received the guests. She wore a blue floral nylon chiffon gown, with white accessories. Assisting her was the mother of the bridegroom, attired in turquoise cotton, with beige accessories.

For the wedding trip to Parry Sound and the Georgian Bay district, the bride chose a powder-blue cotton rayon, with matching duster, and white accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Brinkert will reside in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were present from Belleville, Oakville, Kingston and Trenton, and Belleville.

Way Family Holds Annual Reunion Picnic

Ideal picnic weather was enjoyed by the Way family descendants when they met at Wellington Park for their annual reunion on August 8th.

Tables were placed in the shade and after Grace was sung, all enjoyed a sumptuous repast.

Some time was spent in visiting and renewing acquaintances and at three p.m. Mr. J. B. Harder, Belleville, called the gathering to order for the business session.

At Canadian Brigade headquarters near Soest, Germany, Mary Moore gives Sgt. "Hank" Henry a taste of his own stew. She gives us today the recipe for making the delicious stew that our soldiers had for dinner the day she visited the camp.

Noon Dinner at Brigade Headquarters

by Mary Moore

Do you want to know how to make the best beef stew yet?

The high quality of the cooking at Canadian Brigade Headquarters near Soest in Germany was talked about so much I wanted to meet the man in charge. So bright and early on a day morning Lieutenant Clark and a Canadian Army kleine bus called for me and I was given a queensize tour of the kitchens while noon dinner was a-cooking, by Senior Cook Sergeant Robert "Hank" Henry.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

WEDNESDAY

Devilled Ham Slice Baked in Milk; Corn on the Cob; Fried Eggplant; Crisp Green Salad; Fresh Gooseberry Pie (see Tuesday); Coffee.

SUNDAY (Guests)

Club Chicken Casserole (see Friday); Cabbage and Pineapple Salad; Tomato Salad Jelly Ring with Cottage Cheese; Gooseberry Fool (see Tuesday); Assorted Cheeses and Crackers; Coffee.

First I wanted to read the menu for the day for the men. It was Beef and Vegetable Stew with Biscuit Topping, Steamed Potatoes, Fresh Frozen Peas, Cucumber and Lettuce Salad with Homemade Mayonnaise, Steamed Pudding with Lemon Sauce or and Fruit Jello, Bread, Butter, Tea, Fresh Milk. The menus are made up by Sergeant Henry and then go through several hands including the Medical Officer and Quartermaster for approval. They must meet high nutritional standards and draw on foods in supply which are abundant and only the best.

To mothers at home of boys over there I want to stress at the outset that your boys are being fed as good — and I dare say often better — than you or I would or could feed them at home.

In the men's kitchen first we stopped at the soup kettle where the vegetable and tomato soup was simmering gently. The tomatoes were rich red Italian canned, and the vegetables were both fresh and fresh frozen. Next we peered into the Potato Steamer — a huge retort where German potatoes are steamed at low pressure and all of the minerals and an optimum amount of vitamins are retained.

Steam Puddings were quietly steaming in the next retort and a grinning young Canadian assistant chef proudly invited me to touch the tops through the cookery parchment to test how well they are rising. Then we sampled the above-mentioned beef stew. I privately wondered if I could match its rich flavor on my stove at home. See the recipe below.

Next our tour took us to a room where a spotless baker was elbow deep in a bowl full of ingredients for the tea biscuit topping for the stew. In the same room strawberry ice cream was being churned for Sunday dinner — incidentally this is the only Canadian Army kitchen overseas that makes its own.

Now for the delicious recipe for

BEEF AND VEGETABLE STEW — CANADIAN ARMY STYLE:

(To serve 100 or only 8).

(NOTE:

In brackets I have inserted amounts of the stew to prepare to serve 8 people.) Lean boneless stewing beef 25 lbs. (2 lbs.), renderings from pan 1 1-2 pints (5 tablespoons), flour 1 lb. 14 oz. (7 or 8 tablespoons), salt 5 oz. (2 teaspoons), pepper 2 teaspoons (1-4 teaspoon), boiling water 3 gallons (3 3-4 cups), 3 lbs. each (3-4 cup) diced onions, carrots ,celery, potatoes, canned peas drained 3 No. 2 (20-oz.) (2-3 cup). Method: Dice beef in 1-inch cubes, brush with fat in greased roasting pans and braise for 1 hour at 350 deg. F. or on top of stove stirring constantly. This braising step, in oven preferably, is of prime importance to the finished flavor. Add chopped onions and continue cooking 10 minutes longer. Remove meat and onions to steam-jacketed kettle (Dutch oven or large pot), leaving renderings — 1 1-2 pints (5 tablespoons). Add flour and seasonings, blend and stir 2 minutes. Add boiling water slowly, stirring constantly until thick. Pour over meat and onions and cover and simmer 1 1-2 hours. Add diced vegetables and cook slowly until all are tender. Add drained canned peas, heat through. If desired, on top of each serving place doughnut-shaped baked tea biscuit.

Be sure to try it girls. It will make you a stewing good reputation.

Watch for my story soon on Sergeant Henry's cookbook giving recipes of all nations that he has collected from his numerous Army postings.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

BRIDE-TO-BE WRITES THE NOTES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My bridegroom-to-be lives with his family in a city in the state next to ours, and they have many relatives and friends whom I have not met. The invitations to our wedding have very recently been mailed, and already I am receiving many wedding presents from these kind people.

I am wondering if I am the one who should write the thank-you notes to these relatives and friends whom I have not met, or whether Bob should write the notes to these people whom he knows so well? — A. R.

In your question you say, "I am receiving many wedding presents from these kind people." They sent their wedding presents to you, as is right. And you are the one who must write a thank-you note for every present, whether or not you know the giver. And in writing these notes of appreciation you have a fine opportunity to show your quality — and to make these relatives and friends of your fiance proud of the girl he has chosen to be his wife.

THANK-YOU NOTES FOR BABY'S PRESENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When writing thank-you notes for gifts for a new baby, should the mother write the notes in her own name or in the baby's name (that is, signing the baby's name to the note)? — E. L.

Usually the baby's mother writes the thank-you notes in her own name. However, sometimes, and particularly when the sender addresses the package to the baby (in care of the mother) or encloses with the present a note addressed to and written to the baby, the mother writes the thank-you note in the baby's name. And these notes can be very endearing!

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. D. E. — She wants him to give up a good job.

• • •

Mrs. D. E. — My son Gerald, aged 26, has been in love with the same girl for two years. She has dangled him on her string all of that time, evidently holding him off to see if anything better turns up for her.

Recently Gerald landed a very interesting job in a small city very far from our home. He asked Adele to marry him and accompany him down there. Her answer was that she had lived in a large city all her life and could not stand living in a "one-horse town." She said she'll marry him if he stays here.

Gerald now wants to give up this good job. I feel it would be a serious mistake. This job promises to be a steppingstone to a better future and he has worked hard for just such a spot. A girl who isn't willing to make a small sacrifice for her husband isn't worth much.

• • •

Gerald E. — Right now it seems to me a smaller sacrifice to give up the job I want to get the girl I want. I can always find another job, but it isn't so easy to find the person with whom you feel like spending the rest of your life.

Anyway, I can understand Adele's point of view. I almost went bats when I had to spend a few months in a small city. When you are used to the life and tempo of a metropolis, it isn't easy to get used to a small place out in the middle of nowhere.

Adele has a good job here in the city. She couldn't get anything like it in the place we'd be going. We'd have to spend a couple of years there. She isn't the type of girl who could be happy stuck at home all day. Why should she make the sacrifice when I am willing to make it?

• • •

The Council Gerald's willingness to sacrifice and to adapt himself to another person's needs speaks well for his readiness to marry. However, Adele's unwillingness to do just that speaks the opposite for her.

A marriage based on an "if" may just as well be laden down with a stone that will sink it the minute it gets off to sea. Adele could just as well have said, "I will marry you if you assure me that everything will go exactly right — the way I like it — forever afterwards." Her answer is that of a little girl accustomed to demanding bribes for what others want her to do — not that of a woman reaching out for the new life she desires.

In our opinion Gerald can't win with such a girl. She seems to be just the type who, in a few years, will blame him for not having gotten as far ahead in his profession as she would like. At that time her song will be slightly different — something like, "I wouldn't have married you if I had known things would be like this."

Gerald would be wise to try to free himself from the strangle hold of such an attachment. He should take the job, try his wings, meet other girls. He may soon find that he has made no sacrifice at all, but rid himself of a millstone.

STUDY VANDALISM

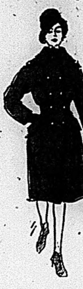
Bad-Weather Beauty



By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Imported poplin lined in contrasting orlon pile makes this effective, officer type coat prepared to meet the inclement weather of late fall and winter. The coat hangs straight without the buttoned-on half belt. Brass buttons parade in double-breasted array and an extra dash is contributed by tabbed shoulders and the large flapped pockets. Pretty in beige with brown, it also comes in a striking white with black pile.

Getting Married in China Today Is Cheap, Simple

PEIPING (Reuters) — Getting married in China, once costly and colorful, today is cheap and simple.

Young folk choose their own mates unaided by parents, relatives or professional matchmakers who, in the past, could arrange weddings without bride or bridegroom even knowing each other.

Nowadays, couples wed in everyday clothes, without finery or jewelry, at brief ceremonies with a minimum of formality and none of the pomp and processions of the day-long feasting and drinking there used to be.

DINING ROOM WEDDING

The bridegroom was a 21-year-old hotel waiter and his bride a 19-year-old country girl from his home village. They were married in a small private dining room of the hotel where he works.

About 50 guests, mostly waiters, waitresses and porters in the hotel, sat at a long rectangular table, chatting animatedly, sipping tea and helping themselves from plates of candy and cigarets. Most of them were in their hotel uniforms.

On one wall, a colored portrait of Mao Tse-tung, China's Communist leader, hung between two national flags—red banners each studded with five gold stars. Red posters with greetings and congratulations painted on them in black Chinese characters decorated the other walls.

A middle-aged woman, chairman of the hotel's Trade Union branch, rose and read out a certificate of registration of the marriage.

Then came the brief marriage ritual. At a word from the master of ceremonies, the couple turned to the wall and bowed together three times to the flags and the portrait of Mao. Next they bowed to parents and relatives present and to the other guests. Then they bowed to each other and exchanged silk handkerchiefs. And that was all.

Afterwards, the secretary of the Communist party committee in the hotel, a middle-aged man, made a brief speech exhorting the newlyweds to love and respect each other and to encourage each other to work hard to help their country's economic "great leap forward" this year.

MARRIAGE MARK

By tradition, married Hindu women wear a spot of rouge on their foreheads.

DESERONTO

Land, Water Rights Bought To Build Marina

DESERONTO — A special meeting of the Town Council was held on Saturday night of last week. The purpose of the meeting was to pass a by-law authorizing the sale of lands and water rights to J. D. Dawson. The conditions of the sale were the payment of $25. to the town and the Marina which Mr. Dawson proposes to erect is to be built within two years.

For some time past Mr. Dawson has planned the construction of a modern Marina on his property on the Bay Shore. Construction has been delayed because title to the water rights was still vested in the Rathbun Co. who originally owned all the Bay shore and have been out of existence for many years. The town has now transferred these rights to Mr. Dawson.

According to the plans of Mr. Dawson the Marina will have facilities for the repair and care of fairly large craft and already bookings have been made from as far west as Toronto. It will be a definite asset to the town and will attract many vessels to the Bay that now bypass this vicinity. There will be year round work for several employees and during the summer months the merchants will benefit considerably.

NOT BADLY INJURED

Very fortunate was Russell Joyce of this town on Sunday night. He was travelling to Foxboro by motorcycle in the early part of the evening, when his bike went out of control and threw him over the handle bars. The accident happened on the four lane road near the outskirts of Belleville. Russell was passing a car, when the battery slipped causing his hind wheel to skid sideways. The front wheel turned and Russell was flipped through the air landing on the pavement. Luckily he was wearing a crash helmet, which took most of the force of the fall but was completely shattered, when he slammed into the pavement. He suffered some severe burns from skidding along the road but no bones were broken. He was taken to the Belleville hospital for examination but was allowed to return to his home after treatment. The motorcycle was badly damaged.

Cuba's Commies Tried, Failed To Set up Ideal Situation, Await a Fresh Opportunity

Associated Press foreign news analyst William L. Ryan, who was in Cuba when Fidel Castro's rebels punctured Fulgencio Batista's regime last New Year's Day, has just returned for a survey of how the Castro revolution is developing today. In this first of a series of three articles, he reports on the status of the Communists in Cuba today.

By WILLIAM L. Ryan

HAVANA (AP) — Cuba's Communists have tried—and failed—to set up what they likely would consider an ideal situation for themselves in present circumstances. Banking on unwitting help from the United States, they now await a fresh opportunity.

To the Communists' delight, there has been a basic misconception of what they are up to in Cuba, and this tends to deflect U. S. attention from their immediate aims.

The Communists know — if many in the United States do not —that they are not strong enough to turn the island of Cuba into a Red satellite.

What they seek is a base for Red operations in the Caribbean and Latin America with complete freedom of action and communications. Cuba thus would be extremely valuable as a leever for creating turmoil all over the area.

SHOWED HAND

The Communists tipped their hands July 17 when Fidel Castro resigned as premier in a manoeuvre to demonstrate his popularity with the masses.

Within two hours the Communists broadcast an appeal for a "government of national unity." meaning they wanted cabinet representation. They would have settled for one or two ministries and considered the situation ideal at this stage. Castro held them off.

Participation in the government would nail down present Red advantages. The Communists have been highly successful, for example, in penetrating the army and have the comfort of knowing its high command has many dedicated American-haters. Among the most dedicated of these is the commander-in-chief, Maj. Raul Castro, thin-lipped, fanatical 30 - year - old brother of the premier.

The Communists have penetrated the ranks of labor organizations. They are organized, disciplined and dangerous.

NEED WHIPPING BOY

A "national unity" government would put the Communists in a good position to provoke angry and ill-considered responses from the United States. These provide Latin-American Reds with what they need most Whipping boys as typical examples of "Yankee imperialism" trying to dictate to weaker countries.

There are few here who could accuse Castro himself of being Communist. What seems to be happening is that clashes involving North Americans tend to push the regime into the position of standing somewhere between being not antagonistic and being downright sympathetic to the Communist bloc.

At present the card - carrying Communists probably total about 12,000. Of these only a small number can be considered hard core, working for the interests of Moscow as transmitted by Juan Marinello, party president. Recently he was a glorified guest on a Communist-bloc tour.

The Communists seek diligently to create and maintain in Cuba a climate basically hostile to the United States. They may succeed if uninformed and impatient elements in the United States goad Castro's followers into more violent anti-U.S. postures.

Governor-General Massey Has Always Maintained Strict Impartiality During His Term

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor-General Vincent Massey once told an audience that he envied the speaker of whom it was said: "He could stroke a platitude until it purred like an epigram."

In a record 7½ years as Governor - General, and after hundreds of speeches, Mr. Massey appears to have come as close to that goal as any of his 17 predecessors.

The goal is a difficult one for the Queen's representative who, as Lord Tweedsmuir once said, must confine himself to "governor - generalities." Utter impartiality in the country's political and economic affairs has been demanded of every Governor-General since Confederation. By tradition, the government, which recommends the appointment to the Crown, is held responsible for his actions.

STILL EXIST

The limits still exist, even though today's politicians may not be so eager to pounce on any apparent breach of them as were the members of the House of Commons in Lord Dufferin's time.

Lord Dufferin, Governor - General from 1872 to 1878, once was castigated by the Commons' Opposition for making speeches on such seemingly innocuous subjects as co-operatives and retail merchants' associations.

The urbane Mr. Massey, who relinquishes his post Sept. 15 to be succeeded by Maj. - Gen. George P. Vanier, has seldom, if ever, violated these traditional taboos. But he has managed to frame his platitudes so as to become one of the most popular speakers of the last decade.

A few quotations culled from his speeches as Governor - General may show the reason for this.

ROOTLESS AGE

On the present generation:

"The weakness of the present generation is that it is rootless, and the great function of the (Canadian) university is to take it back to the true roots.

"We have been living through a time when the common retort to a serious remark has been 'So what?' The question is intelligent enough. The tragedy of the 'So what?' generation has been that they assumed that there is no answer."

On the United States' exploitation—in movies, books and television—of the American West:

"We have never had a wild west. I do not see why we should not commemorate the fact that we established civilized life without one."

URGES BILINGUALISM

OF speaking French:

"Could we not, in English-speaking Canada, teach our children the other language of our country so that, on emerging from school they could talk—most of them at least—with their French - speaking fellow Canadians in their native tongue. . . .

"There is surely nothing absurd or presumpuous in the idea that every Canadian child should be able to speak two languages."

On toleration:

"In Canada I believe we do not always sufficiently understand the depth, the power and the cost of the true virtue of toleration. It too easily can be allowed to sink to the level of indifference, or of a cautious courtesy.

"But indifference and caution in this sense are polite Canadianisms for strong terms . . . let me call them laziness, and timidity."

On community planning:

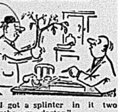
"Sad mistakes have been made in many places in our country—many of them irreparable. . . . Economic forces have often hurried us into size without shape, into greatness without grandeur."

Time and again Mr. Massey, a patron of the arts, advised his listeners to read more books, and he was a strong upholder of correct language.

"In this day, every kind of slovenly language finds its defender. I know that shallow and pedantic popularizers remind us that grammarians always lose in the end when they struggle against 'the people.'

"Those who strive to correct language today find themselves reviled at once by the 'experts' and by the self-appointed spokesman for the multitude. For all their talking, bad language is still bad, and the perverse use of bad language is a crime against humanity."

'Jest a Second'



"I got a splinter in it two months ago, doctor."

Exam Results For Grade 13 Now Mailed Out

TORONTO (CP) — Results of Grade 13 examinations in Ontario have been mailed, and students and parents should know the worst by Thursday.

Dr. C. A. Brown, registrar of the Ontario department of education, predicted Tuesday that pass marks will be in the vicinity of 80 per cent, the average for the past 40 years.

He denied that examinations had been stiffened this year to ease the pressure on universities by weeding out more students, calling the suggestions "com-

China Students Air Difference Of Opinion

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GENEVA PARK, Lake Couchiching (CP)—Spirited differences of opinion between students of China featured Tuesday night's session of the conference of the Canadian Institute on Public Affairs.

Y. P. Mei, Chinese philosopher and historian, and Edwin O. Reischauer, director of the Harvard-Yen Ching institute, both took the view that China could have had another way to modernization than through communism.

Dr. Reischauer expressed some fear that the Communist regimentation of life may destroy Chinese culture.

WHAT OTHER METHOD?

Han Suyin, medical doctor and novelist of Singapore, said: "What other way is there for China? I don't say there is no other way, but what is it? What is the use of saying what might have been? We are living in the land of what is today."

Dr. Han spoke from the floor when some of her earlier opinions were combatted by the two main speakers.

With considerable drama she recalled that she had once been a student of Dr. Mei and still regarded him as her teacher.

"But, she said, "I have been back to China and found many of your students in the Chinese government. Some of them have died of overwork in this cause which Prof. Reischauer thinks rather physical.

"They are working so that people may rise from the level of cattle to that of human beings. . .

"I find the regime harsh and wish what it is doing could be done in some other way. But I ask you how else, and you go on and on condemning but you don't show any other way."

POINTS TO INDIA

Dr. Mei, who left China in 1949 and now is professor of oriental studies at the State University of Iowa, replied:

"How about India? Many other countries also are making honest efforts. If it hadn't been for the Japanese aggression China might now be well on the way to modernization without communism. Because you are hungry you don't have to be poisoned."

E. B. Jolliffe, Toronto lawyer who was born in China, asked whether communism in China hadn't taken on considerable aspects which are indigenous to China.

Dr. Mei and Dr. Reischauer disagreed with this view.

Communism, Dr. Mei said, is not indigenous to China, but came to her like a strong hurricane from the West.

SUSPEND SOCIAL SEASON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House Tuesday cancelled its formal social season for 1959-60 because of President Eisenhower's "heavy international schedule this fall and winter." Customarily, the season has included six state dinners and five gala receptions.

Jittery Political Situation In Caribbean Area Under Fire

By DAVID ROWNTREE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Representatives of the United States and 20 Latin American countries open a meeting in Santiago, Chile, today that is supposed to put a damper on the jittery political situation in the Caribbean area.

As Christian Herter of the United States and the other foreign ministers converged on the Chilean capital, there was a growing feeling that the conference instead may lead to more bickering and tension between the declining dictatorships and the struggling democracies of South and Central America.

Cuba and Venezuela, two countries which recently tossed out military chiefs, are expected to lead a campaign to condemn the regimes of generals Rafael Trujillo in the Dominican Republic, Alfredo Stroessner in Paraguay and Col. Luis Somoza in Nicaragua.

These three countries have yet to be swept by the tide of change that has overturned the old order of one-man rule in many of the other republics in the last seven years.

INVASION SCARES

The special meeting of the organization of American states—Canada is not a member although there have been suggestions in the past that she join—was originally called to consider complaints of invasion or invasion scares.

Revolutionary groups operating out of Cuba and Venezuela made unsuccessful forays against the Dominican Republic, Nicaragua and Panama. Nicaraguan exiles also used Costa Rica and Honduras as bases.

At the moment, Trujillo is the main target. For nearly three decades he has ruled the Dominican Republic almost as a private estate. The unsuccessful invasions in the early summer did not discourage his opponents who still think it possible to unseat Trujillo.

Venezuela, Cuba and Argentina have reason to be troubled by Trujillo's regime. He has given shelter to former dictators of those countries—Perez Jiminez, Fulgencio Batista and Juan Peron. All plan opposition at home and dream of making a comeback.

POLICY REMINDER

To end intrigue and counter-intrigue, the Santiago meeting will remind the 21 American republics of their agreed policy not to intervene in each other's internal affairs.

There is also a U.S. proposal to set up a "watchdog" committee that would be on the alert for military buildups or possible invasions in the hemisphere.

But the debate over political differences will probably overshadow the conference.

The U.S. will be on the spot if it is asked to join in condemning the dictatorships and praising the democracies. Fidel Castro's land distribution scheme—which will break up large estates owned by American sugar interests—the executions of Batista's henchmen and a strong Communist bid for power all led to disenchantment of his popular revolution in Washington.

Despite this, the other republics will be looking for real evidence that Washington acknowledges the changed situation in Latin America.

15-Year-Old Boy Shot, Killed By State Troopers

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — A 15-year-old boy was shot and killed Tuesday night in an exchange of gunfire with two state troopers and a deputy sheriff.

A force of 30 state troopers and deputy sheriffs gave chase after Martin was reported to have fired on a group of boys on the grounds of the Oakland County Youth Home, 10 miles northwest of downtown Pontiac.

Martin had been in the youth home for six weeks before he was transferred to the children's centre in Pontiac as an incorrigible. He fled from the centre in Pontiac as an incorrigible. He fled from the centre Monday and returned to the area late Tuesday driving a stolen car.

Martin headed for the youth home and, with no known motive, fired three shots at a group of boys near a parking lot. An official at the home had grabbed the car's ignition keys and the youth fled afoot into the brush and swamp land. He ran for two miles before officers overtook him.

COFFIELD STAFF STRIKES

HAMILTON (CP) — Fifty employees of Coffield Waher Company went on strike Tuesday, charging the firm was attempting to eradicate group welfare and pension benefits. The walkout followed a contract bargaining session between the company and members of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America (Ind.).

Red China Preparing Way For Summit Seat

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China, eager to sit at any future summit table, may be preparing to deepen the military crisis in the little Southeast Asian kingdom of Laos.

This could be at least one meaning of the sharpened propaganda tone by both Peiping and Communist North Viet Nam against Laos and its big Western protectors, particularly the United States.

The Chinese might hope to promote a limited jungle war in northern Laos, and thus fan world fears of a renewal of the Indochina conflict that ended in 1954. This could make their presence at any summit conference a matter of urgency.

SUCCEEDED LAST YEAR

Peiping took a similar step, last year, stirring up the Formosa crisis by bombarding the offshore Nationalist Quemoy islands. This followed Mao Tse-tung's apparent disapproval of a summit meeting at the United Nations—where Communist China would not have been represented. The meeting never was held.

The Chinese are not likely to become involved directly with their own armed forces in Laos. They probably would continue to rely on troops from North Viet Nam and the Communist - led Pathet Lao in northern Laos.

A small war in the jungles of northern Laos, with the North Vietnamese taking part, would help Peiping assess American policy toward Indochina now that new hands guide the U.S. state department. It could also tell the Chinese whether the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization really means to keep its pledge of protecting Laos. The communists have been ridiculing SEATO as a "paper tiger" for years.

Continued hostility of the Western world, combined with embargoes on normal trade, has strengthened and solidified the Peiping-Moscow axis. A break in the cold war might weaken these ties.

Any new friendships between the U.S. and Soviet Russia would also weaken the effect of Chinese hate-America propaganda, a goad to China's laboring millions.

FBI Captures Arch Criminal In Motel Shower

They arrested James Francis Jenkins, 38, an accused bank robber who had chopped his way out of a cell in a Philadelphia jail last April 30 with a screwdriver.

Jenkins had been awaiting trial on bank robbery charges. He was indicted for taking part in the $17,730 holdup of a Broomall, Pa., bank March 4.

The FBI said tips from several citizens in Buffalo played a major role in capturing Jenkins.

Radiation of H-Bombings Apparently Has Contributed Deaths, Not Sure How Many

What are the long-term effects of exposure to atomic radiation? To the citizens of Hiroshima and Nagasaki who survived nuclear blasts 14 years ago, the question is one of urgent personal interest.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

HIROSHIMA, Japan (AP)—A worrisome radiation time bomb ticks in the minds of many A-bomb survivors.

Will they age faster, die sooner, suffer cancer or other diseases from delayed effects of radiation exposures 14 years ago?

Some say many, other relatively few. Doctors generally are cautious about assuming a connection between deaths today and the atom-bombings of 1945. Popularly there are some tendencies to associate them.

"Some try to enlarge the number of deaths for political reasons, and say the Americans try to minimize them," remarks Professor Tatsuo Morito, president of Hirsboma University.

DETAILED STUDY

To pin down the facts, one of the most extensive, detailed study projects in medical history is under way. It will last the lifetime of thousands of A-bomb survivors.

Radiation from A-bombs killed quickly and for some months afterward. Unknown thousands died then, some mainly from radiation effects, many from radiation atop other injuries.

Mysterious radiation was the new element of A-bombs. For otherwise, devastating as it was, the A-bomb killed and injured by blast and fire, as did conventional explosives.

Latest Japanese estimates list 200,000-240,000 persons killed in Hiroshima (about triple the first police estimates) and 70,000-80,000 in Nagasaki. Figures in the Hiroshima museum list 163,293 hurt in Hiroshima, 78,804 in Nagasaki.

Now the prime concern is the living, whether and what delayed effects on the radiation exposures brought.

On evidence so far:

1. There is more leukemia or blood cancer among survivors, 82 cases in Hiroshima through 1957, a smaller number in Nagasaki.

The leukemia incidence rate was 50 times higher than national average among persons within about 1,000 yards of the bomb centre (with 19 cases of leukemia among 1,282 who survived that close to the bomb in Hiroshima). Among survivors beyond 2,000 yards the incidence rate is about equal to the national average, from studies by the atom bomb casualty commission.

2. Survivors have suffered more cataracts than would be expected normally.

3. A careful analysis of cancer cases based on 20 months data, and histories of bomb exposures, now indicates a greater incidence of tumors among irradiated persons who were within 1,500 yards of the bomb. Beyond that distance, differences between exposed and non-exposed persons are difficult to detect, if they exist.

4. Genetically, a six-year survey of all infants born in Hiroshima and Nagasaki finds no statistically significant increase in malformations of children of bomb survivors.

MICROCEPHALY SHOWN

Around 30 children, whose mothers were carrying them in pregnancy during the bombings, show signs of microcephaly, (small brain) some of them with mental retardation, the doctros found.

There is less agreement about other effects.

Dr. Raisuke Shirabe, professor of surgery at Nagasaki medical school, reports an apparent difference in liver function among some survivors, with some deaths presumably due to this. Other Japanese physicians and the commission do not have such evidence.

Checking for bomb effects, the commission now is in the second year of a gigantic lifespan study involving 75,000 persons in Hiroshima, and 25,000 in Bagasaki. Half had presumably been exposed to radiation, the others have not.

It's hoped this study can answer whether radiation exposures lead to premature aging and death.

Fiery Speeches Warm up Newfie Election

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Fiery speeches are warming up the already hot campaign in the provincial election just eight days away.

The province's newest political group, the labor-promoted Newfoundland Democratic party, unveiled details of its campaign Tuesday in several radio speeches.

Liberals, Progressive Conservatives and another new group, the United Newfoundland party, had a head start on the Democrats who organized only a week ago.

Democratic candidate Steve Neary for Bell Island said the establishment of his party "and its fight against our one-man government, to restore democracy in the province, are the most important facts of this campaign." Mr. Neary is secretary-treasurer of the Newfoundland Federation of Labor.

Mr. Neary said he has "fought" continuously against our one-man government for the past five months, to wipe from our statute books the anti-labor legislation placed there last March."

The statutes, among other things, decertified the International Woodworkers of America (CLC) as bargaining agents for about 11,000 Newfoundland loggers.

The new labor laws were passed unanimously by the 36 seat House made up at that time of 32 Liberals and four Progressive Conservatives.

FEEDS ON BARK

Counting Chicks Before They Are Hatched?

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—World Series games, should San Francisco Giants win the National League pennant, will be played here in an unfinished ball park seating between 34,000 and 42,500.

There'll be a backstop, foul line markers and other essentials at the new $15,000,000 Candlestick Park, but there may not be railings along the box seats, smooth floors for the concessionaires, or a completed upper deck in left field.

Horace Stoneham, president of the Giants, pointed out that the Giants received definite assurance they could be in the new ball park this season, that staying in 22,000-seat Seals Stadium not only cost them plenty in extra rent but a bundle in unsold admissions.

His Giants are two games in front and drew better than 21,000 daily for the last nine home games.

"Now, the weeks are running out," he declared.

Harney said 34,200 seats are certain. Another 8,300 are on order, and he hopes they'll arrive in time to be installed.

Cooper, Erskine To Fight in 'Elimination'

LONDON (Reuters) — Boxing promoter Harry Levene said Tuesday he wants a forthcoming heavyweight bout here to be recognized as "a final elimination for the world title."

Levene said he has signed Henry Cooper, British and Empire heavyweight champion, to meet Joe Erskine of Cardiff.

The fight, to be held Nov. 17, will be for one of the biggest purses ever given in Britain for any contest, Levene said — although he did not name the figure.

Cooper has defeated "American challenger No. 1 Zora Folley," Levene added, while Erskine lasted 13 rounds against Sweden's Ingemar Johansson, the current titleholder, before retiring with a cut eye.

Harness Racing

This gelded son of Safety Man led all down the stretch but had only a nose margin at the finish as Bonny Song, owned and driven by Allan Walker of Owen Sound, gained ground all through the last furlong and just missed at the finish.

TORONTO (CP)—The fastest trotter to hit Old Woodbine Park's three-quarter mile oval last season, five-year - old Mr. Baldridge, heads the list of seven likely to start here Saturday in the $5,000 added Maple Leaf Trot.

Mr. Baldridge sped a mile in 2:02.1 in winning the Maple Leaf a year ago, the top trotting event of the park's stakes program.

Mr. Baldridge is owned by a syndicate of 10 Montreal owners.

WESTBURY, N.Y. (CP)—Beloved, a filly with a habit of going off stride, stayed flat Tuesday night and won the $26,328.37 Miss America Trot for two years old fillies at Roosevelt Raceway. In seven successive previous starts Beloved had gone off stride.

But Tuesday night she collected $13,164.19 for Farmstead Acres of Brookville, L.I. as she trotted the mile in 2:09.

Expertly handled by Bill Haughton Beloved scored by two lengths over the highly regarded Elaine Rodney, fastest two-year-old filly trotter of the year and winner of eight of 13 starts and $32,275. Spring Frost was third.

Swede Says Not Committed To Return Bout

STOCKHOLM (AP) — World heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson said Tuesday he no longer is committed to any contract for a return bout against Floyd Patterson.

"I have a written, personal contract with Bill Rosensohn," Johansson is quoted in an interview with the afternoon paper Aftonbladet.

"This has nothing to do with the Rosensohn enterprises or Velella. I have nothing to do with Velella or Kahn."

Vincent Velella holds two-thirds interest in the enterprises, and it was his blowup with Rosensohn that precipitated the present trouble.

Irving Kahn is president of TelePrompTer, Inc., and was named by Velella as a director of the enterprises.

The new champion said he wants assurance the return bout will not be connected with any sort of monopoly, and that radio, TV and movie rights should be offered on the open market to avoid what happened last time "when it was sold for $150,000 less than the highest offer."

Earlier, in Goteborg, Sweden, Johansson refused an all-expense offer to go to New York and talk over plans of his rematch with Velella.

Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Lew Hayman usually looks as if he has just lost a bundle on the stock market and his cinch bet at the races was an also ran. He rarely busts out with a good belly laugh.

But it was a different Hayman for a few hours at least the other night when he looked down from the roof-top press box at the Canadian National Exhibition Stadium. There were 27,770 persons in the park as Hayman's Toronto Argonauts met Chicago Cardinals of the National Football League.

He was good old jovial Lew. And why not? That mob was the largest to see a football game in Eastern Canada, Grey Cup included. The attraction of course, was the Cards, the first NFL team to play in Canada in nearly 10 years.

It was only an exhibition game, just about everybody knew that the Cardinals would clobber managing director Hayman's Argos, but fans paid regular season-game prices at $5 tops. Long after the game, won 55-26 by Cards, lights were blinking in underground offices at the stadium and newspaper men joked that Hayman was counting the cash.

There is nothing official, but some guesses around town are that the gross gate was more than $100,000 with the Cards and Argos receiving about $35,000 each. Not bad for a night's play, but Lew is going to need that money to patch up the Argonaut wreckage.

Before Hayman and CNE stadium officials could get to the bank with the money, the word from the infirmary was that Argonauts had taken a fearful physical beating from the bruising Cards, last-place finisher in the NFL in 1958.

The doctor's report showed three fractures. One was an ankle for Canadian-born Norm Stoneburgh, possibly the best man in the upside-down position in the league; a wrist for pass-catching Boyd Carter, a Canadian citizen, and a foot for import Don Caraway.

Those were three good reasons for Lew to be sad.

It just pointed up that pre-season exhibition games can be costly. Argonauts should know all about that.

In 1956, the Toronto club went out to Vancouver for an exhibition game with the British Columbia Lions. Whiplash - armed Tom Dublinski had quarter-backed Argos into the Big Four final the year before and club officials figured he would take the team all the way to the Grey Cup in 1957.

The Dubber hurt a knee when he apparently stepped in a small hole on the field. He was let go after a few games of the 1957 season and the club has been in the Big Four cellar since.

Argonauts couldn't find a suitable replacement for Dublinski until late last season when they got Ronnie Knox on loan from Chicago Bears of the NFL. But Knox showed up too late to get the club into the playoffs.

Hayman's problem now is to get a replacement for Stoneburgh, who will be out eight to 10 weeks. He'll probably spend a lot of that $35,000 on an expedition to NFL clubs.

LETTER TO SPORTS EDITOR—

The Heart-Breaking Saga Of a Former Champion

Dear Sir:

On Friday, June 5, 1959, I read in The Ontario Intelligencer "Medical Wag Takes a Swing at Boxing." It's time someone took a swing a boxing, is my humble opinion, or should I say "A swing at the managing of boxers."

We read from time to time where champions earned millions and finished their ring careers broke and owing vast sums in income taxes, but you never read much about their managers going broke. On August 5th, 1959, George Carver in his Rare, Medium, Well-Done, gave some interesting facts about fights and prize fighters.

A report in your June 30 issue from Goteborg, Sweden, tells us world heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson will fight only two more matches before retiring from boxing on the advice of his personal physician, Dr. Gosta Karlsson, which brings to mind something that happened August 15, 1955. I was going from Levittown to North Philadelphia by train and I couldn't help but hear a conversation by two men sitting in a seat just ahead of me. One said: 'I wonder what the papers will say about the Beau Jack and Ike Williams fight?' Well, I bought a Philadelphia Daily News on Tuesday, August 16, 1955. The first thing I looked for was that fight and this is what Jimmy Cannon, the sports editor, had to say. The heading was "Pity a Great Fighter, Jack is Now Broke:"

"We become infuriated when the Old Country philosophers turn a spiteful dollar with essays describing us as pampered barbarians. This is the land of Yale and Harvard, of Salk and Edison, the atom splitters, the country of church and libraries in the smallest towns. It should be a matter of pride that T. S. Eliot is from St. Louis and not an Englishman at all.

"We sheltered Einstein and welcomed Thomas Mann. We are a glorious people in so many ways. The world should be grateful for the gifts of our scientists. Where did Caruso settle? And Toscanini knew fame here. Didn't Hemingway win a Nobel Prize for literature and so did Faulkner and Sinclair Lewis? We may be proud of what we did in the interests of the human race. No bullfights are allowed here. We refuse to sanction the ceremonial deaths of any animals. You can go to jail for abusing a horse. They will take a dog away from you if you maltreat it. We build clinics and hospitals, our laws are just. We attempt to help those persecuted by poverty.

"My daily mail generally contains a plea for those in anguish. We're a country of the five-day week and the long weekend. We don't permit children to work in factory or mine office or shop. We're all right, we are, and who can locate a finer place on earth to live?

"In Augusta, Ga., they promoted a fight between Beau Jack and Ike Williams. It is a small matter, I suppose, because this is a sporting event. But all of us, who live here and believe in what we are, should feel disgraced because this event occurred. Beau Jack was beaten so badly he couldn't come out of his corner in the ninth round.

"We grieve for all those that suffer in distant lands and assist them in various ways. But how about Beau Jack and Ike Williams? They fought for money and were reimbursed for enduring pain. If this is sanctioned, then why shouldn't we licence cock fights, dog fights and bear baiting?

"There were men who made this match for profit. I'm sure the people of Augusta would have been disgusted if chickens had fought in the same arena. In secret barns in many rural districts, cocks and dogs fight until they're dead.

"But it is a clandestine proposition. The ASPCA would demand it be stopped if such a contest was publicized. We take care of our animals here. It's too bad Beau Jack's a human being."

It sickened me to read that brief story filed out of Augusta. Back to his beginning went Beau Jack and he was impoverished when we left. He had been lightweight champion of the world and so had Williams. Do you realize that Beau Jack took more money out of the Garden than any other fighter who ever fought there? Where did it go; who got it? Who cares?

He is a cripple, Beau Jack, and his leg drags, since he broke his knee-cap, fighting Tony Janiro. They picked up his licence here and in other States, too. But what kind of men do his business now? And who promotes it and gets out the press notices? He was, the last time I saw him, aching with regret because he couldn't fight any more. But his face was lumped and scarred from old lacerations and all he had was out of him. So throw him in and get a quick dollar. The hell with him, Beau Jack, the shoe-shine boy, who believed that the fight racket was a marvellous sport. Where are the rich men who sponsored him now? They made him a pet and bragged about him and told him they would guarantee this kid's future. Do you remember them rushing into the dressing room and getting their photographs taken with him and using him to escape from their opulent obscurity? One of them was a sports writer, but he's through with the business now. I'm glad he is.

Don't blame Chick Wergeles, who was his agent when he was good. Maybe he took too many fights for him, but Wergeles chucked it and isn't in with this atrocity.

But there are always hustlers who take them when they're this way and use them. And Beau Jack believed it would last forever. He was wonderful, full of goodness and gratitude and he understood what being a champion means. He knew that and not much more.

I hope they all read the dispatches out of Augusta. I wish Rocky Marciano and Ray Robinson see it and Archie Moore and Bobo Olson and Carmine Basilio and Vince Martinez. It should be posted on the walls of every fight club and gymnasium in the country. It should be tacked on the bulletin board in the Country Club where Beau Jack shined shoes and the big men made such a fuss over him.

Yours truly,
Richard Carruthers.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

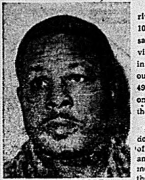
Archie Moore, the fabulous Old Man River of boxing, dares the explosive fists of Yvon Durelle, the fighting fisherman, for the second time in eight months in Montreal's Forum tonight.



ARCHIE MOORE

This renews the flaming rivalry which, on December 10, 1958, in the same arena saw Moore 43 years plus, survive four knockdowns, three in the first round, to knock out the 29-year-old Durelle at 49 seconds of the 11th round on a fourth knockdown, two in the final round.

On that performance, undoubtedly the most dramatic of his 205-fight career; the amazing Archie swept to almost universal acceptance as the Fighter of the Year. In truth it was the most exciting championship fight, or one of them, since the dawn of the Queensberry era.

Yvon, heavily muscled native of Baie Ste. Anne, New Brunswick fishing village, with a hot-and-cold record, had gone in a 6-7 to one underdog. At the end of the first round he was a 100-1 shot to unseat the champion. But he failed because of Moore's will, condition and craftiness, not to mention his own lack of following up his advantage.

Archie, who has held the 175-pound crown since his December 17 ,1952, triumph over Joey Maxim, will be making his eighth title defence. In between he made two unsuccessful tries at the heavyweight crown against Rocky Marciano and Floyd Patterson. Apart from Sugar Ray Robinson, unfrocked as middleweight champion in NBA States, though still recognized by New York, no titleholder has reigned as long as Moore.

Ole Archie, the man who doesn't make mistakes, generally, but who did in the first round of the first fight, is confident he has Durelle's number as he demonstrated from the sixth round until he finished Yvon in the 11th.

At the same time at Archie's age, you never know when your number's up as a champion and his deep difficulty (four knockdowns) before he got rolling to register the same number against Durelle may be a hint that a physical fold-up is nearer than he realizes.

Brainwise Moore will go in with everything tonight to finish on top easier than the last time. But there is a question. Is there something in Durelle's chopping right and looping left hook which could make them effective again. And weight must be placed on Archie's know-how for this assignment which he gained by the hard way in the first battle.

The last fight-pattern was in reverse of what was expected since slow-starter Durelle began fast and Moore, whom it had been suggested might run down in a long fight, had the stamina to take it and dish it out.

This time Ole Archie doesn't figure to attempt a blitz in deference to danger but he won't hesitate to press after four rounds or so. It looks like the old champ has made it, but—the one-hoss shay is going to come apart some Judgment Day. This could be it.

The emotional Yvon is determined to win this one. He cried in his dressing room after the last fight, blaming himself for not closing in on Moore faster after he had dropped the champion three times in the first round. He said: "for a moment after the third knockdown I thought the fight was over. That's why I waited before going after Moore again. I thought the referee Jack Sharkey had signalled."

Incidentally Sharkey has been named the referee for tonight's fight and the appointment raised protest in the Durelle camp. Durelle's manager has repeatedly said, "We don't want Sharkey." The consensus of the Durelle entourage was Moore had got the benefit of a "long count" on at least one of the four knockdowns.

Tonight there should be no excuses or alibis. Both fighters learned a lesson at their last meeting and tonight should bring out how apt pupils they are. Both men are in fine physical condition and well within the weight limit.

Durelle has gained a lot of respect as a puncher since his last fight with Moore. Before that he was regarded as a Pier Two brawler. Besides he has had the benefit of the great Charlie Goldman, one of the finest trainers in boxdom.

It should be quite a battle. As a Canadian we are pulling for Durelle to win—but while the heart is with the "voyageur" the five cents is on the champion. And taking into consideration our reputation as a prize-fight prognosticator gained in former predictions, you would be wise to bet your money on the fisherman.

Yanks Making Back-Stretch Drive, Win Six In Row

Now Within 10 Games of Top As Chisox, Indians Beaten; Giants Still Pulling Away

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

If Milwaukee doesn't win the pennant this year, blame it on Cincinnati Reds, the team that was most responsible for Braves capturing the flag in 1957 and 1958.

Braves whipped Reds 18 out of 22 in 1957 and won the championship by eight games. Last year, Milwaukee took 17 out of 22 from Reds and again won by eight games.

It's a little different this year. Including Tuesday night's split of a doubleheader, Braves have been able to win only six of the 14 games played with Reds. Hence they're in third place today, 3½ games behind league-leading San Francisco Giants.

Braves had to come from behind to win the second game 7-3 after Cincinnati had won the opener 4-3. Giants needed 10 innings to defeat St. Louis Cardinals, 5-4, and widened their lead to three games over second-place Los Angeles, beaten 5-4 by Chicago Cubs in 10 innings.

TWO HOMERS HELPED

In the second game Reds led 3-1 but Joe Adcock slammed his second homer of the night and Billy Bruton followed with another four-bagger to give Braves' Lew Burdette his 16th triumph, and first of the season over Reds. They had beaten him three times.

Home runs by Gus Bell and Frank Robinson accounted for Warren Spahn's 11th defeat in the opener, his fourth by Reds.

Willie Kirkland drove in four runs to account for all but one of Giants' runs as they swept the two-game series from St. Louis, making it 13 out of 16 for the season. Lindy McDaniel was the victim. Stu Miller, in relief, picked up his second victory in two nights.

Tenth-inning home runs by Alvin Dark and Tony Taylor offset a run scored by Los Angeles in the top of the inning and gave relief pitcher Bill Henry his seventh triumph. Ernie Banks drove in Chicago's first three runs with his 33rd home run and a single.

Gene Freese drove in two runs with his 16th home run and a single to hand Bob Friend his 15th defeat against four wins. Harry Anderson hit a two-run homer for the winners to help Don Cardwell notch his sixth triumph.

Are New York Yankees finally making an American League pennant push or is it merely a salary drive?

Whatever it is, the defending champions are playing their best baseball of the season. Tuesday's 8-5 victory over Boston Red Sox was their sixth straight and their best winning streak of the year.

New York moved to within 10 games of Chicago White Sox, beaten 8-1 by Detroit Tigers, while Kansas City athletics were defeating Cleveland's second-place Indians 7-3. Baltimore Orioles and Washington Senators were not scheduled.

A six-run fifth inning was the clincher for the Yankees Tuesday. Two-run doubles by Tony Kubek and Hector Lopez, a couple of Boston errors and a wild pitch featured the wild inning that gave Duke Maas his 11th triumph and Jerry Casale his eighth defeat.

KALINE HITS HOMER

Al Kaline's three-run homer in the first, his 20th of the season, was all Jim Bunning needed to notch his 10th victory for Detroit as he held the White Sox to eight hits. The defeat was charged to Billy Pierce, his 12th against as many victories.

Bud Daley became the first Athletic pitcher to win 13 games in the team's five-year history in Kansas City. The lefthander permitted nine hits including homers to Minnie Minoso and Rocky Colavito in the sixth when the Indians scored all their runs.

It was Colavito's 34th of the year, placing him one behind league-leader Harmon Killebrew of Washington. A five-run spree against Jim Grant in the first made it easy for Daley.

Leafs Split With Marlins; Royals Lose Two

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Columbus Jets, having realized one ambition, are reaching for bigger and better things — second place in the International League.

The Jets ran up their longest winning string of the year—five—as they defeated Rochester 3-2 in 11 innings Tuesday night. Six previous times they reached four in a row but never broke through.

Attaining second place seems to be just as hard. The Jets lost a half game as runnerup Havana swept a pair from Montreal by 3-2 scores. The Jets are a game and a half behind the Cubans, who trail Buffalo by seven.

Buffalo defeated Richmond 11-2 and Miami split a twin bill with Toronto. The Marlins took the nightcap 2-1 in 12 innings after Toronto won a 6-5, 10 - inning game.

Nino Escalera's two-out single in the 11th drove in winning relief pitcher Don Williams (3-3) with Columbus' clincher. Reliever Tom Hurd (0-2) lost. Charley James hit his 14th home run for Rochester.

ROYALS PROTEST

Montreal protested the nightcap after manager Clay Bryant and Curt Roberts were ejected for arguing a called third strike. Borrego Alvarez hit home runs in both games as Walt Craddock (10-7) and Ted Wieand (14-9) chalked up victories. Yoyo Davalillo's sacrifice fly scored the winning run in the sixth inning of the first game. Curt Roberts and Babe Birrer homered for Montreal.

Buffalo chased loser Bob Wiesler (11-10) with four runs in the first inning and wound up the night with five in the ninth. Art Mahaffey (6-4) was the winner. Bob Martyn and Jim Pisoni hit home runs for Richmond.

Johnny Bucha's single in the 12th inning of the nightcap drove in Bert Hamric and gave Miami's Jim Archer (10-7) the victory. He pitched 12 innings as did loser Al Pehanick (4-5). Hamric also homered.

Bobby Wills' two errors in the 10th inning paved the way for Toronto's first-game victory. With the bases loaded, Hec Rodriguez hit a roller to third. Third baseman Woody Smith started an apparent double play. But Wills missed the tag at second and threw wildly to first as the winning run scored. Pat Scantlebury (10-2) was the winner and Art Kay (6-5) the loser.

Gal Golfers Not Particular About Playing With Marlene

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—An old bromide around women's golf circles is that Western Canada golfers might just as well miss the starter's call whenever they are drawn against Marlene Stewart Streit. They'll be beaten nine of 10 times.

The records prove it. Mrs. Streit has won the Canadian Open five times and Canadian Close on seven occasions since she hit the big time in 1951 and her path has been strewn with such victims as Betty Stanhope of Edmonton, now Mrs. G. A. Cole, and fellow-Albertans Mary Gay and Rae Milligan of Calgary.

Another test is due today when Mrs. Streit, a former Fonthill, Ont., resident now living in Toronto, opens the second round of the match-play open against Mrs. Cole, 1957 winner. Mary Gay surprised everybody that memorable year with a second-round decision over Mrs. Streit and was bowled over by Mrs. Cole in the final.

HEAVILY FAVORED

But no one around the suburban St. George's Club here can see anyone in the select field of 16, including three Americans and one English woman, defeating the 25-year-old Mrs. Streit who got into today's play with a 2 and 1 triumph over 21-year-old Lou Evans, also Toronto, in Tuesday's opening round.

The tally at the end showed Ontario and Quebec with three survivors each, Alberta with four, British Columbia with two, Manitoba's lone starter, Margaret Kiggins of Winnipeg, lost 2 and 1 to Miss Gay. The two Saskatchewan entries were eliminated.

U.K. CHAMP UPSET

A big surprise was the 5 and 4 thumping 27 - year - old Mrs. Bruce McGhie of New York handed British amateur champion Elizabeth Price. It was a story of a blazing putter against a misbehaving greens club.

The most exciting match involved another British player, 31-year-old Mrs. Marley Spearman of Sudbury, England, and Mrs. Robert Lyle of Montreal. This time, atrocious putting almost cost the invader the match.

She three-putted three greens, was four down at the turn and only pinpoint approaches enabled her to even the match at the 15th and win out on the extra hole.

Ada Mackenzie 65-year-old Torontonian, was taken to an extra hole before turning aside Mrs. E. C. K. Finch of New Canaan, Conn.

Mrs. H. S. Semple of Allegheny, Pa., also needed an extra hole to defeat Mrs. S. J. Dalrymple of St. Catharines.

Moore Is Strong Favorite To Retain World Title

But Fisherman Is Confident Says He'll Win by Knockout; Fight Televised in U.S.A.

By JOHN YORSTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Archie Moore the scientist and Yvon Durelle the brawler tonight go at it for the second time for the world light-heavyweight boxing championship.

Archie is a strong favorite to retain his title despite the spectacular near - upset Durelle caused in their first meeting last Dec. 10.

The old ring master was a 3½-4½ to one favorite to win tonight. The odds favored him 5-1 in their first meeting.

But the New Brunswick challenger is unconcerned about odds. "I'll be in there trying. I won't be hard to find," he said.

"I think the fight will end in a knockout,but I don't intend to be knocked out myself."

ATTACK ARCHIE'S ARMS

Durelle's camp has said it's strategy will be to try to weaken Archie's arms—the biggest and strongest in boxing—early in the fight, then strike when they sag. One of Moore's greatest assets is his ability to flick his elbows out and absorb what could be stinging blows.

Just what the champion's strategy will be was anyone's guess. He wasn't talking. There was speculation he might try to end it quickly, just the way Durelle tried in their first fight.

A chirpy Durelle went through light drill Tuesday, spending almost as much time clowning as working. Moore, also appearing pretty chipper, raised a slight sweat too.

Neither man has a weight problem. They've been inside or within easy reach of the 175-pound limit for several days.

HAS TAX TROUBLES

Durelle was visited by four officers of the provincial income tax bureau who presented him with an $1,100 tax bill on his share of the gate. The matter was turned over to promoter Eddie Quinn's office.

He was also sore at the selection of Jack Sharkey as referee.

"I don't like him," the fisherman declared. "That's short and sweet, isn't it? I don't want him. But what can I do? I'm not the champion.

"He gave me a raw deal last time. When I knocked Moore down, Sharkey wiped off his gloves, then mine. He shouldn't have wiped mine. That gave Moore a chance to rest."

Moore in his 22 years of professional boxing has won 175 of 205 fights, losing 24 and drawing six. His 127 knockouts is a record, made at Durelle's expense in the 11th round of the first meeting. Durelle's record is 77-20-2, including 40 knockouts.

About 12,000 people are expected to pay $160,000 to see the fight which will be televised in the United States but not in Canada. Only radio ringside description will be over a six-station Maritimes hookup.

"That last time wasn't any fluke," he said. "Durelle knocked Moore down four times. They were good, solid punches."

D.A.'s Office Claims Norris Had Talks With Hood Carbo

NEW YORK (AP)—A source in the office of district attorney Frank Hogan said Tuesday he had information that Jim Norris, former head of the International Boxing Club, met last January with Frankie Carbo, alleged underworld boxing figure.

Carbo has been indicted on charges of conspiracy and acting as a fight manager without a licence.

Norris' name was brought into the current investigation when general sessions Judge Gerald Culkin signed an order giving the New York State Athletic Commission testimony of certain witnesses who appeared before a grand jury investigating boxing.

Assistant district attorney Thomas McBride said the testimony was given June 3 by Carmen Basilio, former world welter and middleweight champion, and John DeJohn, one of his co-managers, and June 29 by Joe Netro, the other co-manager.

CITES ABUSES

McBride said testimony indicated "the following conditions and abuses which are jeopardizing the integrity of boxing:

"1. Conversations between a prominent promoter who did not testify before the grand jury and Paul John Carbo, also known as Frankie Carbo, while Carbo was a fugitive from an indictment returned by a New York County grand jury.

"2. Meetings between boxing managers and Carbo while Carbo was a fugitive.

"3. A meeting between a leading boxer and Carbo while Carbo was a fugitive."

Hogan would not identify any of the men but a source in his office said the "prominent promoter" was Norris, the "boxing managers" were DeJohn and Netro and the "leading boxer" was Basilio.

The district attorney had wanted to question Norris in connection with his continuing investigation of boxing but it was ruled the former promoter was not in physical condition to testify.

"But now we find that he's been talking with Carbo and in addition to that he's been to Florida race tracks. We would still very much like to talk with him," Hogan said.

GOLFER'S BIRTHDAY

Dr. R. C. Spangler said after the nine-hour, 364-stroke marathon: "I feel fine. I don't feel especially tired at all."

It was the 10th straight year that Spangler, a retired biology professor, celebrated his birthday in this way.

Yvon Darling Of American Sports Writers

NEW YORK (CP) — Yvon Durelle is the darling of American sports writers. They have probed his way of life better than a private eye on TV and concluded he is delightful copy.

The elite of the boxing writers have been in Montreal for several days and in that time have worked over the big fisherman's colorful background with unusual vigor. The result has been many columns on the Canadian challenger.

Tonight millions of American TV watchers will see Durelle try for the second time to wrest the world light heavyweight crown from Archie Moore, the aging battleship whose big guns never really have been spiked.

It used to be that old Arch, an erudite fellow, provided the good copy. Not that he hasn't this time, but the writers seemed to enjoy their work more in the Canadian camp and their accounts showed it.

Few give Durelle much of a chance this time despite his five months of work to improve his boxing. They figure that at 30 it is too late to teach an old dog new tricks.

Speaking of the Canadian's dream-street right, Smith said: "It is not given to any man to escape such peril more than once in a lifetime. And Archie already has used up several lifetimes in the ring."

The Tribune's Jesse Abramson gives Durelle a slight chance. "Still, there is the chance that one punch by Durelle on an old chin supported by an old body and old legs will decide it."

Doc Kearns, Moore's talkative manager, has blamed the first fight postponement last July 15—attributed to an ankle injury to Moore—really on the hoopla over Ingemar Johansson's knockout of heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson and the Queen's royal visit.

Gene Ward of the New York Daily News quoted Kearns in this masterpiece:

"That took the edge off our fight here (in Montreal) and then Queen Victoria arrived about that time."

"You mean Queen Elizabeth," he was reminded.

"Yeah," said Kearns, "not Queen Victoria. I was thinking about one of Moore's earlier fights."

Toronto Rink Wins Ontario Bowling Title

By DON SCANDRETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto rink skipped by H. Duke won the Ontario lawn bowling tournament rinks event Tuesday night after a series of easy wins.

In the finals, Duke's rink of Wilf LeBarr, Walter Luke and Hugh Barr had little trouble in putting down the Oakville grandfather, father and son Aiton combination 15-10.

KINGSTON OUSTED

Kingston's R. H. Edney Rink went down in the quarter-finals, 16-6, to a Niagara Falls, N.Y., rink skipped by A. Merrin in the biggest upset of the tournament.

In the semi-finals Duke downed a rink skipped by Brampton's C. V. Charters 15-12 while Aiton won 12-9 over Merrin.

Duke earlier defeated W. Gilbert's Niagara Falls, Ont., quartet of F. Marcante, Jerry O'Sullivan and D. Beaupit 17-8.

Edney, using the same rink with which he took the event in 1958—L. D. Duncan, E. Dennison and W. Duncan—had won the fourth round with easy victories before his upset loss to Merrin.

Edney won a 12-11 decision over Caledonia's Neil Salkeld, Canadian Dominion singles champion of last year, in the third round.

OTHER EVENTS

Losers in the preliminary round were relegated to subtrophy competition.

The second trophy of the rink's event went to W. C. Wert of Ottawa, who defeated T. H. Mead of Toronto 23-19.

Bobcats Take Third From Cobourg Hayden's Homer Clinches 3-0 Win

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Denny Hayden's towering two-run homer in the eighth clinched a Bobcats 3-0 victory over Cobourg here last night and gave the Temple crew a 3-2 lead in their district softball league semi-finals,

The sixth game of the series is scheduled for Cobourg tonight and the seventh if necessary will be played at the CNRA Park here Friday.

Earl Cousins clean single to centre, the third hit of the game off Cobourg's "Sleepy" Dawe set the stage for the game-clinching four-bagger. Up to this point. "Sleepy" had set the Bobcats bludgeons down with two measly infield hits, striking out six and walking but one.

It had been another spine-tingling mound duel between Dawe and Bobby Hull with the Bobcats righthander holding a one-run edge and giving up but five hits four of them bunts or close infield hits. Hull whiffed five and issued three walks.

The Cats again came through with a near-perfect fielding exhibition with Lammy Lamirande turning in a fine performance at the hot corner. Their only error, and the lone bobble of the game came when Hayden juggled a throw at first to give a runner life.

Outstanding fielding stifled potential Cobourg runs on two occasions. In the second innings McGahan singled and Clarey walked. McSporran lined a single to centre field but Bert Faulkner's perfect "strike" to the plate nipped McGahan as he raced home. Hull retired the side.

In the fourth Dawe led off with a single and was sacrificed to second. Clarey singled to centre and was trapped between first and second. Hull raced back to tag him out and turned to fire the ball to the plate to nip Dawe going home with a cleverly executed double play.

The Cats scored their first run in the second when Hull walked, stole second and went to third on a passed ball. Cousins' ground single went just inside the third base sack and Hull galloped home.

From there on to the eighth Hull and Dawe cleared the decks backed by fine defensive work of their clubs. Hull gave up a single and a walk in the top of the ninth but retired the side on infield outs.

While Hayden was the hero of the piece with his game-clinching homer, Earl Cousins helped with a pair of singles. Floyd Crawford beat out a grounder to register the Cats fourth hit.

Dawe had a brace of singles for Cobourg with Campbell, a pinch-hitter, McGahan, Clarey and McSporran also hitting safely.

COBOURG — O'Brien, B. Hart, Turpin, Dawe, McGahan, Clarey, McSporran, McIvor, J. Hart, Campbell.

Paris Noises Will Play Part In Chevalier's Radio Show

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — The last time I saw Paris, about a month ago, the French were trying to suppress horn blowing and kindred assaults upon the ear drums —presumably in the hope that Rome would retain its reputation as the noisiest city in Europe.

While Paris remains noisy, it offers more interesting noises than any city I know.

And it turns out that Maurice Chevalier has been thinking about the sounds of Paris a good deal more intensively than I. In fact, these sounds will have a prominent role in a CBS radio show, Holiday with Chevalier, which will be presented Sept. 27 (5:05 p.m., EDT) to mark the 30th anniversary of Chevalier's debut on American radio.

THOUGHT INTERESTING

When Chevalier suggested the noises of Paris as a part of the program to Howard G. Barnes, CBS radio program vice-president, Barnes thought it an interesting idea.

After wandering around Paris with a tape recording crew for two days, Barnes says, "I never knew that a city could make so many noises or that they meant so much to everyone who ever has been to Paris, in the flesh or in his fancy. I've conducted some auditions in my time, but this was the first time I ever auditioned a whole city."

Here are some of the sounds that have impressed Barnes, Chevalier and many another visitor and Parisian:

The cheerful whine of accordions in the Bals Musettes, the muffled cries from the puppet shows along the Bois de Boulogne, those creaking elevators in the Eiffel Tower, vegetable hucksters, junk men, street singers — all seem to have distinctive, haunting cries.

Barnes became so interested in the subject that he almost forgot to mention that Holiday with Chevalier will have people on the program too. Besides Chevalier himself, there will be Michel Legrand and his orchestra, Jacqueline Francois, Les Compagnons de la Chanson, Line Renaud, Juliette Greco and Sacha Distel.

Minor Leagues Crowds Show Big Increase

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Baseball executives meeting here for a two-day session heard an encouraging report Tuesday on minor league attendance.

George M. Trautman, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, reported an increase of almost 500,000 over figures of a year ago.

The minor league boss made the report to farm club directors of all 16 major league teams and nine minor league presidents.

Trautman, beaming with confidence, said "I feel we have turned the corner — this report should be a shock to the prophets of doom."

He said it marked the first time since 1949 that the minors had showed any kind of increase in attendance at this time of the year.

Total attendance for 20 leagues for the period ended July 31 was 7,681,149 compared to 7,185,472 for a like period in 1958.

The attendance was up in 12 leagues and down in eight for a net increase of 495,677.

The attendance breakdown to July 31 (1958 figures in brackets) included: American Association: 1,061,311 (886,398); International League 1,270,296 (1,222,996).

Argos' Mann Arrested on Dope Charge

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts Tuesday night put up bail of $3,000 for their star halfback Dave Mann and said he would dress for a pre-season game tonight against Saskatchewan Rough Riders.

Mann was arrested Tuesday along with seven other persons and charged with illegal possession of marijuana following raids by Metropolitan Police and RCMP on two apartments.

Police confiscated about $100 worth of marijuana. They said there was no indication of trafficking involved.

Bail of $3,000 each was also set for: Jack Kane, 25, Isabel Gail d'Arcy, 24, Mary Harding, 23, Gwendolyn Findlay, 24, Geraldine Chipman, 24, and Allen Shorter, 27.

All seven will appear in court today.

Mann, 27, was top team scorer of the Argos last season and was fifth in Big Four scoring. Six-foot-one and 190 pounds, the halfback came to Toronto from the Chicago Cardinals.

British Rugger Player to Join Ti-Cats

MONTREAL (CP)—A 24-year-old British Rugby League player who stowed away on the Sylvania arrived here Tuesday night. He plans to set out today for the training camp of the Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Brian Binns, formerly with the Huddersfield rugby team, said he is determined to prove his worth as a Canadian football player.

He has made arrangements with the steamship firm to pay for his passage.

He said his trip to Canada resulted from a talent hunt in Britain last year by manager Jake Gaudaur of Hamilton, defending champions of the Big Four Football Union.

Gaudaur said in Britain he would be interested in anyone who could be recommended to him. Binns has been described by his former trainer as one of the best players in the English League. Binns is a "loose forward, second row" a position roughly equivalent to fullback in Canadian football.

Binns said he likes the Canadian game. He said he had been likened to fullback Pat Abruzzi of Calgary Stampeders, formerly of Montreal Alouettes. "I'm told our style is similar."

"There are many other players in Britain who would leap at the opportunity of playing here but hesitate to leave the security over there."

'Yes, Mr. de Mille' Splendid, Fascinating Biography

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Hit sex hard! . . . Keep the stuff down to earth . . . your job is to please me. Nothing else on earth matters."

These were Cecil B. de Mille's instructions to his crews of writers. They may help to explain de Mille to a Hollywood that is still puzzling over his strange genius six months after his death.

The words are contained in a fascinating new biography, Yes, Mr. de Mille, by Phil Koury, for seven years the great man's publicity chief and now a Kansas City lawyer. It probably will remain the most honest and the most interesting of the books to be written about the showman. Here are some things you can learn:

De Mille strove mightily to get Vic Mature to fight a real lion in Samson and Delilah. He argued that the lion had been trained as a cub and was fed on milk. Mature commented: "I was raised on milk, too, but I eat meat now."

LION FOLLOWS HEDY

The director even got co-star Hedy Lamarr to parade the aging beast past Mature's dressing room. The actor's only comment: "You're so beautiful, Hedy. I can see how any lion would follow you around." But he held his ground and fought a stuffed animal. . .

The director's outbursts on the set were famous. Seeing two assistant directors chatting idly one day, he intoned into the microphone before the cast and crew:

"I'm running a set costing $50,000 a day, and you gentlemen seem to have found time to play at marbles. If you are not quite up to this whole thing, may I suggest that you find yourself another picture, perhaps one with a kindergarten hour . . ."

BLASTS GUM CHEWER

An extra chewing gum could be withered with a blast over the microphone. De Mille explained: "My ferocity is always studied ferocity. When something really makes me angry, I get extremely quiet. Anger is no time for words I use a careful lash. Something of the sort is necessary to steady a company before a big scene."

De Mille seemed immune to the small infirmities that plague most humans. He had but one small filling in his teeth. He never suffered routine viruses, explaining: "No bug is brave enough or mean enough to live in me. . .

He hated the "big city critics" who said his pictures were full of hokum. Said he: "Well, what is hokum? It is pure and simple emotion. Christ making the blind girl see, I suppose, is hokum. They say my pictures are spectacles. Was the Crucifixion a spectacle? That had a lot of people. Was Guadalcanal a spectacle?"

Lacrosse Scores

BRAMPTON (CP) — Long Branch Dixie Castrols defeated Brampton Excelsiors 8-7 in Ontario Senior Lacrosse action here Tuesday night.

HEAVY SEAS KILL FOUR

YOKOSUKA, Japan (AP)—Heavy seas generated by typhoon Ellen caused the death of four sailors on the U.S. Navy's attack transport Bexar, the navy announced today. The Bexar was en route to Okinawa Sunday when a huge wave broke over her bow, washing two men overboard and knocking seven others against the anchor windlass and a bulwar. Two of the latter died of their injuries.

Hard to Sue Bartender Says Board Lawyer

TORONTO (CP) — Thomas Young, secretary - treasurer of a Toronto bartenders union, said Monday it would be hard for a man to sue a bartender who allowed him to become intoxicated even though the law allows it.

He was agreeing with statements by Col. C. E. Woodrow, solicitor for the liquor licence board, that although Ontario law says a drunk who gets into trouble can sue the bartender who lets him get drunk, it is difficult to prosecute.

The Liquor Licence Act says that if a bartender gives a patron liquor that would "intoxicate him or increase his intoxication," the bartender can be sued for damages.

In Ontario there is a statute stating that a wife may sue a bartender for non-support if her husband loses his job for drinking.

The law also provides that if a drunk dies accidentally or commits suicide, the next of kin can bring suit under the Fatal Accidents Act against whoever supplied him with liquor.

Several insurance companies and both the Ontario and Toronto hotel associations said they had no record of bartenders ever being sued for allowing their patrons to drink too much.

Polio Again Major Summer Hazard In 3 Provinces

Montreal and Nfld. Bear Brunt Crippling Disease

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Polio is once again a major summertime hazard in three Canadian provinces.

Montreal has borne the brunt of the crippling disease's comeback but Ontario and Newfoundland also report a sharp rise in the number of cases this year.

In the Quebec metropolis, after 22 new cases were registered Wednesday, civic health authorities called a special medical council meeting for Thursday to decide whether the outbreak had reached epidemic proportions. Thus far authorities have scrupulously avoided the term.

The new cases raised this year's total in the area—which has a population of about 1,800,000—to 206, 13 of them fatal. Last year at this time five were reported, one fatal. Elsewhere in Quebec, six cases were recorded.

17 ONTARIO CASES

In Ontario only 17 cases have been registered, three of them fatal. But this is triple the total last year and provincial authorities are worried.

Newfoundland, with a population of less than 500,000 and no large metropolitan areas, had 37 polio cases and a death-toll of three, all of them children.

The situation was officially termed an epidemic.

The Maritime Provinces seemed to have largely escaped the outbreak. Neither Nova Scotia nor Prince Edward Island reported any cases and New Brunswick had a total of five—one fatal—all reported last month.

VACCINE VALUE SHOWN

In Montreal, only seven victims had been vaccinated and they were suffering only mild forms of the disease. In Ontario only two of the victims had been given the complete program of three shots.

More than two-thirds of Ontario's adults have not bothered to protect themselves against polio, health officials said. But 90 per cent of school children have been immunized.

Deputy Health Minister Dr. W. G. Brown warned "polio can strike any time of the year, and it doesn't take any particular age bracket or location to strike."

FREE CLINICS

Montreal met its problem by setting up free clinics that gave first shots to nearly 20,000 people in two days and closed the wading pools and public beaches which had been heavily-patronized during the hot, humid weather this summer.

As a precautionary measure the city appealed to the federal department of health for additional iron lungs to augment the supply of 17. Six were immediately flown in from Winnipeg and another six held in readiness in Toronto. Earlier, Montreal sent seven lungs to Newfoundland in reply to an appeal.

City health officer, Dr. Adelard Groulx said Wednesday "with the help of Salk vaccine we hope to limit the outbreak to 300 cases." This would be less than half the number recorded in 1946, an epidemic year.

Only Made Bets With Accused on Friendly Basis

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jo-[illegible] Anton Kaleel has been [illegible] of bookmaking charges because he only took bets from friends.

Several witnesses told U.S. Judge David W. Ling they made bets with Kaleel on a friendly basis, not as professional bookmaker and customer.

Kaleel was charged with avoiding a federal tax. Patrick Coleman, assistant U.S. attorney said Kakleel handled $50,000 a month in bets.

Kaleel's lawyer convinced Judge Ling that it was no more unusual for Kaleel to accept bets of $1,000 and $2,000 from friends "than for me to step outside this courtroom and bet five cents on a baseball game.

"And believe me, your honor," said the lawyer, "I could find plenty of people to bet with in this building."

Prime Minister Hints Changes In Cabinet

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker today returned from a western holiday and indicated that he will make one or more changes in his cabinet in the next few days.

He gave no immediate hint of what the change or changes will be but said cabinet has a heavy agenda of work today.

He said a decision will have to be made by it today or Friday on which Canadian company will get the contract to build air frames for the Starfighter jet which the RCAF is equipping [illegible] of its NATO Air Division squadrons.

The prime minister was asked about the possibility of a visit to Canada by Premier Khrushchev when the Russian premier goes to the United States.

He said he does not expect an announcement today or Friday on that matter. He wanted to catch up on the discussions of his cabinet colleagues on it first.

PREVIOUS REPORTS

Reports of a cabinet shuffle have been circulating in Ottawa for weeks, since Works Minister Howard Green took over the external affairs portfolio vacated by the death of Sydney Smith.

Mr. Green still retains the works post along with the House of Commons leadership.

Speculation on his successor in public works has centred on Trade Minister Gordon Churchill and David Walker, MP for Toronto Rosedale. Should Mr. Churchill move to public works, Transport Minister George Hees has been mentioned as a probable successor.

Another cabinet post could be created by the reported imminent move to the Senate of Veterans Minister Brooks, which likely would bring into the ministry Tom Bell of Saint John-Albert.

Sailor Treads Water Two Hours Death Was Near When Rescued

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Garguilo Francesco, 33, couldn't fight back the thought that this was finito—the end.

There he was treading water in the Atlantic more than 40 miles from the Virginia coast. His ship, the Liberian collier White River on a course to The Netherlands, grew smaller in the distance.

For two hours Francesco used what little swimming skill he had to stay afloat. Death was not only a prospect but merely a matter of a little more time.

Then the fate that had caused the Italian seaman to lose his balance while working near a rail and topple into the sea unnoticed Tuesday took an apologetic turn.

The navy rescue vessel Kittiwake on a direct course into Norfolk only because an injured diver needed hospital treatment spotted him in the water. A half hour later a small boat from the Kittiwake put him safely aboard the navy ship.

Telling about it all through an interpreter Wednesday, the sailor said he'd never been able to swim more than a few minutes at a time. He probably will be flown home to Naples.

CHINESE REDS HIT AMERICANS IN WAR OF WORDS

Charge Laos Is Military Base

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP) — The Communists made new charges today that the United States is attempting to convert Laos into a military base threatening Red China and North Viet Nam.

Peiping declared that the situation in the Indochina kingdom, where royal troops have been clashing with Red rebels, "has worsened and become more grave."

While the war of words ground on, Laos' frontier with her Communist neighbors apparently was quiet. Reports from Vientiane, the Laotian capital, said there have been no significant skirmishes in the mountainous jungles of northern Laos in a week or 10 days.

80 ADVISERS ONLY

The U.S. state department brushed off China's charge that the Americans are fomenting trouble in Laos. There are 80 American military advisers in Laos but the spokesman denied the United States has any bases or troops in the little Buddhist kingdom. U.S. military and security aid to Laos for the 1959 fiscal year totalled $22,900,000.

China charged that "American imperialism has extended its military threat right to the borders of China and the (Communist) democratic republic of Viet Nam." The language of the article in the official Peiping People's Daily was reminiscent of that used by Peiping before China's intervention in the Korean War.

WARNS NEIGHBORS

North Viet Nam, which Laos has accused of equipping and training the rebels, added to the propaganda din.

Premier Pham Van Dong sent notes to five southeast Asian countries—Thailand, South Viet Nam, Burma, Cambodia and Indonesia—warning them against sending troops to Laos. He said this would undermine North Viet Nam's security.

Diplomatic sources at the United Nations said Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold is trying to arrange mediation of the dispute along the Laos-North Viet Nam border.

Warning Line 'Major Blunder Waste of Money'

OTTAWA (CP) — Group Capt. Charles Limbrick, retired RCAF radar chief, said today the Mid-Canada Warning Line was a "colossal blunder and waste of money."

He said he strenuously opposed construction of the electronic warning line along the 55th parallel but "the scientists rammed it down our throats."

"I was completely and utterly against this abortion of a Mid-Canada Line and nearly lost my job over it," Group Capt. Limerick said in an interview.

"In facth, I was relieved of my duties for a couple of weeks when I refused to sign an order for the experimental equipment."

RADAR, MISSILE HEAD

Group Capt. Limbrick retired last year as RCAF director of radio warfare. Before that, he was director of guided missiles. He was responsible for Canadian radar defences during the Second World War.

"I'm no amateur at this business and know what I'm talking about," he said.

India Will

Defend Its Tibetan Border Against Any Red Advances

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Prime Minister Nehru stated firmly today that India will defend its border with Tibet against any Communist encroachment.

Nehru also disclosed to Parliament that India has protested to the Communist Chinese government against propaganda describing Indians as "imperialists."

The prime minister was replying to a motion by a right-wing member of Parliament calling for a debate on "the grave threat to Indian security and territorial integrity emanating from the propaganda campaign let loose by the Chinese Communists. . . ."

The member, Atal Benari Vajpayee, said "huge Chinese forces" were being concentrated on the borders of Sikkim and Bhutan, which border on Tibet. He added that the security of India must be safeguarded and the country must be ready to meet any threat coming from that quarter.

Vajpayee said Communist leaders in Tibet called for the "liberation" of Ladakh, Bhutan and Sikkim at a mass meeting in Lhasa, the Tibetan capital, last month.

Nehru said Vajpayee's motion was based on newspaper reports of a speech supposed to have been made by Gen. Chang Kuo-hua, the Chinese government representative in Tibet.

The Indian government had no "reliable" information that Chang had referred to the three states in his speech, Nehru said.

There were large Chinese forces in Tibet, Nehru said, "but I do not think that any large forces are concentrated on our frontier. Anyhow, we are quite awake and alert over this matter . . ."

Nehru said India had received no communication from the Chinese government about the redrawing of the MacMahon line, which marks India's frontier with Tibet and China.

He was loudly cheered when he added in emphatic tones: "As far as we are concerned the MacMahon line is the frontier line—firm by treaty, frim by usage and rigrt and firm by geography."

Gulf Between Thinking of East And West Shown to Be Deep

GENEVA PARK, Lake Couchiching (CP)—Deep gulfs between the thinking of East and West were revealed during a free-hitting exchange involving Eastern panelists and a Western audience at Wednesday night's session of the conference of the Canadian Institute on Public Affairs.

The gulfs yawned particularly in the passionate words of Dr. L. N. Palar, Indonesian ambassador to Canada, and in the groans of the audience as he dug into raw points of Western sensibilities.

The audience all week had been generally understanding, sympathetic and largely approving of Eastern points of view, including the accomplishments of Communist China. But the raising of the points of colonialism, Hungary, and Tibet showed that East and West are talking different language on many issues.

Communist actions may be dangerous, Dr. Palar said, but they are not colonialism as the East understands it.

Under Western colonialism the West came in and ruled, but under the Communist system there was at least a national government of the country concerned—even in the case of Hungary.

Dr. Palar added, it is always the Communist countries which are supporting us and the democratic countries which are fighting us.

A member of the audience asked: "Doesn't colonialism mean white versus colored?"

Dr. Han Suyin, novelist from Singapore, replied:

"I think Asians do suffer from a white complex. They still have 'bees in their bonnets;' you can't blame them — you also have some bees in your bonnet."

Kazushige Hirasawa, editor of the Japan Times — whose main speech of the evening condemning communism was somewhat buried under the barrage which followed — expressed surprise at the East-West gap which the discussion indicated.

"I don't feel such a gap," he said, "but apparently there is such a gap."

Little Rock Said All Quiet As Negroes Return to School

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Four Negro children headed back to school with their white classmates today with police standing by to crush any further mass protests by segregationists.

Officers used clubs and fire hoses to break up a parade of some 200 men, women and children near Central High School when integrated classes opened at two schools Wednesday, but peace apparently was in sight today.

The demonstrators, coming from a rally in front of the state legislature where Arkansas Governor Orval Faubus addressed them, shouted, "Cowards!" at the policemen. Twenty-three of them were arrested.

In the schools themselves, officials said everything was normal.

One segregationist said he knew of no plans for any rallies today. He is Rev. Wesley Pruden, past president of the Capital Citizens Council, which spearheads segregation forces here.

Faubus advised the rally Wednesday to avoid violence.

Two Negroes went to Central High Wednesday but only one will go back today, said Mrs. L. C. Bates, Arkansas president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

She said Elizabeth Eckford went the first day of school only to talk with her counsellor. Elizabeth has gained enough credits through correspondence to enter college.

Thomas said the students at Central "didn't do anything or say anything."

At Hall High school three Negro girls were to return to classes today.

"Everything was okay," Elsie said of first-day classes.

The violence at Central broke out after the crowd marched from the legislature rally. Police Chief Gene Smith shouted for them to disperse.

When they didn't the police moved in on them with clubs. Several men were struck over the head. A fire truck stood by and Smith ordered a hose turned on the crowd.

Dies in Ambulance

ELMIRA (CP)—Barbara Shuh, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Shuh, died Wednesday night in an ambulance after being struck by a car in front of her home on Highway 86, 1½ miles east of here.

Will Oppose Interference By Fidel Castro

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Seven Latin American governments made obvious Wednesday night that they oppose interference by Premier Fidel Castro and his Cuban revolutionaries in the affairs of other Caribbean nations.

Mexico's Manuel Tello was applauded when he warned the inter-American foreign ministers conference to be "extraordinarily cautious" about changing the principle of intervention.

Brazil, Colombia, the Dominican Republic, El Salvador, Guatemala and Costa Rica also spoke strongly in favor of continued adherence to the principle of non-intervention.

None of the speakers mentioned Castro or Cuba specifically. But the Cuban revolutionary, and to a lesser extent Venezuelan President Romulo Betancourt, have been generally accused with being chiefly responsible for the wave of unrest in the Caribbean.

Charges by the Dominican Republic that Cuba is the training ground for revolutionaries bent on foreign invasions led to the calling of the conference to discuss the crisis in the Caribbean.

GOOD SAFETY RECORD

TRAIL, B.C. (CP)—This southeastern British Columbia city reached its 1,700th consecutive day Wednesday without a motor vehicle death.

MOM WALKS OUT, TIRED OF HEARING BAD EVIDENCE

Press and Public Not Admitted

HAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte, "tired of hearing evidence against her," walked out mid-way through Wednesday afternoon's court hearing on conditions in her Whytehaven Mission for Children.

The closed hearing is being held in this village five miles north of Bowmanville to determine whether the 107 children removed by provincial authorities from the mission were neglected children within the meaning of the Child Welfare Act.

The hearing was adjourned at 5:30 p.m. by Magistrate W. R. Philp after hearing nine Crown witnesses, mostly from provincial Health and Welfare departments. Crown Attorney Harry Deyman said he would call two medical witnesses today.

NOTHING FOR PRESS

Mrs. Whyte, shaken up by a car accident early Wednesday, brushed past reporters and photographers when she left the hearing.

She was driven to Whytehaven in Bowmanville by Rev. James Spiers of Winnipeg, who returned to the Darlington Township municipal hall where the hearing is being held.

"She just felt she wasn't doing any good sitting there and was tired of hearing evidence against her," said Mr. Spiers.

Banting Institute's Dr. J. C. Sinclair, hepatitis specialist, was testifying when Mrs. Whyte left. The hearing was closed to the press and public.

Other witnesses included Dr. Jean Moore of the health department, G. B. Bent of the Ontario fire marshal's office, welfare and Children's Aid Society officials.

TWO COURSES OPEN

Mr. Deyman said Magistrate Philp would have two choices open to him if neglect were established. He could give parents considered capable custody of their children under CAS supervision or he could make the children temporary CAS wards.

"I don't intend to make any applications for permanent wardship by CAS if I can help it," he said.

The car mishap in which Mrs. Whyte was involved occurred when she was driving Mrs. James Spiers to Malton to catch a plane for Winnipeg. The hood of Mrs. Whyte's 1959-model car was smashed in a collision but no one was injured.

15-Year-Old Girl Drowns in City Swimming Pool

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Bonnie Jean Bond, 15, was drowned Wednesday afternoon in the city swimming pool while 200 children played and swam in the water.

Vernon Anderson, one of two lifeguards, pulled the girl out at the eight-foot end after a youngster told him a girl was under the water. The girl apparently made no calls for help and no one saw her go under.

Penniless Trucker Woos Rich Girl, Flouts Law, Ends Up in the Pokey

LONDON (AP) — A poor young man who flouted the law to woo a rich girl admitted the error of his ways Wednesday but was sent back to simmer some more in the jail he entered 28 days ago.

The thoroughly thwarted lover — 27-year-old Edward Langley, a truck driver without a job — learned at the same time that heiress Katharine Dowsett, 20, has renounced him forever and sailed to Africa to forget.

Langley was committed to Brixton Prison July 16 for contempt of court. He admitted he eloped to Scotland with under-age Katherine in defiance of a judge's order obtained by her father, Harry, a wealthy ship-builder.

The indefinite jail sentence was decreed by Justice Sir Harry Vaisey, who is on vacation. Seeking his liberty, Langley came before Justice Henry Phillimore Wednesday, said he was sorry for what he had done and asked to be set free. Justice Phillimore declined.

"This case", he said, "appears to be one where love was tempered by considerations of finance — the squalid attempt of a penniless adventurer to marry the daughter of a rich man. "I will adjourn this motion until the first day of the next term, which begins on Oct. 1, for Mr. Justice Vaisey to deal with it".

A solicitor representing Katharine's father said the girl now realizes that her romance with Langley was a mistake.

"She has made known to her father her firm resolve to have nothing whatever to do with Langley in the future", the solicitor advised the court. He added that Miss Dowsett sailed last Saturday "of her own free will" on an African cruise to forget the whole thing.

Langley had already admitted that he was not, as he had hinted, of noble birth, but the son of a British policeman living in Bombay; was living on money borrowed from friends in the London night club set where he met Katharine; and had recently been living in lodging houses and paying the rent with rubber cheques.

Under British law persons found in contempt of court may be held in prison as long as the judge desires. There is no appeal.

Brakeman Foils Armed Robbery Railway Train

Hooded Bandits Found Hiding in Dark Smoker

MONTREAL (CP)—Armed robbery of a railway train carrying a large shipment of money was foiled Wednesday night by discovery of three hooded bandits in a darkened smoking compartment.

A brakeman checking through the cars of Canadian National Railway's Scotian some time before its departure for Halifax surprised the trio.

Montreal detectives said the train which later left for the Maritimes on schedule carried a large shipment of currency in transit from Ottawa to the Royal Bank of Canada at Halifax.

The Scotian was on Track 10 in readiness for departure when brakeman Armand Vachon poked his head into the smoking compartment of a sleeping car and spotted the bandits, hoods over their heads.

At the time, much of the city's attention was on the light-heavyweight boxing match between champion Archie Moore and sentimental favorite Yvon Durelle of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B.

PURSUES MEN

The hooded men leaped to their feet and ran from the sleeper with Vahon in pursuit bollering: "Thief."

The fugitives, first headed north through the station's dim track-level area beneath the concourse where passengers assemble.

First they headed for a tunnel through which trains roll under Mount Royal.

Then they turned, scrambled across tracks and over the series of ramps, side-by-side between tracks, and headed for a new black sedan near a ramp leading to St. Antoine Street, south of the station.

CNR express workers joined the chase and the bandits fired back over their shoulders.

TRUCKS BLOCK WAY

Two of the bandits got into the sedan but jumped out again when they saw that two express trucks blocked its route to St. Antoine Street.

CNR constables Edward Heathcote and Eric Brown, summoned from the station concourse area, joined the chase but lost the bandits when they took possession of a panel truck parked in St. Antoine Street and roared away eastward.

Montreal detectives said the sedan the bandits planned to escape in was stolen earlier in the day from its parking place at Chaboillez Square, a quarter-mile from Central Station.

They got fingerprints from the automobile, one of the masks and two caps used by the men. Eight empty revolver shells were found in the station area.

Police said they got descriptions of the bandits from CNR employees. They were not sure whether their plan was to seize the money shipment before the train departure or to make a holdup attempt during the train's trip east.

Retired Farmer Loses $10,000 In Bonds, Cash

ST. JOACHIM, Ont. (CP) — Three men, all armed and wearing stocking masks, forced a 72-year-old retired farmer to open his safe Wednesday night and made off with $10,000 in bonds and nearly $600 in cash.

Emile Vermette, living alone on the outskirts of this community 25 miles east of Windsor, told police he was grabbed and thrown to the ground by a man who knocked at his door.

He said he had been expecting a neighbor in to watch television and the robber, who was wearing a stocking over his head, was about the same size as his friend.

He said a second man stood over him and a third went into the house. The third man searched and called out: "There's a safe here."

Mr. Vermette said the men dragged him in and forced him to open the safe. Then they tied him up and left with the safe's contents and about $70 from his wallet.

Premier Names Main Planks In Platform

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I. CP — Premier Alex Matheson, attempting to lead his Liberal party to its sixth straight provincial election victory, has unveiled some of the main planks in his platform for the Sept. 1 voting.

Mr. Matheson, speaking at a convention that re-nominated him for Fourth Kings Tuesday night, announced a franchise reform that would give every islander equal voting basis. At present, only property holders, clergymen and war veterans vote for both councillors and assemblymen in the legislature. Others vote for assemblymen only.

The premier said he would name a committee of the legislature to make recommendations on the voting system.

He said he would also have the province divided into single ridings instead of the duel ridings that have existed since Confederation. But he did not say how many ridings there would be. There now are 15 ridings, each represented by one councillor and one assemblyman who have equal status in the House.

Mr. Matheson called the election Aug. 4. House standings at dissolution were Liberals 26 Progressive Conservatives four.

BELLEVILLE RINK WINS AT CAMPBELLFORD

Delightful weather, keen competition and splendid hospitality made the Campbellford mixed doubles tournament on Wednesday afternoon a real success. There were two rinks from the local club, Wally Lavergne and Mrs. Grace Clapp, who won one of the two-game high scores and Mr. and Mrs. Ab Wonnacott and although this pair won two games their score was not high enough to stand for a prize.

Sam Netley and Mrs. (Dr.) Allan of Brighton won the tournament and the accompanying prizes while Mr. and Mrs. Steve Way of Trenton were second and Morley Galt and partner of Kingston in third place. Mr. and Mrs. A. Kingsley of Kingston won the one-game high. There was a full double draw of 32 rinks participating.

Mr. Stanley Fennell, Q.C., of Cornwall, has been appointed as special counsel for the court of enquiry to be held in connection with Belleville's finances, including alleged misspending of the city's money for the McFarland's hockey team.

Mr. Fennell has been in the city for the past two days gathering background material for the enquiry and will report back to Judge A. D. Wilmot who was appointed earlier to conduct the enquiry. Date of the enquiry will be set by the judge.

Quinte Pipe Band Plays Sunday Concert

The Quinte Highland Pipe Band wil be the guest band for Sunday afternoon's band concert at Victoria Park. This will be the only appearance of the Highlanders during the August concert program which got underway last week following a July recess.

The band has been invited to Watertown N.Y., on August 21st, to take part in a parade which will mark the closing of a New York State firemen's convention. The convention, which will be attended by approximately 1,500 firemen and their wives is for the entire state of New York.

CHARGE DROPPED

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP)—A murder indictment against Jane Ann Shusko, 15, has been dropped and she has been transferred to children's court. Her brother and six of her sisters died July 11 in a fire that police said she admitted setting in her house.

Patching Crews Kept Busy in Annexed Areas

The road patching crews of the Belleville Public Works department have been quite busy this week on roads in the annexed areas in preparation for an oiling program. With the new 2,000-gallon tank truck and the equipment which the department already has, the department will be conducting their oiling program 14 hours a day in order to cut down the dust problem in these areas. The crews involved are certainly "early birds", being out on the road at 4:00 a.m. and finishing up their daily program at six o'clock in the evening.

The rain experienced in the early part of this week has held up the ditching work crew's progress temporarily but they are now back in operation. Pavement patching activities have been slackening off to a certain degree and the street oiling contract with the H. J. MacFarland firm was finished yesterday in the older part of the city.

Sewer crews are hard at work on College Street, Wright Avenue and several other locations throughout the older section of the community.

The department's weed control program has been going along quite busily with the city's machine and a hired machine being required to handle the amount of work, especially large fields in the annexed areas. In the centre of the city one may notice the department's power mower at work on the boulevards.

Preparatory work is now under way to allow for the extension of the sanitary land fill area to the east side of the Bay Bridge Road opposite the area now in use.

Field Crop Winners Named

The Field Crop competition for oats, sponsored by the Belleville Fair Board has been completed and the winners announced by Ben Bleecker, secretary of the board. There were a large number of entries this year and the quality of grain was excellent. The winners were Seymour Hamilton, Ron Hamilton, Reginald Barber, George Burkitt, Douglas Harry, Clarence VanClief, Malcolm Wallbridge, Ridley Wallbridge, Don Spencer and W. B. Jose.

Mr. Bleecker also announced that the entries for this year's fair will exceed the past years by a great deal and also that several new exhibitors are visiting the fair for the first time. Everything is in readiness for the opening of the fair on Monday and the Mounties are expected to arrive from Peterborough over the weekend. They are performing this week at the Peterborough exhibition and will also visit Lindsay before leaving this section of the Province.

143 Donors At Recent Blood Clinic

One hundred and forty-three blood donors turned out and gave at the periodic clinic held on Monday at the Kiwanis Centre.

"This is below the usual quota for Belleville," said Mrs. J. White, nurse-in-charge of the Canadian Red Cross field unit. "Quotas are not being met throughout the area. This is probably due, in part, to people being away on holidays."

Fifty Belleville women assisted the unit as volunteer workers in various jobs.

PIPELINE CONTROVERSY — One of the most controversial questions to come before the Borden Commission on Canada's energy resources was the suggestion of an Alberta-to-Montreal pipeline. The commission's second report, expected to deal with this matter among others, is due to be made public in the next few months.

This map shows Canada's main oil pipelines. Crude oil flows from Alberta fields westward through the Trans-Mountain pipeline, eastward from Alberta through the Interprovincial pipeline, and imported crude unloaded at Portland, Me., moves to Montreal through a pipeline crossing New England and southern Quebec.

The Sun Canadian, Sarnia products and Trans-Northern pipeline carry refinery products from Sarnia, Ont., to main marketing centres.

The proposed Alberta-to-Montreal pipeline would parallel to the present Interprovincial line which terminates at Sarnia. Its advocates are a group of independent Canadian oil companies seeking wider markets for western crude.

The international companies, operating Montreal refineries on foreign crude brought through the pipeline from Portland, oppose the proposed pipeline as uneconomic. (CP Newsmap.)

Special Rides for Children Feature of Belleville Fair

Some one has said that children of today do not have the opportunity to enjoy the pleasures of youth which were available to their parents. Every adult has very fond recollections of real fun at the Circus — with all its glitter and gayety — of riding a Merry-Go-Round or the Ferris Wheel — and eating countless Hot Dogs, Cotton Candy and everything else within range of their hands and Dad's pocketbook.

Modern economy has perhaps sounded the death knell of the Travelling Circus — but the modern Amusement Area at the Belleville Fair today creates real happiness for the youngsters. It is true they might be a little different from years ago — but so is everything else around us. Just take your kiddies out to the Fair Grounds — watch their reactions, and you will have to acknowledge they have just as much fun now as the kids of the past.

There are wonderful junior sized rides to thrill the heart of every child. There's not only the Merry-Go-Round and the Ferris Wheel, but the favorite of all attractions for the budding cowboy and cowgirl — the real, live Western ponies and mules, every one with a real Western saddle and bridle.

In this age of rockets and jets, it is only fitting that the future space age pioneers should have their fling at our future transportation, and here at the fair are exceeded even the wildest dreams of any youngster for, in addition to the popular swinging airplanes and the sky fighter with its supersonic machine gun, armed fighting aircraft, a new addition to the defence command, have been added.

You will find you'll enjoy the trip to the Belleville Fair as much as the Kiddies.

Alcan Road 17 Years Old, Many Changes Occur Since U.S. Army Finished It

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (Reuters)—Travelling the Alaska Highway is more than a trip to far places. It is a flashback to recent North American history and a peep into a promising future.

The fascinating road meanders past old trading posts, now become bustling crossroads. It crosses wilderness rivers. It winds along massive mountains, past cloud-tickling radar towers.

The Alcan Highway, as it is called, is 17 years old. Its 1,527, "all-weather" miles link the railhead of Dawson Creek, B. C., with the northern terminus at Fairbanks, Alaska.

It was built by an engineering miracle, over mountains, muskeg and permafrost. It has 186 bridges and more than 6,000 culverts. The road was built at the almost unbelievable rate of eight miles a day in a construction time of about nine months.

MILITARY LANE

As a military route, it linked air bases in Canada and Alaska.

Today, it is an adventure-packed tour for travellers and is steadily promoting a new empire.

What the road has meant to northern British Columbia and to the Yukon can be measured in yards of construction, in new homes, in growing towns, in great oil and gas explorations.

A pause today at points which were but stopovers a few years back is sufficient to demonstrate the rise of this northern empire.

In 1942, Dawson Creek's 300 citizens welcomed the road-building U.S. army engineers. With a present population of 8,000, Dawson Creek today has become an area of farms, livestock, lumber, oil and natural gas development.

At Milepost 35.5, unsettled before 1955, Taylor, B. C. has risen with magic haste. A big, new gas - scrubbing plant and refinery costing more than $30,000,000 has created a town of hotels, motels, caravan sites and homes.

OIL-GAS CAPITAL

Fort St. John is called the oil and gas capital of British Columbia. Formerly an Indian trading post, today it counts 5,000 population and bright - painted homes stretch over the slopes at Milepost 49.

This thriving section of the Alaska Highway is in the Peace River country, where fertile bottom lands support herds of beef and dairy cattle, and pasture fences delineate unclaimed wilderness lands.

With one of the world's largest gas fields at its back door, Fort Nelson, Milepost 300, is enjoying a real estate boom. Land-stakers have staked acreage for 10 miles from the centre of the growing town. Here, small stores are set helter-skelter along both sides of the highway.

Fort Nelson started as a highway construction camp but now spreads for five miles along the international highway.

Onward 300 miles to the north attention is centred in a mineral region. Several big mining companies have this season put into the field, near Milepost 600, groups to prospect for asbestos, gold, copper and other ores. This area was remote and costly to explore before the highway was built.

Two major access roads from southern Canada and the United States link up with the Alaska Highway.

There is a much-used section between Dawson Creek and Edmonton. Oil rigs travel along this stretch as gas and oil exploration continues in the rich northern areas. Travellers drive north to take a look at the raw, newer country.

HART HIGHWAY

Opened only seven years ago, the second access route already has inspired similar industrial development. The Hart Highway, named after former premier John Hart of British Columbia, is a 255-mile road between Prince George, B.C., and Dawson Creek. It comples a loop through the once-remote wilderness.

Mining, new homes, farms, lumbering, tourism and even new towns appear where these roads lead. For example, Little Prairie, some 60 miles south of Dawson Creek on the Hart Highway, has a new look.

Now called Chetwynd, situated "where trail meets rail," talk of possible hydro - electric projects has got things moving here.

Down in the Fraser River Canyon, more towns are springing up. There is Lytton, set among spectacular scenery and building for a bigger future. At Cache Creek, there is a real estate boom.

With talk of paving the unpaved portion of the Alaska Highway, comprising roughly 1,100 miles through Canada, hopes are high along the route. A more durable highway will mean more travel, more industry. It will speed products of forest, water and mountain to market.

42,000 Ontario Teachers May Quit Federation

HALIFAX (CP)—The 42,000-member Ontario Teachers Association may withdraw from the Canadian Teachers Federation if it has to pay an extra 25 cents dues for each member.

The parent Canadian Teachers' Federation today issued the Ontario group an ultimatum—either pay up or be automatically suspended. The federation has offered to waive approximately $10,000 in Ontario membership arrears for 1958-59 if the association pays $1.25 per member in 1960. The $10,000 represents a 25-cent increase per member which came into effect last year.

Brother Frederic of Ottawa, who heads the Ontario delegation, said his organization will make its decision in two weeks when the board of governors of the provincial federation meets at Bracebridge.

Loss of the Ontario teachers would cut the federation's membership by nearly 50 per cent.

Non-Residents Will Be Hired As Farriers

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — There may be someone in Philadelphia capable of shoeing horses but he doesn't want to be the official village smithy.

For that reason, city personnel director Foster R. Roser Wednesday persuaded the civil service commission to waive existing residence requirements.

Roser said one vacancy exists and another is coming up for farriers — the technical name for shorseshoers. They are needed to shod 64 horses used by Fairmount Park mounted guards.

Competitive examinations for the jobs—annual salary $4,017 and $4,606—are open. Applications of non-residents are welcome.

Arthur Moffat, assist. general sales manager for Massey-Ferguson is seen presenting handsome trophy to Mr. and Mrs. Alton Hadley, as top company dealer in Eastern Canada. Mr. Hadley has had the honor for three years and now has permanent possession of the trophy.

Farm Implement Dealer Honored By Company

Company recognition for their top dealer in Eastern Canada, was given last night by the Massey Ferguson Company at a dealers' block meeting at the Hotel Quinte when Mr. Alton Hadley, Belleville area farm implement dealer, received presentations for being top dealer and also for being top in tractor sales.

Officials of the Massey Ferguson organization from the Toronto branch, and dealers from the Belleville area attended the dinner meeting.

Mr. Hadley received a handsome silver trophy for permanent possession for being the top dealer in Canada for the third year in a row, while he and Mrs. Hadley received luggage as the top tractor dealer in the district. John Orser, also a member of Mr. Hadley's dealer organization, received a shotgun for highest in baler sales.

Attending the meeting were Mr. Arthur Moffat, assistant general sales manager for Massey Ferguson; Tom McAleese, sales manager of the Toronto branch; John Bettle, manager, Toronto branch, and Nelson Beatty, district manager.

About 30 persons, including eight dealers in the Belleville area, were in attendance.

At Least Got Halfway to His Destination

WINNIPEG (CP) — An Ottawa painter and decorator who impersonated an officer to successfully complete half of a proposed journey to British Columbia was sentenced here on Wednesday to six months in jail.

Frank Hazelhurst, 21, pleaded guilty and received the maximum sentence. He had four previous convictions for false pretences.

Court was told Hazelhurst appeared at an RCAF unit in Toronto July 31, dressed in an RCAF sergeant's uniform. He went to Montreal the next day and bought an officer's tunic.

Later, at an Ottawa air force station he reported he had lost his identity card and was issued a temporary replacement which he exchanged at Kingston for other identity papers.

Crown Counsel Gordon Pilkey said Hazelhurst on August 6, took a service flight from Dorvall, Que., to Winnipeg.

Hazelhurst, a former aircraftman, said he was going to B.C. "to start a new life. I hadn't sufficient funds to go on my own."

Minister Returns After Being Missing 6 Days

INGERSOLL, Ont. (CP)—Rev. Leroy White, 68, retired United Church minister who vanished from his home here last Friday, returned today in his car exhausted and unable to say where he had been.

Police, who had been combing the area surrounding this town nine miles west of Woodstock, said he apparently slept only briefly and had eaten almost nothing during his six-day disappearance.

He was suffering from exhaustion and loss of weight. He went to bed immediately and was to be examined by a doctor later.

Surprise Party Held for Retiring RCAF Officer

TRENTON — Yesterday afternoon, the popular L. C. Devonshire, District Treasury Officer for Training Command, received a fine arm chair at a surprise party held for him by members of his office staff. The party was at the new Airmen's Mess, RCAF South Station, and was in the nature of a farewell for many, as Mr. Devonshire is shortly retiring from the post which he has filled so capably.

Present was John Farrell, president of the Canadian Legion and many other old friends of the retiring officer, and Mrs. Devonshire, his devoted spouse, was on hand to see her husband receive his gift. Many members of Mr. Devonshire's staff, who would have liked to have been there, were unable to do so, as they have been transferred to duty in other parts.

Mr. Devonshire, who is extremely well known in Trenton and district, came here from the Treasury Department in Montreal in 1945, and has held the office of District Treasury Officer ever since. It is understood that no decision has yet been made as to who is to replace Mr. Devonshire in the performance of those important duties.

TOOK PROMINENT PART

A some time president of the Brotherhood of Anglican Churchmen, Mr. Devonshire has always taken a prominent part and worked hard in Anglican church affairs. Although he refused the office of president of the local Canadian Legion, Mr. Devonshire, nevertheless, became Legion finance chairman, a position he has filled with the utmost capability.

Together with Mrs. Devonshire, who is a well known figure in Trenton in her own right, having until recently been women's page editor of a local paper for a number of years, Mr. Devonshire would like to spend his retirement in some place not too far from his married son and daughter.

After Mr. Farrell had presented the gift to Mr. Devonshire, the retiring officer asked the office staff to give the new chief the same support they had given to him. Mr. Devonshire hoped, he said, that the one who would succeed him would come from the Trenton office, but even if he did not, he (Mr. Devonshire) hoped that the staff would give him the same cooperation.

Mr. Devonshire said that the years since he came to Trenton had passed like a flash. The happy sense of achievement and comradeship he had experienced while working here was one that he would carry with him wherever he went.

Roadblocks Stop Cars Using Lane

TRENTON — Trenton town residents have been wondering why workmen were busy blocking up the space between the Royal Bank and Maher's Shoe Store on Dundas Street W. The reason is simple, stated Councillor L. Weese this morning, it is to keep vehicles from using it as a passage on to Dundas Street.

Two large posts have now been set into the ground at both ends of the passage way, which will enable foot passengers wishing to use the space as a short-cut from the Fraser Park area to do so, while it will prevent cars from negotiating the very tricky and dangerous entry onto the main Dundas Street.

LARGE RESERVES

Deposits of iron ore in northernmost Sweden are estimated at a minimum of 3,000,000,000 tons.

Western World's Ideas Must Be Sold Says P.M.

TORONTO (CP) — "Truthful and aggressive salesmanship" of the Western world's ideas and ideals was advocated Wednesday night by Prime Minister Diefenbaker as a method of countering "the aggressive propaganda of the Communist world."

Mr. Diefenbaker in a welcoming address to more than 200 delegates from 41 countries attending the International Junior Red Cross study centre, said the capitalist world should "make a uniform and conscientious effort' to make available books and periodicals which would give a "fair and objective picture of capitalism and its benefits."

"Otherwise the contest for the minds of men may go by default, as the only literature available in many uncommitted countries is highly organized propaganda available in every bookstore in every major language."

LAUDS COMMONWEALTH

Speaking of his tour through the Commonwealth last year, Mr. Diefenbaker said he learned to "realize more than ever before the Commonwealth of nations is the world's most successful experiment in peace, for war between any of its members is inconceivable."

Mr. Diefenbaker said "the Red Cross has shown that nations can work together for the benefit of each and all. What the Red Cross has done gives hope that each and all the nations can and may be persuaded in a like spirit of co-operation, and of being their brother's keeper irrespective of color, race or religion, to unite in peace and for peace to remove economic inequities which are the basic causes of human suffering . . ."

"Living standards would be raised and new hope given to hundreds of millions of human beings who regard abject poverty as inevitable and eternal."

Nine Different Talents Seen in Beauty Contest

HAMILTON (CP) — Nine different talents were demonstrated Wednesday during the second night of the Miss Canada contest preliminaries.

Queen of talents, chosen by the seven judges, was petite Darlene Hirst, from Willowdale, Ont. She sang the Habanera from Bizet's Carmen.

Tuesday night, Anne Marie Clarke, of Galt won the talent award and Hamilton's Friedel Neumann the bathing suit competition.

During the preliminaries the 23 contestants are divided into two groups to compete in the three categories — bathing suit, evening gown and talent.

The other classifications — personality and poise — are judged privately.

Tonight's finals will choose this year's queen out of the 10 best entries in the three categories.

B.C. Ironworkers Accept Terms Of New Contract

VANCOUVER (CP) — Work on $90,000,000 worth of construction in British Columbia will soon resume following settlement late Wednesday of a seven-week strike by ironworkers.

Members of Local 97 of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Ironworkers (CLC) voted by a 96.9-per-cent majority to accept the settlement proposal.

The dispute, which tied up work on several major projects including a $23,000,000 bridge across Vancouver harbor, was one of the stormiest on B.C.'s troubled labor front.

Provincial Labor Minister Lyle Wicks said the settlement was "a major development which will mark a different trend in the troubled labor-management relations we have had in the last two months."

The Steel Erectors' Association of B.C. which represented 15 companies involved in the dispute, met earlier in the day and accepted a new agreement worked out with the union and a conciliation officer.

Observers say the settlement—for an increase of 57 cents an hour spread over a 27-month period on a former rate of $2.62—is one of the biggest wage gains in the history of B.C. labor relations.

Castro Leads His Soldiers In Search of Rebel Holdouts

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro led his troops in the field today, personally directing a roundup of counter-revolutionary holdouts.

The bearded Cuban premier was reported to be in a mountainous area of Las Villas province 140 miles southeast of Havana. Authorities said revolutionary government troops had encircled a band of armed members of the conspiracy the Castro forces said they uncovered last week.

A number of fugitives were said to have surrendered in Las Villas, including several persons of "considerable importance." Details were not available.

Meanwhile, a band of armed men attacked a small military outpost near Matanzas, 65 miles northeast of Havana. Authorities said no casualties were reported but that seven men were captured.

Castro forces continued to haul in persons for questioning about the alleged plot against the government. There still was no firm estimate of the number held, although Castro's brother, Raul, commander-in-chief of the armed forces, several days ago put the figure at about 3,000.

Reports from the provinces said there had been 30 arrests in Pinear del Rio Wednesday, more than 150 in Cienfuegos and more than 100 in Santa Clara.

Police in Havana released a number of those picked up for questioning. Most of them were reported to be members of Castros own armed forces.

Rival Factions In Election Clash Verbally

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. —' (CP)—Rival party factions clashed verbally Wednesday as Newfoundland's spirited Aug. 20 election campaign entered its final week.

He was apparently referring to a meeting scheduled Wednesday between the premier and officials of the Newfoundland Government Employees Association. No details of the meeting were made public.

Candidate Larry Daley in St. John's Centre outlined the Newfoundland Democratic party program in a radio address. Also president of the Newfoundland Federation of Labor, he touched on unemployment, saying:

"The fact is that unemployment in Newfoundland today is the worst in the British Commonwealth."

Mr. Daley said the Democratic party's "most important objective is to develop employment opportunities for all our people, and especially for our young people."

Mr. Smallwood answered the Democrats' charges that Newfoundland "is at the bottom of Canada's economic pile." The premier said: "That is true - - - but picture Newfoundland without the benefits of Confederation."

House standing at dissolution was: Liberals 31, PCs two, United Newfoundland party two, with one seat vacant.

Bartholomew's Will Be Without Vice-Regal Seat

OTTAWA (CP)—St. Bartholomew's, an unobtrusive little Anglican church near Government House, soon will be without a regular vice-regal patron for the first time in 19 years and for only the third period since 1867.

Three pews, one of them bearing the royal coat-of-arms, have been reserved at the front of the 250-seat church for the vice-regal party ever since Lord Monck, Canada's first governor-general after Confederation, laid the cornerstone in 1868.

More often than not the seats have been filled. In all, 16 governors-general have attended St. Bartholomew's regularly.

The appointment effective Sept. 15 of Maj.-Gen. George Vanier, a Roman Catholic, as governor-general recalls only two previous terms during which the Queen's representative has not been a member of St. Bartholomew's congregation.

TWO PRESBYTERIANS

These were from 1893 to 1898 when Lord Aberdeen was governor-general, and from 1935 to 1940 when Lord Tweedsmuir held the post. Both were Presbyterians, and each on separate occasions served as the reigning sovereign's lord high commissioner to the general assembly of the Church of Scotland.

(The Canadian Press reported erroneously Aug. 5 that all of Canada's 18 governors - general so far have been Anglican. Lord Tweedsmuir and Lord Aberdeen were the exceptions.)

The Marquis of Lorne, governor-general from 1878 to 1883, was another Scot, son of the Duke of Argyll, chief of the Campbells. However, the records show that he worshipped at St. Bartholomew's along with his wife Princess Louise, Queen Victoria's daughter.

Clever Ruse Used To Get Captive Out of Poland

KITCHENER (CP) — This largely German - populated city welcomed another German immigrant family to the fold Wednesday, but this time they came from Poland where the husband ran a jewelry store for the state.

For Mrs. Emma Koenig of Kitchener, her son Alfred, 46, might as well have come back from the dead. He was reported missing on the Russian front in 1944 while in the German army.

Captured, Alfred spent two years in a Polish prison before he was able to convince his captors he was Polish, not German.

He was released in 1947 but couldn't get back to his home town of Asheleben, Germany, because — well, he was Polish, wasn't he?

He settled down in Fwidnice, got into the jewelry business and was allowed by the state to keep 20 per cent of the store's profits.

His mother, three sisters and three brothers drifted to Canada after the war. Mrs. Koenig continued her attempts to locate her son.

Alfred finally wrote to friends in Germany, using the name of a mutual friend but managing to make clear his real identity. Thus Mrs. Koenig learned her son's whereabouts.

To get him out of the country, one of Alfred's sisters posed as a Polish relative here. As far as Communist authorities in Poland knew, this sister was his only relative in Canada.

Union Will Apply to Join Labor Congress

TORONTO (CP)—An application by the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers for affiliation with the Canadian Labor Congress will be put before the congress's executive council at its meeting in Winnipeg Aug. 25

Union officials here said today a letter from CLC President Claude Jodoin had been received in answer to a union letter offering to meet Mr. Jodoin to discuss affiliation.

The union was recently authorized by its 34,000 membership in Canada to seek affiliation on three conditions in a country-wide referendum.

Union Secretary-Treasurer William Longridge said about 85 per cent of the votes case favored affiliation with the council. About 35 per cent of the members voted.

The union was expelled from the old Canadian Congress of Labor in 1949 after jurisdictional differences with the United Steelworkers of America (CLC).

There were also charges that the union was dominated by Communists.

The application for affiliation lays out three conditions:

Acceptance of the union intact; maintenance of all existing constitutional rights of mine - mill members and assurance that the union will enjoy the same rights as all other CLC affiliates.

Says Invasion Of Panama Planned in Cuba

PANAMA (AP) — The Panamanian government today claimed that another invasion of Panama is being planned in Cuba to topple President Ernesto de la Guardia Jr.

Interior Minister Jose Dominador said some of those involved also had a hand in last April's abortive invasion of the Central American republic.

Dominador said in a brief statement that Panama is "capable of taking whatever measures the circumstances require."

She Dyed Her Curls Blue

Queen Elizabeth has chosen a French-speaking Canadian Army officer, Lieut. Jean Lajeunesse of Montreal, to give French lessons to Prince Charles during the Royal Family's summer holiday in Scotland.

This was doubtless prompted by some of Her Majesty's experience with French tutors from France. As a child, she had three. One of them insisted on her writing out endless columns of verbs. And one afternoon the then Princess Elizabeth, thoroughly bored, rebelled.

Without any warning she picked up a silver inkpot and put it upside down on her head. She sat there, the ink trickling down her face and dyeing her golden curls blue. Madame could never explain. She was past explaining. She had to retire and drink water.

Her senior French tutor, however, Comptesse de Bellaigue, was her companion for several years. And the Princess became familiar with some of the works of Moliere, Racine, Corneille; and can quote long passages from Du Bellay, Malberbe, Lamartine, and some of the sonnets of Villon and Ronsard. And once when she spoke in Belgium, a famous actor commented, "She's wonderful. You would think she was French."

Perhaps this is because her mother, the Queen Mother, was taught French as a young girl such that she can speak it almost as fluently as a French woman; and she implemented "French only" periods, including mealtimes frequently in the Royal household. During these periods anything spoken in English was simply ignored.

Queen Elizabeth II now elaborates the family custom into "French days" with instruction by a Canadian. Congratulations to Lieut. Lajeunesse, 27, of Quebec's famous Royal 22nd Regiment. The appointment should be highly gratifying to Canada.

Balm to Sore Minds

The band played outside the woman's house, and for her alone, voluntarily. Of course, she was very grateful, and this was expressed by her sister, who came out on the porch and said so.

Thus the Salvation Army Band reaches out to people confined to private homes and hospitals, as well as open air services. The band has a fixed pattern of all-brass instruments and score, as have all Salvation Army bands throughout the world. Conductor Jack Green, a bandsman for 51 years, maintains the quality by teaching boys to reinforce the band from time to time. Variety is added by an octette, led by Herbert Wood.

The Quinte Highland Pipe Band, led by Pipe Major Crawford MacCreath, and the Hastings and Prince Edward Regimental Band under Drum Major Sgt. Charles Lawson, perform at fairs and parades and various functions in the vicinity.

Last fall Mr. Alfred Cooper, conductor of the Belleville Municipal Band, advertised for young men interested in learning to play an instrument. Six replied. He taught them free of charge throughout the winter. They are now playing in the band "very satisfactorily." Mr. Cooper plans to continue this in order to ensure a good band for the future.

With a core of three staunch veterans, Ralph Clapp, clarinetist, Walter Aselstine, trombonist and assistant conductor, and Harry Rose, bass player, the band plays a mixed style of music to please all tastes.

What is the advantage of playing in a band?

"Having to work with a group," says Mr. Cooper, "working with others who are trying to do something well—it is the same as a finely disciplined team of any kind. Music demands a high degree of skill. The band is an incentive. The quality of the band depends on everyone. No one wants to let the team down. It is more fun working with others than it is practising by yourself. And from a point of view of the self-discipline required, to spend the time to practise and play an instrument, broadens a person's character."

Of course this applies to any band.

It is also true that a bandsman enjoys all music more. To a listener in an audience a band is pleasant to hear. But for the instrumentalist who has played the tune scores of times, who has had to work hard to learn it in the first place, and who knows well the accompanying harmonies, the entire band in all its components from tuba to piccolo, becomes part of him. He knows them all. He knows which take the melody, the off-beat, runs and trills. More and more, each piece becomes to him a beautiful thing composed by some mind at ecstatic pitch.

This is quite apart from the pleasure bands bring to others. Music is a blue-mood killer, an uplifter, balm to sore minds. It is something in harmony. It is something right.

This month, some of these bands resume a series of concerts. Belleville is fortunate to have them all doing their best to fill the air with heartening melody.

Live For, Not Through, Children

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

When a man makes a promise against his nature, I will bet on the nature against the promise.

Advising a troubled person to "see your minister or doctor" is ludicrous or futile in most cases — for neither pastors nor physicians are specially trained and equipped to handle basic emotional disturbances, nor do they have the time for intensive personal counseling.

Parents should live for their children, but not through them; the parent whose satisfactions are wholly reflections of their children's achievements are as much monsters as the parents who neglect their offspring. Nothing can deform a personality so much as the burden of a love that is utterly self-sacrificing.

We may look for a suitable mate but we will not find one until we first learn what to overlook.

No sight in nature moves me more than arched trees reflected in a river.

The next time some poor devil of a defendant is being badgered on a witness stand, charitably keep in mind that no life could withstand the sharp scrutiny of two hours' cross-examination by a shrewd and well-paid lawyer.

In order to justify his behavior to himself, a thief has to believe that everybody steals, in one way or another; thus we reshape the world to conform to the image we have of ourselves. (Even in the arts, for instance, many persons who cannot appreciate serious music believe that most music-lovers are cultural frauds.)

Events follow feelings more than we realize: to brood excessively about a possible failure is one of the surest ways of making it come true.

A teacher who tries to be "democratic" is as absurb as a ship's captain who lets his crew cast votes on the course and the destination.

The harried executive, his pressured wife, and their over-organized surburban children might not care to ponder the words of Nietzsche, when he observed: "Who ever has not two-thirds of his time to himself is a slave."

One of the ugliest, as well as most-abused, adjectives in the language is "stupendous," which should be retired for at least a decade

Canadian PLACE NAMES

KITCHENER, ONT.

German settlers had arrived in this area during the Napoleonic wars, but Mennonites had preceded them by 15 years. Joseph Schneider founded the settlement by building a log cabin. Nearby hills caused the subsequent settlement to become known as "Sand Hills." That name vied with Ebytown until about 1833, when the name Berlin was adopted at the suggestion of Bishop Eby and Joseph Schneider. During the First World War the name was changed from Berlin to Kitchener.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

YOUR LIFE TUNE

The most sensitive of all sensitive instruments are most unresponsive and cold in their fervor compared with the delicate sensitized chords that are played across the human heart by a maker — by whatever name you may know him by — whose knowledge of tune values is both infinite and sublime.

So that you know each separate being and are inspired to small or large trust, and love, by the harmonious blending of his or her tune to your tune.

Your heart notes vibrate what you are. It is to this fact that you owe your fine companionship in this world. Also your aspiration for higher, better things. For you draw out from other natures with whom you come in contact only such qualities of wonder and power as you within yourself inspire in others. In fact you are a grand magnet with latent forces, hidden yet true, but always drawing kind to kind.

And it all combines to make up a sort of individual life tune that is not always heard, but is always felt.

It is a wonderful gift — your gift, capable of marvellous development. But it is a day by day performance, this development. With patience, courage and tolerance always in the saddle — while from its action in life, what music!

Have you ever meditated upon the tunes that your life doings are daily making up and giving out?

GIVEN HONORS

Dear Sir:

At the provincial convention of the Canadian Legion held in Kitchener last week, Trenton was honored in that one of the local newspapers was chosen as the outstanding paper in the province reporting Legion activities.

In the reading of the citation the chairman of the provincial publicity committee commented on the splendid coverage given Legion work by all local papers including the Ontario Intelligencer. The local branch realizing there can be only one winner congratulates the Trentonian on being chosen and at the same time wishes to convey its appreciation for the splendid coverage and support to all Legion projects as given by the newspapers in the area.

At the convention there was displayed a layout by the publicity committee of press releases showing the various methods of getting Legion news to the public. Approximately three hundred copies of news releases from the Trenton Branch held the most prominent position in the display and were very closely scrutinized by the attending delegates.

Trenton delegate Ross Grier received the trophy from Past Dominion President Henry Harvey, himself a prominent newsman on behalf of the Trentonian and a formal presentation will take place at the next regular meeting of the branch.

A Black Eye: Irish Politics

Brockville Recorder and Times

Over in Ireland actor Robert Mitchum has collected a black eye and a bruised nose. He got the shiner from a "fan" who objected to something he wrote in the man's autograph book, and the bruise when a blank cartridge went off in his face. It all sounds very Irish.

Mitchum is playing an Irish Republican Army man in a new film being made at Bray, south of Dublin. The IRA, of course, has been outlawed by both governments in Ireland and its guerilla activities against the north harrassed to a virtual stop.

Nevertheless the IRA, who have been gunning for Irish unity, are box-office to the film people. A few years ago there was "Odd Man Out". And just released is "Shake Hands With The Devil", with James Cagney, which has been banned in Belfast.

On the political scene a new look has come to Ireland. Mr. Sean Lemass, the Irish Republic's new premier, is adopting a kid glove approach to the political issues. He says he prefers the more positive "restoration of national unity" to the term "anti-partition" in speaking of the vision of a united Ireland. He has even expressed a willingness to receive Lord Brookeborough, the northern premier, in Dublin. The latter has always favored close ties between north and south while maintaining the north's status as an integral part of the United Kingdom.

Ireland has been divided politically since 1921 an dis likely to remain so for the forseable future, certainly as long as there is a Unionist and Protestant majority in the north. This, apart altogether from the economic disparity between the north and south, is the stumbling block to the dreams of Mr. Lemass, and Mr. de Valera—who has moved to the Presidency—before him.

Old Pants: No Romance

Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph

We thought those things happened only in story books, but at any rate this is one for the books. Dave Ackroyd, a 19-year-old sailor of Swinton, England, bought a pair of pants the other day. Normally this is a rather unromantic transaction, but David found this one out of the ordinary.

Inside one of the pocketbooks he found a note addressed to a "lonely sailor," and since he considered himself lonely, he responded. It was an invitation to write to a gay 17-year-old girl named Sylvia who worked in the factory making the trousers. Dave wrote a full description of himself, his hobbies and his job.

The note reached Sylvia, but it was a bit late. Sylvia now is Mrs. Frank Chapman, now happily married to an insurance agent, and the mother of two children. She admitted: "I wrote the note during the war 16 years ago. It's incredible that the trousers have just been sold."

We presume that some stock clerk forgot to follow the traditional injuncion to move old stock first. And this would appear to be one instance of delayed delivery that cannot be blamed upon the post office. It could also fall into the category of the hubby who carries wife's letters in his pocket for weeks or months before dropping them in the pick-up box.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

JUVENILE DELINQUINCY

What makes a delinquent delinquent?

We may well ask this question in a season when practically every newspaper contains some account of the further depredations by juvenile delinquents.

Strange as it may seem, the first factor in making a youngster delinquent is geography. Most juvenile delinquency exists in the crowded portions of big cities. What is there for a child to do on the barren, hard streets of a city? Full of energy, this energy naturally flows into evil channels. If we are going to solve this problem, there will have to be buildings without numbers built in the crowded sections of large cities — buildings into which aimless and idle young people can be invited in order that they may learn the techniques of a wholesome, useful living.

Two other factors appear in almost every case of juvenile delinquency — liquor and broken homes. Just keep this in mind the next time you read an account of juvenile violence — liquor was probably in the picture somewhere. Seldom was it liquor consumed by the youngsters; more often was it liquor which made sodden a father or a mother, or both. And the quarreling, broken home probably does more to drive a child to crime than anything else in the world.

How pathetically children long for the security of a quiet home and parental love! When they do not get it, life becomes hell for them. That's one reason why they go out and start breaking things up.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

DON'T PUT OFF PSYCHIATRIC TREATMENT UNTIL IT IS TOO LATE

Here's a letter from a reader that can tell you about . . . well, here's the letter:

"Dear Dr. Molner: Keep urging people to seek psychiatric help for their emotional problems. I recently did and I can truthfully say that I have more zest for life than ever before. And the things I used to dread I have learned to accept with a grin and a good deal of equanimity.

"I have become a better cook, a more understanding and sympathetic wife, a less frustrated mother (teen - age problems) and generally speaking, more fun to be with.

"My husband and I are laughing about a lot of things we formerly quarreled about. I hope I live long enough now to put all this expensive education to good use! Keep writing your interesting columns.— P. G.S."

I don't know a blessed thing, except what is in the letter, about this reader. I don't know her problems, her financial situation, or anything else. I wish I did.

But from the last paragraph I gather that this family didn't indulge in psychiatric treatment out of a desire to be "fashionable." It cost money — and they scratched for it.

Likewise I think we can easily assume that this wasn't a case of "mental illness," or a "nervous breakdown" to the extent that the patient had to be put in a mental hospital.

No, this was a case in which the family — the wife, the husband, and for all I know, children or other relatives — realized that the victim had emotion problems, and that emotional problems, like physical ones, usually can be treated and relieved.

IT TAKES TIME

I grant that we don't have enough psychiatrists yet. I grant that the process of psychiatric (or emotional) treatment takes time. You can't give some drugs, or resort to an operation on some specific organ. The psychiatrist must take the time to help the patient see herself or himself, and the world, too, in true colors.

To be frank, I'll candidly concede that the problems are so subtle and varied that there may be some luck involved. The right patient and the right doctor will get better results than will be the case when the personalities don't quite click. An emotional illness isn't as clear-cut as a case of measles! (And measles isn't always simple and certainly isn't trifling.)

But here's the thing I think ought to be emphasized: "Mental illness" or "emotional illness" never should be neglected until it becomes a case for hospital care — or "insanity." Many cases, of course, won't ever be that serious.

As with pneumonia, diabetes, ulcers or anything else, don't wait until a case is critical before you treat it. Tackle the case while you have the best chance of success. In short, just read the letter above, and you'll see what I mean.

• • •

"Dear Dr. Molner: How [illegible]ous is hepatitis? What ca[illegible] it? Is there a complete cure? Should a person be limited in activities after having had hepatitis?—Mrs. H. S."

Hepatitis is disease of the liver — and there is more than one type. Generally speaking, it is from a virus infection. It is a serious disease, but certainly many victims are restored to perfectly good health. The limiting of activity depends on the particular case. It's like asking whether activity should be limited after a patient has had pneumonia. If you mean immediately afterward, yes. If you mean after suitable recovery, no.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My house is completely surrounded by oleander trees. Are they detrimental to health?—Mrs. J.D."

I know of no way in which they could be detrimental. In fact, the house sounds cha[illegible]ing.

Weston Family 'Unites' Empire

Brockville Recorder & Times

A son of Canadian-born business magnate Garfield Weston is to marry a New Zealand girl, 24-year-old Mary Kippenberger, daughter of the late Sir Howard Kippenberger, editor-in-chief of New Zealand's war histories.

"We're doing everything possible to bring the Commonwealth together," said Garfield Weston, sen., observing that one of his daughters married an Australian surgeon and now his son was marrying a New Zealander.

Indeed, there can be no [illegible] way of promoting Com[illegible]wealth unity than through marriage; however, the idea is impractical on a large scale unless somebody sets up a Commonwealth marriage cum travel bureau that would arrange cut-rate travel to Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa and put all interested Canadian beaux in touch with lonely lassies "down under."

The Westons live in England and young Garfield is to be married in New Zealand. This marriage of two Commonwealth citizens is a nice idea. And if we can't all have spouses from the other Commonwealth countries at least we would like to make a trip to those scattered communities across the sea.

At the same time it is a tribute to the communion of interest and outlook, faith and belief, that whether we can become personally acquainted [illegible] them or not, the Commanwealth nations yet are real. We know where they are and know they will remain our partners.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A nature lover of my acquaintance loves all nature except human nature. Thirty miles from the city he has a charming little hideaway of about six acres of woodland which he most carefully preserves in its unspoiled state. And there he has a cottage and spends his holidays and weekends, summer and winter, communing with the birds, the squirrels and groundhogs, or the occasional fox that wanders into the sanctuary. His intention is to have a little island of lovely solitude to which he can quickly retire from the inferno of the city.

To preserve his privacy, the cottage is not in view of the concession road that bounds one side of his property. It's at the back, hidden. Therefore, he is plagued by all sorts of passers-by who, on seeing a delightful bit of woodland, decide to have a picnic on it. Sportsmen from the city, in search of something to kill, can't resist the appeal of so unspoiled a bush.

To deter them, our nature lover invested in about $150. worth of ordinary Boston ivy plants which, over the past three or four years, he has induced to grow in great profusion all along the fences and roadside of that part of the property he cannot watch from his cottage. And at suitable intervals, he has set up signs: "Poison Ivy. Warning. Keep Out."

It has worked beautifully. [illegible] hasn't seen any intruders on [illegible] property all summer except one who came through to inform him that what was around his place was not poison ivy but ordinary harmless Boston ivy.

Our nature lover pretended to be greatly relieved by this information, and the solitary intruder went on his way rejoicing that he had enlightened a fellow being.

LEMME OUTA HERE! — Scuba, a water-hating hair seal tries to clamber atop a bulkhead after being taken for a short swim by Terry Bristow, 10, of Seattle. The two-week-old seal followed a skin diver ashore from Puget Sound some days ago. Since then he's created quite a problem for the Glen Bristow family of suburban Bellevue, who took him over. Scuba will only eat from a dog dish rigged with a sponge saturated with pulverized canned salmon and goat's milk. He now weighs 21 pounds after gaining five in a week.

Indian Socialist Says China Plotting to Seize Control Of All Himalayan Regions

By RUKMINI DEVI
Canadian Press Correspondent

BOMBAY (CP) — A prominent leader of India's Socialist party says Red China has prepared secret plans for establishing a Himalayan federation of border kingdoms and territories under her sovereignty and directed against India.

H.V. Kamath, chairman of the Socialist party of Madhya Pradesh state, made the charge at the end of a two-month tour of various regions bordering Red China. Kamath is a former member of the British-trained Indian civil service who resigned his post to join the freedom struggle under Gandhi. After independence, however, he left the Congress party to found the Socialist party of India.

Kamath toured Sikkim, Assam, Kalimpong and other areas bordering Tibet, conferred with the Maharaja of Sikkim and met officials from Bhutan, another inaccessible Himalayan kingdom which can be reached from India only by crossing a small stretch of Tibetan territory.

MAPS FAVOR CHINA

He says Red China has not only committed "cartographic aggression" against India by redrawing border maps in her favor but has also "launched an insidious propaganda all along the Himalayan border for the inclusion of all Mongolian and Mongoloid peoples in the 'great Chinese family.'"

He says he learned from "authentic" sources of a Chinese plan to bring together Nepal, Sikkim and Bhutan as well as the Indian territories of Ladakh and North East Frontier Agency in a "federation" closely tied to Tibet and Red China.

(There has been some correspondence between New Delhi and Peiping on the latter's action showing some 30,000 miles of Indian territory as part of Red China on Chinese maps. The question repeatedly has cropped up in the Indian Parliament.)

"Under these circumstances how can India feel secure from Peiping?" Kamath asked.

INDIAN REDS ACCUSED

He also alleged the Communist party of India planned to join hands with secret Communist agents infiltrating into Sikkim and Bhutan to foment violence and disorder in the two strategic kingdoms.

Kamath said the Chinese are putting various obstacles in the way of Indians resuming trade with Tibet. All radio licences of Indian settlers had been confiscated.

Communist party circles in India have reacted sharply to Kamatr's allegations. They say that they are "part of the smear campaign depicting Indian Communists as un-Indian."

Official circles in New Delhi have not commented on Kamath's charges.

Russians Seek Market For Small Cars

CALGARY (CP)—Nikolai Berkane, Russia's commercial counsellor to Canada, says his country will make a bid for top place in the low-priced car market with its four-cylinder Moskvitch.

The small Russian car was shown during the Calgary Stampede at the second annual European and Sports Car Show.

Mr. Berkane finds Canadian winters too rugged for his liking, but says the four - passenger Moskvitch will stand up to the worst of them.

A trade agreement is being worked out between Canada and Russia to allow the cars to be marketed here, he said. The Russian car resembles a small Ford, has a 12-volt battery and a 7½-inch road clearance.

A well-cut skirt and a fake fur jacket team up for an effective fall costume. The fur is frankly fake broadtail and is an excellent imitation of that smooth, beautifully marked fur. California Author Visits Camp Locale

WELLINGTON — Mrs. Edward Bailey, West Main Street, entertained a number of ladies and a few gentlemen at an afternoon tea on Tuesday afternoon in honor of her house guests, Mr. and Mrs. William Omand, of Sherman Oaks, California.

This is the first time in 20 years that Mr. and Mrs. Omand have visited in Wellington. In previous years they spent many a summer holiday camping on the Wellington park with their family. This was before they left Canada to make their home in California.

At the tea the guests of honor met several ladies they had known years ago in Wellington.

Mrs. Omand has just written a book, "The Littlest Quaker." It is an inspiring story of a Quaker, who, rejected in her girlhood by her father, because he wanted a son, finds her life shaped by her ardent quest for love and acceptance. She was a pathetic little tyke, writes Bessie B. Omand of her heroine "Lizzie," seeming always to crave affection, and followed her mother everywhere, loving her with a deep devotion seldom seen in a child, while trying always so desperately to please her "pa," which seemed impossible.

How Lizzie fights against these impossible odds to earn the love of her father and to find romance and her own place in life makes an uplifting and engrossing story.

Bessie B. Omand, who abandoned ambitions for a musical career when she was married in 1915 became interested in writing some years later, because her aunt was a writer. The aunt, Mrs. Jacob Sherk (now deceased), had many books published under the name of "Gay Page."

Born in 1894 in Sherkton, Canada, Mrs. Omand attended Welland high school, Welland business college and Loretta Academy, all in Canada. She and her husband and two daughters now live in Sherman Oaks, California, and during the winter in Palm Springs, Calif., heart of the beautiful Cochella Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Omand, who have spent the past week as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bailey, will leave on Thursday on their way home from a trip through the United States and Canada. Mrs. Omand says that the best spot in both the U.S.A. and Canada is Wellington and Prince Edward County.

Liquid Plastic Injected Says Tokyo Surgeon

TOKYO (AP)—A Tokyo plastic surgeon said today he gave a bust-enlarging plastic injection to Akiko Kojima before she won the Miss Japan and Miss Universe contests.

"Miss Kojima is just one of many such Japanese beauties who received plastic surgeon's treatments," Dr. Toshizo Matsui said in an interview.

He confirmed a Tokyo newspaper report that Miss Kojima, a Tokyo fashion model, had liquid plastic injected into her bosom at Matsui's hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Maurice Joyce are shown signing the register following their marriage in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Nash of Belleville, and the bridegroom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Joyce, of St. Andrew's, Ontario. (Photo by McCormick's Studio, Belleville.)

JOYCE — NASH

Before a lovely background of red and white gladioli, a very pretty wedding was solemnized recently in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, when the Rev. Peter Murphy united in marriage Jean Eileen Nash, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Nash to Sylvester Maurice Joyce of St. Andrew's, Ontario, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Joyce.

Miss Dorothy Grant presided at the console of the organ and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Robert Burke, in his rendition of "Ave Maria," "Panis Angelicus" during the Mass, and "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother," while the register was being signed.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. William Nash, the bride was lovely in her floor-length gown of white crystalette fashioned with fitted bodice, and featuring a scalloped neckline and wrist-length lily-pointed sleeves. She wore a crown headdress encrusted with pearls and rhinestones and floor-length veil of tulle illusion and carried a bouquet of red and white roses and white satin streamers knotted with rosebuds.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Mary Josephine Nash, of Belleville, who wore a cocktail-length dress of shrimp nylon chiffon with matching pillbox headdress and mittens. She carried a bouquet of white gladioi with green fern and white satin streamers.

Mr. Gabe Wheeler, of St. Andrew's, was groomsman, while Mr. John MacDonald of St. Andrew's, and Mr. Patrick Nash, of Belleville, brother of the bride, ushered the guests .

The reception was held at Club Canara, Belleville, where the bride's table with white damask centred by a three-tier all-white wedding cake topped by a cluster of red roses and baby's breath and flanked by tall white candles and floral bouquets presented a lovely bridal picture.

The bride's mother, gowned in a printed blue crepe dress, white hat and accessories and corsage of red sweetheart roses received the guests. She was assisted by the bridegroom's sister, Miss Ursula Joyce, of Montreal, wearing a blue linen sheath with white hat and accessories and corsage of red sweetheart roses.

For the wedding trip to Quebec City and Eastern Points the bride chose a white linen suit with beige hat, beige accessories and corsage of yellow Sweetheart roses.

Prior to her marriage the bride was entertained at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. James Patterson and also a shower at the home of Mrs. George Clement.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Joyce were honored at a dinner by the members of the family which was followed by a community reception.

The couple will reside in St. Andrew's West, Ontario.

Quinte Lady Golfers Hit Form, Win Two District Team Awards

The distaff side of the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club is commanding a lot of district golfing respect these muggy summer days.

Twice this week, in consecutive days to be exact, they invaded other clubs and came home with field day team prizes with individual awards as decorations.

On Tuesday, a Quinte team of Anne Acton, Ena Corke, Joy Bowerman, Gerry Carscallen, Doris Bradford and Betty Ingram won the Glen Lawrence Gold Club invitation tournament team award.

At the Glen Lawrence tourney, Mildred Lawrence of Napanee won top honors with a low gross score of 95. Quinte's Ena Corke took second low gross with a 97 while Anne Acton won first low net, carding an 83.

Pat Culhane, Napanee's lady links star, took her club's highest field day award with a field low gross score of 84.

On Saturday sixteen Quinte lady golfers go to Watertown where they will take part in the golf club's annual ladies' field day tournament.

Women Want Same Things as Men Readers

SEATTLE (AP)—Two newspaper women made it clear Wednesday their sex doesn't want to be waved aside with the society pages of the family newspaper. They got support from a male editor.

Mrs. Frank Eyerly of Des Moines, Iowa, and Mrs. Norman Chandler of Los Angeles gave the advice to 250 members of the Associated Press Managing Editors Association at their convention here.

Support came from Thomas Collins, assistant managing editor of the Chicago Daily News, moderator of a discussion on how to woo women newspaper readers.

"We want the same thing men readers want," said Mrs. Eyerly, writer-columnist for the Des Moines Register-Tribune and wife of its managing editor.

"That's fair and interesting reporting of the news on the international, national and local level. We want sport pages, market pages, commercial pages, picture pages and an editorial page that reflects what we believe in.

"We may not read all these things you put in the paper for yourselves and your men readers, but we like to know they're there."

"Aiming news for any one sex," said Mrs. Chandler, wife of the publisher of the Los Angeles Times, "is foolish policy. We should strive to attract all readers, including women."

Collins told colleagues women today are "hungry for a defender." He suggested newspapers help fill the role by delving into such fields as household repairs, courtship, widowhood and marriage.

Thirty Attend River Valley W.I. Meeting

STIRLING — Approximately 30 ladies and teenagers gathered at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Morrow for the regular meeting of River Valley Women's Institute on Thursday.

Mrs. Roy Tucker opened with the Institute Ode and Lord's Prayer. Mrs. George Heasman gave a full report of the recent barn sale at Hoards. Correspondence included letters of acceptance from 3 institutes, Wooler, Chapman's Corners, Tweed, Seymour East. These three groups will be entertained on September 3rd in the River Valley School.

Achievement Day will be Saturday, August 29th. It is hoped a girls' club will be formed for the winter months. The Kemptville holiday is scheduled for August 18 to 20. A letter was read from Mrs. Gordon Maynard regarding the voluntary gift to F.W.I.C. which is to be forwarded to the Toronto office.

SPEAKS ON A.C.W.W.

Mrs. Roy Bush spoke briefly on the A.C.W.W. which is convening in Edinburgh, Scotland. The members are asked to hand in any magazine pictures of this convention in order to compile a scrap book. Mrs. Bush read items from The Countrywoman on Ireland and England and closed with a memorial to Mrs. Alfred Watt.

One hundred souvenir spoons have been sold by the members. An invitation to visit Chatterton W.I. at the Turner School was accepted. A card of thanks was read and a few items of business discussed.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen, public relations representative, disclosed she had sent a report of the institute holiday to Miss Jayne Gay and it had been given over CJBQ on July 28th. The new F.W.I.C. president is Mrs. E. J. Roylance, Greenwood, B.C., and the nutrition study project will be based on Canada's food rules.

As friendship link secretary, she had mailed several newspapers and magazines with pictures of the Queen's visit.

Mrs. Jack Bush presided over the program and opened with a poem, "Better to Strive and Climb, Than Never to Attempt to Strive."

Mrs. Harry Morrow and daughter Linda Anne contributed a piano duet, "The Black Hawk Waltz." The roll call was based on "How to Keep Cool," and an article on that subject was read.

OUTLINES CURRENT EVENTS

Mrs. E. C. Hay-Ellis gave an interesting paper on the theme, "Current Events that are Affecting Our Daily Lives." Items included atomic power and its future value; a resume of the technique of artificial respiration which should be carried out the do's and don'ts of boating; the recent visit of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip; opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway; safety on the roads; and a reminder of where the fire alarm is in case of fire in Sidney township.

The highlights fo the Guelph holiday were presented as follows: Mrs. Percy Utman told of the bus trip to Stratford and the Shakespearian Festival; Mrs. Fred McDonnell gave a description of the cafeteria meals and the side trip to Hamilton; Miss Grace Heasman synopsized the work of the Home Economics group and their tour of MacDonald Hall. She also told of the fun and enjoyment of "talent night."

The convener read an article regarding the death of Edgar Guest, the noted poet. Mrs. Ralph Utman read one of his best loved poem, "It Takes a Heap of Living in a House to Make It Home."

A contest, "past and present for a minimum of four hours; events in the River Valley area" was held.

The lunch conveners assisted the hostess in serving refreshments after which Mrs. Roy Bush expressed thanks on behalf of the institute.

Flattering Flapjack

By ALICE ALDEN

Velvet does nicely in a tri-tone cloche that comes in black with all sorts of luscious color combinations, a tonic for the complexion and costume. The saucy little tilted crown is bow-tied to one side. This is a soft and versatile hat, ideal for travel with the always-fresh, non-crushable virtues of rich velvet.

The Pickling Process for Serious Picklers

by Mary Moore

"Dear Mary:

. . . Thanks to you my dills became famous around these parts. I was taken down a peg tough for last year my pickles were a flop — not only the dills but others as well in which whole cucumbers were used. After your brine treatment (the same one that was so successful in other years) nearly every cucumber became hollow as a deflated little football. Could it have been that the cucumbers were not fresh? Could it be that the weather affected last year's cucumber crop? Or could it have been due to careless me? — Mary I. C."

Dinner Menus

Beef and Vegetable Stew Canadian Army Style (with biscuits) (see Wednesday); Shredded Green and Red Cabbage Slaw Blueberries and Cream; Peanut Butter Cookies; Coffee.

My answer to Mary I. C. is: "Yes, hollow, soft pickles will result from using cucumbers that are not fresh. Also, yes — weather conditions do affect the quality of cucumbers.

Since we have so many serious pickle-makers in our audience I will repeat the cucumber brining instructions that have been such a standby:

HOW TO BRINE CUCUMBERS FOR PICKLING:

1. Select freshly gathered firm cucumbers 2 or 4 inches long, wash and dry. 2. Place in clean stone crock or new wooden keg. 3. Cover with brine made of 1 cup non-iodized salt to each 10 cups water (preferably soft water). Measurements must be accurate. 4. Cover with clean plate or new found board that fits inside rim and place a clean heavy stone on it to keep cucumbers submerged. 5. On second day pour 1 3-4 cups salt on plate or board. Do not put salt directly in brine. 6. Place 1-2 cup salt on centre of plate or board on 7th day and each succeeding 7th day for 5 weeks. Skim off scum from brine as it forms at top. Keep cucumbers submerged. 7. At end of second week test brine by placing an egg in it — if egg does not float add a little more salt than the amouns mentioned above. 8. At end of 5th week buy blue litmus paper at drug store. Dip in brine. If it turns pink brine is acid and cucumbers may be removed. If not, test every day until it does. Cucumbers are now ready for various processing methods.

SWEET GHERKINS:

Remove gherkin-size cucumbers from brine. Cover with cold water in granite or aluminum kettle. Heat slowly to about 120 deg. Fahr. — lukewarm. Hold that temperature for 10 to 12 hours then drain or cover with cold water, changing it every 3 or 4 hours for 12 hours. Drain and dry. Place gherkins in stone crock, cover with mild 4 to 6-per cent (40 to 60 grain) vinegar and let stand 10 days. Drain. Cover with a syrup made with 8 cups vinegar (using vinegar in which gherkins stood), 2 cups sugar and whole spices (1 tablespoon mace, 1 tablespoon cloves, 2 tablespoons broken up stick cinnamon). Bring this to boil, simmer 15 minutes and pour over pickles. Drain off next morning and again pour over gherkins. Let stand 2 hours. Then boil pickles in syrup 10 minutes. Cool quickly in covered pan, pack in jars, cover with spiced syrup and seal.

egs)MrC. eOth

NOTE:

Mixed sweet pickles may be done the same way but use peeled onions and cauliflowerets that have been brined only 24 hours — using only half the amount of them together, as gherkins.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

HOW TO ADDRESS WEDDING INVITATIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. When I address the outside envelopes of my wedding invitations, should I write the address in 3 or 4 lines? And should the lines be indented?

2. And how should the name be written on the inside envelope? — Reader

1. There is a most definite form for the addressing of the outside envelopes of wedding invitations. (as a matter of fact, it is such a good and sensible form that it should be used for the addressing of all envelopes, particularly social ones.)

The address should be written in four lines: (a) name; (b) street-address; (c) city (with Zone Number, if possible); (d) state. There should be no abbreviations, except such necessary ones as "Mr." and "Mrs." Write out the "and" between "Mr. and Mrs." Do not abbreviate "Street," "Avenue," and so forth. Do not abbreviate the name of the city or of the province. Indent the lines. No punctuation at the end of any line.

Here is the correct form:

Mr. and Mrs. John Clark
123 Third Street
Pleasantville 3
Ontario

2. On the inside envelope only the title and surname are written: no first names. Like this:

Mr. and Mrs. Clark

BRIDE STANDS AT GROOM'S RIGHT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In the receiving-line of a wedding reception, should the bride stand at the right or the left of the bridegroom? (Your answer is to settle a bet we have made.) — R. B.

The bride stands at the right of the bridegroom — abiding by the traditional procedure — "the lady on the right of the gentleman." And this is a most important rule to remember in the planning of the receiving-line.

TIP NOT TO BE GIVEN BY DINNER GUEST

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My aunt and uncle have a house in a nearby suburb, and last week they invited a friend of theirs and me to come to dinner. I have met this friend several times, but don't know her very well. Our hosts have a part-time maid, who comes in the early-afternoon and stays until after dinner. I was very much surprised to see that their friend, the other guest, gave this maid a tip, a folded bill. Why did she do this? Should I have done this too? Was it the proper thing to do? — Reader

I don't know why the other guest did this. The rule is that in a private house you do not give a tip to a maid unless you are a guest in the house for at least over one night.

ANNOUNCING AN ENGAGEMENT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell me if it would be proper for the engaged man's mother to announce her son's engagement, since the mother of his fiance is not living?
— Mother of groom-to-be

It is not proper for the fiance's mother to announce the engagement. This important announcement should be made by some member of the girl's family. If her father is living, he of course is the one to make the announcement. If he is not living, her grandparents (or a grandparent), or an aunt and uncle might make this announcement.

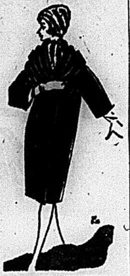
Fur Ascot



By VERA WINSTON

Without heaping on a lavish helping of fur, this fur-trimmed broadcloth coat manages to achieve a luxury look. The beautifully cut coat has tiers of folded drapery at the neck, inside of which is worn a mink ascot. The draping-on the bodice defines a rather high waistline. A mink hat complements the scarf.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Arlene J. — I'm tired of trying to please Ken's parents.

Kenneth J. — We must try to cheer them at this time.

• • •

Arlene J. — My husband and I are 23 and 24 respectively. We have been married nearly three years and are fairly happy — outside of the in-law problem.

Ken's parents are the problem — his mother particularly. She is very critical of me. She has told me in no uncertain terms that it is time I had a baby. She doesn't approve of working wives and always has something nasty to say whenever my job is mentioned.

I feel that she doesn't love me as a daughter and I don't see why I am supposed to shower her with affection the way my husband seems to want. My parents are far more up-to-date and interesting to talk to than his, but Ken says we have to spend more time with his parents. I am tired of trying to please them.

• • •

Kenneth J. — Arlene sets up this competition about whose parents should get more attention. It's pretty silly and would be funny if there weren't some really serious factors involved.

My parents are still trying to recuperate from the loss of my older sister only two years ago. They are lonely and quite unhappy and I think we owe it to them to spend as much time as possible with them to cheer them. Arlene's parents still have two young children at home with them. They aren't in need of any cheering.

Before we were married, Arlene used to complain about her own parents, but now she talks about how perfect her parents are and how awful mine are. It's true my mother is tactless at times, but she means no harm.

• • •

The Council We hold no brief for Kenneth's mother's interference in the personal affairs of the young couple. Her comments are in bad taste and out of order.

This, however, doesn't mean that Arlene is justified in making snide criticisms of her husband's parents and taking a huffy attitude. It would be far better if she spoke up and told her mother-in-law in a respectful maner that the question of children and of her working are personal matters and that she prefers not to discuss them.

Arlene shows some resentment of the fact that Kenneth's mother doesn't love her as a daughter, but she shows little inclination to give of her love as a daughter Possibly Arlene had hoped to become a kind of subsitute daughter to her in-laws after the death of their own. She should recognize she is expecting a little too much. Yet she might have tried to offer some consolation in the form of real sympathy and thoughtfulness of her in-laws.

Like many immature individuals, Arlene has transferred her beefs against her own parents to her in-laws. She demands that parents be without faults, that they live up to her ideals. But she is a lot less strict in her standards for her own behavior.

Kenneth is justified in his desire to give his parents some special attention to this difficult period. Arlene should not allow childish petulance to stand in the way of showing her love for her husband by putting herself out for his parents. It may net her some rewards in terms of her own gain in emotional stature.

VANCOUVER (CP)—The halibut is a curious fish, say International Pacific Halibut Commission scientists who are making a two-month survey of the species.

They have found that the young halibut behaves in a rather extraordinary fashion for its left eye migrates to the right side of its head. What happens to the right eye they don't say, but at the same time the round fish becomes flat.

The scientific work at present in progress is headed by Richard A. Kautz, of the commission's staff, assisted by Basil Boulton of the University of British Columbia.

EXTENSIVE STUDY

Their studies include the distribution, habitat, growth and abundance of the young halibut and its relationship to other species.

Halibut spawn in deep water along Canada's northern coast in the winter. The eggs and young float freely in the intermediate water layer and are carried along by ocean currents.

During this period of drifting, the young change their physical form, such as switching their eye around.

By late spring they are nearly an inch long and settle to the bottom in shallow shore waters.

They are suitable for commercial fishing five to seven years later when they are about 26 inches long.

PREMONITION?

MELBOURNE (Reuters)—Beauty queen Gillian Gaylard two years ago gave her £200 ($560) prize money to a hospital because "they need it more than I do." A year later her 20-year-old fiance died in the same hospital. Tuesday Gillian, 21, died—a victim of cancer.

ZOO EXCHANGE

NEW YORK (AP)—The Bronx Zoo today acquired two pure-blood wisents, or European Bison, from the Amsterdam Zoo. The Amsterdam Zoo will receive 18 American prairie dogs in exchange. Wisents have been extinct as a wild species since the end of the last century and now exist only in zoological parks.

Days of RCAF as Combat Force Appear Numbered

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Tuesday talks in Ottawa between Defence Minister Pearkes and U.S. Defence Secretary Neil McElroy serve to confirm that the days of the RCAF as a combat force in Canada are numbered.

The main thing accomplished at the talks was an agreement—it still requires Canadian cabinet approval—to build more heavy radars beyond the seven new stations announced earlier this year. Mr. Pearkes has said that the RCAF will man all new radar stations in Canada.

No mention was made of any plan to acquire a new interceptor for the RCAF to replace the CF-100 jet which, RCAF officers say, hasn't got enough altitude capability to climb to the flying height of new Soviet bombers.

GROUND DUTIES FOR RCAF

Thus this concept of Canadian air defence policy emerges more clearly: The RCAF will handle the ground duties and the United States air force the flying.

Mr. Pearkes heralded this change Feb. 23 when he told the Commons: "We can rely on the U.S. for interceptors and provide additional facilities for them to operate, if necessary, over our country."

Mr. McElroy said American interceptor squadrons will be moved north toward the Canadian border and that some of the American Bomarc anti-aircraft missile batteries will be so placed as to afford protection for Canadian populated areas.

Canada is scheduled to have two Bomarc bases at North Bay, Ont., and Mont Laurier, Que. Oddly enough, they will be farther south than some of the American Bomarc units in Maine and the Western U.S.

COLOSSAL GOOF

It now is becoming apparent that Canadian and U.S. defence planners made a $230,000,000 goof when they built the mid-Canada warning line.

The trouble with this line along the 55th parallel of latitude is that it is only a detection system and cannot be used, like the Pinetree chain farther south, for control of interceptors and anti-aircraft missiles.

Defence planners want to push the battle line—the invisible line where interceptors and missiles would engage Russian bombers—300 miles north to the 55th parallel.

This problem would have been automatically solved for them if the mid-Canada line comprised control radar. But it does not and now Canada and the U.S. face the prospect of spending more millions for big radar units.

Once these radars are installed three or four years from now, U.S. interceptors and missiles would be able to engage enemy bombers north of Canada's settled areas.

Researchers Encountering Tantalizing Problems in Evaluating Bombing Effects

"Only Hiroshima and Nagasaki can prove the human ef[illegible] of A-bombings," a Japan[illegible] doctor says. But even in those cities, blasted 14 years ago, researchers today are encountering tantalizing problems in evaluating those effects. This article explains why large areas of ignorance remain.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

NAGASAKI, Japan (AP)—"Seventeenth A-bomb victim dies so far this year," says the newspaper headline.

Fact or guess?

Death had stolen a patient in a hospital set up especially to care for survivors of A-bombings.

Was this death basically caused or hastened by exposure to bomb radiation? And what is the toll?

This is the critical but elusive answer sought by doctors, scientists and citizens here in Nagasaki and in Hiroshima.

SPECIAL CLINICS

Part of the answer will come from patients now being treated under a government program of free medical care for survivors of the bombings. It started only two years ago, with special hospitals built, special examination clinics established, doctors' cooperation enlisted.

By the thousands, survivors are getting medical checkups to learn if they are all right. The vast majority still are.

In Nagasaki last year, 25,000 had screening exams, of whom 6,600 were judged needing more careful diagnosis. Some 550 are receiving hospital or home care.

In Hiroshima, 44,000 took the exams last year, 6,700 received further check, and 628 were found needing treatment.

This does not mean all had ailments caused by radiation exposure. Thousands who are listed as [illegible]vivors did not get radiation, [illegible]ugh distance, or shielding protection of buildings. Some now sick could have illnesses due to causes other than radiation.

AUTOPSIES HELP

There's no means of telling offhand. Autopsies after death can help pin down the question. So can the rate of various illnesses among irradiated survivors compared with those not irradiated, or persons never bombed.

Individual doctors can and do express their medical opinions based on their observations. Popularly, it's an easy assumption that anyone dying in an A-bomb hospital must have been irradiated.

But a true and meaningful tally is difficult with all the margins for error.

Statistical and medical studies by Japanese doctors and by the atom bomb casualty commission [illegible] seeking these facts too. The [illegible]mission was started in 1947 as a joint American - Japanese project. It has some 900 Japanese staff members and 50 foreigners.

It is purely a research organization, explains Dr. George Darling, the director.

But A-bomb survivors hungering for personal treatment for years regarded the commission unhappily at first. Many also felt the studies were simply using Japanese people as guinea pigs of medical research.

The commission's role and goal in research now are being more appreciated, says professor Tatsuo Morito, president of Hiroshima University. "For we must have a scientific way to decide the effects. It is important not only for people here, but for humanity. Only Hiroshima and Nagasaki can prove the human effects of A-bombings."

At the A-bomb hospital in Nagasaki, "we are concerned mainly with radiation effects on internal organs, such as the liver and bone marrow, glands, and blood, and cancers," explains professor Dr. Soitiro Yokota, director.

Was a patient really irradiated and by how much? Each one fills out a detailed questionnaire, telling where he was when the bomb went off, how far from the centre, whether in an open field, in a building or shelter, and what kind, whether he was injured, or had any radiation symptoms soon after the bombing.

Dr. Yokota reports more Leukemia among bomb survivors. He is treating patients with anaemias, liver complications, a few with cancers.

All reports are submitted to the welfare ministry for determination whether radiation effects were involved, Dr. Yokota says.

Canada, Russia Start Swapping Television Films

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada and Russia have started swapping television films for use mainly in news and documentary programs.

The exchange has been going on for a year and CBC officials said Wednesday there is no complaint yet about the Russians trying to slip in Communist propaganda.

There is no propaganda. "Any propaganda would stick out like a sore thumb," Bill Armstrong, CBC information official, said Wednesday.

The exchange arrangement was reached a year ago when John Dunlop of Toronto, head of the CBC's international exchange department, visited Moscow's central TV studios.

DIVERSE TOPICS

The agreement called for a swap of films on news events, documentaries, music and sports and children's programs.

Canada has received films on wrestling, the Kelowna Packers' hockey games in Moscow last winter, speeches by Premier Nikita Khrushchev, scientific developments, construction, musical groups, wheat farming in the Ukraine and children's games.

Films have been used in documentaries, news telecasts and children's program.

The CBC has sent films on Canadian agriculture and children's programs.

The U.S.S.R. Illustrated News, a monthly magazine distributed by the Soviet embassy in Ottawa, said Wednesday that the exchange is irregular "but we hope that what has been done will serve as a solid foundation for the establishment of a regular exchange between the Soviet Union and Canada of TV programs of diverse topics."

Councillor Denies Getting $100 for Building Permit

TORONTO (CP) — Five rolled $20 bills changed hands "in the general way of a payoff" to expedite a building permit, the inquiry into York township affairs was told Wednesday.

Harold Payne, a suburban Scarborough contractor, told the hearing he gave the money to Councillor Harold Linden in a cigaret package in 1956.

Questioned by commission counsel T. Kelso Creighton, Mr. Payne said he handed over the $100 with the remark: "Here is my contribution to the benevolent fund."

Mr. Payne said he had been hired by businessman Neel J. May to construct a plant and he feared Mr. May would not get the building permit.

He said he was willing to spend $100 getting the permit because he could always get the money back by adding a few extras to his bill and any more delay in construction would have "cost thousands of dollars."

"ABSOLUTE LIE"

Called to the stand later, Mr. Linden denied the allegation in a few short words: "It's an absolute lie . . . That meeting never took place . . . Mr. Payne never paid me any money at any time."

Mr. Payne said he prepared the bills in "the general way of a payoff" when Mr. May had refused to make any donation to Mr. Linden. He said he had never told Mr. May of the alleged payment.

After he had handed over the money, Mr. Payne said, he asked Mr. Linden when they could expect the building permit.

"He said if we inquired in the morning it would be there. I told May to inquire, he did, and the permit was there."

Mr. Payne said his real estate company had advised him to see Lawrence A. Gordon, Mr. Linden's partner in a law firm, and Mr. Gordon had arranged a meeting with Mr. Linden.

Didn't Know Stolen Basket Contained Bomb

ALGIERS (AP) — A policeman idly watched two little Moslem boys struggling to carry a wicker shopping basket.

The two urchins, about 10 years of age, would heave the basket along for a short way then set it down to rest before repeating the process.

The basket seemed much too heavy for the groceries it appeared to contain, the policeman thought. Then the knowledge of constant danger in rebellion-torn Algeria made him suspicious. He ordered the boys to halt.

While they waited, wide-eyed and frightened, the policeman lifted a box of sugar from off the rest of the grocery camouflage—and found a 60-millimetre mortar shell which had been rigged to a timing device.

Bomb-disposal experts disarmed the device just two minutes before the time set for the bomb to detonate.

The incident Wednesday caused a good deal of excitement in Algiers. But probably the most surprised persons in the city were the two boys.

Ike Says Nikita Will Be Invited to Tour Some Bases

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower says Nikita Khrushchev will be invited to tour some military installations on his visit to the United States next month.

The Soviet premier has said he isn't interested—that he is coming here as a man of peace, with no rocket in his pocket.

Eisenhower Wednesday told the first full-scale press conference he has held as president outside Washington that he would give Khrushchev "a fairly wide choice" of what he could see in the way of defence establishments.

But Eisenhower also said that "I am not going to push and press it," and "if he doesn't want to, that is that."

Much of the pushing and pressing has come from members of Congress. Some of them have said Khrushchev should be shown some of the power he would encounter if he misjudged U.S. might and intentions and ignited a third world war.

HOW CITIZENS LIVE

In addition to visiting military projects, Eisenhower said he would like to have Khrushchev whirl with him over Washington in the presidential helicopter to view all the fine, modest homes. He said he would like to have him go to Abilene, Kan., the prairie town where he grew up, and learn how hard the president worked as a lad. He said he wants the premier to visit industrial plants and housing developments.

The president's remarks give an idea of the kind of approach he is hoping to take toward Khrushchev's visit.

He is known to feel that if he can create the right kind of atmosphere for the visit he might be able to accomplish something in the way of easing tensions between the two countries.

NOT GOING SOFT

Eisenhower is entirely resentful, however, at any suggestion that he is softening in his attitude toward Russia and the Communist threat. He has made it clear to his associates that his policy toward Russia remains unchanged.

The president also indicated he would toss at Khrushchev the potentially explosive issue of fighting in Laos, which Washington suspects is inspired by Communists from China or Russia or both.

Eisenhower said he still is insisting on measurable progress toward settling East-West problems in advance of any summit meeting of chiefs of government.

On domestic matters, the president repeated there isn't the slightest change in the government's attitude against intervening in the four-week steel strike, despite the Khrushchev visit.

"Don't we want Mr. Khrushchev to see this country as a freedom - loving place? Why should we worry too much about the fact people can strike in this town, in this country?"

Canada's Population Expected To Reach 18,000,000 Next Year

By DON HANRIGHT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's population is expected to reach 18,000,000 sometime late next year, probably in September.

The forecast was made Wednesday by the bureau of statistics after it reported that the population at July 1 stood at an estimated 17,482,000, a one-year gain of 397,000.

Should the prediction prove correct, it will have taken Canada 2½ years to add 1,000,000 to its population since the 17,000,000 mark was reached in mid-April, 1958. It took only 24 months to add the previous 1,000,000 after the 16,000,000 was reached in April, 1956.

IMMIGRATION DROPS

The six-months difference reflects dropping immigration, down last year to 124,851 from 1957 when more wide-open immigration policies plus the influx of Hungarian refugees produced a total of 282,164, highest since about 400,000 in 1913.

The population gain of 198,000 in the first half of this year is estimated to include 55,000 immigrants, indicating the total will drop another notch this year. However, it probably still will be close to the long-term average.

Also included in the six-month gain is the natural increase—births minus deaths—of 177,000, and the estimated emigration of 31,000 Canadians going to other countries, about the same rate as in the last two years.

The one-year gain of 397,000 since July 1, 1958, compares with increases in the previous 12-month periods of 435,000 in 1958, 532,000 in 1957 and 382,000 in 1956.

Ontario continued to report the biggest growth with a boost of 81,000 to 5,968,000. Quebec was second, up 56,000 to 5,011,000.

Liquor Cannot Be Taken From Home Parties

TORONTO (CP)—A magistrate is wrong to advise motorists to carry liquor from parties in the trunk rather than in the car's passenger compartment, Col. C. E. Woodrow, liquor control board solicitor, said Wednesday.

He was commenting on the remarks of Magistrate Hugh Foster who fined three motorists $10 each for having liquor in their cars and told them:

"If you must carry liquor home from parties why not put it in the trunk of your car? Then no suggestion will enter the mind of policemen that you are nipping?"

Col. Woodrow said liquor must be taken directly from store to residence and "can't legally be taken to a party and certainly cannot be taken from parties."

Steel Industry Rejects Proposal To Cut Prices

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The steel industry, it was reliably reported today, has rejected a suggestion that it cut steel prices $10 a ton in lieu of granting a wage increase in the current strike situation.

The suggestion was made by Democratic representative Chester A. Bowles of Connecticut in a letter to President Eisenhower, who in turn had it referred directly to Chairman Roger Blough of the U.S. Steel Corporation.

Blough is said to have turned down the idea on the ground that in settling the strike, which began a month ago, the steel companies are going to have to give the strikers some sort of wage increase anyway.

So far the industry's position is that it cannot, in the public interest, increase steel labor costs and thus spur inflation. The striking United Steelworkers Union contends that this is an attempt to reverse traditional economic policy that workers are entitled to regular sharing in profits.

TALKS IN STALEMATE

With steel negotiations continuing in a complete stalemate in New York, these other facets of the situation became known:

1. The administration has no intention of invoking the Taft-Hartley labor law's national-emergency provisions at least until Sept. 15 or about Oct. 1. Officials are convinced there will be no sizable steel shortage until then.

2. Labor Secretary James Mitchell, who is studying the strike situation, has conferred several times with leading figures in the steel companies and the union. Mitchell's department has been gathering facts on steel profits, prices, wages and employment.

3. The union is convinced that with no settlement likely the government will have to intervene. It wants Eisenhower to appoint a public board to recommend settlement terms.

Name of Capone Used to Send Some of Loot

TORONTO (CP)—The name of Al Capone was given as sender on a parcel containing $4,000 of $15,000 — loot from an Ottawa robbery received by mail at police headquarters here.

On the package, mailed from Ottawa, was written: "sender: Al Capone." The famed U.S. gangster died in 1947.

Toronto police heard that such a parcel might arrive when they arrested a suspect last week in connection with the robbery of an Ottawa supermarket manager.

Last week $2,200 of the robbery money was recovered here with the arrest of Douglas Parson, 24, of Ottawa.

Robert Stewart and Laurence Maloley, both 29, of Ottawa were arrested there shortly after the robbery and charged with armed robbery.

Castro's New Youth Patrols Are Boy Scouts on Surface, 'Private Eyes' In Reality

In this second article of a series of three, William L. Ryan, Associated Press foreign news analyst, gives some answers to the question of whether another dictatorship is likely in Cuba. Ryan has just conducted a new survey of developments in Cuba since he was last there as the Batista dictatorship collapsed.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

HAVANA (AP)—It can be unwise for a Cuban to be careless about questions nowadays.

He might ask casually of the wrong person: "How do you think things are going these days?" And be told partly: "That's a counter - revolutionary question."

El Jefe Maximo—the foremost leader—of the revolution, Premier Fidel Castro has a strange idea of democracy. To him Cuba seems to represent the purest form of Athenian democracy because the crowds come out at his beck and call to cheer for his leadership.

Castro rails against dictatorships in Latin America, and it is likely he is completely sincere in believing himself a champion of liberty. On the surface there is liberty in Cuba.

A man can talk openly if he chooses. But if he is overheard, he can be in for trouble. A newspaperman can print what he wants without a censor looking over his shoulder. But when it appears in print he can find himself in hot water.

NO OPPOSITION

There seems little prospect for free elections in Cuba for years—nor is there much prospect for formation of real opposition political activity.

Castro, however, does not appear to relate these things to dictatorship. It's just that he does not seem to permit Cubans any doubt about the road they're travelling.

Some aspects of the developing revolution have an ugly look, though on the surface they might appear innocent enough.

For example, there are the "patrullas juveniles"—the youth patrols. On the surface these are little more than boy scout-type organizations devoted to fine and patriotic ideals. But underneath they seem something else again.

The youth patrol made its appearance in olive drab uniforms in the big parade celebrating the July 26 anniversary of Castro's movement. The boys were executing a curious little twisted goosestep. They are part of Castro's revolution.

HELP POLICE

The "patrullas juveniles de la policia revolucionaria" is billed as an organization intended to "help the police." The youths in the patrol are supposed to inform the police of what happens in their neighborhoods.

Up to the present, about 27,000 are enrolled in the organization, operating thus far only in Havana under the direction of a dynamic, middle - aged woman leader named Caridad Alvarez Alamo. It is supposed to enrol youngsters from seven to 14 years, but the age actually ranges up to 17 or 18.

Other ominous portents include the motion of many workers, including some sugar cane campesinos, that the revolution permits them to strike at the drop of a hat for the most outlandish demands.

In some areas Communist-infiltrated unions now are sufficiently powerful to become a clearinghouse for the labor force with full control over job assignments and wages.

These are only symptoms. Perhaps much of this will be overcome. On the whole, even among the harassed middle class, there is much well-wishing for Castro's revolution, and much confidence it will succeed in the long run despite gloomy portents.

Archie to Quit When Unborn Son Is 16

MONTREAL (CP) — How much longer will Archie Moore continue fighting?

The light heavyweight champion, who says he will be 43 Dec. 13 and has been fighting pro 23 years, put it this way today:

"My wife has presented me with two girls. I want a boy. She has promised me a boy. When we get that boy, and when he reaches 16, then I think I'll hang up the gloves."

He grinned and added: "Maybe."

'Jest a Second'

"Is that something new in swimsuits?"

"No, much the same things have been in them for years."

Bench Dismisses Charge of Manslaughter

HAMILTON (CP) — Magistrate Albert Merck Wednesday dismissed a charge of manslaughter against Stanley Kowalski 40, who was charged in the June 17 death of his landlord, Mike Marynick, 63.

Witnesses said it appeared that Kowalski accidentally struck Maryniok in the face when he beckoned the man to follow him across the street causing Marynick to fall and strike his head. They said both men appeared to be intoxicated.

Magistrate Merck said he felt the blow was "not intentional and deliberate."

Foxboro scored their runs in pairs last night to defeat Read 8-3 and even their South Hastings baseball league semi-finals at one game apiece.

Read plated all their runs for a 3-0 lead in the top of the initial frame. Foxboro struck back with two in their half of the inning and added two in each of the fourth, fifth and six frames to win going away.

Gordie Campbell hurled the win, pitching well after the first frame. He gave five hits over the distance, striking out four.

Don Masters took the loss, allowing eight hits. He nipped half a dozen on strikes. Eight Read errors played a large part in the scoring.

Robinson sparked the winners with four singles while Reynolds had two. Cooper and Mofina added one hit each.

Harness Racing

BATAVIA, N.Y. (CP)—Mighty Dudley, fastest horse in Canada's harness racing history, will tackle the United States horse of the year, Bye Bye Byrd, in the $11,293 Harness Tracks of America series pace Saturday at Batavia Downs.

Keith Waples will drive the Dudley Hanover pacer which last month cut out a 1:59 3-5 mile at Richelieu Park. It was the first two-minute mile in Dominion history.

Bye Bye Byrd, with two world records this year, $128,000 in earnings and a sweep of three $50,000 stake races in the last month, is being touted as the horse of the year in this country.

Owned by Mr. and Mrs. Rex C. Larkin of Chicago, Bye Bye Byrd's best win was in 1:58 2-5 at Chicago, a world record for a four-year-old pacer. He also tied a world record at Yonkers.

TORONTO (CP)—The sudden and unexpected eclipse of Jiggs McFadden has turned the chase for top driving honors topsy-turvey at Old Woodbine Park.

A week ago McFadden, the red-checked reinsman from Dresden, appeared to have locked up the trophy and the $100 that goes with it. He held a six-win lead on Cecil Coke and rarely knew a night of non-winners.

But Wednesday night McFadden went through his fifth straight winless program, and it left him just one victory ahead of Coke at 23 to 22. Jiggs won the top prize last season with 22 winners.

Coke's 22nd triumph came in Wednesday night's second race when he drove Ruth Hal M., owned by Len Morgan of Thamesville.

THE SHOE'S 3,500TH

CHICAGO (AP)—Jockey Willie Shoemaker, four times national riding champion, scored the 3,500th winner of his career at Arlington Park Wednesday. It was Mad Duchess, a $4,000 filly that won the second race easily before a crowd of 15,339.

Miami Blanks Leafs Twice; Bisons Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rochester's Bob Keegan felt right at home in the International League Wednesday night. He was facing his old buddies, Columbus Jets, who were waving a five-game wining string in his face.

But Keegan scattered seven hits for a 6-1 victory. In five appearances against Columbus—four of them starting—he has given 29 hits in 31 2-3 inings, walked 13 and struck out 14 in posting a 3-1 record over them.

The loss dropped Columbus two games back of second-place Havana, which was rained out of its game with Montreal. Buffalo took a 7½-game lead with a 5-2 victory over Richmond while Miami swept a doubleheader from Toronto, 3-0 and 6-0.

Keegan was backed up by home runs by Gene Green, Lee Tate and Jim Frey, which accounted for three of the six runs. Curt Raydon, who had won six in a row dropped his fourth straight.

GREEN BESTS SHORT

Bobby Del Greco hit a solo home run in the eighth ining off Richmond loser Bill Short (14-5) to break a 2-2 tie. Frank Herrera's two-run double in the ninth added two more. Bobby Morgan homered for Buffalo. Dallas Green (7-3) won.

Harry Byrd (6-11) and Bunky Stewart (4-9) combined for Miami's shutout victories, allowing only nine hits. Byrd got the first-game victory with a five-hitter and aid from Norm Zauchin's home run.

Stewart gave only four hits in the nightcap beating Ron Negray (13-9).

On the Tracks

FORT ERIE (CP)—One of the most interesting races of the Fort Erie summer meeting will be Saturday's Colin Stakes, a test of 5½ furlongs for two year olds.

Bulpamiru, winner of the Victoria Stakes and the Boniface Stakes, will be asked to race against some of the best juvenile colts in the country. Among her rivals will be Hidden Treasure and Windy Ship which finished first and second respectively in the Summer Stakes.

Doc Shaul, repute to be the fastest two year old in Canada, may be ready to tackle Bulpamiru on Saturday. Doc Shaul, owned by Morris Fishman, bucked his shins after equalling the Canadian record for 4½ furlongs in his only start.

FORT ERIE (CP) — Wonder Where, the sensational filly owned by Larkin Maloney and Conn Smythe of Toronto, was forced to the limit to defeat Its Ann by a neck in the $5,000 Fury Stakes at Fort Erie Wednesday. It was the seventh victory of the season for Wonder Where, which has raced only nine times this year. She finished second in her other two starts and her 1959 earnings total $35,935. La Tuque was third.

WESTBURY, N.Y. (CP)—Del Miller drove Countess Adios to a 2:02.2 track record victory in the $36,914 Devotion Pace for two-year-old fillies Wednesday night at Roosevelt raceway.

The bay daughter of Adios led all the way in registering the fastest two-year-old mile time in Roosevelt's 20 seasons.

Lacrosse Scores

LONG BRANCH (CP) — Long Branch-Dixie Castrols defeated Brampton Excelsiors 10-8 Wednesday night in the final regular-season game of the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior series.

A game scheduled for today between Peterborough Mercuries and Welland-Crowland Switsons was cancelled because it cannot affect the standings. Peterborough is first, Welland-Crowland second, Long Branch third and Brampton fourth.

Larry Ruse netted four goals for Long Branch Wednesday night, Morley Kells had two and Ron Brown, Leo Teatro, Bill Davenport and Jake Rawson scored singles. Bill Wanless, Ken Richardson, Len Caruso and Bert Russell each had two for Brampton.

Long Branch will open the playoffs in Peterborough next Monday minus Ron Brown, who received a match penalty and an automatic one-game suspension Wednesday night for striking referee George Burrows.

Women's Golf

Marlene in Quarter-Finals 'Teen' Beats Ada MacKenzie

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian women's open golf championship moved into the quarter-finals today with a group of experienced and tough competitors and pert 15-year-old Gayle Hitchens of Vancouver tagging along. This is the day, experts predict, the youngster gets her come-uppance.

Win or lose she is a celebrity. She reached this stature Wednesday by whipping 65-year-old Ada Mackenzie of Toronto, veteran of a half-century of glittering successes.

The victory, by a 5 and 4 margin, sent the five-foot-three-inch blonde against 27-year-old Mrs. Bruce McGhie of New York's Whippoorwill Club and three-time New York State champion.

BRINGS MEMORIES

Miss Mackenzie, smiling broadly after her loss, recalled that she was just about the same age as the Vancouver girl when she made her first bid in the open and lost in the 1912 semi-final. Since then, the veteran has won 40 major tournaments, a record no other Canadian has matched.

"Gayle is a very consistent and good little golfer," applauded Miss Mackenzie in an interview. "I'm going to keep my eye on her today because she will be under a terrific test against Mrs. McGhie, whom I think has the capabilities to reach the final Saturday."

It was pressure golf in the other seven second - round matches Wednesday and the results left five Canadians, two Americans and one English woman in this 46th annual championship over the par-76 St. George's course. Only two of the eight were close.

COMES FROM BEHIND

Defending champion Mrs. Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto, out to break Miss Mackenzie's record of five open titles, spotted Mrs. G. A. Cole, of Edmonton the first two holes, drew even at the ninth and won 2 and 1 on the 17th.

The other squeaker resulted in a 1-up victory for Mrs. Mary Jane McCarter of Toronto over 18-year-old Jo - Ann Percy of Vancouver.

The other survivors are Judy Darling and Janet McWha of St. Lambert, Que., Mrs. Marley Spearman of Sudbury, Middlesex and Mrs. Frank Stranahan from the U.S.

Toronto Rink Leads Ontario Bowls Doubles

TORONTO (CP)—A hard-to-get eight-end put Lindsay's Sid Elsden and Percy Skitch to the fore Wednesday in the third round of the Ontario lawn bowling doubles tournament.

The eight-end helped beat Toronto's J. Burnet and Tom Swan 22-15, but it didn't help in the fourth round when Elsden and Skitch were eliminated by Toronto's L. C. Gardiner and Gordon Picken.

Beaupit, Niagara Falls, Ont., was another four-round loser.

An eight-end, made by placing all eight balls closer to the jack than any opposing balls, is not a new experience for Elsen, who wishes it would happen to some-one else. In the same tournament three years ago he also had an eight-end in the third round.

Losers of preliminary matches are relegated to sub-trophy competitions. Among these losers was R. H. Edney, Kingston ousted by Gardiner in the second round. Edney won his first game in the Seagram Trophy first round, 16-12 over a Hartford, Conn. team.

Leafs Manager Player Stage Fist Brawl

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says two Toronto Maple Leafs traded punches in the Leaf dugout during an International Baseball League doubleheader at Miami Wednesday night.

In a dispatch from Miami, where the Leafs lost twice 3-0 and 6-0, the newspaper said the brawl involved catcher Tim Thompson and manager Dixie Walker, in the fifth inning of the first game.

The Globe and Mail gave this account:

Thompson was called out at the plate while attempting to score on a squeeze bunt. Walker accused Thompson of missing the sign on the play and slapped on a fine—believed to be $25.

Thompson "challenged Walker's ancestry," causing the manager to swing at his catcher.

The two were separated as they wrestled by coach Lou Kahn, infielder Stan Jok and trainer Bill Smith.

Later, an unmarked Walker said:

"We're all on edge because we've been losing, and we're tired from doubleheaders. I bear no malice."

The Indians defeated the Braves 10-1 behind the combined one-hit hurling of Art Lucas and Bobby Boyle in a bantam baseball fixture.

Lucas was the winner, taking over from Boyle when the Braves scored their one run for a 1-0 lead in top of the fourth inning. Lucas fanned ten men from the fourth frame on in a terrific relief performance.

Bill Ryan and Donald Gardner had a double each to lead the Indians at the plate. Gary Thibault claimed the only Brave safety.

LONG TIME NO RABBIT

PANAMA CITY, Fla. (AP)—A greyhound finally caught the rabbit at the Washington County Kennel Club track at Ebro. Dark Glow, was spun completely around in a collision on a turn and took off again in the wrong direction. The dog eluded officials and ran smack into the lure. Officials ruled no race.

Bombers, Lions Open Western Grid Season

VANCOUVER (CP) — The apprentice challenges his instructor tonight as British Columbia Lions and the Grey Cup champion Winnipeg Blue Bombers open he Canadian football season's play-for-keeps schedule.

The apprentice says he's got a definite advantage—but it may not be enough to win.

Wayne Robinson, hard-driving taskmaster of the Lions, runs up against Bud Grant, third - year Bomber genius who last year had Robinson as an assistant as the club went to the Western Interprovincial Football Union championship, then won the national title.

"Sure, it's a definite advantage," said Robinson when asked if his work during the last two years as an assistant to Grant would be of any great benefit in planning for tonight's game.

"It gives him an advantage, too, but I know his personnel a lot better than he knows mine."

Bombers, who flew from Winnipeg in time to hold a full workout here Wednesday evening, brought 29 players, leaving at home halfback Gordie Rowland with a pinched nerve in his neck and end Norm Rauhaus on the shelf through illness.

Tonight's game is the first in the 16-game WIFU schedule. Calgary Stampeders open their season Friday night against Saskatchewan Roughriders in Regina and the league's fifth team, Edmonton Eskimos, get into action in Monday's two-game schedule.

The Lions are in Edmonton and the Bombers in Calgary Monday.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Some guys and animals are born lucky; others acquire good fortune and yet others have it thrust upon them.

Take animals f'rinstance. And take Tuffy Truesdale's pet alligator in particular.

Many equine race track champions and prize-ring heavy-draught horses end up ignominiously in a glue pot. Fine bulls and steers after a brief span of life wind up in a meat cannery or on a butcher's block. That prince of fishes, the salmon, gives his body to a salad bowl. After all, what fun do they get out of life?

But Tuffy's alligator is living the life of Reilly. Most of this overgrown lizard family live out their allotted span of some 1,500 years lazing around in a Florida or American river or pool, swimming, sun-tanning, getting free meals with no housing or tax problems to worry about. Eventually they wind up in luggage manufacturing joints, or have their hides carved up in small chunks, embroidered with a handle or two and some finery, and are carried around on milady's arm as a purse.

Not so Tuffy's tidbit. This slithering freeloader is the only one of his kind to get the chance to see the world at no cost, without benefit of joining the navy.

It lives well. It gets three big meals a day, if it bothers to wake up to eat them. Its razor-like choppers are toothicured daily so you don't have to wonder where the yellow went. It has a thinking crocodile's choice of viands, and is not averse to chomping on a human leg or arm, if it can get within range.

For, as Tuffy says, an alligator lives to eat. It has 80 teeth in its gaping jaws, 80 crunchers that can hamburg a man with one shuddering chomp. The jaws of an alligator exert a pressure of 900 pounds. Think of it. Nine hundred pounds. Gad, what a mincing way to die.

The last time Tuffy was here he brought Robert the Rollicking Reptile to the stage in a coffin-like box. Its jaws opened and closed slightly in a sort of metronomic rhythm. Funny sounds came forth. Then we discovered the dam thing was sound asleep — and snoring. While in passing it should be noted there is no such thing as a trained alligator. How can you train anything which has a brain the size of a quarter? No cracks, please.

Then the alligator wakened and was poked reluctantly from its coffin-like nursery with long poles. Finally it made for the side of the ring and Tuffy grabbed it by its long tail. He did a tug-of-war until he got the varmint back to the centre of the ring then he called for complete silence.

He tapped the alligator on the head and the great mouth opened. Then he passed a hand through the gape and the jaws closed with a sickening "Whap." Then he fixed the alligator's eyes and slowly brought his own closer until his and the alligator optics almost touched. The reptile sat as if entranced.

Actually it is not a wrestling match, but an educational feat showing you what to do in case you meet an alligator in your favorite shopping centre some Saturday morning, or on your way home after the New Year's Eve party. Just pat him on the head and look him in the eye. When he begins to get dreamy-eyed, just wink at him, pick up the groceries and walk away. He won't bite you. Tuffy Truesdale hasn't even a semblance of a scar, and he's been doing it for years.

Tuffy and the Rep will be at Memorial Arena tomorrow night as a special attraction to the Yukon Eric-Hardboiled Haggerty main bout. Mayhap the Yuke would be better off if he adopted Tuffy's tactics with Hardboiled. Tap him on the noggin—and look him in the eye. But Hardboiled is so ornery he would go cross-eyed and Yuke would lose his power of concentration.

Then there is Sam Steamboat, the Honolulu sensation and toughie Dick Hutton mixing it up in the semi-final with a Mr. Fote and Ken Kenneth raising the curtain.

BASEBALL

Cuffer Noakes' Lloyd's Juniors baseballers are practising faithfully every night readying for the important OBA playdowns which get under way August 22. They meet the Peterborough Juniors in a tune-up exhibition game on the Liftlock City diamond Saturday night. The kids play junior major "A" this season, since through annexation, the city's population has now exceeded the 25,000 mark. Cornwall, Kingston, Peterborough and Oshawa are other Eastern Ontario clubs in the running with western Ontario being well represented. It's going to be a long tough road.

No draw has been made yet but OBA executive member Jack Carson says there is a possibility of Belleville meeting Kingston, Oshawa tangling with Peterborough, with Cornwall drawing a bye in the first round.

SLIGHT REPRIEVE

LONDON (AP) — The British Boxing Board of Control Wednesday cut three months off the six-month suspension it had handed heavyweight Brian London for fighting Floyd Patterson in Indianapolis. The means London will be eligible Sept. 10 to re-enter the ring.

London, however, must still pay a $2,800 fine before that date or the suspension will continue.

The former British champion was penalized for going through with the Patterson fight May 1 after the board ruled the contest would not be in the best ineress of British boxing. London lost.

Moore Guns For Ingy After Workout With Durelle

Puts Fisherman Safely Away After Scoring 4 Knockdowns; Offers Swede Cool Million

By JOHN YORSTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Archie Moore, with Yvon Durelle safely and convincingly out of the way, is going gunning for the world heavyweight boxing title.

Moore knocked Durelle down three times in the third round Wednesday night, then put the fisherman away for good at 2:52 to hold onto his light-heavyweight crown.

The champ weighed 174¼, Durelle 173.

The aging Moore and his manager—Jack (Doc) Kearns said they have offered young heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson $1,000,000 for a title fight.

QUICK END

The tide of the fight turned swiftly in the third.

The middle-aged marvel from San Diego scored four knockdowns for counts of 9, 9, 7—then out. The time was 2:52.

A left hook and jolting combination to Durelle's jaw started the slaughter. The first sign that Durelle was stuned was when he reached back to steady himself on the ropes.

A barrage of blows followed and Durelle went down. Another volley capped by a hard left and right to the jaw sent Durelle down for the second time, in a sitting position over the lower strand of rope.

Then, with calm precision, Moore moved in for the kill. But Durelle came up again after taking the seven-count in leaning fashion with his right hand on the canvas.

The jubilant victors wasted no time in discussing the fight before beginning promotion for future bouts.

"I got a couple guys in Canada and one in California who are willing to put up the dough," Kearns said. He didn't identify them.

The money "would be strictly Johansson's cut," said Kearns. "Our share has not been discussed."

"Ingemar and I would make a very, very interesting fight," said Moore, who is greying slightly at the temples. "There are some Canadian and United States people interested in putting on the fight of the century."

For Moore, at 43, a bout with the Swede would be his third try for the heavyweight title. He was knocked out by Floyd Patterson and Rocky Marciano in his other attempts.

Moore now has successfully defended his title eight times since wining it in 1952. The last six victories were knockouts, and his two knockouts of Durelle established an all-time kayo record of 128.

CROWD SMALL

A crowd of 11,555 paid a net gate of $122,627 to watch the fight in the 85-degree heat of the Montreal Forum.

The New Brunswick fisherman couldn't dent Archie's unique defence of wrapping his arms about his body. With Moore on the ropes in the second, Durelle's punches bounced harmlessly off the arms or grazed Moore's head.

Durelle's best blows were a flurry of lefts and rights to the champion's mid section in the first round and a fine left hook to the body in the second.

Durelle's Pop Never Approved Son's Fighting

BAIE STE. ANNE, N.B. (CP) Ernest Durelle, father of Yvon who succumbed to the superior experience of light heavyweight boxing champion Archie Moore Wednesday night in a title match, didn't even listen to the fight on the radio. He was too nervous.

He wasn't aware Yvon had been beaten in the third round until informed by a reporter.

But when told, his nervousness didn't show. Neither did his disappointment, except in the slight tremor in his voice and his tendency to whisper toward the end of his sentences.

"Well, I guess the best man wins," he said.

The party and the crowds, expected at the Durelle home if the fighting fisherman had won, didn't materialize.

Durelle Sr. said he had never approved of Durelle's fighting.

"It's hard on a man," he said. "It makes you old before your time. And for another thing, Yvon hasn't got the money to train."

Durelle's wife and four children were with him in Montreal for the fight.

Here's How It Paid Off!

Net paid gate—$122,627.
Television receipts—$100,000.
Radio receipts—$8,000
Moore's share—$175,000
Durelle's share—$15,000
Net paid attendance—11,555.

TO MEET OWNERS

NEW YORK (AP)—Commissioner Ford C. Frick said Wednesday he and a major league committee would meet tde prospective owners of clubs in the Continental League in New York next Tuesday.

In The Dressing Rooms

By MARVEN MOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Where does Yvon Durelle go from here?

The fisherman's anguish Wednesday night apparently went far deeper than the sting of the blows he absorbed when he muffed his second chance at Archie Moore's light-heavyweight title.

He bounced into the ring smiling and confident, Canada's hopes for a seventh world champion riding on his broad shoulders.

When he left 15 minutes later—victim of the wily Moore's mastery a second time—his shoulders sagged and his eyes avoided the crowd. He was dazed and discouraged.

For the 29-year-old from Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., the defeat obviously carried a feeling that he had let Canada down. And that hurt far more than Moore's stiffest punches.

UNWILLING TO TALK

Durelle refused to talk to anyone for half an hour after entering the dressing room. He came through the door quickly, removed his ring robe and walked silently to the shower room.

His co-manager Chris Shaban offered no excuses for the defeat.

But he said: "I don't think Yvon should ever fight again in the light-heavyweight division."

"He's a big man with big bones and it would be a lot easier for him to fight in the heavyweight. He really had a tough time making the weight for this one—even more so than the last fight."

A reporter asked Shaban what were his immediate plans for Durelle.

NO PLANS

"I don't know," said the Moncton, N.B., storekeeper shaking his head. "We'll just have to wait and see."

He said there was talk of a rematch with South Africa's Mike Holt for Durelle's British Empire title. And a challenge had come from Ted Doncaster of Sackville, N.B., Moore's sparring partner.

But nothing was certain.

Shaban said he and Yvon will probably return to the Maritimes tonight and any decision will be made there.

Meanwhile across the forum the old ringmaster Archie Moore talked jauntily into his room, calmly accepted the hand-shakes of well-wishers, and announced a $1,000,000 offer had been cabled to Sweden's Ingemar Johansson for a heavyweight title match.

HAND SORE

Moore, dripping sweat heavily in his white ring robe, was unmarked. But he fingered the knuckles on his right hand gingerly while talking to reporters.

"How'd that happen Arch?" someone asked.

"Why don't you ask Durelle?" quipped Moore grinning.

Archie said the Canadian hurt him only once.

"He hit me with a vicious left hook to the body in the second round. But I counter-punched and hurt him just as bad."

The champion said the 85-degree temperature in the forum was "a blessing." He said that in his first meeting with Durelle last December he went into the ring cold.

"That's why he tagged me early and I wasn't able to put him away until the 11th."

HAD TO END EARLY

"But this time I was warm right from the start. When Yvon started slugging the way he did I knew the fight was going to end early. It did. But I was geared to go from one to 15 rounds anyway."

Norman Henry, Moore's secretary, said he was sure the 43-year-old belter from San Diego, Calif., would win "as soon as I saw what kind of fight Durelle was making."

"Yvon wanted a slam - bang battle. This gave Archie a big edge. With his bob-and - weave style Archie can tease a guy to make him miss. And meanwhile he scores with his punches."

Former lightweight champ Bob Montgomery was among the first to congratulate Moore in the dressing room.

"Sweet as can be, Arch, sweet as can be," said Montgomery.

"Yah, it sure was," laughed Moore.

Chisox, Tribe Win; Yankees Lose

Defeat Detroit, Kansas City As Senators Shade Bombers; Ed. Mathews Sparks Braves

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

At the start of the year the Chicago White Sox were given an outside chance at the pennant because of only one thing—their strong pitching staff.

Today the same White Sox are a solid favorite to represent the American League in the world series. Because of their pitching? No sir, the Sox are in first place despite their pitching, not because of it.

Look at the figures. Only Early Wyn (15-7) of the highly touted big five—Billy Pierce, Dick Donovan, Ray Moore, Barry Latman and Wyn—has been pitching as advertised.

The highly touted Pierce is only 12-12; Donovan, plagued by arm miseries, is 7-5 and hasn't pitched since July 21; Moore is 2-6 and Latman 5-4.

WIN CLOSE ONES

What's keeping them up there, then? The answer lies in their speed, their defence, their ability to win the close games — and their bullpen aces, Gerry Staley and Turk Lown.

Staley and Lown figured prominently in Wednesday's 11-6 triumph over Detroit which kept the Sox 2½ games ahead of Cleveland, a 9-4 winner over Kansas City. Boston defeated Baltimore 5-4 and Washington nipped New York 3-2.

Latman started for the White Sox but left under fire in the fourth when Detroit scored four times to overcome a 3-0 Chicago lead. Staley halted the Tigers and picked up his fifth relief victory, helped by Sherm Lollar's three-run homer.

Lown, who has won eight of 10 decisions in relief, also cemented the triumph, pitching the last three innings.

Cleveland got a steady performance from young Gary Bell, who went the route with an eight-hitter for his 13th triumph, fifth in a row. The Indians whacked five Kansas City pitchers for 15 hits, including home runs by Minnie Minoso, Jim Baxes and Russ Nixon.

SNAP WINNING STREAK

The Senators, who had won only one of their last 23 games, snapped the Yankees' six-game winning streak although getting only four hits. One was a home run by pinch-hitter Julio Becquer with two on in the eighth to overcome a 2-0 Yankee lead.

A ninth-inning home run by Gary Geiger broke a 4-4 tie and gave Ike Delock and the Red Sox their uphill victory. Hoyt Wilhelm, in relief, was the loser. The Baltimore knuckleballer has won only two of 10 decisions since he ran up nine successes from the start of the season.

Milwaukee Braves may not be the all - conquering champions they were a year ago, but it hasn't been the fault of Eddie Mathews.

The slugging third baseman, a consistent performer all season, is making a determined effort to atone for last year's dismal showing, climaxed by a horrendous world series in which he batted a sickly 1.60 and fanned 11 times.

Mathews, only 27 although in his eighth big league season, is hitting an even .300 but he has slugged 33 home runs and has driven in 79 runs. He has exceeded his last year totals of 31 homers and 77 runs batted in when his average was only .251.

Eddie powered two home runs Wednesday night, each with a man on base to boost the Braves into second place with a 6-4 victory over Cincinnati. Henry Aaron added a home run, his 30th, and a triple and Joe Adcock hit safely in his 19th consecutive game. The Braves also got a fine pitching performance from veteran Bob Rush who hurled scoreless ball after relieving southpaw Juan Pizarro in the second.

LOS ANGELES THIRD

Chicago Cubs dropped Los Angeles into third place, a half game behind the Braves and 3½ behind the idle San Francisco Giants, by thrashing the Dodgers 11-8. Pittsburgh walloped Philadelphia 6-2.

The Cubs routed Don Drysdale with a five-run outburst in the first inning, highlighted by Ernie Banks' 34th home run and Sammy Taylor's ninth. Alvin Dark and Irv Noren also chipped in with four-baggers for the Cubs in the 28-hit slugfest.

Roberto Clemente had a single, double and triple, his three-bagger coming with the bases loaded in a four-run seventh that enabled the Pirates to break a 2-2 tie with the Phils. The victory gave the Bucs fourth place by one percentage point over the Cubs. Harvey Haddix outpitched Robin Roberts with a seven-hitter for his ninth victory.

Bobcats Nip Cobourg, Enter Finals After Weird, Wacky, Wild Wind-up

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Temple's Bobcats clawed their way into the Belleville and District Softball League finals by shading Cobourg 7-6 at Cobourg last night, capturing the four-of-seven series 4-2 in a wild windup to a tight series.

The 'Cats will meet the winner of the Point Anne-Trenton series for the loop championship and the Bill Ott trophy. Point Anne lead their semi-final series 3-2 with the sixth game slated for Trenton tonight.

Last night's game was a seesaw affair from the 3rd inning on as first one team and then the other took the lead. It wound up with Belleville scoring two in the top of the ninth, Cobourg getting one back and having the tying runner called out for interference to end the game.

Meanwhile arguments and player ejections added to the spice and kept the packed stands in an uproar. Bobcat left fielder Fiori Goegan was thumbed out for tossing his bat after striking out in the top of the fourth inning. Plate umpire Kelleher made it one per side by ejecting Cobourg's Chub McIvor in the bottom of the same frame for the same reason.

Third base umpire Harold Bawden was bumped by Merchants' pitcher Rolly Campbell after a call in the top of the seventh and he too was ordered to the showers in quick fashion.

Cobourg threw the game away in the top of the ninth and the Bobcats tried to do the same in the bottom of the inning. Bert Faulkner's infield hit was the only Bobcat safety in the deciding frame but two runs crossed the plate with the help of three miscues.

Two errors and McGahan's hit cut the lead to 7-6 but the same player was called out when he bumped into a 'Cat player attempting to make the final play of the tilt. He trotted on home before realizing he had been called out and the Cobourg bench cleared to argue the call.

Bobby Hull, relieving Bob Green in the sixth, got the win. They gave up nine hits between them with Green fanning six but walking eight to lead to his departure.

"Sleepy" Dawe lost, taking over from Campbell when the latter was ejected. They gave 12 hits, Campbell fanning eight and Dawe four. Campbell passed two.

The homesters took a 1-0 lead on hits by Turpin and Clarey plus an error in the third. One miscue and safeties by Lamirande and Crawford made it 2-1 for the 'Cats with a walk, singles by Faulkner and Hull plus Stacey's foul popout opening a 3-1 lead.

O'Brien tripled and Green walked a pair before giving way to Hull in the sixth. A mental defensive lapse, Turpin's fly and B. Hart's single put Cobourg in front 4-3. A free ticket, Hull's double and a two-base error on the same play made it 5-4 for the 'Cats and saw Campbell tossed out. McSporran's base knock and another bobble tied it at 5-5 and set the stage for the weird ninth.

Bobby Hull had a double and single, to spark the winners at the plate. Jean-Paul Lamirande and Bert Faulkner had a pair of singles apiece. Denny Hayden, Bob Green, Keith Stacey and Floyd Crawford had the other safeties.

Dick Turpin, Burke Clarey and Scotty McSporran had a brace of singles apiece for Cobourg. Leo O'Brien tripled, Bryan Hart and Rex McGahan singled.

The Tax Boys Made Sure Of Their Cut

MONTREAL (CP) — The Quebec income tax department took no chances on losing its cut of both fighters' purses from the world light - heavyweight championship bout Wednesday night.

The department assessed its share of the $175,000 guaranteed champion Archie Moore at $11,177.57 and obtained a Quebec Superior Court writ for seizure of that amount. The writ was handed Moore at the weigh-in Wednesday.

Challenger Yvon Durelle, guaranteed $15,000, was presented with a writ for $1,116 at the same time.

Moore had another writ handed him shortly before the fight began. This one, for $9,200, was obtained by the St. Eustache Golf Club where the champion was originally expected to trai .n

The club contends it spent the sum setting up a tent and outdoor training facilities which were never used.

TV Has Changed Conreid From Actor to Personality

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Hans Conriel was brooding the other day over the new phenomenon of "personality" as introduced to modern life by American television.

After years of steady employment as a perfectly respectable actor (everything from Shakespearean roles to mad scientists) Conried went on the Jack Paar Show and quite soon found himself a "personality."

"At first I felt naked," he recalled. "There I was, Conried playing Conried, with no role to hide behind. I had to talk, and that wasn't too hard, of course. I've been talking since I was a year old. Then, I guess, I began creating the personality of Hans Conried, a role to hide behind."

But who, asked a fellow, really is Conried? What is he?

OFFERS CLUE

Conried fixed his dark eyes on the fellow and offered a clue: The true Conried lives happily with his wife and two sons in a large California house that contains 7,000 books, most of which he has read. But he refused to divulge anything further about the secret life of Hans Conried except that he wants another bookcase in his house and there doesn't seem to be room for it.

Conried has become a "personality" thanks to his appearances on the Paar show and other TV panel programs. But it hasn't hurt his professional career as an actor. In fact, his career has been enhanced with more offers for better roles.

Next Sunday, for example, he will co-star with William Bendix in The Ransom of Red Chief, an NBC-TV special (10 p.m., EDT) which also features Mickey Rooney's nine-year-old son, Teddy.

Work of Weekly Editor on CBC

"Country weekly" doesn't mean "second-rate," a big-city newspaper man learns in a Summer Fallow drama on CBC radio, August 17.

The Rural Editor, by James Bannerman, will be heard on the Trans-Canada network, 8.30 p.m. to 9.00 p.m. It's the story of a vacationing Toronto reporter who is considering buying a country paper to provide him with an easy income.

The reporter asks the advice of a friend who edits the weekly Peterville Courier - Gazette. He's advised to stay in Peterville for a week to see the Courier - Gazette in action.

Summer Fallow is a weekly program interpreting Canadian country life for city listeners.

Nancy Valentine Works Hard To Make Career Catch Up

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"The biggest problem I have is convincing producers I want to act. They wonder where they have heard the name Nancy Valentine. Then they say, 'Oh, yes, she was the girl who was married to the Maharajah of Cooch Behar. She must be so rich that acting is just a hobby.'"

Not so, says the beautiful blonde. She's acting because she needs to support herself and her small daughter. And she's making headway: She now is doing her first feature movie.

Nancy is admittedly a publicity - created personality. To the general public—and film producers, too — she is one of those elusive names that pop up in the news and gossip columns.

But can she act?

"I've appeared on hundreds of TV shows," she says, "but producers always ask me, 'what have you done?' it's disheartening."

WEBB IN HER CORNER

At least one producer is in her corner — Jack Webb, for whom she has acted on his various TV series. Now she has a good role in his newspaper movie "—30'8," a title which is bound to cause no end of confusion.

Between scenes, Nancy recounted some of her amazing history. She first came to Hollywood from New York as one of the long parade of Howard Hughes discoveries. She said that she grew restless with inactivity, but he told her: "Nobody ever quits me."-She broke the precedent, then became an acting hopeful for David Selznick and Mervyn Leroy.

Enter the maharajah.

Their alliance is clouded in legend, but it appears that they met in a Hollywood night club, he fell head over turban for her and took her to India as his wife.

RELATIONS SHAKY ANYWAY

"But India was undergoing an economic shakeup," she said. "if the country recognized our marriage, it would have meant the loss of investments that the royalty had in banks overseas. About this time, my relations with the maharajah were getting a little shaky anyway, so I decided to call it off."

She returned to Hollywood—and religion. She became a convert of the self-realization fellowship and renounced her wordly goods—including a big settlement from the maharajah—to enter its hermitage on nearby Mount Washington. After three years, she left.

Marriage followed to wealthy Frederick Tillinghast III. This broke up after two years and one daughter. Now at 31, Nancy Valentine is working hard to make her career catch up with her publicity.

Ronnie Knox' Pitch Prowess Paces Argo Win Over Riders

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts, with quarterback Ronnie Knox in the fold for a full season, have raised a warning signal for other Big Four football teams this year.

The indicator came Wednesday night when Argonauts exploded for a 53-13 exhibition victory over Saskatchewan Roughriders, Western Interprovincial Football Union club with a quarterback problem Toronto had exactly a year ago.

Knox, the glamor boy from UCLA, arrived here midway through the 1958 campaign and nearly lifted Toronto into the playoffs. Now, back on loan from Chicago Bears of the National League, 24-year-old Ronnie is the key Argos are counting on to unlock the playoff door this year.

ALSO SEE TV FIGHT

He was the architect of victory in Wednesday night's game, played before an estimated 10,000 fans, most of whom remained at the Canadian National Exhibition Stadium to watch on television the Archie Moore-Yvon Durelle world light - heavyweight title fight. Four large TV screens, two on each side of the field, were installed to pick up the telecast from a Buffalo station.

Argonauts, with Knox directing traffic most of the way, blasted the Saskatchewan defence for eight touchdowns and were ahead 20-0 after the first quarter.

Knox threw touchdown strikes to Canadian end Ed Ochiena and import fullback Cookie Gilchrist, acquired from Saskatchewan this season. Dick Shatto, former University of Kentucky halfback in his sixth season with Toronto, took Knox pitchouts and threw first-quarter touchdown passes to Pete O'Garro and Gerry Philp.

DOUCETTE TAKES A HAND

Shatto also scored a touchdown, taking a pitchout from Canadian quarterback Gerry Doucette, who played half the last quarter.

Wray Carlton, new back from Duke University, grabbed another Doucette pitchout for a touchdown. Holdover Corky Tharp, who did much of the ball-carrying for Argos, got the other touchdown on a short running play. Gilchrist converted five of the majors.

Ox Pointers Clobbered by Trenton Win Tonight Will Even the Series

POINT ANNE (Staff) — Trenton Garretts roared back into the district softball league semi-finals contention here last night, handing the three-times winners from Ox Point a decisive 7-1 setback.

The win cut the Loftmen's margin to a single game with the sixth scheduled for Trenton tonight starting at 8.15.

Charlie Drake's young team played heads-up softball over the route taking full advantage of the lackadaisical play of Ox Pointers and the six bobbles they committed.

The Point Anne defence fell apart in the first innings and they never picked up the pieces. They booted the ball around three times while the Trenton bats were collecting three hits off Pat Maracle and sending four runners across the plate.

Meanwhile Gord Maroney although giving up eight hits was never in serious danger, the only run scored off him coming in the third on Gary Goyer's double and Pat Maracle's single. He scattered the other six hits bearing down in the ninth when he filled the bases on three walks to retire the side on infield outs.

Pat Maracle hurled eight-hit ball in front of a loose defence striking out four and walking but one. He wild-pitched a run home in the fourth after yielding a hit, a passed ball and a walk.

A single and a walk populated two bases in the seventh inning, but Maracle managed to retire two batters before Mitts' third hit of the game sent both runners across the plate to end the scoring.

Point Anne put runners on base on not a few occasions but they failed to hit in the clutches hitting weakly to the infield in the majority of cases. They were definitely off color in nearly all departments and far from the club that rallied in the latter part of the season and swept through to the league leadership.

Half of the eight hits given up by Maracle were clean bunts. In the "sock" department Mitts was credited with three, Drake and DeFosse two each with a single going to Smith.

Dougie Hull and Charlie Kingston each connected for a brace of singles for the Pointers with Goyer's double, Carr, Elliott Jr., and Pat Maracle accounting for the rest.

TRENTON — Alexander, Drake, Mitts, L. Wannamaker, Cole, Burns, Smith, DeFosse, Maroney.

POINT ANNE — Carr, Jones, Hull, Green, Kingston, Green, Elliott, Jr., Goyer, Soules, Maracle, Elliott Sr.

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP) — A beefed-up Kelowna Packers team beat the Americans, an all-star sice, 7-2 Wednesday night in the annual all-star hockey game run here in conjunction with the Kelowna International Regatta. Only 1,800 fans braved heavy showers to see the mid-summer hockey game.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Good day to plan exactly how you can become more successful and popular, too. Cover all spheres of your life, for today's thoughts can start a whole new method of operation that will bring leisure thought greater efficiency.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — You are wonderfully inspired now and hardly know which excellent idea to work out first. Dwell on the most important so that you gain respect from other persons and also become well-orderly fashion.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Fine day for studying wills, insurance, bookkeeping records, etc., so that you can put all these things in fine order for added security. P. M. be very affectionate with loved one, and loyal to truly good friends, others vital to your well-being.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21)— Come to a better meeting of minds with associates today so that you can enjoy greater success in mutual ventures and have truly harmonious cooperation. Engender novel ideas that bring fine benefits and make life more interesting.

Leo (July 2 2to Aug. 21) — So much labor is necessary right now in order to get your affairs in ideal order, that it behooves you to dig right in and put them behind you — all duties of pitch and moment. Be vitally interested in your work. Use that fine mind.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Every opportunity is open to you to have a very happy day. But you must either accept invitations extended or call on friends and plan to get together. Then off to the types of amusements that most please and suit you.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — A day to devote to the welfare of closest family ties. Concentrate not only on the material things, but on the spiritual that bring greater harmony and understanding. Be generous.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Fine day for calling on trade or making those visits to kin or friends upon which you have been procrastinating. Also good for correspondence, getting in supplies, selling, buying, travelling. Be active and win out.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — An excellent day for any real estate or property affairs, monetary exchanges, paying bills, collecting what is owed you, budgeting, cleaning, etc. Then look after that throat ailment. See doctor, if necessary.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)— Forget about entertaining others, or being entertained right now. Tend to all important affairs of your life, whether of a business or personal nature. Then be sure you help those who look to you for assistance. Be generous.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — This is a day to think pretty much of yourself and own affairs, so that you need not stoop to angling to get what you deserve. Go directly after what you desire and get it. Speak out plainly.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — It is possible now to know what your relative position is with comrades and associates. Show loyalty and cooperate fully in any corporate ventures. P.M. be socially minded and have a fine time. Also, generosity is recommended.

If your child is born today . . . The wonderful child born today will have the wisdom to be objective in his or her thinking with outsiders and therefore will have a fine business mind. However, the subconscious personality is an affectionate and vibrant one. So you must combine a course of study that will embrace both the practical and the spiritual. There is fine potential for success here, and also the philanthropist is in this chart.

Teachers Told

Do Not Pin Too Much Hope On So-Called Gifted Child

HALIFAX (CP)—Is the modern-day problem of teaching the gifted child and the "average" student being adequately tackled?

The Canadian College of Teachers, which winds up it's two-day annual session today, got some professional opinion on the subject Tuesday.

Delegates were told not to go overboard on gifted children.

Frank Patten, superintendent of secondary schools in Ottawa, said educationists shouldn't pin too much hope on gifted children for the "salvation of society." He said the so-called gifted child "frequently deteriorates" as he progresses through secondary school and college and moves into the work world.

THORNY ISSUE

"The whole question of the selection of our gifted children and the degree to which we can or should segregate them in special groups is doubtless a thorny one," he said.

"I'm not suggesting we do nothing about it—I am suggesting that we refuse to be stampeded into hasty action that may not accomplish the end we desire, and that may have harmful results."

D. C. Munroe of Montreal, president, said he advocated extension of the college course for would-be teachers.

Professor Munroe, director of the institute of education at McGill University, said in an interview that he would like to see courses stretched to two or four years. He said most teachers now go to college for one year.

TEXTBOOKS CRITICIZED

Dr. W. J. Archibald, dean of arts and science at Dalhousie University here, said many school textbooks offer too much "idle talk and too little fact."

"It is probably desirable in some measure to sugar-coat the educational pill but surely not to the point where it is mostly sugar and very little pill."

The teachers' sessions are a prelude to the four-day anual conference of the Canadian Teachers Federation.

AUTOMATIC TOOTH BRUSH

TRIESTE, Italy (Reuters)—Businessman Angelo Ritossa has invented an automatic toothbrush. It is driven by a tiny water turbine and is equipped with rotating and oscillating brushes. A small container holds tooth paste.

AUSSIE ANIMALS

CANBERRA (CP)—A series of six new stamps to be issued progressively in Australia will show the platypus, kangaroo, tiger cat, rabbit, bandicott, banded anteater and Tasmanian tiger.

Mine Workers Reject Report of Trial Committee

SUDBURY (CP)—A meeting of Local 598, International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) rejected Tuesday night a trial committee's recommendation to suspend one local member from membership and four others from executive posts.

About 800 of the local's 1,500 members heard the trial committee proposal to suspend for two years Weir Reid, union recreation director, for allegedly participating in an assault on Ray Portier, financial secretary, at a May 7 meeting.

Exact vote count was not available, but a union official said it was about 30 fewer than the two-thirds majority required for suspension.

Also voted down were recommendations for six-month suspensions for James Tester, Falconbridge plant committee chairman for allegedly participating in the assault of Mr. Portier; and three other executives charged with attending an unauthorized membership meeting May 3. The latter three are holdovers from the ousted executive of former local president Mike Solski.

Mr. Leaflor will endeavor to meet with members of his congregations by visiting in their homes prior to the opening of Queens next month.

All welcome this young student minister to the community and hope his sojourn here will be pleasant and profitable to both his family and all in his pastorate.

Bank Of Canada Interest Rate At Record High

Chartered Banks Won't Be Making New Loans

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's latest economic boom appears to be threatening to bust out of its monetary britches.

The pressure—evidently resulting from strong demands for money with which to finance many and various new economic activities—tightened in two directions Thursday.

First, the Bank of Canada announced that its interest rate had stretched to a record 6.41 per cent. The rate's .43-per-cent increase from a week earlier was the biggest since it moved .45 per cent to 3.52 per cent last Dec. 10.

Presently, the Canadian Bankers' Association—spokesman for the chartered banks—announced that, the money supply and interest rates being what they are, "the banks most regretfully are deprived of the flexibility necessary to make new loans in particular and, in a general way, to provide for increases in the amounts already borrowed under existing credits."

NO LOANS AT ALL

In simpler language, the bankers seemed to be saying they won't be making any new loans or expanding existing ones while this state of monetary affairs exists.

Since one reason for the present high interest rates is an apparent reluctance by both the government and the Bank of Canada to engineer any sharp increase in the country's money supply, the statement seemed to some observers a move to put pressure on federal monetary manipulators to loosen up.

The apparent reluctance by the government and central bank substantially to increase the money supply—although it has risen by some $400,000,000 since last May—stems from concern that any such move would prove inflationary. It might only pave the way for another economic slump a few months hence.

PLANNERS' IDEA

The dream of monetary and economic planners is to be able, by proper planning and controls, to stretch boom times out into a steady flow of prosperity.

But the bankers' statement, issued by association president Harold W. Thomson drew attention to the fact the Bank of Canada's minimum rate of lending to the chartered banks is now above the legal six-per-cent maximum at which they may lend.

Hence, said the bankers, "the interest rate levels can no longer operate as a deterrent to increasing loans."

The Bank of Canada interest rate is fixed at one-quarter of one per [illegible] above the average yield of 91-[illegible] treasury bills the government sells weekly through sealed-bid tenders—6.16 per cent Thursday for $115,000,000 worth.

The fact the government has lately had to pay a steadily-in-

Judge Anderson Submits Report For Wage Hikes

OTTAWA (CP) — A federal conciliation board has recommended a nine-per-cent wage increase, effective in stages over a 15-month period, for 700 dining car employees of the CPR.

In addition the board recommends a four-cent hourly bonus increase effective June 1, 1958.

The majority report was submitted by county court Judge J. C. Anderson of Belleville, chairman of the board, and J. W. Long of Montreal, company nominee. A minority report was submitted by Senator Arthur Roebuck of Ontario, nominee of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

The union had sought a 25-per-cent wage increase.

Both majority and minority reports were released Thursday by the labor department. The majority recommends three-per-cent increases effective June 1, 1958, Feb. 1, 1958, and Sept. 1, 1959, in addition to the four-cent bonus increase.

In his minority report Senator Roebuck noted that a settlement concluded some time ago between CPR non-operating employees and the company provided for a four-cent hourly increase effective June 1, 1958, three per cent effective Feb. 1, 1959, and a further three per cent effective Sept. 1, 1959.

Senator Roebuck said that if working conditions were made satisfactory "the men would be prepared to accept the so-called non-ops settlement as to wage increases, and I could then join the chairman's wage recommendations . . ."

The majority recommended an increase to $4.87 from $4.25 in monthly company payments for each employee to the union's health and welfare fund. The union had sought an $8.50 monthly boost.

Negro Leader Of Integration Seeks Ike's Aid

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A Negro integration leader whose home has been the target of bombs, bullets and bricks, has appealed to President Eisenhower for protection.

Mrs. L. C. Bates, president of the Arkansas chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, sent Eisenhower a telegram Thursday. She said her pleas for aid from local authorities had been futile.

Asked what form of protection she wanted, Mrs. Bates said, "I don't care how they do it. They can set up a machine-gun in my front yard if they want to. I'm just tired of all these harassments."

There was no immediate comment from officials at the temporary White House in Gettysburg, Pa.

Four Negroes return to Central and Hall high schools today to round out the first school week. Their attendance provoked no incidents Thursday.

House Passes Bill to Curb Labor Abuses

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States House of Representatives today passed and sent to the Senate a bill to curb racketeering and abuses in labor-management relations.

The House action capped a major legislative victory for President Eisenhower, who made a personal appeal for strong labor controls legislation.

The House vote on passage swamped northern and eastern Democrats who had backed less-stringent labor curbs than the president asked.

CLAIM TRUJILLO HAD PART IN LANDING ATTEMPT

Cubans Capture Arms-Laden Plane

HAVANA (AP)—Cuban army headquarters today announced the capture of an arms-laden plane flown by the pilot who ferried ex-dictator Fulgencio Batista into exile.

The army said the captured captured in a gun battle in which four persons were killed.

The announcement said the plane, carrying 10 persons and a cargo of arms for anti-Castro counter-revolutionaries, was ambushed as it landed from the Dominican Republic at Trinidad, a town on Cuba's south coast.

Two occupants of the plane, unidentified by the army, and two soldiers of Premier Fidel Castro's army were killed in the battle.

OTHERS CAUGHT

"The other occupants of the plane were captured," the army announcement said.

The army communique was the first official announcement of the landing of any invasion force in Cuba since the government reported discovery of an anti-Castro conspiracy a week ago.

Unconfirmed reports had been current in Havana earlier that anti - Castro forces had seized Trinidad and its airfield. The town had been isolated for four days by a communication black-out and by highway roadblocks set up by the Cuban army.

The army said tre captured plane was piloted by Lt.-Col. Antonio Soto, who flew Batista to the Dominican Republic last New Year's Day.

Soto and an ex-captain in Batista's army named Betancourt were reported wounded in the fighting. Six members of the ambush squad also were wounded, the army said.

The announcement indicated that Castro's forces control the Trinidad airport, although the army made no specific reference to the earlier unconfirmed reports concerning the town.

ACCUSE GENERAL

The army announcement accused Generalissimo Rafael L. Trujillo, the Domican dictator, of direct participation in the landing attempt.

The announcement ended with the statement that Castro would tell the nation about the conspiracy against his government by radio and television tonight. It did not give the time.

In Havana, meanwhile, the situation appeared quiet this morning.

Castro was believed in the Trinidad area, where earlier reports had said groups of counter-revolutionary holdouts had taken to the hills after clashing with government forces Sunday.

MIAMI REPORT

(A spokesman for anti-Castro groups in Miami said an all-out counter - revolutionary movement of former Cuban soldiers and deserters from Castro's army is under way in central Cuba.

(He said former Cuban General Jose Eleuterio Pedraza is commanding the forces by radio from the Dominican Republic. The spokesman said Pedraza had sent word that his troops had captured Trinidad and were receiving reinforcement and supplies by air.)

Woman Dies From Overdose Tranquillizers

TORONTO (CP) — The federal ruling which Thursday placed many tranquillizer drugs under prescription restrictions came too late for 55-year-old Marjorie Cooke.

The woman was found dead Thursday in her home and coroner Dr. Eli Cass said she died of an overdose of one of the drugs placed under restriction the same day.

Admits Killing 3 Holdup Victims Building Worker Shows No Remorse

ISLIP, N.Y. (AP) — A husky construction worker with a psychiatric record was said Thursday night by authorities to have admitted slaying three holdup victims within eight days in Suffolk County on Long Island.

The reported confession by Francis H. Bloeth, 27, was announced by district attorney John P. Cohalan. Boeth's lawyer, Sidney R. Siben, said his client showed no remorse in admitting the killings.

Siben said Bloeth told him he threw the murder weapons—a .31-calibre revolver and a .32-calibre automatic — into Lake Ronkonkoma and into a ditch alongside a county road. Cohalan ordered search for the weapons.

Ballistics tests show two of the killings were committed with a revolver and the other with an

Will Try to Snare 300-Pound Nose Capsule From Satellite

VANDENBERG AFB, Calif., (AP)—A fantastic game of catch will be played thousands of feet above the Pacific Ocean today if all goes well with satellite Discoverer V.

The object: To snare the satellite's ejected 300-pound nose capsule.

The purpose is to test the project's intricate electronics system, which someday may help propel man through space. An aerial catch also allows the least possibility of damage to the capsule's contents.

Discoverer V blasted off its launching pad at noon PDT yesterday and went into north-south polar orbit. It is circling the earth every 94 minutes, sending back loud, clear signals.

Eight C-119 Flying Boxcars are poised on Hawaii for the attempt to catch the instrument-packed capsule as it floats down under a parachute near the islands. The scheduled catch time is about 2 p.m. PDT. (5 p.m. EDT)

The air force says the chance of success is about one in a thousand.

As Discoverer V makes it 16th pass, a tracking station in Alaska will trigger the ejection mechanism. On the next pass the satellite, its position altered by compressed-gas jets, will tilt 60 degrees downward.

At the designated moment, explosive springs and bolts will separate the capsule from its vehicle, the 1,700-pound, automobile - size second stage of the rocket which bore it into space.

Then the capsule will be slowed by a retro-rocket. A switch operated by forces of deceleration will release a parachute.

Guided by radio signals from the descending capsule, the Flying Boxcars will move in upon it in staircase formation.

Trapeze apparatus suspended from the rear of the C-119s will be used in an attempt to grab the parachute, which then would be reeled into the aircraft.

The planes have about 10 minutes to make a catch.

If the planes fail, the military sea transportation service vessels Hawaii Victory and Dalton Victory will attempt to pluck the capsule from the sea. The capsule can float and its signal beacons operate in water.

Scientists want to check its instruments for information that can be used in the forthcoming project Mercury, intended to send man into space and bring him back. The capsule is designed to take monkeys into orbit before project Mercury is attempted.

When the capsule ejects from the second-stage rocket its vehicle will continue orbiting. The satellite's life is expected to be about 10 days, the air force says.

Pearkes Denies Mid-Canada Warning Line Is 'Blunder'

OTTAWA (CP) — The Mid-Canada warning line, is an essential element of orth America's air defence system, Defence Minister Pearkes told reporters Thursday.

Leaving a cabinet meeting, the minister emphatically denied charges by a former RCAF officer that the radar line was "a colossal blunder".

Group Capt. Charles Limbrick, 62, who retired in 156 as RCAF director of radio warfare, said earlier in an interview that "if anything stinks to high heaven, this the Mid-Canada line is it."

Mr. Pearkes said the path of enemy bombers which crossed the Distant Early Warning line in the Arctic would be lost if it were not for the Mid-Canada line along the 55th parallel, between Hopedale, Labrador and Dawson Creek, B.C.

Asked whether the Mid-Canada line might be adapted to the missile age, a spokesman for the Defence Research Board said: "The Mid-Canada line might be modified to detect the passing overhead of satellites or missiles. With the equipment of the type now employed in this line satellite or missile tracking is not feasible."

Group Capt. Limbrick said he strenuously opposed construction of the electronic warning line.

The line is only a detection system and cannot control the operations of jet interceptors and anti-aircraft missiles as the Pinetree chain farther north do.

Mr. Peakes and U.S. Defence Secretary Neil McElroy agreed here Tuesday that more heavy radars will have to be built in Canada to control interceptors and missiles.

Group Capt. Limbrick said that in 1954 he had proposed construction of eight control radars similar to the one at RCAF air division headquarters at Metz, France.

He said the Mid-Canada line in 1954 was only an experiment while radar was proven. He also said the line was too far south.

Mr. Pearkes said if the line were farther north there would be a gap to the south. It would be an "unnecessary expense" to build a separate line north of the 55th parallel.

Wants 3-Year Training Course For Teachers

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP) — Another voice in education has made a plea for a minimum three-year training course for elementary school teachers.

Dr. H. P. Moffatt, deputy education minister for Nova Scotia, told the 100 delegates at the 38th annual conference of the Canadian Teachers' Federation that Canada is the only country which trains most of its elementary school teachers in a one-year course.

In an interview earlier, Prof. David Munroe of Montreal called for an extension of the teachers' course to "preferably four years."

Dr. Moffatt said the fact that thousands of teachers flock to summer schools is an indication they feel their basic training is inadequate.

NOT BABY-SITTERS

"Certainly our teachers must have more general education and more professional education. But when they do get it —let them be teachers and not make them record keepers, parrots and baby-sitters."

During the first business sessions, the 42,000-member Ontario Teachers' Federation failed to gain the power of veto for provincial groups within the 96,000-member federation.

Ontario delegates were the only voting members who supported the move, which would have allowed the provincial organizations to veto resolutions on policy, fees and new activity passed at the annual federation meeting.

ATOMIC POWER STATION

LONDON (CP) -- Construction work has started on a new atomic power station on the banks of the River Don, Moscow radio reported today.

Cost of Sending Telegram in Canada Upped

OTTAWA (CP) — The cost of sending a telegram in Canada is going up.

The board of transport commissioners made public Thursday a decision authorizing Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways to boost domestic rates on commercial telegraph messages by an average of 10.7 per cent.

The increases do not apply to message traffic coming into or going out of Canada. They do not affect press tolls.

The railways sought the higher rates to offset increased wage costs. Their application, made last March, was unopposed and the board approved it as submitted.

10-CENT BOOST

The telegraph companies were authorized to boost rates, on 30 days' notice, by 10 cents on a 10-word, full-rate message and by one cent for each extra word.

Proportionate increases would apply to the cheaper day letter and night letter. The minimum 10-word message rate within Canada now is 60 cents; the maximum, for the longest distance, $1.70. Each of these will go up 10 cents.

Intra - Canadian telegraph rates have been increased twice previously since the Second World War. The other two increases — in 1953 and 1957 — added up to an average of about 63 per cent.

The railways sought the latest increase — which will provide an estimated $906,000 a year for the CN and $574,000 for the CP —to cover the telegraph cost of the 1958 wage settlement with non-operating unions made under the threat of a general rail strike.

CUBA, DOMINICAN MINISTERS HURL FIERY INSULTS

Others Intervene To Restore Quiet

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Western hemisphere foreign ministers strove today to get their conference back in the path of compromise and polite talk after a hot exchange of insults between delegates of Cuba and the Dominican Republic.

The Latin American ministers turned their attention to a three-point program U.S. State Secretary Christian Herter suggested for dealing with current tensions in the Caribbean.

At present, The Organization of American States intervenes only at the request of a member involved in a dispute. Herter's plan would establish a regular watch-dog committee to keep an eye on tensions and respond immediately to a crisis or the threat of one. Herter believes the committee, though lacking police powers, would have a calming effect.

SEE COMPROMISE

Both Cuba and Venezuela have shown some opposition to this idea but there were prospects of a compromise plan designed to keep the lid on the Caribbean until the Inter-American Conference in Quito, Ecuador, next year.

The Caribbean tension exploded within the conference Thursday night when Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa accused the Dominican Republic of violating the principle of non-intervention by waging a radio campaign against Fidel Castro's revolutionary regime and by training anti-Castro expeditionaries to invade Cub. Roa declared the counter-revolutionary plot which his government says it recently uncovered in Cuba was organized and financed in Ciudad Trujillo, the Domican capital.

Porfirio Herrera Baes, Dominican foreign minister, jumped up and demanded an opportunity to reply, shouting:

"Somebody here wants to muddy American waters like squids. But in this case it is not black ink but red ink that is used according to the newest, dirtiest ideology".

Several foreign ministers intervened privately to calm the antagonists after the session adjourned. They were reported to have got promises from both that they would use more moderate language in future meetings.

But after the session the Cuban ambassador to Chile, Carlos Lechuga, issued a statement charging that a Dominican representative had threatened Roa with death. Herrera termed the Cuban charge "absolutely false."

Brantford City Council May Drop Probe

BRANTFORD (CP) —Brantford city council, after voting unanimously two weeks ago to have a judicial investigation of certain civic matters, may now drop the idea after all.

Thursday night Mayor Lloyd Hogarth said he wondered whether council members might have changed their minds about an inquiry. He said public opinion seemed to be that it would be a needless expense, and he was inclined to agree.

"I believe we could clear up all the matters ourselves," he said. Council took no action, but will make a decision at its next meeting.

Council's original resolution asked for a judicial investigation of allegations that two aldermen had removed a sink from a house being demolished by the city, that another alderman had some tile from another demolition site, and that another alderman charged he had been offered a $500 bride to ask "loaded questions" at a works committee meeting.

Lady Opens Mouth, Mouse Hops In 'Felt It Crawling All the Way Down'

DENVER (AP) — Mrs. Florence Hill swallowed a live mouse.

The 67-year-old widow explains it happened this way:

"I woke up from a nap the other night and there he was, this little mouse, on the sewing machine right beside my bed.

"I opened my mouth to yell and he just jumped right in. I clenched my teeth right away and caught him by the tail. He was crawling and seatching to get away and he was going right down my throat. I just couldn't keep hold of him.

"I could feel him crawling all the way down.

"It was the most horrible night I've ever spent . . ."

The widow Hill had a hospital checkup and says "I feel pretty good now."

Frost Mind Open On Subject Of Fluoridation

Minister's Statement 'Was Purely Personal'

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost said today statements made by Acting Health Minister Phillips regarding opposition to fluoridation of water "in no way" make the work of Ontario's fluoridation committee unnecessary.

Dr. Phillips Thursday quoted Premier Frost as saying "There are altogether too many people against communal fluoridation for this or any other government to have it on a province - wide basis."

But the premier said Dr. Phillips was only expressing a "purely personal" opinion. "The committee is going into fluoridation very carefully and with very broad powers," he said.

The three - person committee was set up five months ago at the last session of the 25th legislature to delve into the merits of fluoridation.

HAS OPEN MIND

"I have a completely open mind on the subject," said Mr. Frost. "My position with regard to the committee hasn't changed a particle."

Dr. Phillips made his statement in connection with an endorsement he gave a home fluoride dispenser manufactured by the Dominion Fluoridators Limited, a suburban Etobicoke firm.

He said the dispenser was tested at the University of Toronto, which reported that every severe test thought of could not alter the amount of sodium fluoride being dispensed into the water.

"One can draw only one conclusion," he said—"That this is a dispenser which is accurate, you might say, foolproof, and 100-per-cent safe.

"I do not know what the future holds but I do feel that this is the only answer for our people today; that is, those who wish to use sodium fluoride to prevent dental decay in their children's teeth."

Asked whether a cabinet minister should endorse a commercial product, Premier Frost replied: "I wouldn't make any comment. I haven't seen the story."

AS ALWAYS HAS

He said he feels the same about fluoridation as he always has. "If it is decided to add flouride to municipal water systems, it ought to be on clearer evidence that we have at present time."

Two members of the committee now are in Europe studying flouridation experiences there, he said. They are Mr. Justice K. G. Morden of the Ontario Court of Appeal, and Dr. G. E. Hall. The third member is Mrs. Egmont Frankel.

"I want to have a complete, comprehensive, objective study of fluoridation . . . "said the premier.

Would Bar Inner Tubes As Playthings

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — A coroner's jury Thursday night recommended the banning in Ontario of the use of inner tubes and air mattresses "sold as play devices" unless of an approved design.

The jury, sitting in Omemee, 13 miles west of here, brought in its recommendations at an inquest into the drowning of Martin Pekoskie, 9, of Peterborough July 21. It ruled that the boy died accidentally.

He was drowned in about 4½ feet of water while the attention of his father, Philip Pecoskie, was drawn to a younger sister for a few moments.

Mrs. Mom Whyte Expected to Testify Today

HAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — The central - figure in the Whytehaven custody hearings was expected to enter the witness box today.

After two walkouts in as many days, Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte said she would appear before Magistrate W. R. Philp in what was expected to be the final day of the hearings to decide whether about 100 children taken from her farm mission at Bowmanville were neglected within the meaning of the Child Welfare Act.

Mrs. Whyte said she would be on hand to help the inquiry establish the residences and religion of the children involved.

Near tears, Mrs. Whyte twice fled the hearings as Ontario health and welfare officials testified to conditions that led them to take away Whytehaven's young residents and house them in children's shelters.

If Magistrate Philp decides negligence has been established, he will rule on the future custody of the children.

Used Toy Gun In Hold-up Gets 25 Years

MONTREAL (CP) — Judge Armand Cloutier sentenced 29-year-old Clement Prevost to 25 years in penitentiary for holding up a snackbar with a toy pistol and stealing $48.49.

Prevost admitted Thursday in sessions court to other robbery convictions and to having received seven strokes of the lash in 1949 for theft with violence.

Judge Cloutier said Prevost should have got the whip again when he was convicted of armed holdup in 1956. He offered Prevost a choice of a long sentence without the lash or a moderate sentence with the lash. Prevost left the choice to the discretion of the court.

In another case, Judge Cloutier sentenced William Sweeney, 29, of Gaspe, Que., to 12 years in penitentiary for robbing a bank of $520 and trying to rob another.

"With such an alarming increase in the number of holdups," said Judge Cloutier, "I am convinced that the least the courts can do is to co-operate with the police by handing out stiff sentences."

Two Breakins Net Thieves TV, Smokes

A new slimline portable TV valued at about $260 was stolen from Booth Radio and TV store on Front Street last night.

Entry to the store was gained through the back and the intruder then made his way through the well-lighted store to make off with the TV which was on display near the front of the store.

Night patrol officers spotted the break-in during their routine check of premises shortly after midnight.

In a second break-in, this time at the College Food Market at the corner of Cannifton Road and College Street, thieves made off with a quantity of cigarets and tobacco. Police said entry was gained through the front door.

Water Control Board Wants Lingham Lake Dam Repaired

The Water Control Advisory Board of the Moira River Conservation Authority held an all-day session yesterday starting off with a tour of the lower portion of the Moira River at 11.00 a.m. Dr. Ross Lord, an engineering professor from the University of Toronto and chairman of the Metropolitan Toronto Conservation Authority, together with J. W. Murray, P. Eng., of the Ontario Government advised the group on various problems which they would encounter in the development of the Moira River for fut erupse.uofthee e for future use.

Following a dinner at the Queen's Hotel a lengthy business session was held. It was decided that the committee should proceed with necessary purchase of property and repairs to the Lingham Lake dam as soon as it became expedient to do so. A brief of what has been done and what is required is to be prepared and forwarded to the Authority. Some discussion centred on the dangerous condition of the platform over this dam and the possibility of injury to anyone using it.

Dr. Lord brought to the attention of the committee that no unauthorized dumping of fill into the river bed should be allowed which were available to the Authority to regulate any action of any person on either private or public property in regards to this or other action which would affect the natural course or use of the river. It was pointed out that and discussed the measures each Authority may draw up a set of regulations pertaining to these and other matters in regard to their own watershed and enforce same once they had been approved by the Minister of Mines and Natural Resources.

A motion was passed by the committee to have a suitable series of regulations drawn up for the use of the Authority. It was decided that the regulations of the Metropolitan Toronto Conservation Authority be used as a guide in this project.

TEMPORARY DAMS NEEDED

A report was made on the possibility of developing Joe Perry Lake for water control and recreational purposes by A. E. Northey, member of the board. Following his presentation a motion was passed to lake this project under consideration.

Discussion also centred on the possibility of erecting temporary dams on the outlets from Stoco Lake for use between the spring and the fall seasons in order to keep the water level of the lake up. It was estimated that such a project was quite feasible and would cost about $30,000. A motion was passed to the effect that the townships concerned, Tweed and Hungerford, have this suggestion presented to them by Michael Chubb, the secretary-treasurer of the Authority.

A brief has been prepared by the committee concerning the feasibility of a College Street dam. It was decided that this brief might be presented to the Hon. Mr. Hamilton, Minister of Northern Affairs and Natural Resources, for his consideration. Lee Grills, MP, advised those present that Mr. Hamilton would certainly give consideration to such a brief.

ADMITS KILLING 3

Robert Walsh, 21, an ex-convict pal, put the finger on Bloeth early this week. Walsh said he sold the revolver to Bloeth six months ago and the automatic to him only four hours before the third slaying—that of Mrs. Irene Currier, 50. She was shot Aug. 8 in a diner she operated.

Bloeth had steadfastly denied the slayings. Both Bloeth and Walsh took lie detector tests but the results were not announced.

In all three slayings the victims were alone late at night. The first occurred July 31 with the shooting of grocer Hans Hachman, 54. The other victim was counterman Lawrence Kircher, slain Aug. 5 in a Smithtown diner.

The holdup killings netted less than $400.

Bloeth had been picked up and held without bail on charges of robbing a tavern of $60 on July 22—a crime not connected with the slayings.

Walsh was charged with violation of the Sullivan anti-weapons law after admitting having owned the two guns used in the murders.

Authorities said Bloeth's confession first was gained from him by his wife, Jane, mother of their seven-months-old daughter.

Bloeth has been described as a person who strangled cats and loved to tell lies. He was held in the state training school for boys in Warwick, N.Y., from November, 1946, to May, 1947.

A. Alfred Cohen, director of the school, said of Bloeth: "It was impossible to do anything with him. He once told us 'I get a thrill out of killing. I love to strangle!'"

Summer Course in Religious Education for Teachers Held

For the past four days elementary and secondary school teachers from all over Ontario have "gone back to school" — summer school, that is.

The teachers, along with members of the clergy, school officials, and Department of Education representatives, have been conducting a summer course in religious education for elementary and secondary schools at Albert College.

The four-day conference which opened Monday featured lectures by such leaders in the religious education field as Professor Kingsley J. Joblin, chairman of the Religious Knowledge Department of Victoria College, Toronto. Special speaker was Dr. Roy Fenwick, director of music, Ontario Department of Education, Toronto, who addressed the group on the aims of music education. The conference ended Thursday afternoon.

Conference chairman was the Rev. Horace Burkholder, general secretary of the Ontario Council of Christian Education, Toronto.

Purpose of the conference, which was attended by approximately 107 teachers and clergy from throughout the province, was to provide new ideas, approaches, techniques and literature to make the course in religious education more stimulating, explained executive assistant Linton Read, of BCIVS.

Stated Mr. Read: "The purpose of this conference is to help teachers in methods and in supplying background material for their teaching of religious education courses as prescribed by the Department of Education."

A special feature of the conference was the evaluation of methods of teaching two new books on the curriculum, the new Guidebook for grade 7 and the new textbook, "In His Image" for grades 11 and 12.

WORKSHOP TRAINING

In addition, workshop training in the use of the "Teachers' Guides to Religious Education," for grades 1 to 6, was also held.

Keynote lectures were given by Professor Joblin, Bible study leader for the conference, who based his addresses on the basic messages of the Bible as a whole. His addresses, given in the form of a three-act play with prologue and epilogue, were designed to illustrate the unity of the Bible as a "historical drama of God's Redemptive action for man through man."

This is the second consecutive year a conference of this kind has been held at Albert College. It is sponsored jointly by the Inter-Church Committee on Religious Education in Schools, and the Religious Education Section of the O.E.A. Previous religious conferences have been held at Five Oaks, near Paris, Ont.

Other conference activities included music, worship, Christian fellowship, and recreation in the form of singing, swimming at the College pool, and a tour of Hastings County arranged by the local Historical Society.

Others taking part in the conference were: Mr. Linton Read of B.C.I.V.S., executive assistant; Albert College Registrar and Business Administrator Taylor Franklin, conference registrar; Dr. Lewis S. Beattie, Toronto, chairman of Inter-Church Committee; Ryerson Public School Principal J. K. Strangway, president of O.E.A. Religious Education section, Toronto; and George L. Gray, Toronto, chairman of the summer school committee, organizer of this year's conference. Workshop leaders were: Miss Betty A. Leslie, Windsor, Mr. Leo Copp, principal of Peterborough Teachers' College, Mr. A. Klim, inspector of public schools, Grimsby, and Mr. Harold Kitney, of Northern Secondary School, Toronto.

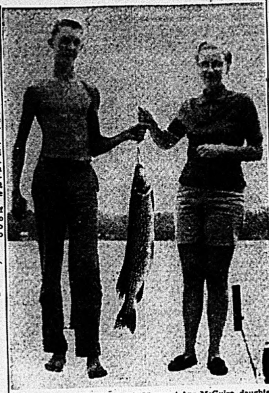
DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 4 21-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds near noon today. Thursday's noon rate was 95¾ cents. Pound sterling $2.68, down ⅛.



It took two to land it, but to Margaret Ann McGuire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy McGuire, 256 Bridge Street East, goes the honor of hooking this 12½-pound northern pike caught yesterday at Oak Lake. Picture shows Miss McGuire and David Hitchon holding the 36-inch beauty.

Using minnow bait, Miss McGuire was fishing in deep water in the centre of the lake when she hooked onto the big pike. She played it for 15 minutes before David arrived to give her a hand in landing the fish with a net.

The fish proved too big for the net and the two had to scoop the pike into the boat.

Trenton News

Angler Catches Big Muskie At Brown Lake

TRENTON — T. M. Coon, 97 Division Street, brought a 42½ inch long maskinonge into the Trenton office yesterday. The fish, which weighed about 15¾ pounds after it was cleaned, was caught by Mr. Coon at Brown Lake, back of Havelock, and was an imposing looking specimen.

CAR, TRUCK COLLIDE

TRENTON — A car, owned and operated by Joseph D. Cressman, 226 Edna St., Kitchener was slightly damaged yesterday on Gilmour hill. A truck owned by Wilfred A. Taylor, and driven by Edward Drombaski, 116 King Street, Trenton, was going east on Dundas St., making a turn onto Marmora St. when it stopped and rolled slightly backward, striking the Cressman car, which was going the same way. The incident was investigated by Constable Mark Holden.

BOY SCALDED

TRENTON — Gerald Genereaux, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Genereaux, 103 Leopold Street, fell into a tub of hot water at his parents' home yesterday, causing scalds to his back and legs. His mother had been heating water for washing purposes, and the youngster climbed up on a small cupboard and fell into the tub. His cries brought his mother and elder sister Teresa rushing to the scene, and his sister pulled the child out of the water.

Dr. E. Dowe is attending the case.

DOG NIPS WOMAN

TRENTON — Mrs. E. Shannon, 55 Louis Street, was nipped by a stray dog which she pushed off her doorstep. Mrs. Shannon, who was leaving the house with her child in her arms was unable to pass the dog, and gave it a shove. She later called the dog-catcher.

Girl Injured Falls From Car

TRENTON — Little Diane McKenzie, daughter of LAC and Mrs. Irvin (Mack) McKenzie, 92 Leopold Street, narrowly escaped serious injury when she fell from the car her father was driving yesterday evening.

In Trenton Memorial Hospital with facial abrasions and cuts, Diane, whose condition is said to be satisfactory, will be two this month. The accident happened when the child accompanied her father to a store on West Street to buy pablum for her baby brother. As the car rounded the sharp corner at the intersection of Hama Bocage and West Streets, Diane opened the door, and fell out of the car on her chin. Her father rushed her immediately to the hospital, where she is under the care of Dr. W. S. Bailey.

Driver's Dress Catches Fire, Car Hits Pole

TRENTON — Lela May Johnston, King Street, Frankford, whose dress caught fire from a cigaret she was smoking panicked for a moment, and the car she was driving owned by N. Bell, Frankford, ran off the road into a telephone pole on Trenton Road yesterday.

With a bruised shoulder as a result of the accident is Sonia Smith, Concession Road, Frankford, who was a passenger in the car at the time. Another passenger, Mrs. L. Smith, of the same address was unhurt.

Damage to the car is estimated at $175, and to the pole at $100. The incident was investigated by Sgt. Gordon Steenburg.

This is the second vehicle-hits-pole accident in Trenton within a week. It is understood that the other incident, when a truck driven by I. Leone knocked over a pole on West Street, last Thursday causing a power cut-off, was also caused by a lighted cigaret, which fell on the floor of the truck. When the driver bent to pick it up, fearful of fire, the truck ran off the road.

Scheme to Push Stalled Car Did Not Work

SHELTON, Conn. (AP) — John Fabozzi Sr. decided to make a one-man job of pushing his stalled car with a truck. As he figured it, the trick would be to nudge the car until it started coasting, then catch it.

It didn't work that way.

Fabozzo's driverless car went serenely down Tuxedo Avenue Thursday. Fabozzi was right behind, but losing ground every second.

The episode ended in a yard. Before it stopped rolling the car knocked dow[illegible] fence, a coach lamp an[illegible] shrubbery.

Former Defence Minister Says Move Proper One

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ralph Campney, former Liberal defence minister, said Thursday he still believes the Mid-Canada warning line was "a proper move" despite harsh criticism of it.

"The whole project was studied for a long time both in principle and detail before we went ahead with construction," Mr. Campney said in an interview.

"It met with the approval of the people responsible and they were numerous and well informed — experts in many different fields."

Mr. Campney, now a corporation lawyer here, was answering criticism by Group Capt. Charles Limbrick, retired RCAF radar chief.

Said Mr. Campney: "Limbrick felt strongly about his views at the time but the matter had to be dealt with at a higher level, and in the light of the then-known information I still feel it was a proper move."

The line, in operations since 1957, was ordered built by the Liberal government.

Ross Thatcher Seeks Leadership Sask. Liberals

REGINA (CP)—Ross Thatcher, a CCF member of Parliament for 10 years, said today he will run for the leadership of the Saskatchewan Liberal party.

He said in a prepared statement that he will let his name stand before a provincial convention here Sept. 23 and 24 being held to elect a successor to A. H. McDonald, who resigned because of ill health.

Mr. Thatcher, a wealthy businessman and farmer at Moose Jaw, assured the Liberals he would give vigorous leadership.

"So far as I am concerned, the Liberal campaign will be an all-out one against socialism, statism and the shrinking and drying up process that they inevitably bring into every avenue of life."

Saskatchewan is due for an election in 1960. Mr. Thatcher was elected to Parliament as a CCF member in 1945 at the age of 28. During the next 10 years he was often at odds with his party and in 1955 he resigned to become an Independent. He later joined the Liberals. Mr. Thatcher was defeated in 1957 when he ran against Hazen Argue, CCF member for Assiniboia.

Mr. Thatcher said the CCF party has "an intense dislike for me. If I become Liberal leader it should result in the roughest, toughest election campaign in years."

Mr. Thatcher said Canadian socialism can best be fought in Saskatchewan. "It was born in Saskatchewan, it will have to be buried in Saskatchewan."

Three other men are contesting the leadership — Alex Cameron, legislature member for Maple Creek and president of the Saskatchewan Liberal Association, Wilfrid Gardiner, son of the former Liberal agriculture minister and member for Melville, and Franklin Foley, member for Turtleford.

Grateful Boy Sends Rescuer His Allowance

VICTORIA (CP)—A boy who was saved from drowning two years ago by Mrs. Hazel Baynes of nearby Langford sent her his entire allowance of $5 after apparently reading a newspaper story that the woman had lost her social assistance money.

The child's action unfolded a story of his near-drowning which had never appeared in a newspaper and which his own father knew nothing about.

A letter containing $5 from Billy arrived at The Daily Colonist Thursday. It said:

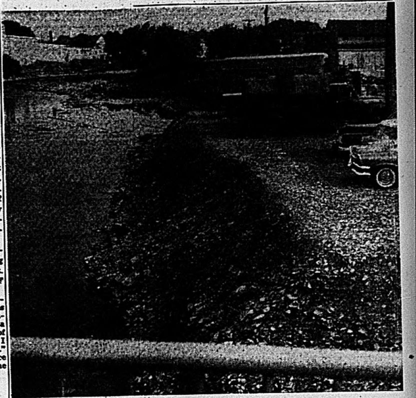
"Mrs. Baynes lifesaved me out of Langford Lake two years ago. After she did artificial breathing on my back she balled me out for swimming aloan, then showed me how to swim. This is my allowance. Please give it to her."

Mrs. Baynes said she believed a newspaper report of the loss of her wallet containing some $40 in cash probably prompted Billy to send the money.

"It's a very thoughtful child that would do a thing like that."

UNLOAD STRANDED SHIP

MONTREAL (CP)—Tugs Wednesday unloaded more iron ore cargo from the grounded Great Lakes frieghter Thunder Bay in an effort to free it from a mud bank near the south shore of the St. Lawrence River channel. Canada Steamship Lines, the owners, said it was hoped the ship would be refloated today.



ADDED RIVERSIDE PARKING — Expenditure of possibly $1,000 could mean greatly increased parking space east of the river and north of the footbridge gangway, according to city officials. Broken rock from the riverbed could be bulldozed to the bank, thus increasing parking space and at the same time cleaning out the river.

Shown is a short section of the river bank immediately north of the footbridge where additional parking space has been created in the above manner by two owners and Mayor Gerald Hyde noted the same policy could be followed by other property owners. A circular letter has gone out to owners asking if they would be interested in contributing $50 each toward the project.

Mayor Hyde noted that the Moira River Conservation Authority has generally approved of the river bank line established by placement of fill shown in the above picture.

However, to protect itself against any placement of fill which might narrow the river channel to the extent that flood danger would be increased, the Moira Authority will ask for legislation giving the Authority control over any future fill being placed in the river.

Last Colorful Guard-Changing Ceremony Held

By CAROLYN WILLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — A small boy pitted his soprano against the deep bass command ringing across the lawns of Parliament Hill.

"Atten-tun" boomed the bass.

"Atten-shun" squeaked the boy as wide-eyed and solemn he watched the last colorful changing the the guard ceremony.

With the crowd estimated by the RCMP to be between 3,500 and 4,000 looking on, the 150 scarlet-coated, bearskin-topped Household Guard, members of the 1st Battalion, the Canadian Guards, staged the historic retreat ceremony on Parliament Hill Thursday night.

MARCH AWAY

This morning visitors saw the colorful dismounting of the guard and watched the ram-rod straight soldiers and bands march away after 48 consecutive performances before an estimated 250,000 people.

One of the capital's major tourist attractions civic officials have urged that the ceremony be continued.

But the guards are bound for Germany in a few weeks and they are to get home leave before sailing.

The half-hour ceremony, identical to the one performed by British Guardsmen at Buckingham Palace, each morning has brought hundreds of visitors to the hill.

Little boys echo orders, dream of being Guardsmen and wonder whether daddy could get them a bearskin headdress, too.

Pro-Communists Defect From Laotian Army

VIENTIANE, Laos (Reuters) More than 100 pro-Communist soldiers defected Saturday from the royal Laotian army, authoritative sources said here today.

Informants said 106 men of the 1st Pathet Lao Battalion left an army camp 25 miles south of Luang Prabang, the royal capital of this Indochinese kingdom.

The men were unarmed when they left and were believed to have headed for the border of Communist North Viet Nam. Pro-Communist geurrillas have been operating in northeast Laos along the North Viet Nam frontier.

The 2nd Pathet Lao Battalion of 750 men defected in May and made for the North Viet Nam frontier in Biengkhouang province, central Laos.

The 106 who fled Saturday were part of the remaining 750 Pathet Lao fighters in the royal army. The 1,500 were integrated into the regular Laotian army two years ago under a settlement between the royal government and the rebels.

Eight Children Given Away By Mother

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A 28 year old mother told Thursday of giving away all of her eight children after she was abandoned by her husband and the children had gone without food two days.

Mrs. Ople Quiesenberry was held in jail on suspicion of abandonment while officers attempted to locate three of the children.

A policewoman, Mrs. Emily Thacker, said the white mother "doesn't even know the full name of one of the persons she gave a child to."

Mrs. Quisenberry told reporters she sold her furniture for $35 and used part of the money to send her oldest child, a 10-year-old boy, to a relative in Ohio. She then began giving away the other seven children to friends, relatives and acquaintances.

When Mrs. Quisenberry's sister discovered the children had been given away, she got possession of three of them, police said.

PIANIST DEAD

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Arthur Friedheim, 90, former concert pianist and opera singer, died Thursday after a long illness. She had toured Europe as a piano soloist with orchestras conducted by her husband, who once served as secretary to Franz Liszt. She was born in London.

Any Family Is Vulnerable

George awoke gently at midnight. He felt a series of sharp pains in his knee. There was no doubt in his mind what to do—and quickly. He got out of bed and telephoned a hospital, saying he would be there soon.

As he dressed the knee swelled up at the joint. It hurt to move. He hobbled from the house and hailed a taxi. Within minutes he was lying on a cot in the hospital, an inverted bottle of plasma held high over his head and a tube leading down to a needle thrust into his arm. This checked the swelling and pain. The relief was overwhelming.

In the morning he went to work as usual. Every few months, year after year, he goes through this procedure, sometimes during the day, sometimes at night. He never knows in advance. If he does not get prompt treatment, the pain pounds and squeezes, and he may become immobilized and have to use a wheel chair.

Johnny goes to the dentist for the first time to have a tooth extracted. Neither parents nor dentist have any idea of his real condition. The tooth is extracted and the bleeding does not stop. Seventeen bottles of blood plasma are transfused into the boy to keep him alive.

George and Johnny have hemophilia, a terrible disease that is becoming more common. It causes hemorrhages internally and externally, sometimes from a minor wound. It has been known for centuries but until about 1942 most hemophiliacs died during infancy because there was no known method of treating them.

Today there is. And it comes from the blood taken at such clinics as that held at the Belleville Kiwanis Centre on Monday, when 50 local women assisted as volunteer workers and citizens gave blood. "We need it so badly it is used almost immediately," said Mrs. J. White, nurse in charge of the unit. "No one knows when he may need blood for himself or his child," said G. R. Cameron, chairman of the blood donor committee, Belleville branch of the Canadian Red Cross.

This also holds for hemophilia. Any family is vulnerable. Almost half of the known cases show no previous history of it. Sometimes the gene that causes it lies dormant for generations and suddenly, wham!

For parents of child sufferers, besides the tremendous financial strain, the emotional strain is perpetual. If his case is severe, he is confined to a wheel-chair, often in hospital, receiving transfusions, as many as 40 a year, and heartbreakingly limited in activity. If his case is mild, he can swim or play tennis. But he must be very careful. A scratch can start a hemorrhage.

Summer camp for such children? There is only one in Canada, in the eastern townships near Montreal. Packed in special containers with dry ice, the Canadian Red Cross transports the precious blood plasma to refrigerators in a hospital near the camp. Thus and thus only, and only for the past two summers, have such children, much to the relief of doctors and parents, been able to leave the city and enjoy summer camp.

Canada is the first country in the world to operate free blood transfusion service on a national scale for children and adults in various emergencies, and this is done by the Canadian Red Cross, which sufferers term "the most wonderful thing there is," as well they might. Their lives depend upon it. The United States offers no such service. In New York, for instance, a half-pint costs $25, and in Dallas, Texas, $48.

The service is sustained by volunteer nurses, workers and donors, such as the 143 who turned out in Belleville this week.

REAL HOUSECLEANING

By EDGAR A. GUEST

Say, brother, do you ever clean house—
Not with mop or with broom—
Do you ever look into yourself
As a woman looks into a room
And notice the flaws in your work,
And the various stains on your soul,
Then begin cleaning house, as you should,
And make a fresh start to your goal?

Clean house with yourself, and wash out
All the imprints of envy and scorn,
And let your eyes sparkle once more
Like the dew-jeweled grasses at morn.
Rub out all the stains and the grime
Of the struggle for riches or fame;
Rub out the conceit and the pride,
And remove the dead ashes of shame.

Clean house with yourself! Carry out
All the useless ideas that you find;
Why lumber your soul with dead things
Or with old-foggy notions your mind?
Start afresh in this battle of life,
With a body internally clean;
For, what are all outwardly charms
If your soul isn't fit to be seen?

Are Hospitals Waking up At Last?

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Under increasing pressures of financial and personnel problems, the nation's hospitals are at last beginning to do what common sense should have dictated years ago.

A hospital in Chicago began this month its "progressive patient - cure program" — which, I must add with a characteristic lack of modesty, this column advocated with absolutely no results as long as a decade ago.

The program divides patients into three groups: the critically ill and post-operative, to be given intensive care by doctors and nurses; the intermediate patients to be given standard care; and a self-cure unit for patients who are able to do certain things for themselves.

Patients will pay according to the degree of cure they require and receive — and what could make greater sense than that?

On those few occasions when I have had to go to the hospital for minor ailments, it always irked me to be treated like a witless child who is allowed to do nothing for himself.

If I went in for a few days with a sprained ankle (because there was nobody at home to take care of me), I was given the same grim regimen on the cardiacs, the lung cancers, and the kidney cases.

Some hospitals force every patient to don those ghostly white nightshirts that tie in the back, and which are a profound indignity to any human being still able to move around on his own power. I'm surprised they didn't stamp numbers on the back(as they do with some jail inmates.

I was not permitted to get around and do things for myself, even though the doctor encouraged mild exercise. For hospitals, as you know, are run neither for the doctors nor for the patients, but on behalf of chief nurses, who want nothing to upset their impersonal packaging of the product.

In short, I was made to feel like a Case, a Room Number, and not like a person who deserved individual treatment. My temperature was taken at absurd hours, even though nothing in a sprained ankle calls for a fever chart; and I was handed dinner and bedded down at an hour that would arouse Michael's outrage.

Dividing patients into categories of seriousness, and treating each group accordingly, is the most intelligent step forward that the hospitals have made all century. It has taken so long to come about, I am sure, only because the head nurses bitterly resisted any change that would turn their charges from limp bundles of white linen into distinctly human beings.

Slovenliness Is New Cult

Baltimore Sun

These days it is not often that an author flutters the dovecotes of both literature and haberdashery. That is the unusual success of a young man who has written a novel called "Try for Elegance", who works in a clothier's shop and owns five dozen white shirts.

Of course this runs directly against the current fashion represented by photograprs on dust jackets. The mode calls for loose rough sweaters, rumpled collars and a studied air of the utmost unfastidiousness.

The angry young man's wrath is directed first of all against Savile Row; the older man, angry or not, strives for the grizzled look of a Hemingway who has just finished a tremendous greasy wrestle with a fish.

It isn't an unpressed badge of genius however. Many writers have favored some peculiarity of dress (Mark Twain his white flannels, Shaw his knickerbockers, the young Pound his green velvet jackets).

But the panicky fear of creases, the school of slovenliness, the cult of the ill-fitting — these are new to our times. Yet there were those who, despite a finical cultivation of dress, are as well-remembered in the history of letters as the most dishevelled of contemporaries hope to be.

Byron affected the open collar style but he would have detested sloppiness of wardrobe. Baudelaire instructed his tailors with much care, when he could afford it. Shelley, according to Hogg, wore expensive clothes "made according to the most approved mode of the day". Early in life Matthew Arnold struck some as being rather a flop who bought "wondrous waistcoats" in France. Max Beerbohm pleaded the dandy's philosophy with a graceful eloquence. Machiavelli put on his finest to write and Milton felt that the poet should go to the muse "like a priest in shining vestment, washed with lustral waters".

There is no reason to suppose that beauty is better pursued in a wrinkled sweat shirt than in a well-cut dinner jacket, or that rubbiness is really next to greatness.

One of the rarities of nature, and incidentally one that in all probability will explode. the theory of the Niagara Falls farmer who declared he had tomatoes growing on potato plants, was seen today when Herbert Muir of Bleecker Avenue showed a cluster of green cherry-like growths that have appeared on his potato plants. Mr. Muir sought the advice of an agricultural expert who declared the growths to be the natural production of the potato seed. "They are very rare," he said, "and are used to improve the varieties of potatoes." He laughed at the theory that they are tomatoes.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

NEVER GIVE UP

Never give up. There are enough failures in the world already. We need men and women of Spirit to guide us through the maze of fears and anxieties that spread like a thick fog along our pathway. It is then that people should never give up, but ride the lighted way of courage until all danger has passed, which it is sure to do if our faith is undying.

Never give up. When you feel most like surrendering is when you should stand firm. It is then that all of one's resources are alive and full of faith. We must "ride out" our storms until we hear that famous cry "All's well!" It's this that gives to us the New Spirit which gives us self-assurance and hope.

Never give up. I like the Sunrise better than the Sunset, beautiful as the Sunset is, but it does not give the promise and guidance that the new Sunrise does. God, however, is behind each and has a purpose for each. He is the Light of the world, and always will be!

Never give up. Keep the flag of your heart always flying. There is beauty in just believing. I look out upon Nature, for it gives freshness to the soul. There should be a great deal of the Good Samaritan in us all, so as to spread happiness where it has never before existed. There is a spark of God in us when we are brave, and that bravery leads us like a father does a child.

Never give up. Become a guide to those of little faith. You will be thrice blessed, your joy will be multiplied, and you will mount like the eagles to higher ground. Never give up! Never acknowledge defeat.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

GOD WILL BUILD

Just recently the gowned graduates of a Seminary class marched past me in the chapel and went single file into their seats. I searched the faces of the boys as they passed. I was pleased with what I saw. Some of them I had remembered several years ago when they entered seminary. What a change! How mature they had become in these relatively few months! I was glad and I was encouraged.

In fact, I was so encouraged that I think I am never again going to [illegible] Christian proje[illegible] [illegible] silliness [illegible] forebearers only they have passed through certain wrecking experiences and they live in a world hostile to many of life's higher ideals. I am alarmed by what I see, and hear, and know. But I am never going to suspect that the church might fail in its big job. It cannot fail with young people like that, committed as they are, and supported — as I know they must be — by the infinite power of the Holy Spirit.

Present day youth is by no means perfect. Neither are you and I. But there is hope — for us, for them, and for the church of Jesus Christ whom we and they serve.

[illegible] worried. But do not be dis[illegible]ed or hopeless. God will [illegible]ell and deeply on the con[illegible] lives of modern youth.

B.C. Is Not Free of Debt

Toronto Financial Post

With the help of beauty queens, high-kicking drum majorettes and a torrent of hoop-la, B.C.'s Premier Bennett in Kelowna solemnly shot a flaming arrow at a floating barge containing piles of redeemed B.C. bonds. They symbolized the last of the province's own funded debt.

The arrow bounced into the water and the bonds had to be set on fire by a less dramatic but more reliable touch. Ogopogo, Kelowna's monster, was reported singed but safe.

Now that the captains and kings of Social Credit have departed from Kelowna, the question still stands: Is B.C. really debt free? To quote Eliza Doolittle: Not bloody likely.

Premier Bennett has fulfilled his election-time promise to make B.C. free of direct debt. Since 1952, when Social Credit took office in B.C., the province has incurred no direct debt — that is debt in the name of the province.

But there's a catch. Borrowing by agencies of the provincial government has soared from negligible proportions to $450 million—indirect debt guaranteed by the province.

Result: Direct plus indirect debt increased on a per capita basis by 58 percent between 1952 and 1958 or by more than it did in any province, except Ontario and Newfoundland.

It's standard practice for provinces to incur indirect debt—note hydro-electric power comissions—but no one else has gone as far as Mr. Bennett, nor pretended as much.

As any investor would point out, what's important is a province's over-all debt position, not just its total of direct government debt— or lack of it.

Burning the direct debt and declaring the province debt free is fun and games. What's important is that Mr. Bennett must not fool himself into believing this malarkey.

White River Proud of Cold

In White River and many other northern communities, the weather is the major topic of conversation during the winter days. After living in these towns for a while, one develops an inverse pride in being the coldest spot on record, or having the heaviest snowfall, or some such similar adverse piece of weather which would make "outsiders" shudder.

Only recently, there was talk of protesting against a CBC newscast which said that White River had a mere 20 degress below zero, while the actual temperature, at its lowest, was 43 degrees below according to the Dominion Weather office located in this town. We now feel it is time to form an action committee, as these mistakes are all too frequent and they are hurting our reputation.

This confused and strange type of pride extends to other things in the district. One hears travellers say that, "I have never seen such rough country before", or "I have never had such tough snowshoeing before", or "The rocks and hills (we usually do not distinguish between them) are bigger than any other", or maybe "The blackflies and mosquitoes are the worst I've ever encountered", and "The underbrush is too dense to navigate", or "The rivers are too rough to travel."

These and many more adverse comments one hears quite regularly, and, instead of playing these facts down, you find yourself "up on your hind legs" defending your country and bragging that it is much worse than any other section of the province.

Where the transition from normalcy to this strange, inverted pride comes from no one seems to know, but on some things we are quite certain — we are willing to put up with these adversities to have the best fishing, the best hunting, and to be able to enjoy the almost unspoiled beauty of the White River District.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

THICKENED TOENAILS CAN BE CAUSED BY SEVERAL THINGS

"Dear Dr. Molner: The toenails of my right foot have built up to a thickness of about 1-16th of an inch. The nail is quite hard and discolored. Is this an infection in the nail? — F. T."

Remember, sir, that the nails toe or finger) are, like hair, a part of the outer covering of the body, as is the skin.

Why do I mention this? Well, because some people make the mistake (and I can easily see why they would do so) of thinking that the nails are related to bones, and should be considered or treated in a similar way.

This is not true, however. Bones, while we replenish various elements in them, are permanent. The hair, the nails, and even the skin, although we don't notice it, constantly grow out to be replaced by new hair, nails and skin.

Somebody with persistent troubles with any of these — especially nails, since they're the subject today — may find that the cause is the result of certain basic conditions that persist. Change the conditions, and you change the nails. That's the point I want to make. In four to six months you grow a whole new fingernail; for toenails the rate is somewhat slower.

Thickened toenails tend to develop as we grow older, but there are other factors that enter. This thickening may be accentuated by not keeping the loose tisue at the tip of the nail properly cleaned out.

No, I don't mean by this that you don't take enough baths or don't wash your feet! What I mean is that tiny bits of tissue (skin, or tissue carried gradually along by the growing nail) accumulate under the end of the nail. Because of ordinary activity with our hands, we don't encounter this with fingernails. But toes are different.

FILE THEM, TOO

For one thing we keep them encased in shoes. For another, we don't use our toes (and toenails) to pick things up, scratch our necks, scrape things and so on. With fingernails, we wear off these small accumulations of tissue. We even use a nail file to clear our fingernails, but not often with our toenails! A bit of work with a nail file will do some good with the toes.

For another thing, pressure of the shoes tends to thicken the nails. Being careful to get shoes that fit — neither a half size too small nor a half size too big — is worth the trouble.

Finally, infection can have its effect on the thickness of nails. Psoriasis and fungus infections are the commonest. They cause thickened or even pitted and discolored nails.

Psoriasis remains a confusing disease to treat, and so does a fungus infection, but I will say this about fungus infections which thrive in the warm, dark environment inside our shoes and socks:

Keeping the nail scraped and painting it afterward with ordinary tincture of iodine may help eliminate a fungus infection on the nails. I don't say it's foolproof. The funguses are not subject to any foolproof remedy we know, but the simple one of scraping and painting sometimes helps, so I pass the idea on to you.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I've heard of feeble-mindedness and of being retarded, but what is a normal teen-ager who is termed slow-minded? Is this temporary, or could it be permanent? — Mrs. A. F."

I'm sorry, but I haven't the foggiest idea, since I never have used such a term. I'd suggest asking the person who used the term what, precisely, is meant by it. You might as well get the facts. If there are any facts to get, that is.

Note to Mrs. J. S.: I don't know of any skin treatment that will remove these "port wine" birthmarks, but it is accepted practice to have them removed by plastic surgery when they are of a size or location as to make them unsightly blemishes.

Canadian PLACE NAMES

COURTNEY, B.C.

This little city of 3,000 on Vancouver Island, took its name from the Courtney River, named to honor Capt. George Courtney, H.M.S. "Constance" (50 guns) who was stationed on the Pacific Coast from 1846 to 1849. The name is attached to a proud history, as Courtney is the family name of the Earls of Devon.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

What is needed now is some sort of a survey to check just how popular jazz really is. A recent jazz festival in Toronto was sparsely attended. How many people apart from the manufacturers of records, the musicians who play jazz and a kind of juvenile fringe of the population are actually interested in jazz? They keep telling us that such and such a jazz band or jazz singer has just sold a million records? Where, and to whom? Does the million include South America, the West Indies, Europe, Africa and Asia? And how many of the million are left in those bins you see in record shops, help yourself, 29 cents?

Jazz, like abstract painting and string-bean sculpture maybe nothing but a racket. Disc jockeys may be getting handsome handouts from the record manufacturers for keeping up the myth. For instance, recently a famous jazz combo visited my home town and the local disc jockeys became hysterical playing collections of their records and even interviewing them as visiting celebrities. They were on a one-night stand, and had to make four appearances in four different "night spots." The largest of these "night spots" could accommodate, according to the fire marsral, about 150 people. Let us say that 400 people would pay to be present at a "night spot" to see and hear the celebrities.

What sort of popularity is this? Four or five hundred adults and three or four thousand teenagers wanting to kick up their heels for precisely the same reason calves and colts want to kick up theirs: is this sufficient authority for jazz being a cult that usurps hours of our broadcast time every day?

BANK OF CANADA

creasing rate to dispose of them indicates that the banks and financial houses have less and less to spend on short-term investment.

This is considered an indication that demands for loans in an expanding economy have been rising dramatically.

SHARP RISE IN LOANS

Chartered bank loans rose sharply to $5,058,000,000 at Aug. 5, up $879,000,000 from a year earlier and $19,000,000 over the previous week. The ratio of banks' cash reserves to deposits was 7.9 per cent, .1 per cent below the Bank Act requirement of an eight-per-cent ratio.

The money supply at Aug. 5 stood at $13,403,000,000, up $30,000,000 from July 29. Since last May it has risen from about $13,000,000,000—the level at which it held from October of last year.

The bankers' statement said the present conditions had their beginnings last fall and that since then, the banks have been able to continue making loans "only by selling government bonds from their portfolios in order to raise cash."

The statement added:

"Owing to the depressed state of the bond market these securities have had to be sold at sacrifice prices.

"Naturally there is a limit to such a procedure—more important too—there is a point below which the banks cannot allow their holdings of government bonds to drop and still preserve an adequate volume of liquid resources.

"Under no circumstances will the banks depart from their traditionally sound policies.

"For the reasons enumerated, the banks must curtail further expansion in their lending policies."

One consoling thought for the bankers is the fact that while the Bank of Canada rate can rise sharply, its past record shows it can fall even faster. Twice last year it dropped by a greater percentage than this week's rise.

Wedding

TRACEY — MACCORMACK

A quiet but very pretty double-ring wedding was solemnized on Saturday, July 25th, at 9.00 a.m. in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel Belleville, when Marie Cynthia MacCormack, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. Earl MacCormack, of Belleville, and the late Mrs. Dorothy MacCormack, became the bride of Patrick Anthony Tracey, also of Belleville, son of Mrs. J. Young and the late Mr. Roy Tracey. The Rev. Peter Murphy officiated.

The bride was attractively attired in ballerina-length brocaded taffeta featuring a fitted bodice with sheath-like sleeves "V" pointed over the wrists. She wore a Juliet type headdress of lace and shoulder-length daisy-edged veil of tulle illusion, and carried a cascade bouquet of red roses with net accent.

Mrs. Genevieve Forgie, of Belleville, attended the bride gowned in pale-blue cotton with molded bodice and street-length skirt accented by a matching cummerbund, white accessories, and carrying a circular bouquet of yellow and white 'mums set in white net.

Mr. Gordon Forgie, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom.

The reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Forgie, where the guests were served a buffet lunch.

The bride's table was prettily appointed with the traditional white damask, centred by a pillared two-tier wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom while encircling the cake top were tiny white doves and white roses.

The bride's aunt, Mrs. William MacCormack, received, wearing a powder-blue cotton with white accessories, and corsage of white 'mums. Assisting in the receiving line was the bridegroom's mother, wearing a royal blue nylon gown, with dark accessories, and corsage of mauve-tinted 'mums.

For the wedding trip to Lake Papineau, and other northern points, the bride wore a black and white sheath with white duster coat, white accessories and corsage of yellow-tinted carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Tracey are residing at 8 King Street, Belleville.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained at three miscellaneous showers, one given by Mrs. V. Sunderland, of Belleville, one by Mrs. A. Young, in the form of pantry necessities, and a third by Miss Phyllis Keegan, of miscellaneous gifts.

Guests attended from Toronto; Kingston; Roslin; Point Anne, and Belleville.

Nurses Saving Pennies for European Tour

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian nurses saving their pennies can look forward to a European tour next summer.

The Canadian Nurses' Association, the profession's national organization, now is making plans for a packaged month-long tour to cover some of Europe's highlights both in scenery and nursing.

Pearl Stiver, CNA general secretary, said in an interview that the planned 1960 tour is the first one to be organized by the association to include professional visits to hospitals and other institutions overseas.

Around CNA headquarters here, the trip is known as a "post-convention tour" because it starts June 25 from Halifax following the association's week-long biennial meeting.

BOOSTS LEARNING

Miss Stiver said the educational tour is in keeping with the International Council of Nurses' program to promote study tours and nurse exchanges.

The Canadian general secretary recently returned from an International Council board meeting in Helsinki, Finland, and in a month-long overseas trip looked in on some London and Netherlands hospitals where Canadians will visit next year.

The nurses' tour will include Edinburgh, London, Paris, Nice, Rome, Florence, Venice, Geneva, Lucerne, Brussels and Amsterdam.

The proposed itinerary includes observational visits to such institutions as the Royal College of Nursing in London, the World Health Organization and the League of Nursing Societies in Geneva.

There also is plenty of room to be simply a tourist, with a gondola trip in Venice, a cruise on the Seine from Paris, a Rhine voyage in Germany and a trip up Mount Pilatus in Lucerne.

Estimated cost of the trip, flying both ways, with most meals and rooms provided, is about $1,200. And Miss Stiver expects about 30 nurses to sign up for the tour.

After-Five Fashion

By ALICE ALDEN

If we could have but one coat to carry us through a social afternoon and evening, we would most likely choose a handsome combination of fine leather and fur. Jean Edwards has nicely epitomized the idea in this coat, a slim, wrap-around model in lustered Dior blue cabretta leather with a soft collar of fox dyed to match. This type of coat, although essentially unpretentious, is sure to hold its own against all the sumptuous after-dark coats awaiting next season's party and theatre-goers. It is an especially good choice for the suburban commuter.

Shop Deals Exclusively In Early Canada Furniture

WEST VANCOUVER (CP)—For the past 12 years Mrs. Lucie Brown has been promoting French-Canada in her hole-in-the-wall Cottage Antiques store here.

"It's amazing how little some British Columbians know about Quebec," she said.

Mrs. Brown, a slight, greying ex-school teacher, claims to have the only shop in Western Canada that deals exclusively in authentic early - Canadian furniture. Most of her stock is pre-1830 and Quebec-built.

She once worked for a prominent antique dealer in Montreal "But my parents got me interested in Canadian history."

"When I was a little girl my father, who came from Ontario, and my mother, who was born in Newfoundlnd, would tell me stories of early Canada. They were interesting, colorful stories.

"History expresses itself in furniture and a line of truth seems to run through authentic traditional furniture of all countries—it's basic, functional, beautiful and crafted by hand."

The Rocky Mountains tend to isolate British Columbia from Canadians in the east, she feels. "Most people out here are inclined to spend their vacations in California or Hawaii, rather than cross the mountains and learn about their own country."

But Mrs. Brown is pleased with the interest British Columbians now are showing in French-Canadian art.

"A few years ago I was tempted to sell out. But now more people seem to be coming from the east and settling here. They probably have seen furniture like this—some may even have owned it—and now are sorry they didn't bring it with them".

The supply of authentic early-Canadian furniture is dwindling, yet the retail price of it often is competitive with modern manufactured pieces.

"Although you may pay quite a bit of money for a piece of furniture that looks old and 'beat up', it has character. Its value lies in its age."

She believes it's time Canadians became aware that many of the remaining pieces of early-Canadian furniture are going to the U.S.

"Americans will pay high prices for it. If we don't watch out our own museums one day will have to buy it back from the U.S.—Detroit now has the world's largest collection of early-Canadian furniture."

Says It's Taste Not Money Makes Well-Dressed Woman

TORONTO (CP) — When it comes to clothes, Viviane Wilcox, fashion editor of a national women's magazine says it's taste and not money that constitutes a well-dressed woman.

She stresses simplicity. Her pet peeves include too much jewelry, fancy gloves and clear, plastic purses.

"I can't understand why women wear fancy gloves," she said in an interview. "You never see a model in a fashion magazine with them. It's the same with a matched set of jewelry. Unless they're the classic pearls, a model never wears matching earrings, necklace and bracelet."

Women could get a lot more from the fashion pages of magazines, she says. Although they may not like the styles of the particular dresses shown, women can glean the current length of skirts and other fashion trends.

"They should look for the silhouette to see if the shoulders are wide or narrow, where the waist is and if the sleeves are huge or simple. Women look at the fashion pages but they never really see them."

Some women spend far too much time trying to match things perfectly instead of using a little originality. A costume can be co-ordinated with varying shades of one color. Others over-do brightly colored accessories. One or two flashes of a color such as red is enough.

"There are tons of ways of making inexpensive clothing look better," Miss Wilcox contends.

A dress may be improved by replacing fancy buttons with plain bone ones. The machine stitching on the bow of a blouse can be taken out and the edges rolled and stitched by hand. Cheap belts can be replaced with a good calf belt which can be worn with many different outfits.

"You can save on hats too. By replacing sleazy veiling with good veiling and removing flowers or jewelled ornaments, a chic model can be made from a cheaper hat."

Shoes, she says, are terribly important and should be the best quality that a woman can afford. She recommends a pair of basic opera pumps for every wardrobe.

Clothing shouldn't be bought on impulse. It should start with a good coat, with thought given to every dress which will be worn under it. Miss Wilcox advises a good cloth coat instead of a cheap fur coat. It will cost less and look better for a longer time.

The most important thing, she adds, is for women to wear what suits them.

Madoc Art Group Displays Work at McCarthy Theatre

A fine collection of oils by the Madoc Art Group, students of Miss Mary Moult, local artist, which has been on view at the McCarthy for some time, will close shortly.

These paintings show a splendid realization of composition, color, and craftsmanship, and include scenes of four seasons, as well as one of flowers and one of animals.

The winter scenes were most pleasing to view on typical sultry days as Thursday and several others endured this past week or so. One portrayed an expanse of sunset-tinted snow stretching into the distance between gnarled, snowladen trees, between which are 'footprints in the snow'. A cool, refreshing, well-drawn picture.

The other winter scene is one of extra ordinary loveliness, most fairy-like in character, depicting ice-encrusted, sagging telephone wires, and leaning pole; the whole backed by thick distant evergreens, snow-mottled.

SUMMER SCENES

Summer scenes showed a placid, tree-bordered stream with water-lily pads nestling on its quiet surface, and a tall elm on the opposite reflecting its stately trunk. Distant woods, and a white cloud in an azure sky added the necessary highlight.

Another summer scene was that of tall pines beside a swiftly flowing river with distant, rock-bound shore, heavily wooded. Another was of a rocky shore with leafless tree in the midst of fallen pieces of limbs. Distant woodlands and a wide expanse of water added depth.

The autumn scenes showed the remains of a distant pier, and reddening maples beside a stream nicely done. Another which drew instant attention was of "The Beeches" a carefully done piece of work, true to life, with a winding roadway meandering along between the trees; a distant blaze of scarlet, gold soft greens and browns intermingle to make a delightful autumn idyll. Tall, silver birches hold the limelight in a composition of winding stream, autumn-tinted banks, and tall tree with burnished foliage.

"The Harvest" took one back to the days of long ago when bare feet tread warily between the oat stooks, as did the three-rail fence of the field, the barn with its two red doors, and the strawstack down which it was thrilling to slide, ever mindful of "Old Maude", the sulky cow. A careful piece of work showing faithfulness to detail, nicely colored.

Another painting of "Silver Birches," depicts a far away patch of blue water between a foreground of tall birches on a rocky hillside shore, while nestling in a "cup-like hollow of the down", the white farm house and out buildings.

Spring was denoted by the floating logs along a winding river, the banks of which are lined with white birches. A natural and colorful little piece of work.

"The Red Mill" was well done, and reflections treated with restraint.

"THE HOMESTEAD"

Another rural scene was that of "The Homestead,". This showed a Colonial type farm house, dignified and substantial at the turn of the road, backed by purple-touched hills, tall elms touched with autumn. A pleasing bit of work, rich in color, and most restful.

"The Trail of the Lonely Pine," stands sentinel beside dark blue restless waters, with a cloudy sky, reminds one of similar days when sudden squalls stir the waters of the Bay of Quinte. There is strength in drawing, and emotional appreciation.

"The First Snow," shows a different type of subject, but one which has great emotional appeal. This is of a mare and her colt, still in the pasture when a sudden snow squall comes up. The mother stands protestingly beside her colt, both with backs to the storm, heads down, the snow lodging among the hairs of the mother's tail and on her mane. The colt is partially hidden by the mother's sheltering form. An exceptionally nice bit of work, well drawn, shows carefulness of detail, and by one who knows somewhat of farm life.

"RED LILIES"

The one flower picture was a close-up of red lilies, maybe the Amaryllis. This was well done, and attractive.

A most pleasing display bringing commendation to both teacher and students.

Question . . . (please repeat) chicken dish which was topped with potato chips . . . R.R.

Answer: I think probably the following is the chicken casserole to which you are referring.

CLUB CHICKEN CASSEROLE

Four tablespons butter, 5 tablespoons flour, 1 cup chicken stock, 1⅔ cups evaporated milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 cups cooked rice (1⅓ cups when raw), 1 7-lb. boiling fowl, one 3-oz. can sliced mushrooms, ¾ cup chopped pimiento, 1-3 cup chopped green pepper, ½ cup slivered almonds, about 1 cup coarsely crushed packaged potato chips. Make a white sauce of the first 5 ingredients by melting the butter, stirring in the flour and salt until blended, then the milk and stock until thick. Simmer the chicken until tender in enough water to half cover, turning it over when half done. Remove meat from bones in rather large pieces. Arrange in large casserole in alternate layers the sauce, rice, vegetables, chicken — finishing with sauce, almonds and potato chips. Be sure chicken pieces are not protruding. Bake at 350 deg. F. for about 40 minutes or until bubbling and golden. This is highly recommended as the one hot dish for a buffet supper.

Question: Your recipe for Marzipan Lemons is delicious. I am enclosing a favorite of mine you might like to pass along.

NUT FRUIT ROLLS

(Courtesy Mrs. J. L. F.)) One half lb. walnuts, 1 lb. seedless raisins, 1 lb. pitted dates, 1 cup Graham cracker crumbs. Put nuts and fruits through food chopper. Press together in a roll 1½ to 2 inches in diameter. Roll in crumbs. Chill. Slice in any desired thickness.

Have you a recipe for uncooked dainties containing cherries? Mrs. J.L.F.

Answer: Thank you for Nut Fruit Rolls. Glad you liked the Lemon Marzipan.

UNBAKED FRUIT CONFECTIONS

Six ounces quartered Brazil nuts, ½ lb. whole pitted dates, 6-oz. jar maraschino cherries drained, ½ lb. package vanilla wafers crushed fine (2½ cups), 1 tablespoon finely chopped candied ginger, ½ lb. marshmallows cut in havles, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, ½ cup undiluted evaporated milk, ⅛ teaspoon each cinnamon, all spice, nutmeg, ⅛ teaspoon each salt and ginger, about 3 cups shredded cocoanut. In large bowl combine nuts, dates, cherries, crushed wafers and candied ginger. In top of double boiler combine marshmallows pieces, lemon rind, evaporated milk, salt and spices. Stir until marshmallows are partially melted. Remove from heat and blend well with fruits and nuts. Shape into 2 rolls about 2 inches in diameter and roll these in the cocoanut. Wrap in double thickness of wax paper and chill overnight. Cut in thin slices to serve as a confection or a novelty on a plate of tea cookies.

COST OF MARRIAGE

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP)—Harry Carter told the Simcoe Rotary Club that for every dollar a man spends on his own back, he spends more than three times that amount on his wife. He was giving a talk on manufacturing and merchandising of men's clothing.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S WORD-TIP . . . ABOUT "BOUQUET"

Bouquet is a delightful word, charming in sound, charming in meaning. But how often it is mistreated, both in pronunciation and in spelling. Often it is mispronounced bo-quet (bo to rhyme with go) and often it is misspelled boquet. Let's give it its full charm . . . spell it bouquet, and pronounce it boo-kay.

TO SEND WEDDING TELEGRAM

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I have never had occasion to send a wedding telegram. But now there is to be a special circumstance when we are planning to send such a telegram. It is to a wedding to take place far from here, a church wedding with large reception following in the bride's home. We know the bride very well, but have never met the groom. Should we send the wire only to her, or to them? To "Mrs." or to "Mr. and Mrs."? And when should we send it? — D. A.

Time your congratulatory telegram so that it will arrive as near as possible to the earliest hour mentioned for the reception. If you are not positive about this hour . . . if, as may be, the reception invitation reads "Reception immediately following the ceremony" . . . send it to arrive at a conveniently early hour of the wedding day. And address it to both, in that shiningly wonderful new bride-and-groom name . Mr. an Mrs. John Richardson.

FORMAL NAME FOR CHARGE ACCOUNTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I've recently been married. When I open a charge account, what form of name should I give on the application — the form of my signature, Marie Barclay Green, or Mrs. John Green? — M.B.G.

When you open a charge account, give your formal name Mrs. John Green. Your bills to be made out and mailed in that name, your packages to be delivered in that name. And your charge-plate, if any, to be made out in that name.

WHEN NAME IS INCORRECTLY SPELLED ON CHECK

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have a first name which is frequently misspelled. When it is incorrectly written on a check, what am I supposed to do — return it to the person or company, asking for a new check with my name spelled correctly? — G.

No, this is not necessary, and is a great inconvenience all around. All you need to do is to endorse the check exactly as the name is written on it, and then, directly below, write your name spelled correctly, and in exactly the same form in which you sign your checks.

BIRTHDAY CAKE NOT THE CENTREPIECE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

At a birthday dinner, to which twelve relatives and friends are being invited, should the birthday cake be the centrepiece of the dinner table? S. T.

No. The gala birthday cake should be featured by being brought in festively lighted . . . just before the dessert (usually ice cream) is served, and placed on the table in front of the birthday celebrant. The surprise feature of the cake would be lost if the guests had been viewing it as the centrepiece all during the dinner. (Usually the centrepiece is flowers.)

Mrs. L. R. — She's too young for that.

• • •

Harriet R. — I am 18 and a freshman at a junior college near my home. Recently I have been going out with a boy of 20 who goes to a nearby teachers' college and who comes from a farm very far from my home.

When he returned home for vacation Al asked me to come to his home for about a week. I have never been on a real farm and I am dying to go, but my mother thinks it wouldn't be proper. With his mother and father and four younger sisters and brothers to chaperone us, I don't see what could be improper about it.

• • •

I think I am in love with Al and he with me, but we haven't talked of marriage yet. I think he may be too shy. Anyway, I'm sure he's never asked a girl to travel so far to visit him.

Mrs. L. R. — I think Harriet is entirely too young to go travelling alone to visit men at their homes. It would be different if Al had proposed to her. Then I would at least know that his intentions were all they should be.

Al looks like a very nice boy and has always behaved beautifully here. He must come from a good family, but after all how can you be really sure? You hear so many things these days.

Another thing I don't like about this trip is the idea that Al may have asked Harriet to his home to have his family look her over before he proposes. I think she may be embarrassed by this. She is a very sensitive girl and I wouldn't want her to be subjected to an unpleasant experience.

• • •

The Council: Much of Mrs. L. R.'s uneasiness could have been cleared up by a letter from Al's mother telling her that Al has spoken of Harriet, that she is always eager to meet his friends and that she has a pleasant room for the girl with one of her own daughters.

However, since such a letter hasn't come, it would not be amiss for Mrs. L. R. to write to Al's mother telling her that her daughter has never paid such a visit before and that she is somewhat uncertain about the advisability of it. She should be able to judge from the answer whether or not Harriet will be safe, comfortable and welcome in the household.

We think a letter from the feminine head of the house is always in order in a case like this, but outside of this factor we can see no potential harm and much potential good in this visit.

If Al has behaved well at all times in the past, it is a fairly certain sign that he comes from a good family. The fact that he likes to invite his friends to his home also speaks well for him. If he is thinking about marriage, he is very wise to invite Harriet to his home where she can be "looked over" by his family. After all, she will be looking them over too. If she can fit in well with his family, it is one promising sign for the future. If she cannot, it would be better to know it now than later.

It is very good for young men and women contemplating marriage to know one another in circumstances other than those afforded merely by dating. Harriet will have an ideal opportunity to see Al's relationships with members of his family. She will see how he spends his time, whether or not he is generally good humored, co-operative and self-sufficient. It helps to know the best and the worst about these things before taking the plunge.

Campus Attractions

By ALICE ALDEN

While we are enjoying pretty summer clothes and beautiful beachtogs, store buyers are busy arranging for shipment of campus clothes and early autumn attire. To preview coming campus attractions we show a jump suit worn with popover top. The jaunty suit is of washcord corduroy in gold. The popover, also of corduroy, is in gold and green plaid. It goes in for such conceits as a slashed-away neckline and tiny bells on the scalloped hem.

OFF TO THE RACES . . . Local sports-racing car enthusiast Bill Hough of Wright Ave. (left) takes a look at a spark plug held by his father, William Hough Sr., as another local racing enthusiast, Dave Stribley, looks on. Bill will be racing his $6,000 A.C. Ace-Bristol in the Sports Car Club Trophy races at Harewood Circuit tomorrow. With the assistance of his father, who is considered an ace tuner, in the preparation of the vehicle the local St. Lawrence Automobile Club member should have a very good chance of bringing home some of the silverware.

Another Belleville resident who will be competing is Ray Rockall, 148 St. Paul Street, with his Coventry-Climax powered Elva racing car. This car has just been undergoing extensive modifications to the rear suspension and will be having its first outing of the current racing season.

FORT ERIE (CP) — Balpamiru, a stretch - running filly which charges through the final three furlongs in a manner reminiscent of Silky Sullivan, will attempt to score her third consecutive stakes victory when she runs in the $5,000 Colin Stakes at Fort Erie Saturday.

Although the $10,000 Auspicious Handicap is the feature attraction that day, it is anticipated that the main interest will centre on Bulpamiru's performance.

Jill St. John Shares Love Of Exciting Life of Fiance

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What kind of a girl is rich boy Lance Reventlow marrying?

Jill St. John is a girl-next-door rather than a glamorpuss kind of beauty, with big hazel eyes and brick-colored hair.

She had done a lot of living in her 18 years — radio actress at six, high school graduate at 14, married at 16, divorced at 17.

She is a bright conversationalist, reads two or three books a week, digs classical music and shares Lance's love of the exciting life. She is no longer concerned about her future husband's safety.

"Lance does all the dangerous sports. He skin-dives, he flies, he skis on the water and snow, he rides a motorbike and he has raced cars all over the world. But he has never broken a bone. That proves that he understands the dangers he is up against."

NOT AWED BY MONEY

She is not awed by his money. "He isn't as rich as people think he is. Besides, my parents are not exactly eating at the mission. I have always been well cared for."

She doesn't want to change Lance. "We like each other as we are—that's why we're getting married. I get a kick out of these women who say they can hardly wait to marry a man so they can change him. Then afterwards they wail, 'You aren't the way you used to be before we were married!'"

She has had starring roles in two films and is devoted to her acting career. "It's a gas! I can't think of a more fun way to earn a living. Lance wants me to continue with it, and there's no reason I shouldn't. I'm making some progress now; my career is catching up with my publicity."

She is not a member of the beat generation. "I go to the coffee houses on the strip and see the long - faced souls trying to look beat. I'll bet they go home and gloat, 'I was a good beat today.' They're so stupid. Life is a ball!"

Toronto Pair Wins Ontario Doubles Title

By DON SCANDRETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Pressing home an early advantage, Toronto's W. McChesney and Tommy Mawson carried off the Seagram Trophy for the Ontario lawn bowling doubles championship Thursday night.

The McChesney double was never pushed in defeating Dr. C. H. Brereton of Toronto and Bill Tewksbury of London, Ont., 16-8. The score was 4-4 after six ends, but McChesney increased his lead by easy stages. After the 12th the score at 10-6 the game was no longer in doubt.

In the semi-final, the Brereton double trounced John and Bill Watkins of London, Ont., 17-12.

McChesney beat Ottawa's Tom Stewart and Bill Grout 27-7 in the other semi-final.

In a one - sided quarter-final game the Brereton double defeated Toronto's L. C. Gardiner and Gordon Picken 19-14.

Gardiner Wednesday night pulled a surprise win over Lindsay's Sid Elsden and Percy Skitch 18-10 in the fourth round.

The consolation trophy for losers in the main event was won by Toronto's H. Duke and Stan Brown from Toronto's C. Beacom, 20-19.

Tuesday night Duke won the Eaton trophy for the rinks championship.

Duke was ousted in the main doubles trophy by Buffalo's Dr. R. Sendker and J. Moore, who were knocked out in turn by Gardiner.

London's W. Trumper took the King's Plate from Kingston's W. Duncan Jr. The score was 18-16.

Johnson Meets Miteff Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Alonzo Johnson, an ambitious young heavyweight who has won 13 straight, takes on big Alex Miteff of Argentina tonight in the last boxing show of the summer season at Madison Square Garden.

Johnson was largely unknown outside of Pittsburgh and Braddock, Pa., until this year when he crashed the top 10 rankings by whipping Nino Valdes and Willie Pastrano. Now they are comparing him to Ezzard Charles at the same stage.

The only fight Johnson has lost while compiling a 17-1 pro record was a six-round preliminary with Cortez Stewart in 1957.

Miteff's career record is 18-3-1. He will have about 18 pounds on Johnson, approximately 203 to 185 pounds in the television bout.

AT THE BELLEVILLE DRIVE-IN — Carol Morris, Miss Universe of 1957, has her first big screen role in "Born To Be Loved", romantic drama, co-starring with Vera Vague, Hugo Haas and singer Dick Kallman. RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Isn't it about time Canadian boxing "experts" realized the awful truth in what somebody once said to the effect that "You should never send a boy to do a man's job"?

And isn't it about time the Canadian boxing public realized that it is a financial sucker for such wily money-grabbers as the Kearns, the Solomons and other lovers of the easy long green from south of the border, and other points.

Yesterday wily, crafty Archie Moore, forty-three by his own admission, forty-nine as his mommy done tole him, figuratively waltzed home from his third lucrative trip north of the border carrying a suitcase filled with good Canadian dollars. Jack Kearns, wise in the ways of painless extraction, carried another.

It should be understandable now why Moore, who caused in-the-know eyebrows to shoot upward in sheer amazement, told Sugar Ray Robinson in words which had the same meaning, to go take a jump in the lake, because "I have promised to fight Yvon Durelle in Canada."

After all, you cannot blame the venerable, likeable Archie. Who wouldn't prefer to take the financial candy from a baby instead of risking a whipping from an experienced man for half the take?

After all, if the Canadians hadn't learned a lesson from his workout with James J. Parker and his first fight with the New Brunswick fisherman, it was no fault of his. They never questioned the price, and if they were foolish enough to pay, who was he to turn it down?

Moore had his first taste of the easy Canadian money n'oth of the b'oder when he consented to fight the then Canadian pride, one James J. Parker. The Kanny Kearns had already cased the joint, estimated the possible take and announced the bait had been taken, hook, line, sinker, boat and clubhouse.

Good Ole Hogtown swallowed it. And to make it easier for its "experts" Kearns dressed the bait with fancy doodads. He went so far as to insist the press boys at ringside be dolled up in soup-and-fish or dinner jackets, at his rental expense. It was his way of giving flowers to the living corpse.

The "incident," you couldn't call it a fight after what happened, had a publicity campaign coated a foot thick with sugar. A multi-millionaire threw cocktail parties for the press, and the story goes when Moore wondered if his guarantee would be forthcoming, pressed a ten grand note into his itching palm.

Old Archie went through the motions of training. His scouts had sized Parker, and Moore knew before he drew on a glove he could lick this Canadian set-up with one hand tied behind his back and the other in a sling. In fact he could have tucked him bye-bye in the first round, but why rob these good Canadian philantropists of a few minutes of pleasure. So cat-and-mouse it was with Ole Tabby Archie carrying the Canadian Micky at least seven of the nine rounds. Then Archie got tired and homesick. So he decided to end it and light out for good old Californyay with a load of good Canadian loot. Kearns, Solomon and several others took a healthy slice of the main take.

Yvon Durelle, on his performance the other night put himself in the same category as Parker. He had no right being in the same ring with a boxer-fighter like Moore.

This "incident," too, had a lot of the Parker fiasco earmarkings. The same sugar-coated publicity, a "verbal battle" between the principals, Durelle and company's alleged fury at Jack Sharkey being named referee, and the boasts of both sides as to what was going to happen to the honorable opponent.

Durelle came out flatfooted he would knock Moore out. Canny, brainwise Moore who had his own answer, would not go so far as that. As things happened, Moore probably had stiffer workouts with his sparring partners during training.

Now fans are wondering what actually happened in the first brawl between Durelle and Moore. Was Durelle a much better fighter then than on Wednesday or was the aged champion so cocky and confident he didn't give a dam until he was conked three or four times. Or was it a set-up for the lucrative follow-up $175,000 fiasco?

Somebody said Moore asked "how is everything in Toronto?" Whom does he know there? Or has Mr. Kearns again "cased the joint" and seen potential sucker bait in a young man named Chuvalo. Time will tell.

Remember, this is Alligator Night at Memorial Arena. Yukon Eric and Hardboiled Haggerty will be around too, so will Sam Steamboat and Dick Hutton. And don't forget if that alligator gets loose, don't panic. Just tap him on the head and look him in the eye. Either he'll go to sleep or you will. Only difference is, if the 'gator goes bye-bye it will wake up.

City Commercial Softball League

Mead - Sportsman eliminated Chris' Drive-In in the Commercial Softball League playoffs two games to nothing last night by defeating them 6-2.

Bruno McCurdy toed the rubber for the winners allowing six hits, striking out four and walking five. Fred Howard on the mound for Chris' was touched for ten hits, whipping two and walking the same number.

Meades scored two runs in the first and fourth innings and plated singletons in the second and fifth. Chris' runs came in the first and fifth.

Bill Muirhead starred for Meades, smashing two doubles, McCurdy hit two singles and Worsley collected double and a single.

Jim Sheridan was the best for the losers with three singles. Donavon had a triple with Kellett and Gilby also hitting safely.

BISHOP'S SEEDS WIN

Bishops Seeds defeated Belle Cleaners last night 7-4 in the first of their best-of-three series.

The second game will be played at the CNRA Park Saturday starting 6.30 p.m.

Soccer Results

Northern defeated Wilsons 5-0 to win the third game of their goals-to-count Belleville Charity Cup game last night.

Northern led 4-0 at the half on goals by Fancy and Evenden, Fancy scored his third of the night in the second half.

In another cup game RCAF and Trenton played to a three-all draw. This was the second match tied in this series, so a third will be necessary to decide a winner.

Grandpa Wynn Whips Tigers As Indians Win, Yanks Lose; Giants Drop 20-9 Slugfest

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Two on and two out, St. Louis Cardinals batting in the bottom of the ninth inning, trailing Los Angeles Dodgers 7-6.

A perfect spot for Stan Musial. But that was yesteryear. Instead of Musial coming up to hit in that spot, the batter was rookie Gene Oliver, Stan's replacement. Musial? He was sitting on the bench.

The fact that Oliver struck out ending Thursday night's game is not important. The tragedy of it is that Musial, the greatest hitter in the National League in a generation, was deemed too much of a risk to send up in that crucial spot. The Dodgers won 7-6.

Just before the start of the game, general manager Bing Devine of the Cardinals called a press conference and announced that the 38-year-old Musial will be benched for much of the season in favor of the younger Oliver. The 23-year-old freshman played in Musial's place at first base.

NOW IN SECOND

The Dodger victory lifted them into second place 2½ games behind San Francisco Giants, who dropped a 20-9 slugfest to Chicago Cubs, and a half-game in front of Milwaukee Braves, beaten 9-8 by Cincinnati Redlegs. Pittsburgh Pirates and Philadelphia Phillies were idle.

Los Angeles southpaw Sandy Koufax took a 7-1 lead into the ninth inning but the Cardinals sent him to the showers and it took two more pitchers to prevent the Cards from ending a losing streak that was extended to five games.

The Dodgers got half of their eight hits off starter and loser Bob Miller before knocking him out in the third. A two-run single by pinch hitter Carl Furillo in that inning proved to be the decisive blow.

FOULS OUT

Brooks Lawrence, third Cincinnati pitcher in the ninth, forced Eddie Mathews to foul out with the bases loaded to preserve the Reds' victory.

Frank Robinson hit a grand slam homer, the first of his major league career, and batted in a fifth run with a sacrifice fly to lead the Reds' attack against loser Bob Buhl and four relievers.

The Cubs pounded seven Giant pitchers for 19 hits good for 40 total bases to set a season scoring high in a game that lasted three hours and 50 minutes, longest nine-inning game in league history. Rookie George Altman paced the Cubs with two homers, three singles and five runs batted in. Alvin Dark helped with a grand slam homer.

Here's a fellow going on 40 en route to a 20-game winning season. How many pitchers do you suppose have won 20 at Wynn's age? Christy Mathewson? No! Walter Johnson? No! Herb Pennock? No! Bob Feller? No! Kid Nichols? No! Iron Man Joe McGinnity? No!

Only two have done it and they rank among baseball's greatest pitchers. Cy Young won 20 when he was 41 and Grover Alexander won 21 at 40.

Wynn won his 16th Thursday in pitching the league leading Chicago White Sox to a 9-0 victory over Detroit. He not only is the biggest winner in the league but he leads with five shutouts. The triumph was the 265th of his career.

HOLD LEAD

The triumph enabled the White Sox to maintain their 2½-game bulge over Cleveland Indians who defeated Kansas City 7-5. Washington knocked off New York Yankees again 5-2. Boston and Baltimore were idle.

The White Sox exploded for four home runs in support of Wynn's three-hit pitching. Jim Landis, Bubba Phillips, Earl Torgeson and Sherm Lollar were the homer hitters. Don Mossi took the brunt of the Sox' 14-hit attack.

Run-scoring doubles by Woody Held, who had a three-run homer in the second, and Jim Baxes in the eighth inning brought the Indians back from a 4-3 deficit. The victory went to lefty Jack Harshman, his third win against nine defeats. Homers by Bob Cerv, Zeke Bella and Dick Williams accounted for all of Kansas City's runs.

Russ Kemmerer, who had lost six straight, hurled a six-hitter against the Yankees for his first victory since June 28 Harmon Killebrew paced the Senators' attack against loser Bob Turley with two runs - scoring doubles and a single.

Durelle Weeps As He Leaves For N.B. Home

MONCTON, N.B. (CP)—Yvon Durelle had tears in his eyes Thursday night as he headed home from his fruitless crack at Archie Moore's world light-heavyweight title in Montreal.

Durelle, who crumpled in the third round of his second attempt to lift Moore's title, was crying freely when he jumped into a car at the airport here after a flight from Montreal.

With him was his wife Theresa and sister Lucille.

There was only a handful of people at the airport. His return had not been announced in advance.

The Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., fisherman was sullen and dejected as he sat in his car after darting past reporters at the airport. He had no comment.

Blue Bombers Tame Lions With Opening 42-20 Victory

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Western Interprovincial Football Union's 1959 season opened Thursday night and Winnipeg Blue Bombers indicated they will be tough to stop in their run for a second straight Grey Cup.

Bombers kicked off the 16-game schedule with a 42-20 victory over British Columbia Lions.

Although coach Wayne Robinson's coast crew made a strong bid in the first half, it couldn't contain the powerful Winnipeg club.

The game was closer than the score indicated. The 29,425 Vancouver fans went home with hopes their club might make the playoffs.

Fumbles and penalties played a part. Lions lost 50 yards for five infractions and bobbled twice, with Winnipeg scores following each time.

End Frank Gilliam and halfback Leo Lewis each counted two touchdowns for Bombers. Van Pelt also kicked a field goal and Shepard a single. New halfback Carver Shannon from Illinois converted two touchdowns but missed on four.

Vic Kristopaitis, one of Lions' brightest lights, kicked two field goals and two converts on touchdowns by halfbacks Ed Vereb and Vern Lofstrom. Kristopaitis is a lineman obtained last week from Toronto Argonauts of the eastern Big Four.

Iowa dandy Randy Duncan, Lions' young quarterback, outpassed Van Pelt but couldn't click as often when it counted. Lions picked up 209 yards passing against 132 by Bombers.

Bombers made 31 first downs to Lions' 15.

Action switches to Regina tonight where Saskatchewan Roughriders, beaten badly in two exhibition games in the east, meet Calgary Stampeders. Lions clash with the Eskimos in Edmonton and Bombers meet the Stampeders in Calgary Monday.

Stamps are favored to defeat the Riders, although fullback Pat Abbruzzi, a standout with Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four for three seasons, won't be in the Calgary lineup.

Abbruzzi was traded to Calgary during the winter, and was a key man in Stampeders' plans for 1959.

However, coach Otis Douglas said Abbruzzi can't crash the import lineup because Stamps be using two import centres. Douglas said that whether Abbruzzi, a veteran at 25, makes the import lineup will be decided "on a game-to-game basis."

Cocky Moore Thinks Swede 'No Problem for Me to Beat'

MONTREAL (CP) — Archie Moore Thursday expressed confidence he could whip world heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson of Sweden.

"I only hope he takes up that $1,000,000 offer to fight me," said the 42-year - old champion. "I don't see where he would be any great problem for me to beat. I showed I'm a much better finisher than he is."

Moore referred to his four-knockdown kayo of Canada's Yvon Durelle in the third round of his title defence at the Forum Wednesday night. And he pointed out that Johansson had Floyd Patterson down seven times when referee Ruby Goldstein stopped the massacre.

WILL MEET OTHERS

Moore, as peppy as a teen-ager despite some night club celebrating into the wee hours, said if Johansson couldn't fight him this year he would want to meet someone else.

Archie mentioned Sugar Ray Robinson, partially recognized middleweight champion, while manager Jack (Doc) Kearns tossed the name of Patterson into the hopper.

Kearns said he had two Canadians and a California syndicate ready to back the $1,000,000 bid to Johansson. Kearns said the $1,000,000 would be Johansson's purse.

He disclosed that one of the Canadian groups included Toronto promoter and businessman Dave Rush and two millionaires from Montreal. He declined to identify any of the other moneymen at this stage.

DON'T CARE WHERE

"All of these men want to back the fight, they don't want to promote it," said Kearns. "They don't care where it is held."

While millions were verbally tossed about like confetti it should be noted that the scrap at the forum grossed $140,519 plus $100,000 for television. Archie collected a $175,000 guarantee. Durelle got $15,000 plus $5,000 expenses, and headed back to his fishing fleet at Baie Ste. Anne, N.B.

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says a group of Canadians and an American are behind a $1,000,000 guarantee to world heavyweight champion Ingemar Joransson for a title fight with Archie Moore.

The newspaper says the group is headed by Dave Rush, Toronto mining executive who promoted a circus-like bout between Moore and James J. Parker of Barrie, in Toronto in 1956.

It names the others as Ron Waller, wealthy young Los Angeles promoter, "international financier Leon Dorfman of Montreal and a prominent war defence production executive who sought anonymity."

The Globe says the names were disclosed by Jack Kearns, manager of Archie Moore, at a party after Moore retained his light heavy crown by knocking out Yvon Durelle in Montreal Wednesday night.

"And don't forget Jim Norris," the newspaper quotes Kearns as saying. "He told me just a few minutes ago he'd like to be associated with this group."

Rush Thursday night confirmed the group's interest and said he hoped some definite action would be taken within a week or two, The Globe says.

Marlene Beats Judy Darling Semi-Finals Played Today

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Four women golfers, semi-finalists in today's Canadian open championship, have proven that precision putting is the shortest road to success.

They made their point in Thursday's quarter-finals with a wholesale mastery of the greens. In most cases, the losers couldn't buy a putt.

Defending champion Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto sank an 18-footer and two of 15 feet to close out her match against Judy Darling of Montreal with a 6 and 5 decision on the 13th hole. The Quebec girl diln't have a one-putt green.

Mrs. Bruce McGhie, three-time New York state champion and a solid choice to reach Saturday's 36-hole final, potted putts of eight, 10, 15 and 10 feet and won 3 and 2 over 15-year-old Gayle Hitchens of Vancouver.

SINKS 55-FOOTER

Mrs. Marley Spearman of Sudbury, Middlesex, 2 - up winner over Mrs. Frank Stranshan of Toledo, Ohio, made the most spectacular putt of the tournament—a 55-footer on the 15th—and it probably saved her the game. It gave her a half on the hole after Mrs. Frank Stranahan of the U.S. had pitched up for a six-inch putt.

Mrs. Mary Jane McCarter of Toronto played a precise greens game to eliminate 24 - year - old Janet McWha of Montreal 3 and 2. The Montreal girl went one-over-par on four of the front nine holes because her putter wouldn't behave.

Today's semi - finals were set for 9:45 a.m. EDT. Mrs. Streit is paired with Mrs. Spearman and Mrs. McCarter and Mrs. McGhie fill the other spot.

NEW YORK (CP) — Canadian television singer Patti Lewis made her United States debut here Tuesday night on the NBC's Jack Paar show. "I think she's great," said Paar of the attractive, blonde Toronto performer.

Rugger Star Works Out With Ti-Cats

HAMILTON (CP) — Brian Binns, the stowaway Yorkshire rugger player who wants to prove his worth in Canadian football, turned up Thursday night at the camp of Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

He was given a light workout with the Ticat Bees, the Big Four club's intermediate team. He ran around and tried some punting.

After viewing the intricate backfield work, Binns said: "I'm not sure what position I'll play. Over home we all carried the ball."

On charging ball-carriers and rugged line play: "Well, I guess all that padding gives you extra confidence and courage."

The forward pass: "I don't know if I can catch the ball over my shoulder."

Back in England, Binns played "loose forward, second row" for Blackpool the last three years and previously was with Bromley and Huddersfield, his birthplace.

He is 24, five feet, 11 inches and 183 pounds.

Binns said his trip resulted from a talent hunt in Britain last year by Jake Gaudaur, Ticat manager. He was a stowaway on the Sylvania.

EXTEND CONTRACT

BALTIMORE (AP)—The contract of Paul Richards to manage Baltimore Orioles of the American League was extended Thursday for two years. Shaban Rejects Holt Fight Says Paper

MONCTON (CP)—The Times says Chris Shaban, manager of beaten world light - heavyweight challenger Yvon Durelle, has turned down an offer to meet Mike Holt of South Africa.

The newspaper says the offer was made by unamed South African promoters.

"If Durelle goes to South Africa he's going to go alone," Shaban was quoted. "The boy worked hard to make the 175-pound light heavyweight limit three times for this Moore fight. It wasn't easy. Those last eight to six pounds took plenty out of rim."

Durelle stopped Holt in a ninth-round TKO in Montreal in July, 1958.

Rocky Nurses 'Only An Idea' Of Comeback

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—"You'll be restless some night and unable to sleep for thinking about it. Next morning, everything will be set."

That's the way it will happen, says Rocky Marciano, if he ever decides to try to regain the heavyweight boxing throne from which he retired undefeated.

So far, such a comeback attempt is "only an idea," Rocky said. "There isn't anything defitin.e

"However, understand this, I'm not saying I never think about it. If I do come back, it'll be a quick decision."

Marciano, who will be 35 Sept. 1, says it would take about eight to 10 months of preparation, including about three "real" fights, to get him ready for a championship bout.

"I can't get in shape by sparring," he said. "My idea of training would be to meet some rated contenders — guys like Sonny Liston, Nino Valdes and Willie Pastrano."

Trenton Edges Point, Evens Series In Wild Woolly Comedy of Errors

By GARRY ALEXANDER

LeRoy Wannamaker, a three-bobble offender in a loosely played battle of errors, drove in the winning run in the bottom of the ninth last night as Trenton shaded Point Anne 7-6 to knot their B. and D. softball semi-finals at three games each.

It was the third victory in a row for the Garretts, who won only four during the entire schedule. The seventh and deciding game will be played at Point Anne Saturday at 6.30 p.m. with the winners meeting the Bobcats for the league championship.

No less than 17 errors were committed by the two clubs last night, accounting for 11 runs. The Cementmen had seven and the winners 10.

Trenton opened a 5-1 lead in the first frame only to have Point Anne tie it by the fifth and go ahead 6-5 in the sixth frame. All runs to this point had been unearned.

Drake's crew made it 6-6 in the seventh when Roger Drake smashed a triple to centre. LeRoy Wannamaker squeezed him home with a sacrifice bunt. Then in the ninth it was the same combination that produced the vict ry. Drake chopped a double over third base, took third on a wild pitch while Mitts was fanning. Wannamaker lifted a long single to left field to chase Drake home for the 7-6 score.

Hits were scarce on both sides and loser Bobby Hunter deserved a much better fate. He allowed six hits over the route and struck out 14 men, including the side in the eighth when Trenton threatened on a pair of bobbles. He walked three batters and hit one.

Ronnie Wannamaker was the winning moundsman in a three innings plus relief stint. He gave up two hits after taking over from Howard Cole in the sixth, fanning two and walking none. Wildness chased Cole to the outfield, walking six, whiffing four and giving up just three hits until his departure.

Neither club could do a thing right in the fielding department. Doug Hull's double and two Trenton errors gave the losers a brief 1-0 lead. In the bottom of the inning Alexander's bunt single, two walks, three glaring errors and Howard Cole's base hit built Trenton's 5-1 lead.

Hunter held the homesters at bay while his mates took advantage of Trenton errors to get him the lead. Three walks and two errors on the same play by Cole cost him two runs in the fourth. Goyer's hit, a walk and two errors tied it at 5-5.

Cole walked Carr to start the sixth and left in favor of Wannamaker. A wild pitch and stolen base got Carr to third with two out but another error put the Cementmen ahead for the only time in the game. They left the sacks full in the eighth on safeties by Kingston and Hunter plus an error but could not come up with a key base hit.

Roger Drake with a triple, double and three runs scored was Trenton's big man with the hickory. LeRoy Wannamaker had his game-winning single while the others went to Ron Smith, Howard Cole and Doug Alexander.

Dougie Hull doubled, while other base hits were divided among Gary Goyer, Pete Green, Chuck Kingston and Bobby Hunter.

No Underworld Influence Seen Says Probing DA

NEW YORK (AP) — District Attorney Frank Hogan said Thursday a month-old investigation of the Ingemar Johansson-Floyd Patterson heavyweight title fight had failed to turn up any definite influence by the underworld.

Asked if underworld influences were involved in the promotion, Hogan said, "No."

Hogan said Bill Rosensohn, the promoter, would return for more questioning Aug. 28.

"He (Rosensohn) gave up certain information which includes the names of persons whom we questioned since we last talked to him," said Hogan. "There are certain matters with which these witnesses do not agree. We will try to talk to him again to try to establish the facts. We seem to have exhausted all witnesses who might have shed any light on what he had to say.

Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager, testified for half an hour Thursday before the grand jury investigating boxing. It was a closed session.

Newcomer Tops Detroit Golf

DETROIT (AP) — Mason Rudolph, a promising newcomer, posted a four-under-par 67 Thursday to grab the first-round lead in the $25,000 Motor City open golf tournament.

The 25-year - old Clarksville, Tenn., professional had a one-stroke lead over Frank Stranahan and Dow Finsterwald, tied for second place at 68.

In a 13-way tie at 71 for 24th position is Al Balding of Markham, Ont.

Plans Fight Between Archie, Ray Robinson

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Matchmaker George Parnassus said Thursday he will try to line up a light heavyweight title fight at Memorial Coliseum between champion Archie Moore and Sugar Ray Robinson.

"There is no telling what it will draw," Parnassus said, "but three-quarters of a million is a reasonable estimate."

Moore said after knocking out Yvon Durelle Thursday night in Montreal that he'd like to fight heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson with Robinson would be even bigger," Parnassus said. "It would be the dream match between the two modern masters of the art of self defence."

SHIP-SHAPE AGAIN

VANCOUVER (CP) — Bluebottle's bottom is ship - shape again. Prince Philip's dragon class yacht, on the west coast for a series of Pacific competitions, has been in dry dock since she arrived here early this week with a blistered keel. The ship was repaired here following competitions on the Great Lakes, where too much sun and fresh water were given as the cause of the blisters.

Hapless Leafs Lose Another; Royals Split

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The International League's pitching wheel has stopped in front of Miami Marlins in its latest spin around the league. Recently Columbus Jets, Rochester Red Wings and Buffalo Bisons have been the lucky ones.

Herb Moford turned in the Marlin's fourth - straight route-going pitching victory Thursday night as Miami defeated Toronto 7-1. The victory moved the Marlins within one game of the first division as league-leading Buffalo beat fourth-place Richmond 4-1.

Columbus defeated Rochester 5-1 and Montreal took the first game of a doubleheader from Havana 7-5 in 12 innings. Havana won the nightcap 5-0.

Jim Archer started the Miami skein against Toronto with a 12-inning victory Tuesday night and Bunky Stewart and Harry Byrd gave nine hits between them in a pair of shutout victories Wednesday night. Moford allowed Toronto only four hits. Don Johnston went down to his 14th loss against six wins.

FISTS FLY

Don Erickson (5-4) stepped into the unfamiliar role of starter for Buffalo and gave only four hits in nine innings. Bobby Morgan's single drove in two unearned runs in the sixth inning to snap a 1-1 tie and leave Zack Monroe with an 8-8 record.

In the seventh inning, Richmond second baseman Bobby Deakin threw a punch at Buffalo outfielder Don Landrum when the latter threw a vicious block during a play at second base.

Lynn Lovenguth (12-11) limited Rochester to six hits. The Jets also broke a 1-1 tie with a four-run fourth inning off loser Cal Browning (13-9).

ROYALS, CUBANS SPLIT

A two-run double by Dick Teed in the 12th inning won the scheduled seven-inning opener for Paul Lapalme (4-3). Montreal overcame a 5-0 Havana lead, scoring five runs in the fourth inning. Luis Arroyo (5-6) lost with Havana's Tony Gonzales smacking his 18th homer in the third inning.

Havana beat Ralph Mauriello (1-2) in the nightcap. Mike Cuellar (7-9) won with a five-hitter.

MUSIAL BENCHED

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Aging St. Louis Cardinals star Stan Musial will be benched for much of the rest of the National League season in favor of young players, the Cardinals announced Thursday.

The 38-year-old Musial was benched in favor of Gene Oliver who appeared in Musial's place at first base.

General Manager Bing Devine said Musial will have a contract in 1960 no matter what his batting average is this year. Musial is hitting .261.

South Hastings Baseball League

Stan "Lefty" Reid put on a one-man show last night to provide Latta with a 4-3 decision over Cannifton in a South Hastings baseball league playoffs tilt.

Reid, rangy southpaw hurler, stopped Cannifton on three hits over the seven inning distance, struck out 17 batters and walked only one. Eleven of the 17 strikeouts came in succession.

And to top off his performance Reid drove in the tying run and scored the winner in a three-run sixth inning rally.

Cannifton took a 1-0 lead in the first with Latta tying it in the fourth. Two runs in the fifth put the visitors out front once again 3-1 but the Latta trio in the sixth gave Reid his much-deserved triumph.

Lyle Bradshaw started for the Clippers with Win Harder, Pat O'Connor and Gordie Oliver all seeing mound duty in the sixth frame. Bradshaw had two strikeouts with the foursome walked a total of four men. They allowed nine hits.

Stan Reid was the only winner with two hits, one each going to Bob Sullivan, Orly Glass, Frank Ray, Wayne Gow, Gary Gow, Cam Buskard and Doug Rollins.

Don Forsythe was tops for Cannifton, driving in all three of his clubs runs with a homer and single. "Itchy" Cole had a one-bagger.

One Thing Can Be Trusted

By ROY L. SMITH

Our generation is desperately in need of something it can trust. With the threat of an atomic war hanging over our heads, and with the certain knowledge that there is no real defense against guided missiles, hydrogen bombs, and nuclear weapons, we instinctively reach for something outside ourselves in the hope of finding security.

It is the first duty of religion to provide men with this sense of security. And in nothing are we failing more lamentably, perhaps.

ABOVE-PEACE OF MIND

There is a cult among us which assures us that the solution of our problem is relaxation. Month after month books advise us to let go of our fears, ignore our terrors, and live as though the threats are not real.

That there is great value in relaxation goes without saying, of most of us there is a vast amount of unnecessary tension, and as a consequence the ulcer business was never better. But relaxation is a by-product. To induce it artificially is to completely misunderstand it. That relaxing which is curative must come from an inner peace that is itself creative.

WHAT WE THINK

More important to any man than the things he owns are those things he most surely believes. Each one of us lives by faith in something.

"Your purse is your best friend", says one man, and many a poor chap, trusting to this philosophy, has ended up in anguish.

The most important thing in any man's life is the faith he has in the thing he believes. Beliefs are creative. What we think about God is of vastly more significance than what we believe about economics, psychology, foreign policies, or insurance.

The author of Lamentations had sen the most precious possessions of the Hebrews go down in a cloud of dust, and lie thereafter in ruins. And in the face of disaster he had declared his confidence in the faithfulness of God. Nothing could blind him to the awful tragedy that had befallen his nation, but above and behind that tragic state of affairs, he saw abundant reasons for trusting to the steadfast love and faithfulness of God.

And in the end his positive thinking about God piloted him out to an area of great serenity. We may laugh at the theologies with which religion has infused life, but in the long run it is our theology that saves us from terror. As a man thinks in his heart, o is he strong, self-reliant, confident of the future, and serene within his mind.

GOD'S PREFERENCES

Each of us will do well if we assure ourselves from time to time that God is against some things, and for other things. As long as we live in God's world it will repay us to take his preferences into account.

We can be very sure, for example, that God prefers chastity to uncleanness. In every situation in which sex is involved we can well afford to ask, "Which of these two attitudes would be more chaste?"

In every situation we can be very sure that God has a strong preference for the most kindly and loving action. When we are tempted to do the mean or the contemptible, we might well ask ourselves, "What is God's preference in this situation?"

In every situation we may be very sure that God is on the side of the weak and the oppressed. Therefore, in any situation in which they are involved we may be very sure which side God would like to see us on.

God cannot be on the side of ignorance, disease, poverty, hate, prejudice, or oppression. And when he finds us aligned with any of these evil things, it does not take much imagination to understand his feelings.

He is the godly man who seeks to align himself with those things that God prefers.

Canadair, Orenda Get Contracts For Starfighter

Aircraft Will Replace Sabres Used in Europe

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadair and Orenda, the two companies that put the RCAF's Sabre jet together, have won the federal government contracts to replace it.

A $91,500,000 order for construction of airframes for 200 of the supersonic Lockheed F104G Starfighter jets went Friday to Canadair Limited, Montreal.

The new plane's J-79 General Electric engine will be turned out by Orenda Engines Limited of Malton, working on an $80,000,000 contract.

The Starfighter—the RCAF will call it the CF-111—will be used to replace Sabres in eight squadrons of the RCAF air division in Europe. The one other overseas squadron and the nine RCAF squadrons in Canada use CF-100 jet interceptors.

BUILT 1,810 SABRES

It was only last November that the last of the now-obsolescent Sabres came off the Canadair line, ending a program that cost more than $500,000,000. The Montreal firm built 1,810 of the swept-wing fighters, most of them for the RCAF and West Germany. The Orenda engine went into 1,300 of these.

Friday's Starfighter orders total less than half the $420,000,000 cost of the re-equipping program, scheduled for completion in four years. Still to be awarded are contracts for training planes, the armament control system, spare engines and parts, and ground-handling equipment.

Defence Production Minister O'Hurley said Canadian firms also will get 30 per cent of Lockheed's airframe business in construction of 66 Starfighters for the West German air force.

SUB-CONTRACT SOME

Canadair will sub - contract about 33 per cent of its airframe work to Canadian companies and Orenda about 45 per cent of the engine work, Mr. O'Hurley said. Canadair would employ 3,500 workers at the peak of the contract and Orenda about 3,000.

In Montreal, a company spokesman said Canadair was picked for the job on the basis of submitted "proposals" sought by the government from the three leading aircraft manufacturers. Next step would be for the government to submit specifications and to negotiate a contract for a definite sum.

The unsuccessful bidders on the airframe were de Havilland Aircraft of Canada Limited, Toronto, and Avro Aircraft Limited, Malton. Mr. O'Hurley said Canadair's was the lowest of three "close" bids.

AVRO PROBLEM

Avro, which built 610 CF-100s and which like Orenda is a division of A. V. Roe (Canada) Limited, was hard hit by the government's cancellation last February of the Arrow jet interceptor.

Mr. O'Hurley was asked by reporters whether there will be any work for Avro in the new program. He replied that this still is being looked into, but he wouldn't like to say definitely that there would be something for the firm.

Tooling for the airframe production will be shipped to Canadair from California so that work can start almost immediately.

New Laws Aim To Clear Streets Of Prostitutes

LONDON (Reuters)—New laws aimed at clearing London and other big British cities of street-prowling prostitutes come into effect at midnight tonight.

Estimates of their numbers range up to 20,000. The ages are from 15 up.

Under present law, they can be fined £2 for each arrest. Most of them regard it as their "licence" fee.

Under the new law, a first conviction will bring a £10 fine. A second conviction will bring a £25 fine. A third conviction will draw a £25 fine and a possible three months in prison.

Anyone convicted of living off the earnings of prostitutes will face up to seven years in prison. At present the maximum term is two years.

WILL CAUTION

A key feature of the new law is a system of cautions. Under this, if a girl is not a known prostitute, police will try to persuade her to go to a police station for advice by a woman police officer.

Aim of the system of cautions is to break the grip of vice rings on young recruits and rehabilitate them before they become hardened professionals.

Owners of all-night cafes who allow prostitutes to operate from their places will be subject to increased fines and immediate confiscation of their eatery licence for five years.

The laws have come under fire for being too timid and for not cracking down on the customers as well. The government has replied its primary aim is to rid the country of the nuisance of women openly soliciting on the streets.

Short-Term Bond Yields Reach All-Time Highs

(By The Canadian Press)

Canadian government short-term bond yields reached all-time highs this week in the face of rapidly declining short Canada prices. Other bond prices also were easier.

All short Canadas now are yielding more than six per cent as losses amounted to as much as half a point in some issues.

The 91-day treasury bill average moved last week to 6.16 from 5.73 per cent on Thursday. The 182-day bills went to 6.87 per cent from 5.98 per cent with a low award of 7.25 per cent.

The discount rate, pegged at .25-per-cent higher than the bill rate, now becomes 6.41 per cent, up from 5.98 per cent and over the six-per-cent mark for the first time. The six-per-cent rate is the maximum chartered banks can charge on loans, and as a result loan extensions will be drastically curtailed.

Day-to-day money remained extremely tight with dealers carrying about $48,000,000 inventories with the central bank.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Another day of 90-degree temperatures is in store for Southern Ontario today, extending the current heat wave to six consecutive days. A measure of relief was in sight, however, as slightly cooler and less humid air edged into Central Ontario this morning, causing a few showers and thunderstorms across northern Lake Huron and Georgian Bay. This unsettled weather will reach southern regions this afternoon and evening with a small degree of cooling expected late tonight and Sunday.

Northern Ontario will remain under the influence of this cool outbreak with variable cloudiness. A few showers, and 65- to 70-degree temperatures forecast for today and Sunday.

NEW CHILDREN'S MISSION WILL BE BUILT SAYS MOM

Judge Rules Present Home is Unfit

HAMPTON (CP)—Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte, whose Whytehaven Mission was ruled Friday to be an unfit place to house children, doesn't plan to stop her efforts on behalf of homeless youngsters.

Before Judge W. R. Philip of Peterborough announced his decision that 107 children at the unlicensed home near Bowmanville had been neglected, Mrs. Whyte said "we're going ahead and we'll build a new Whytehaven regardless of the court's decision."

Cheering news for her after the verdict came from Welfare Minister Cecile who said the government has "no desire to exile" Mrs. Whyte and would take another look if she should apply to re-open Whytehaven.

Judge Philp found the children at the home neglected within the meaning of the Child Welfare Act because overcrowding, the limited staff and the incidence of disease made it an unfit place for them to live in.

PRAISES EFFORTS

He praised the work of Mrs. Whyte and her small staff, however in trying to cope with the outbreak of infectious diseases which prompted provincial authorities to remove the children two weeks ago.

"They endeavored to perform an almost superhuman task," he said.

Mrs. Whyte showed little emotion when she heard the ruling. "I think it was very fair considering the evidence he had to deal with," she said.

She was close to tears, however, when Judge Philp later awarded custody of six-year - old Bruce Wilkins to his father, Bert, at Mr. Wilkins' request.

The Oshawa construction worker took the boy to Mrs. Whyte about five years ago when he was suffering from severe burns.

Mrs. Whyte said she planned to adopt Bruce and it was in an effort to see him that she camped for three days and nights outside the home in the Toronto suburb of Scarborough where he was taken from Whytehaven.

Judge Philp said his judgment was abbreviated and would allow him to proceed immediately with placement of the children. He said he would amplify it later.

PARENTS TAKE 35

After the three - day hearing ended, W. H. Bury, Ontario director of child welfare, said 35 children had been returned to their parents under Children's Aid Society supervision.

He said Judge Philp will sit again Tuesday to determine custody of another 58 children where questions of jurisdiction and supervision are more complicated.

In Toronto, Mr. Cecile said the court action was taken only to protect the children and not from any desire to persecute Mrs. Whyte.

He said the regulation of the Charitable Institutions Act which forbids anyone convicted of neglect under the act or of any contravention of the act would be waived should Mrs. Whyte attempt to re - open Whytehaven. An application from her would receive the same searching scrutiny as one from anyone else.

In St. Catharines Friday night Mrs. Whyte spoke to 30 people on

'Tooth Glue' May Eventually Eliminate Need for Dental Plates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Development of a "tooth glue" that might eventually eliminate the need for dental plates and bridges was reported today by naval medical researchers.

Other possibilities:

Take a tooth out, fill it, glue it back in . . . extract teeth that need straightening, glue them back in near order . . . perhaps repair broken bones.

Experiments with dogs indicate that after a tooth is pulled, the original tooth or an artificial substitute can be reinserted in the socket with the new cementing substance.

Capt. Thomas J. Canty, a director of prosthetics research, described the development while here to report on the development to the navy. He gave a reporter the details in an interview.

Canty said a dog now sports a tooth that was glued in about a year ago. He said it was able to eat the day after the glue job.

The researcher stressed that no dental glue studies have yet been made on humans, nor is the navy yet making any claims that the technique will work on man.

"If the technique should prove successful in humans," he said, "you could have a full set of teeth extracted and then replace them with synthetic teeth, or teeth from a tissue bank, which could be secured in the jaw without need for the usual denture plate which is uncomfortable for some people. It also should be less expensive.

"A tooth requiring a filling could be taken out, filled, and then reinserted in the socket.

"Or, you might need to have your teeth straightened. Such teeth could be extracted and realigned in their sockets."

He said the "glue" is made of materials that go to make up human bone—including calcium, phosphorus and glycogen.

The glue serves to hold the tooth firmly until mature bone ultimately grows around the tooth.

Canty said the same material also shows experimental promise for the quick repair of bone fractures in man and animals.

Maci Tribesmen Protest Jailing 28 African Women

DURBAN (Reuters) — Anger among African Negroes flared into violence throughout South Africa's Natal province during the night.

Maci tribesmen in southern Natal set fire to grasslands and erected roadblocks in protest at the jailing of 28 African women.

Natives in the Table Mountain area of west central Natal were reported massing to destroy cattledipping tanks, schools and other government buildings. Police were sent to the area.

At Pietermaritzburg, about 50 miles inland from this east coast port, police patrolled African districts after a crowd of more than 200 women stormed a beerhall in protest against a government crackdown on home-distilled liquor. All beerhalls in the area were closed.

Police also stood by in the Isipofu area near the south Natal town of Port Shepstone following a demonstration by about 300 Africans protesting the imprisonment Friday of 84 women for creating a disturbance.

Farmers in the Harding area of south Natal locked their women and children in a local hospital during the night and formed armed vigilante groups as Maci tribesmen put the torch to pastureland.

The Africans erected three roadblocks in the area. No deaths or injuries were reported.

Tighter Credit, Stable Prices Seen in Action

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Fleming foresees tighter consumer credit and stable prices in a curtailment of loans by the chartered banks.

Commenting on the announced plans by the chartered banks to cut short the expansion of loans, he made it clear that he sees "very rapid economic expansion" as the underlying cause of the shortage of funds for loans.

Mr. Fleming said in an interview Friday that he trusts the chartered banks won't put the clamps on loans to producers and thus apply brakes to business expansion.

A reporter suggested that the remedy for the shortage of loanable funds is to increase the money supply through the Bank of Canada.

DEMAND VERY HEAVY

Mr. Fleming replied that such a step would not be the whole answer. The demand for loans was extremely heavy, he said, noting that in four weeks in July the commercial loans by chartered banks increased by as much as $200,000,000.

Mr. Fleming said the current situation differs from the "tight money" days of 3½ years ago when the Bank of Canada, presumably with the approval of the former Liberal government, asked chartered banks to restrict their lending.

This time, he said, the chartered banks acted of their own volition without any request from the Bank of Canada.

Mr. Fleming said he assumes the chartered banks will except from their curtailment smaller loans.

He said he expects the policy of the chartered banks will have the effect of holding down prices.

Father of Eight Drowns in Pond

BRANTFORD (CP) — James MacGregor, 35, father of eight, was drowned Friday night in Oakland Pond, 12 miles south of here.

MacGregor, a non - swimmer, was bathing with a group of friends in the pond when he got into difficulties. Mrs. Hazel Greentree, a neighbor of the dead man, told police she thought he was fooling when he called for help.

Hydro Official Denies Report Of Ottawa Paper

TORONTO (CP) — An official of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission Friday said a report that the commission is planning a $60,000,000 power development on the Madawaska River in Eastern Ontario is "pure speculation."

He said he did not know where the report, published in Ottawa, could have originated.

"There is definitely nothing in the offing in that region," he said. The Ottawa Journal said four power projects were planned and the sites under study near Arnprior, about 45 miles west of Ottawa, are Claybank, Mountain Chute, Colton and Highland Falls.

"We have been surveying these areas for 10 or 12 years," the official said. "But there are no immediate plans for the area."

MORE DENIALS

A statement in the same story that the commission was considering re-development of the Chaudiere Falls on the Ottawa River near Ottawa was also denied.

"The Chaudiere generating plant is owned jointly by the Gatineau Power Company and the Ottawa Hydro-Electric Power Commission. Ontario Hydro has nothing to do with it and no plans," the Ontario Hydro spokesman said.

He said also that a Journal report that the Hawthorne transformer station near Ottawa will be in operation next month was not true.

He said it was not expected to be completed until the end of 1960 and said it was to cost about $3,000,000, not $20,000,000, the price named in The Journal.

May Restore Minimum Price Levels on Milk

TORONTO (CP) — Agriculture Minister Goodfellow said Friday his department may restore minimum price levels on milk as a result of "loss leader" sales by small stores.

He said cut prices "are giving us some concern and representations have been made by the industry to set minimums."

"Milk is too essential a product to be used as a loss leader", he said.

U.S. ATTEMPT TO PUT BALLOON IN ORBIT FAILS

Country's Busiest Day of Rocketry

CAPE CANAVERAL Fla. (AP) The United States Friday had its busiest day of rocketry since it began reaching for space. But the main effort failed — an attempt to send a 12-foot inflatable balloon into orbit.

The Juno II rocket roared spaceward from Cape Canaveral bearing the unusual balloon-moon. Its three stages ignited successfully, but the last one apparently went in the wrong direction and carried the satellite back into the earth's atmosphere.

Another failure was a giant Titan ICBM missile that blew up on its launching pad at he Cape earlier in the day.

On the plus side was a successful launching of a Polaris missile from a machine that simulates the motion of a submarine at sea. The weapon is designed to be fired from a sub anywhere in the world.

RAF EFFORT

At Vandenberg Air Force Base in California a Royal Air Force training crew successfully launched a 1,500-mile thor missile, the kind being set up at bases in England.

Another Thor was launched at Cape Canaveral. It carried a movie camera to photograph the earth from an altitude of 300 miles. But the capsule carrying the camera was not found.

In the newest state—Hawaii—U.S. Air Force planes equipped with dangling trapeze devices tried to snare a capsule returning to earth from the satellite Discoverer V, which was fired into orbit Thursday from the west coast base. They failed to get any sight of the capsule.

Surface vessels also combed the sea north of the Hawaiian Islands looking for the floating capsule, but the defence department said there was little hope they would find it. The device's signal equipment apparently failed to work.

The balloon-moon was designed to show just how much drag the super-thin atmosphere up to an altitude of 1,000 miles or so would have on such a large, light object.

If all had gone well, the last stage of the Juno would have kicked free the aluminum - foil package and a nitrogen bottle would have blown it up to its 12-foot inflated size.

This moon would have been the first launched by the U.S. visible to the naked eye.

Two Kitchener Youths Sought

MOUNT FOREST (CP)—A police search was on today for two Kitchener youths who overpowered two provincial policemen escorting them to jail, stole their revolvers and fled in the police cruiser.

The cruiser was later found wrecked and abandoned in a ditch on Highway 6 near Durham, 30 miles south of Owen Sound.

The youths appeared in court here Friday on a charge of breaking and entering and were remanded to jail in Owen Sound. They were reported to have slugged Constable Fred Fowler and Don Glass during the trip Friday night.

Police believed the youths may have stolen another car after wrecking the cruiser. Roadblocks were set up in the area.

Castro Denounces Dominican Head As Boss Plotter

Criticizes Americans Says Conference 'Farce'

By HAROLD K. MILKS

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro Friday night denounced the Trujillo dictatorship as the mastermind behind Caribbean tensions and accused American officials of aiding conspirators against Cuba's revolutionary regime.

The bearded premier was in an alternating angry and laughing mood as he appeared before a television audience to tell how a counter - revolutionary plot was crushed.

Castro denounced the Dominican Republic strongman, Generalissimo Rafael L. Trujillo as "the financial boss of all those who are plotting against us."

He also sharply criticized the United States, charging that Cuban war criminals who had taken refuge there were permitted to do as they like.

He declared that planes based in Miami have made repeated flights to Cuba, dropping anti-government leaflets and picking up war criminals.

CALLS TALKS A FARCE

The revolutionary chieftain called the inter-American foreign ministers conference, being held in Santiago, Chile, to deal with the Caribbean crisis, a "farce."

He ridiculed a program put before the conference by U.S. State Secretary Christian Herter for easing tensions.

Castro said Herter talks about "expeditions that come and go" instead of talking about Latin America's economic problems—"about the hunger of babies in our countries."

In denouncing the Dominican Republic dictator, the Cuban leader told how an American, working as an undercover agent for him, lured Trujillo into thinking he was one of the anti-Castro conspirators and helped break the plot against his regime.

William Morgan of Toledo, Ohio, a major in the Cuban Army, sat grinning in the TV audience as Castro explained how he had convinced Trujillo that he was an "adventurer who would to anything for money."

Castro described how Morgan brought a boatload of arms from the Dominican Republic and "lots of money too." The American was reported previously to have turned on the conspirators when the boat reached Cuban waters.

"If we could have kept our plans against the conspirators secret for another 15 days we could have captured not only all the war criminals but Trujillo and his army as well," Castro said.

Later, Morgan said in an interview that Trujillo offered him $1,000,000 to sell out the Castro regime. He declared he actually received between $200,000 and $300,000 from Trujillo and said he turned the money over to the Castro government.

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Ronald Smith, 24, stationed with the Royal Canadian Navy in Parrsboro, N.S., broke his neck Friday night when he dived 35 feet off a bridge into the Otonabee River here. He was transferred to Sunnybrook Hospital in Toronto, and his condition was described as serious.

Princess Anne, in Many Ways Remarkable Child, Has Birthday

LONDON (AP)—Princess Anne, youngest member of the Royal Family, is nine years old today.

With the Queen expecting a third child early next year, this was Anne's last birthday as the baby of the Royal Family.

The change of status is bound to make a difference to this lively, imaginative child. She will see even less of her busy mother than she does now.

If the new baby is a girl, Anne's position in line of succession will not be affected. But if the baby is a boy, he will precede her.

She now is second in line, immediately behind 10 - year - old Prince Charles and just ahead of Princess Margaret.

Acquaintances of the Queen say that Anne and her brother are keenly aware of their position.

Charles knows that one day he will be king, and Anne knows she is next in line. Both have been told by their mother that a baby brother or baby sister is on the way.

Anne is, in many ways, a remarkable child:

She is vivacious, mercurial and interested in nearly everything that goes on around her. She has shown an unusual aptitude in learning French, can draw and paint well and has a sure musical ear. She is easily distracted.

Like Princess Margaret, Anne is a mimic and can impersonate certain mannerisms of her teacher, her governess and several palace officials. She is impish, too.

Until this birthday, her schooling has been private and in a classroom at the palace. Persons who know the Royal Family say Anne is begging to be allowed to go to a day school and that the Queen and Prince Philip probably will give in.

Woman Shopper Finds $1,000 In Grocery Bag

PORT HOPE (CP) — Mrs. T. W. Lawson of Port Hope knew supermarkets were engaging in gimmicks to win customers' favor, but this was ridiculous . . .

She was emptying four bags of groceries after a visit to a supermarket Thursday night. When she pulled out a bag which she thought contained oranges she found more than $1,000 in rolled bills and negotiable endorsed cheques.

Mrs. Lawson returned the money to the store, where employees were hunting high and low for the missing cash.

Judge Refuses Testimony of Last Witness

TORONTO (CP) — Judge Joseph Sweet, serving as a one-man commission inquiring into York Township affairs, halted testimony of one of the hearing's last witnesses Friday because of "slander by inference" in her statements.

The judge, who adjourned the hearing until August 24 to allow 10 days for counsel to prepare arguments, told Mrs. Pauline Shapero after 3½ hours of testimony he would not hear any more evidence from her.

Mrs. Shapero was the township real estate agent who sparked the inquiry last May with her charges against the township council.

He said he could not tolerate the inclusion of "slander by influence" in her statements and asked commission counsel T. Kelso Creighton to examine any further statements Mrs. Shapero might make.

MUST NOT MALIGN

If these statements were useful and didn't malign anybody who was not immediately in a position to reply to them, Judge Sweet said, he would accept them.

After consultation with Mrs. Shapero, Mr. Creighton said:

"She has herself told us she thinks it would be better for her not to make any further statements."

Earlier Mrs. Shapero testified she knew of many people who wanted to volunteer information and had not been given the opportunity.

When she said she thought the commission counsel, T. Kelso Creighton, should have investigated deals of other land transactions, Judge Sweet became irritated.

DEFENDS COUNSEL

"There can be no criticism made," he said, "which I think is justified, of the work of the commission counsel in presenting evidence here."

"I am only trying to alert the commission," said Mrs. Shapero.

"You should have alerted the commission counsel before," the judge replied.

Children's Epic by Toronto Men Shown at Festival

TORONTO (CP)— A 15-minute children's epic starring a white rat and his rodent cousin, a hamster, was one of Canada's three contributions to the recent Moscow film festival.

The Riverbank, produced by two Toronto men in their spare time, mainly in a garage, was done on a shoestring budget. It is an adaptation of a children's book, Wind in the Willows, in which the central characters are a mole and a water rat.

It shared Canada's billing at the Moscow festival with two 20-minute productions by the National Film Board, The High Arctic and The Fisherman.

Dave Ellison, 31, and Paul Sutherland, 28, explained that Riverband is the pilot film of a series they are doing for the British Broadcasting Corporation. In the film the hamster and the rat ride around in a toy boat, go on a picnic and generally scamper around the home-made set with a turtle and a frog.

Mr. Ellison and Mr. Sutherland spent their spare time for six months on the film, in the garage-studio and "on location" in fields. The filming was done by Bob Crone, a CBC camera man.

16 Foot Outboard Has Covered 7,000 Miles

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Sue Too II, red and white 16-foot outboard boat owned by an American family, Friday sailed into the Trent Canal system bound for its home town of Camdenton, Miss.

The boat has already covered 7,000 miles by lake, river, canal and ocean. It nosed into the Missouri River June 6 at Yankton, S.D., with Todd Crawford, his wife and their 15-year-old daughter Sue, after whom the boat is named.

The three followed the Mississippi into the Gulf of Mexico and along the coast of Florida, using a canal to cross to the Atlantic.

Then they travelled north by inland waters and ran into heavy canal and river traffic in New Jersey and New York States. They sailed the Hudson River to Lake Champlain and the Richelieu River to Montreal, then up the St. Lawrence and Ottawa rivers to Ottawa. From there they headed through the Rideau Canal to Kingston and up Lake Ontario to Trenton where they entered the Trent River.

The Crawfords claim their 8,500-mile journey is the longest continuous trip undertaken by an outboard boat.

Their journey home will take them through Georgian Bay to Chicago and the Illinois River.

Trenton News

Break Fixed, Water Users Happy Again

TRENTON — Remarks which officials of the Trenton Public Utilities have been getting from members of the public living on the east side of town have not been complimentary during the last few days. Complaints that the water tasted horrible, and that it smelt of slime were received from many.

However, the Public Utilities assured these water consumers yesterday that from now on there should be no trouble with the supply. It seems that the east side water drinkers were being supplied with filtration plant water, as the main taking the water supply to the East side of the river was broken several weeks ago by the Lightfoot Construction Company during sewer installation operations. The break has now been repaired, and water users will be happy once more.

He was released by the farmer when the latter came home.

Mr. Prevost said he went to the county magistrate to lay a charge but was stumped when asked who he would name as his assailant.

"There were so many of them" he said.

Medical Mirror

Medical Mirror, a new and different series of health advertisements designed to provide important health information, is announced by Lattimer's Drug Store.

Produced for weekly publication in newspapers under local sponsorship, Medical Mirror is written by Science Editors. Science Editors are headed by Mr. Francis T. Roberts, Ph.G., and associated with him as consultants are Dean Earl P. Slone, University of Kentucky College of Pharmacy; John D. Ralston, M.D., of Indianapolis, Indiana who now limits his practice to psychiatry and Dr. Harold C. Morris, M.S., M.D., actively engaged in the practice of medicine.

Medical material prepared for lay readers enjoys excellent readership—greater than sports as reported by the Indiana Medical Journal. Far from encouraging the self diagnosis and medication of which some of these columns are accused, Lattimer's feels that Medical Mirror satisfies the public appetite for health information while constantly emphasizing the professionally well known fact that diagnosis and treatment of disease requires the skill and knowledge which only a physician can apply personally.

Although readers are invited to write the Science Editors, their letters will influence future subject material only and will not be answered. Professional people will receive detailed replies to their requests for further information.

According to Lattimer's, Medical Mirror performs a public service by sending people to doctors with a consequent improvement in the public health. — (Advt.)

Baby's Warning Meant Life for Her Brother

SEATTLE (AP) — The faltering words of 2½-year-old Christina Moreland, "Mommie, Bradley's in the water"—meant life for her 3½-year-old brother Friday.

It also meant a fast dash, some rope-swinging and a cold, wet moment of anxiety for Mrs. Gloria Moreland, 29, of Miamisburg, Ohio, who is vacationing at the farm home of her parents near suburban Bothell.

"My first reaction was that he had somehow gotten into the bathub," Mrs. Moreland said.

"He wasn't there. Then I thought about the well. I ran out. I looked down. There he was."

Mrs. Moreland grasped a ragged rope used to lift the well bucket and slid down into the dark, 40-foot well. She suffered rope burns on her hands. There was six feet of water in the well.

"I grabbed hold of Bradley. He'd simply been floating on the top of the water. He hadn't even swallowed any, and he must have been there for several minutes before I reached him."

Mrs. Moreland, who can just barely swim, braced her feet and shoulders against the sides of the well while holding Bradley and held that position for some 10 minutes until volunteer firemen arrived.

Smallwood Will Not Repeal Labor Laws

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland said Friday night his Liberal government would rather lose the Aug. 20 provincial election than repeal controversial labor laws passed at the height of last winter's loggers' strike.

He criticized Progressive Conservative Opposition Leader Malcolm Hollett for promising the Newfoundland Federation of Labor to repeal the laws if his party was elected.

One of the labor laws decertified two IWA locals of the international Woodworkers of America (CLC). One of the locals was striking against the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Company at the time.

In an effort to overcome the labor laws the Newfoundland Federation of Labor formed a political party — the Newfoundland Democratic party — which has the blessings of the Canadian Labor Congress.

Jury Blames Dead Driver For Accident

CAYUGA, Ont. (CP)—A coroner's jury decided Friday that Gilbert Thomas, 43, of Ohsweken was solely to blame for the July 27 car-truck crash on a foggy hill about 10 miles north of here in which he and two of his passengers were killed.

The other victims were Mrs. Joseph Clause, 43, and her six-year-old daughter, Rhonda. Mr. Clause, 47, remains in a coma in a Hamilton hospital.

The accident occurred when Thomas tried to pass a truck and crashed head-on into another truck driven by Peter Kushner of Hamilton.

Mr. Kushner told the jury that he estimated the speed of the Thomas car at 85 miles an hour.

The girl had been playing on a small dock in front of the cottage where the family is staying when she fell in. Dr. R. Lee ' Timagami used the resuscitater. The girl was reported in good condition in hospital in Haileybury, a few miles north of this town about 75 miles north of North Bay.

Bishop Condemns Reunion of Cyprus, Greece

NICOSIA (Reuters) — Archbishop Makarios, primate of the Cypriot Orthodox Church and political leader of Greek Cypriots, today condemned the revival of a campaign for Enosis political union of Cyprus and Greece.

Speaking to a large crowd at a monastery in southwest Cyprus, Makarios attacked the authors of anonymous leaflets who supoprt Enosis "by force if need be."

A few miles away, one of Makaris' bishops delivered a sermon calling for Enosis and criticizing "pseudo politicians" now in charge of Greek affairs.

Bishop Kyprianos of Kyrenia predicted the time will come when "Greece will be guided by great politicians like Gen. George Grivas," leader of the underground terrorist movement EOKA during the four-year Greek-Cypriot campaign against the British.

Grivas, now in Greece, has labelled a Greek-Turkish-British agreement to make this colony an independent republic by next February a sell-out. Makarios supports the settlement.

Strength Only Thing Russia Can Understand

CHICAGO (AP) — A position of strength offers the greatest hope for reaching agreements with the Soviet Union, says Vice-President Richard Nixon.

Strength is the only thing the Russian leaders understand", Nixon said. "I mean military strength. When one side has more strength than the other, you get what could lead to war".

He said his recent tour of Russia and Poland has convinced him the only hope for progress toward world peace is for the United States to deal from a position of strength at any future summit conference.

Young Man Held Responsible for Death of Boy

CHANDLER, Que. (CP) — Camille Lantin, 22, Friday night was held criminally responsible for the death of Arthur Grenier, 14, whose body was found last Monday under a brush pile at nearby Pabos Mills.

Dr. Gustave Desrochers, Quebec City medico-legal expert, testified the youngster was strangled with one of his leather shoelaces.

The jury at a coroner's inquest heard eight witnesses and the autopsy report.

Lantin, also of Pabos Mills, was returned to jail until arraignment, set for today. He previously had been held as a material witness.

Testimony at the inquest was that Lantin and the dead boy quarreled last Saturday night near a Pabos Mills restaurant and that after a scuffle Lantin carried the boy into nearby woods. The boy was missing until his body was found Monday.

The autopsy report said Grenier was hit on the head with a rock or other hard object before being strangled. The shoelace was wound twice around the neck and knotted five times at the nape.

A man looking for driftwood discovered the body close to the Grenier home on the Baie des Chaleurs, 350 miles northeast of Quebec City.

Senator Says Fly-Flag Plan Is "Sickening"

WASHINGTON (AP) — Any plan to fly Russian and American flags side by side during Soviet Premier Khrushchev's visit is not only distasteful, but sickening, says Republican Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire.

Bridges has strongly opposed the exchange of visits between Khrushchev and President Eisenhower. He reacted with outrage Friday to news stories pointing out it is customary to line the capital's streets with flags of foreign dignitaries during state visits.

Bridges said he telephoned the protocol office of the state department "to voice my violent opposition to such a proposal."

"I was assured, however, that no such order has been given and that no decision has been reached as yet regarding the extent of the display of the Russian hammer and sickle," he added in a statement.

Bridges said, "I intend to continue objecting strenuously to any plan which would extend more than the minimum of procotol to the Soviet premier during his visit here."

The senator called Khrushchev "a man who personifies tyranny and is sworn to destroy our country."

Belleville in Brilliant Biography

Belleville is mentioned quite frequently in that thrilling Canadian classic, "The Old Chieftain" by Donald Creighton, which seems to warrant a second reading. One such reference reads:

"Undoubtedly the climax of the Conservative efforts came at Belleville. There were supposed to have been nearly 15,000 people there on September 15 (1876). The vast crowd—larger than any that Belleville had seen since the Prince of Wales's visit over 15 years before—had been at the fair grounds that afternoon. Macdonald was elated . . ."

This was just as Sir John, ousted, was picking up popularity again by means of a series of picnics throughout Ontario. Mr. Creighton's prose, surely as fine as any yet written by a Canadian, perhaps reaches its zenith in his description of Sir Hugh Allan, of Montreal, whose business ineptitude was exposed by an American named McMullen.

"Macdonald was appalled. All his worst fears about Allan were now confirmed. Allan had committed errors—and something worse than errors—on a positively gigantic scale. It was as if the very grandoise magnitude of the Pacific enterprise had exaggerated every one of his defects and failings, had blown him and his vices into a size larger than life, had transformed a sober, inhibited Scottish merchant into a Roman emperor, free of restraint and drunk with power. Ambition, vanity, cunning and incredible indiscretion were all exhibited without reserve in the letters McMullen held firmly in his grasp." (Allan's splendid mansion, "Ravenscrag," high on the Montreal mountain, still stands, converted into a hospital.)

Mr. Creighton's brilliant biography tells of the long and complex struggle to integrate Canada from coast to coast. The dominating fact is Macdonald's prodigious efforts, despite almost every conceivable setback, international, national and domestic, right in his own home.

As he expressed himself before a hushed House and packed galleries at the height of a crisis:

"I leave it to this House with every confidence. I am equal to either fortune. I can see past the decision of this House, either for or against me; but whether it be for or against me, I know—and it is no vain boast for me to say so, for even my enemies will admit that I am no boaster—that there does not exist in this country a man who has given more of his time, more of his heart, more of his wealth, or more of his intellect and power, such as they may be, for the good of this Dominion of Canada."

French-Canadian Hospitality

Ninety-eight students of English from Quebec, just finished the 16th season of the Queen's University Summer School of English, have returned home with certificates for passing difficult written and oral examinations.

"The strained feelings are growing less in Canada every year," said Dr. J. A. Gorry, vice-principal of Queen's, "and certainly one reason for it is that more and more members of English and French-speaking Canadians are meeting here as you do."

Speaking on behalf of her fellow students, Miss Martha Galipeau of Montreal, the school's president, thanked the staff for "five weeks of wonderful learning, in which we have learned to love this language, which opens a broad window for us . . . ."

What about Ontario students going to Quebec to learn their language? Do they go? They do. The most eminent example is the University of Western Ontario French Summer School at Trois Pistoles, Que., now in its 27th season and this time with a provincial premier enrolled as a student.

Premier Hugh John Flemming and Mrs. Flemming of New Brunswick, which is now approximately 50 per cent French-speaking, are billeted with a French-Canadian family as are all the other students.

The students live and dine in individual homes. If a student wants more butter or bacon, he must ask in French or go without. If he wants to take Marie to the movies, there is only one way to ask.

For many students in Quebec for the first time, this is not funny at all. They point and gesticulate and reach for a dictionary. Classes are held in the mornings. Afternoons are usually spent on bathing or fishing excursions, sometimes with a guide who does not know one word of English, or on picnics with Suzanne or Madeleine, ever willing to go.

Quebecers are most patient and helpful with the beginner. And his ear is exposed to the verve and zing of the beautiful French language, which is cleaner and purer around Trois Pistoles than that generally heard in the cities.

The idea was conceived and the school founded by Dr. W. Sherwood Fox, former president of the University. Dr. H. E. Jenkin, director, was apprehensive at first. "When we proposed sending a group of students to rural Quebec, students whose entire culture differed radically from that of their compatriots, some people were skeptical. Would they get on? Would there be trouble?

But nothing happened. We had no trouble. Local organizations helped in various ways. We have had 26 fruitful and happy summers. Students have increased from 26 to 125. And French-Canadian hospitality has solved every difference."

Deseronto Days 1919-1932

Written expressly for The Ontario Intelligencer by HARRY M. MOORE

(Article 24)

When Mr. Eli Houle sold his grocery business, preparatory to moving to Rochester, N.Y., he left a "political" job that must be filled. Mr. Houle had been clerk of the Seventh Division Court of the County of Hastings for several years. Since the Conservatives were in power in Toronto at that time, it must necessarily follow that Mr. Houle's successor would be a party follower. However no Tory businessman could be found who would take the job, it being the general opinion that such work must create enemies.

Anyway the job was "peddled" all over town, while the business of the court was piling up, and then in desperation, even though we were not known as a party man, we were asked to take on the work, which we were to do. We will say that in no way did division court work effect business one way or the other.

We were not "sworn in" as we expected. The records of the court were delivered to us and a few days later Inspector Locke arrived from Toronto to instruct us in the duties required.

In accepting the office of clerk we were to become the "boss" of Bailiff T. A. Wilkins, a short, unsmiling man who had been coupling the duties of bailiff with that of village or town constable, for after all there was not sufficient pay in division court or police work alone to make either job worth while.

Alex. Wilkins, or "Old Alec" as he was called, was a man who placed duty before all else. He was a man of few words. He was always on the job. Every weekday morning at ten he called for his orders for the day, to report on papers served the day before. As we say he was a man of few words but in the last analysis there was a lot of the man about him as we shall show in the following story which has never been told until now:

A Toronto young man of good family had moved his wife and two small children to Deseronto where he would be employed in local industry. His wife, an excellent musician, was in time to "take" the church organ as a means to give the regular organist a holiday. This much as a newspaper man we were to know. What we did not know was that the young man soon lost his job, had left his young family in town the while he was in Montreal looking for work. That prior to this he had been sued for a $90 grocery bill, judgment for the full amount, plus costs, had been signed against him.

As we say, this was all news to us until one day the plaintiff in the case strode into our office and demanded that we promptly issue a writ to seize and to sell the absent man's household effects. Of course we tried to dissuade him against any such action, after all such a young couple would not likely own, or have, more than the bare necessities for housekeeping. But he was adamant. He said he didn't come to our office for advice, but for action.

Most reluctantly we made out the writ, after accepting the costs of course, and when Bailiff Wilkins dropped in the following morning we gave him his instructions, advising him that above else he must not seize everything. Rather curtly we thought he cut us off by saying he knew all about that.

We were at work at our desk when the bailiff returned some time later, but instead of making a report on what he had been asked to do some time before, he picked up a chair, placed it close to ours and sat down, something he was never known to do. Naturally we were amazed.

"What were the total costs of this writ?" he asked. We told him. There were his fees and ours, a considerable amount of money.

"Would you give that money to me to buy food for starving children?" he asked.

"Did you make that seizure?" we demanded, and he said "No, I did not and neither would you."

He explained that he had quietly approached the house, the door was partly open, he heard children crying, crying for food; he heard the worried mother tell them that she expected a letter from "daddy" on the noon mail and then there would be lots of food for everyone.

"I glimpsed into the room," Bailiff Alec went on, "there wasn't food enough on that table to feed a mouse."

"Did you explain your object in being there?"

"I didn't — I just asked the names of the new family which had moved in next door."

We gave Bailiff Wilkins the total "costs in the case". A couple of days later the plaintiff called to ask the date of the sale of the plaintiff's effects, and we told him there was nothing above the family's requirements to seize. He "bawled" us out, but we didn't mind. Some time later he sold his business and left town.

Time passed. Bailiff Wilkins out of his own pocket, with a little help now and then from ours, kept that little family alive. At no time was there one word of complaint from him. In the absence of a town relief committee he had decded to be one, and he appeared to like it. We have no way of knowing the extent of the bailiff's beneficence but it must have been considerable.

Now we would prefer to end this story on a happy note: to recall that the young man in question returned to town, squared up with the court and the bailiff, but that was not so. At least we cannot recall such a thing. What we do know is that the family was moved to Montreal in time and that was the last we were to hear of them.

In time we sold our business, resigned from the court, and it was some years before we were in Deseronto again. And we were to meet the bailiff on the street, but he wasn't the bailiff any more. There were tears in his eyes when we parted. We were never to meet again. And yet we know we always remember him as one worth remembering, as a man well worth knowing for his amazing kindness of heart and hand to those in dire need. Truly, one man who never let one hand know what the other was doing.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

KEEP CREATING

Among the happiest people of this earth are those who keep creating something. It doesn't matter much what that creating does to us, or to those who get their joy anl happiness out of creating. The main idea is to create something useful. We must try to tune ourselves into thinking constructively. Do this, and we can almost feel enrichment and growth!

Lafcadio Hearn was always trying to surpass his own high talents in writing, so that there is beauty to what he wrote, and over a large field of literature. Interesting people are usually creators, for they are often in tune with the Infinite. Keep creating people who do never complain over what to do.

How much we owe to those like Edison, the Wrights, and Henry Ford, for having conquered so much for our health and enjoyment. They were creators. They had vision. They knew the spiritual enlargement possible to anyone with ideas, and the courage to put them to the use of the people.

Keep creating and you may earn a place among the immortals! But waste no time about it. Life is so short. Love your friends and say the kind word while yet they live, also forgive. We undervalue the love of those who stay by us all through life. Take it all in all this is a good world — better than any to be discovered in the sky! Keep creating and you may want many of the things that now do not engage your interest.

We must create a desire within us if we woud climb mountains!

THE BEDTIME STORY TELLER

By EDGAR A. GUEST

I would not be an actor great
Nor orator of fame;
I do not wish that men should cheer
At mention of my name.
A public entertainer I
Have no fond wish to be,
But I would tell my stories
To the children on my knee.

I crave no audiences vast
Nor wish for their applause;
The entertaining that I do
Is for a sweeter cause.
Just bedtime stories, simply told,
Are good enough to me
If I've my little audience
Enthroned upon my knee.

Legion Given More Respect

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

During the past few days a distinctive group of men and women has been meeting in the Twin Cities.

It comprised almost 1,000 delegates of Canadian Legion branches in Ontario taking part in the 21st biennial convention of the Ontario command. Between Saturday and Thursday they met regularly to discuss matters of vital importance to war veterans and to the larger comunity as well.

Their presence here was obvious to anyone with an observant eye. Sometimes attired in blazer with Legion crest, they were seen when not in session in local stores and restaurants or visiting places of interest.

The male delegates included veterans of the First World War as well as the Second World War and Korean War. All had once been vigorous, high-spirited Canadian servicemen who gained something of a reputation for exuberance as well as the highest fighting qualities.

But, as seen in the Twin-Cities, recently, these men have become solid, responsible citizens of a high average intelligence. There was little to suggest the high-spirited youths who marched off to the wars, or the legendary Legion veteran on a spree. Instead there was a more or less average Canadian with a higher-than-average Canadian with a higher-than-average concern for his country.

During the week the convention passed many motions embodying Legion views on important topics of all kinds, and voiced opposition or support on controversial issues. The members heard dignified and sometimes illuminating addresses from men of weight in Canadian affairs.

The practical result of their endeavors will be evident in government action and in Legion activities. The less tangible result, so far as the Twin Cities is concerned, will be a greater respect for all Legion members everywhere.

THE LORD LOVES THEM

How seriously do you and I take our religion?

A minister was telling recently about the extreme seriousness of a certain congregation concerning human need. Many churches in recent years have made themselves responsible for a few refugee families. His church made itself responsible for fifty refugee families although the membership of the church was only of medium size. The minister had no income other than his modest salary, yet he and his wife went generously into their pocketbooks and contributed to help people come to this country from stricken areas across the sea.

You can usually tell the value a person puts on his religion by observing how much he is willing to sacrifice — especially to sacrifice financially. If his faith costs him something in money then he really has faith. It is very easy to talk about loving the Lord and loving our neighbors as ourselves, but it is something vastly different to put such beliefs into operation. Yet there are churches, usually made up of people of modest means, which would put some of the largest congregations to shame by their sacrificial gifts. They will let their own equipment go unrepaired and unpainted in order to send money to the poor in their own country and the broken and pursued living at the ends of the earth.

Here one sees Christian belief being put to work. People who are willing to make such sacrifices are Christian in the best sense of the term. Keep your eye on them. The Lord loves them.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

DIFFERENT TYPES OF INSULIN USED TO TREAT DIABETES

There are a couple of million diabetes patients in the United States, and a lot more whose condition hasn't yet been discovered but will be.

That's a lot of people to be affected by a single disease, and that is why I think the disease is worth further discussion. Diabetes patients, especially, may be interested in looking up yesterday's column explaining why tests for sugar in the urine do not necessarily run parallel to tests for blood sugar.

The blood sugar level reaches a certain amount — different for different people — and then sugar "spills" into the urine.

But sometimes another factor enters. The urine test may, for example, be taken in the morning and seem "high." Yet the real high level of sugar in the blood may have been present the night before, and be down in normal range by morning. Thus, for a more accurate reading, it is wise that the bladder be emptied, and then another sample taken for testing a short time later.

Likewise the type of insulin in use may make a difference. Protamine zinc insulin is a long-lasting type which has its greatest effect the morning following the morning on which it was injected. Its effect will be weakest, however, late in the day, around supper time.

NPH and globin insulin, on the other hand, have their greatest effect in the late afternoon, after having been taken in the morning. For individuals using these types, the urine test may be negative before supper, yet positive before breakfast, by which time the effect has worn off.

TAILORED COMBINATIONS

Insulin types vary. So do patients. So there are various types or combinations that can be "tailored" to the needs of the individual case. Some people require two doses daily; some may benefit by certain combinations.

For readers not at the moment interested in diabetes, I apologize for all this detail. But it may someday be useful to you, in relation to a relative, perhaps.

I might add that, because of some of varying factors, some doctors do not approve of patients taking their own tests. Doubtless there is a good point involved. However, I think it is a good thing for the patient to do this testing, and it helps keep the patient in line in following diet and other health rules.

And besides that, if the patient is doing his own testing, he has every reason to learn the ins and outs, and understand the whole problem better.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Can you give me any information on alcoholism? Is it hereditary? What can one do to overcome it? — Myrna."

It isn't hereditary — at all. It is usually (perhaps almost always) the result of someone discovering that the sedative effect, the dulling of the senses, makes him feel "good" because it relieves him of the tensions, shyness, nervousness, unsureness, guilt, worry, or whatever problem it is that makes it difficult to look life in the face.

The process, not necessarily easy, of looking life square in the face, is one of the first steps toward curing alcoholism. I strongly recommend Alcoholics Anonymous, as well as the fine alcoholism clinics which have been established in quite a few cities.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Around this time of year there comes an instant, a fleeting flash of insight for all of us, in which we realize that the turn of the year has come, that summer is closing, and that autumn is at the door. In June, we imagine the summer ahead of us is a long, long season that may, indeed, never end. In June, we have completely forgotten September. In July, the lovely impression of floating in time remains with us. It is for this, we say to ourselves, that the year is made. Even in the first week or two of August, the illusion of the continuance of summer lingers in our minds.

But without warning, and usually on a particularly fine August day, there comes this sudden melancholy instant of realization. It passes as instantly as it comes. It is like a flick of intimation. And we perceive for the first time since June, that we are on the downhill side of the year.

How quickly now the days and the few remaining weeks will tumble down the hill. It is as if we had received a warning and from now on we will be alert to the shortening days, the earlier nightfall, the gathering hale winds; we will be conscious of the heaviness of the foliage in the trees. The yellows and purples of goldenrod and wild aster will assert themselves to our eyes accustomed to the greens and blues of summer, and we will know it is time to wake up from the dream and get ready for the long reality that lies between September and nest May.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

NO PARTING THERE

We are going, we are going
  To a home beyond the skies,
Where the fields are robed in beauty,
  And the sunlight never dies;
Where the fount of life is flowing
  In the valley, green and fair,
We shall dwell in love together,
  There will be no parting there.

We are going, we are going,
  When the day of life is o'er,
To the pure and happy region
  Where our friends have gone before.
They are singing with the angels
  In that land so bright and fair;
We shall dwell with them forever,
  There will be no parting there.

Everyone who loves hymns must, at one time or another, have sung some of Fanny Crosby's songs.

America's beloved blind hymnist died in 1915 at the grad old age of 95 but the thousands of hymns which she wrote and left for us are still blessing the lives of countless men and women every year.

Thinking now of her wonderful life and her glorious songs, one wishes that she might have begun her hymn-writing much sooner than she did. She was 44 when, in 1864, her first hymn-poem was finished. It was the song, "No Parting There", which appears above and it was written at the suggestion of William Bradbury, the New York gospel song publisher, who later set her poem to music.

Miss Crosby had been writing bits of verse — and very creditable ones — for a good while before she and Mr. Bradbury met for the first time in New York, one day in 1860. When Mr. Bradbury asked whether she would like to try a religious song for him, she responded with delight and, in about three days, she produced the stanzas as they are given here.

A Lift For Living

Faith Bolsters Reaction To Unexpected Tragedy

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Jesus used some striking figures in advocating preparedness for the crises of life. For example, He used the symbol of lightning. He said, "As the lightning cometh forth from the east and is seen even unto the west, so shall be the coming of the Son of Man." Yes, life has its ligrtning changes.

Events may move along as regularly as the rising and the setting of the sun. Then suddenly clouds arise. The air becomes electric with tension. There is a flash, a crash. And a cherished plan, a home, a child lies stricken.

The first telephone call which came to my house one New Year's morning was from a home in which the clouds of sickness were clearing and a sunny future seemed assured. A wife was recovering her health, and together with her stalwart husband and year-old son was looking forward to a happy home. But the husband and father who went to sleep saying, "What a happy New Year this is to be!", never awoke. Life is like that.

Strokes like that do come, as unpredicthable as the lightning. An accident may come hurtling at us tomorrow, crippling our plans. Or a temptation may flash upon us and in a hot quick moment we shall have to make a decision. Would we be ready for such emergencies, ready as is the sailor who is trained to seize the tight rope when disaster strikes the ship?

Professor Peabody of Harvard was wont to say that the heroism of the moment, the doing of the noble and brave thing in the hour of crisis, is the result of long discipline. The sudden crisis reveals in a moment what we have been becoming through the months and years. As one has put it, "No man has more religion than he can command in an emergency."

BASIC DIFFERENCE

One of the basic differences between a truly religious man and nonreligious man is that the former faces his crises easily because he has prepared himself in advance, while the latter takes crises hard because he has been living too easily and thoughtlessly beforehand.

A transatlantic airliner recently lost part of its landing gear and circled for four hours in an effort to effect a safe landing at Idlewild. All who read about it must have been thrilled, as I was, by the calmness as well as the courage of the captain. In training for his task he had previewed the possibiities of such an emergency. He was prepared for the crisis.

And in addition to the figure of lightning, Jesus used the symbol of flood in preparing for life's crises. There do come floods in the stream of life. They do not come as swiftly as the flash of lightning. When the storm has subsided and the rain has ceased, then the flood begins to make itself felt. For floods are caused not merely by the rain which falls on our region but also by what falls on the lands which drain into ours.

So with life. So many lives drain into ours that we are involved in what happens to them. This is the truth which Ellen Glasgow in "Vein of Iron" made her heroine see as she beholds her whole family affected by her tragedy and exclaims: "That is the greatest injustice in life — we cannot suffer anything alone, not even in disgrace."

DELUGE OF TROUBLES

This interrelationship of lives explains in part why troubles so often seem to come in torrents. We say, "It never rains but it pours." Our difficulties do seem to come in a deluge, for back along the tributaries of our lives things have been happening too, and their results pour into ours.

And sometimes the crises of life come as a flood when all seems fair around us. Abbe Dimnet tells us that on the sunny Sunday afternoon in 1914 when the news reached Paris that an Austrian Archduke had been shot, most of the Frenchmen on the boulevards hardly gave it more than a passing thought, for their attention that day was on the running of the Grand Prix at the Longchamps race course. The killing of the duke was the bursting of a dam which released the pent-up hatreds which had been pouring into European hearts. Life is like that — a comparatively little thing lets loose the flood and a deluge is upon us.

When crises come as a flood, little petty providences are no adequate preparation. The pile laid up for a rainy day is not enough for a flood. When floods of trouble come we must look to our foundations of faith. Like the psalmist we can pray, "Lead me to the rock that is higher than I." And we can reach it.

When Harry Lauder, the famous Scottish singer and comedian, lost his son in World War I, he is reported to have said to a friend: "In a time like this a man can do one of three things; he can turn to drink, or to despair, or to God." Harry Lauder turned to God and transformed his tragedy into a spiritual triumph.

Plans to Film Life of Christ

NEW YORK — A recently organized movie company has announced plans to film a $30,000,000 motion picture of the life of Christ.

The picture would be the most expensive ever made and would have a cast of 50,000 and 150 principal roles, a spokesman for Parliament Pictures Corporation said.

The firm is headed by Lord Malcolm Douglas-Hamilton, president; William Free, board chairman, and David Stillman, a lawyer.

Lord Douglas-Hamilton, onetime Conservative Member of Parliament from Inverness-shire in Scotland, said he joined the picture-making enterprise because he was impressed with the script prepared by Novelist Elaine Rutledge.

Free, a former actor who said he was converted to Christianity by Evangelist Billy Graham said negotiations are under way for a producing team. He said the film would be made in California with simultaneous openings at Christmas time 1960 in New York, London, Paris, Rome, Madrid, Jerusalem and Hollywood.

The picture, entitled The Son of God, will go before the cameras in November, Free said. The actor playing the part of Christ, he said, will remain anonymous with no personal recognition in the credits or advertising. Only in this way, he said, can there be a realistic portrayal that will not offend the devout.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

RAIN

The rain came down in torrents. Only pure necessity drove people outdoors, but the birds carried on pretty much as usual.

Mr. and Mrs. Robn were particularly happy because the lawn fairly sprouted worms brought to the surface by the rain, and their second family for the season was at the stage when much, much food was consumed. There were five mouths to feed, each asking for about 30 worms a day.

Whenever the rain eased off enough so that other sounds were audible, Mr. Song Sparrow's voice rang out. His singing was so cheering that even the darkness of the day failed to depress us. His clear, sweet notes had been heard in May all day long, and every now and again throughout the night. Once his family had grown big enough to go off on their own we had expected him to stop — but no, he was still singing, and even in the ran. What a happy nature!

Complete darkness fell, and the rain continued. Surely there would be no bird voices now! But hark! That was the nighthawk! Flying insects were on the move, and rain or no rain the nighthawk must be after tnem, he must have his meal.

How is it that birds can feed their families, fly about, and even sing merrily in the pouring rain? We really need not be sorry for them, because they are properly equipped for this. All feathers are placed to the best advantage, overlapping one another like venetian blinds. As you will discover if you try to pull one apart, every little section of the feather or either side of the shaft is carefully hooked on to its neighbors. Rain cannot get in between.

Birds are thankful for the rain to supply them with food, drink, and bathing facilities. Rain not only brings up worms, it makes the seeds and the berries grow. Water from leaves, not to mention every little puddle left after the storm is over, is eagerly used for both drinking and bathing. You must often have seen our English sparrows taking a shower bath by moving the rain-filled branches, and then fluttering and re-arranging their well washed feathers. Indeed birds welcome rain.

CHURCH USES NYLON

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Roman Catholic Church's Congregation of the Rites has granted the Argentine diocese of San Isidoro permission to use nylon instead of traditional linen for church vestments and altar clothes. The action was requested because of the diocese's poverty.

Weddings

ROLLINS — POUNDER

A pretty double-ring wedding took place recently at the Kingdom Hall in Belleville, when Shirley Rene Pounder, R. R. 2, Stirling, Ont., only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pounder, was united in marriage to John Ross Rollins, Ivanhoe, Ont., son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Rollins.

The officiating minister was Mr. F. C. Wainwright of Toronto

The Kingdom Hall was tastefully decorated with large baskets of tall delphiniums mingled with orange and white double daisies on either side of a large fern, flanked by several potted green plants.

The traditional wedding music was rendered by Miss Leone Tracy, of London, Ontario, who played "A Dream," during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father was lovely in her three-quarter length gown of Chantilly lace over a tiered net underskirt featuring an apron like effect in front with the back falling in tiers of nylon net and having a peplum of Chantilly lace encrusted with iridescent sequins. The bateau neckline coming to a "V" shape in back was also encrusted with sequins. The sleeves were long lily-pointed over the wrists.

Her four tiered waist length veil was of fine tulle illusion with a crown-shaped headdress also of fine tulle illusion having tiny rosettes around the band with a seed pearl in the centre of each. She carried a cascade of red roses mingled with fern.

Miss Elaine Wickerson, of Belleville, attended the bride, gowned in a three-quarter length royal blue sheer crystalette dress caught up at the sides to the waistline and fastened with streamers of matching blue flowers with the tiered net underskirt showing through. A net stole was caught at the sides of the strapless pleated net and crystalette top. She wore a headband of white baby 'mums and carried a cascade of matching white 'mums. White shoes and gloves completed her ensemble.

Mr. George Alton, of Toronto, was groomsman, while Mr. Laverne Pounder, Cobourg, Ont., brother of the bride and Mr. Joe Rollins, Ivanhoe, Ont., brother of the bridegroom, acted as ushers.

The reception was held at the Kiwanis Centre in Belleville.

The bride's table was tastefully decorated with a two-tiered wedding cake on pedestals, having a dainty basket of red roses on top. Candelabra were on each side and little bouquets of flowers gave added color, while the bridal flowers completed the arrangement.

The bride's mother received the guests, wearing a dress of romance blue shantung, white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, wearing a medium blue sheer nylon tuck dress, white accessories, and corsage of pink carnations.

For the wedding trip to Algonquin Park and Ottawa, the bride chose as a going away costume, a shantung sheath dress in lovely pink having a scooped neckline and a printed nylon sheer overskirt pleated and open down the front and caught at the waistline with a large pink Shantung bow. White accessories and a corsage of white roses completed her attractive ensemble.

Some 125 guests were present from Niagara Falls, London, Toronto, Milford, Madoc, Tweed, Sulphide, Plainfield, Halloway, Ivanhoe, Queensboro, Deloro and Belleville.

Previous to her marriage a miscellaneous shower honoring the bride was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Sararas, Ivanhoe, and another at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Joy, R.R. 6, Belleville, where the bride received many lovely and useful gifts.

A presentation of a black wrought iron coffee table with a glass top and a blue wool blanket was made by the manager and staff of the York Trading Ltd. where the bride is employed. Also presented to the bridegroom by the Corbin Lock Co. was a tri-light floor lamp.

The happy couple will reside at 8 Valleyview Crescent, Belleville.

BEDFORD — MOON

A summer wedding was solemnized at St. Anne's Anglican Church, Toronto, by the Rev. Canon Patterson when Diane Mary Moon, daughter of Mrs. Winnifred Moon, Toronto, was united in marriage to John Edward Bedford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Beford, of Belleville, Ontario.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. John Moon, of London, Ontario. She wore a floor-length gown of white organza over taffeta designed with a bodice of imported French lace featuring a scalloped neckline adorned with seed pearls. The long sleeves ended in points over the wrists. The full skirt was worn over a large hooped crinoline and appliqued with lace medallions adorned with seed pearls and featuring a long bow at the back. A full crown of seed pearls and brilliants held her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion, and she carried a large cascade bouquet of red roses mingled with stephanotis.

Attending the bride were her sister, Miss Nancy Moon, maid of honor; Miss Christina Bennette of Ottawa, and Miss Beth Gonneau of Muskoka, as bridesmaids. All wore identical dresses of light blue organza over satin with balloon skirts and darker blue sashes enhanced with large bows at the back. Their light blue seed pearl trimmed headdresses held the short matching circular veils of tulle. They carried pink carnations.

Miss Beatrice Bedford, sister of the bridegroom, as junior bridesmaid wore a dress of pink nylon over taffeta, enhanced with a large bow at the back. Her headdress and gloves were white and she carried a cascade bouquet of white and blue-tinted carnations.

At the reception the bride's mother received the many guests wearing a gown of royal blue and navy with white accessories and corsage of pink and white feathered carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, gowned in dusky rose with white accessories, and corsage of pink and white feathered carnations.

For going away, the bride wore a two-piece printed cotton in shades of pink with a white hat of tiered tulle, white accessories and corsage of feathered pink and white carnations.

The happy couple are residing at 24 Seeley Drive, Downsview, Ontario.

The Grace of Gratitude

By Alma Mason

(Second in Series)

Is it not true that the average person is more given to grumbling than to gratitude? There seems to be a peculiar foundation for this attitude. The unusual and exceptional impress us more than the usual.

We proclaim loudly about an eclipse or a comet or the launching of a rocket. We pay scant attention to an exquisite sunset—yet both move in Nature's orbit. We are concerned about illness and trouble and the cure or aftermath of it, but the serene ways of life seldom elicit thanksgiving.

A wrong impresses us more than a favor; a trouble more than a joy. The nine days we have been well are accepted placidly. The tenth day of illness stands out vividly. The desires which are gratified are unimportant. The one wish unfulfilled becomes intense and momentous in our mental perspective.

Following this pattern, we are apt to accept small favors as our daily due without expressing our joy in them. In time — nothing merits our approval and the taste of ingratitude becomes sour and nauseating in the mouth of complacency.

Unfortunately—such an attitude does not rest with the individual. Lack of loving appreciation is passed on in soul destroying segments to our children and their children.

When a motorist stops to let us by it is so easy to wave our thanks. So doing will increase his capacity to exhibit greater courtesy. When a saleslady is patient and anxious to please, she needs our spoken appreciation to enable her to expose the next customer to patience and kindness.

However, we should not go about expecting honor and praise for every kind act we do. Loving deeds performed in God's name are chronicled in the ledger of heaven and should not be done to earn approbation of other human beings. In fact the one who gives and remains anonymous has a well rounded and true conception of Christlike kindness.

Gratitude is delicious food for the soul. It should be cultivated regularly as it is a happy healthy habit. Dr. C. E. Jefferson said: "Gratitude is a capacity and like all capacities it can be expanded; it is a faculty and like all faculties it can be trained; it is an instinct and like all instincts it can be developed; it is a plant and like all plants it can be cultivated; it is a gift and like all gifts it can be lost." May we add to Dr. Jefferson's wise words this comment—gratitude is a beneficial habit that can grow in beauty and magnitude by use but can be atrophied by disuse.

Robert Louis Stevenson gave us the first essential for the formation of the gratitude habit, "Keep your eyes open to your mercies. The man who forgets to be thankful has fallen asleep in life."

There must be keen perception and well grounded appreciation of the good and best in life before gratitude can become a stimulating and helpful companion to us. We must constantly absorb and practice a determination which keeps us alert to the intrinsic value of kindness received as well as an awareness of the need of performing kindnesses for others.

Far too many things are taken for granted by us. Services for which we pay in money seldom are accompanied by fervent thanks. The milkman, the postman, the clerk or salesman who faithfully serve us will serve us better when endowed with a warm smile or a word of thanks.

Perhaps it might do us all good at times to rub the lamp of memory until it shines with the exposure of unrequited and forgotten deeds that added so much to our happiness. It is certain we would be ashamed and sorry.

Let us recite each day upon arising these words from Psalm 100: 4, "Enter into His gates with thanksgiving and into His courts with praise; give thanks unto Him and bless His Name.

You'll never know the grateful smile
You gave me yesterday
Was worth its weight in yellow gold;
It whisked the blues away.

You'll never know just what you did
When you said "Thank you, dear."
The pent up tears wrapped in my heart
Soon washed away my fear.

I'm so glad you didn't hide your thanks
Where they can't glow and shine,
For gratitude is needed, dear,
By hungry hearts like mine.

Chinese Women Take Big Part in Running Country

PEIPING (Reuters) — From directing traffic to conducting business of state, women in China are taking an ever more important part in running their country.

But feminine frivolity seems to have been relegated to the background of their lives by the new-found equality with men which the last 10 years has brought them.

Women policemen and women taxi-drivers, many of them country girls still in their teens, are among the latest recruits to the female army of 7,500,000 working in industry, transport, communications and commerce in the cities.

A woman today sits in the second-highest office in the state, in a land where for centuries members of her sex were regarded as inferior and the practice of binding the feet of all girl babies ceased only about 50 years ago.

SYMBOLIC PROOFS

These indisputable proofs of women's new status in China are symbolic of an apparent determination to prove themselves as good, and better than, men in what used to be exclusively a man's world.

In this amibition, they are encouraged by the country's Communist rulers, fully alive to the importance of harnessing the energies of women workers to the labor force in an all-out drive to build up China's backward economy. But from outward appearances, women's new ecnomic importance and independence overshadow the age-old feminine arts of charming and winning the hearts of men.

Most Peiping women dress drably and uniformly, even in summer, although this year more seem to be wearing brightly-colored frocks and blouses in place of formless tunics and slacks.

Ribbons in their hair, usually worn in two long plaits or cut short, are one of their new concessions to femininity. Few use lipstick or other makeup.

CONCEPTION CHANGED

There is no official edict directing women to eschew vanities of dress and adornment. But the conception of the ideal Chinese woman has changed.

Madame Soong Ching-ling, the first woman to become vice-chairman of the Chinese People's Republic, second-highest officec of state, made this clear recently. The American-educated widow of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, the revolutionary leader who founded the first Chinese republic in 1911, wrote in an article:

"Fragile, slender and sentimental girls, whom the exploiting classes regard as pretty, are ugly, and degenrate to the working people."

Twin Sisters Make Success Of Small Cafe

FORT SMITH, N.W.T. (CP)— Where men had failed in this northern outpost, twin sisters Eveline and Jacqueline Bisson are succeeding.

They came to Fort Smith, 465 miles north of Edmonton, in 1957 to teach school. Soon afterwards they took over the management of a small cafe that had forced three previous male owners out of business. The girls, however, are making it pay.

"We knew the cafe was a risky proposition when we took charge," said Jacqueline, "but we made up our minds to make it or break it."

"The first year was hectic and many times we felt like throwing in the sponge. But the initiation is over, thank goodness, and the cafe is beginning to grow now.'

Born near Quebec City, the twins moved with their parents, seven sisters and three brothers into the Peace River district of northern Alberta 15 years ago.

TEMPERAMENTAL COOK

A short time after the twins opened the Buffalo Park Cafe, a temperamental cook became angered when a customer changed his order. He ripped off his apron and stalked from the kitchen. The girls did the cooking until they persuaded him to return.

The twins said roughnecks in the town attempted to make their life miserable but "we showed them who was boss, then everything was okay."

Their biggest difficulty is getting waitresses. Often they do the job themselves.

"People still think the North is a rooting - tooting - shooting land of wild Indians, saloons and man-eating wolves," said Eveline. "I think that's why there are so few waitresses up here."

Food supplies for the town come in by rail and air. During some months, the cafe ships in as much as 2,400 pounds of meat. The former school teachers go to a movie or a dance for entertainment, and never miss church.

"It's hard work and lots of worry, but at the moment we have no desire to return to teaching," said Jacqueline. "We like the challenge and we like the independence, even if we must work hard for it."

Women's Institute

CHATTERTON W.I.

The August meeting of the Chatterton W.I. was held at Sidney Baptist school house Thursday evening.

The meeting opened with the president, Mrs. C. Gardner in the chair.

Visitors were present from River Valley, Stirling and Pine Grove Institutes.

A short business meeting was held and the correspondence was read.

The 4H Club Girls gave a demonstration of their clothes closet accessories made during the project just completed "Clothes Closets Up-to-Date". They also recited a poem about their club work and were presented with coffee spoons for their work.

A lovely duet by Mrs. Douglas Prest and Greta Tuinman was enjoyed by all.

A letter, received by Mrs. Bert Finkle from the Minister of Agriculture, Mr. W. A. Goodfellow, was read by Mrs. Gardner. Mrs. Finkle was congratulated and thanked by the honorable Mr. Goodfellow for her many successful years of service and leadership to the club girls of her institute.

A sing-song led by Mrs. Tuinman, was enjoyed while the films were prepared for showing.

After the films, refreshments were served by the lunch committee in charge of Mrs. C. Gardner.

Going Places

Driving Bugaboos Loom High on Obstacle Course

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

At the moment, we feel as if we've just been over a test course for one of the big three auto makers.

From our first sight of Pike's Peak after the endless Kansas plains more than three weeks ago, to Las Vegas by way of San Francisco and Los Angeles, we have covered 4,000 miles of some of the roughest mountain and desert driving this continent has to throw at us.

There were the mesas and snow-spotted summits of western Colorado; the barren sands, weird monoliths and towers of the Utah desert; the brown hills of Nevada and northern California; the hair-raising hairpins of the coastal highway of California which we strongly suspect is travelled exclusively by misdirected tourists, and finally the deceptively steep grades of southeastern California and southern Nevada.

Offhand we'd say they ought to be able to keep their product on the market, but preferably with some modifications in cooling systems and brakes.

And drivers! We've been at this sort of thing for going on nine years and learned more in these three weeks than in most of the 465 before.

So you'll stand a chance of being superior to the distressed swear-we'll-never-do-this-again motorists we've been living among, here are some of the things we've learned that it may help to know:

Radiators don't seem to have kept pace with r.p.m.'s in the new high compression cars. This revivification of the aboriginal problem of automotive engineering, believed to have been licked long since, is further complicated by the growing popularity of automobile air conditioners.

Coolers are dandy for the 100-degree plus weather the Far West and South have to put up with for the next couple of months, but the units block the radiators in most installations, giving engine cooling systems an extra obstacle to overcome.

If you are installing an air conditioner other than the type built in by the factory, make sure you also install a radiator fan with extra blades, a low temperature thermostat and an extra high pressure radiator cap. These should cost no more than $20 extra. Not all dealers, especially in climes where automobile air conditioning is not yet so widespread as in warmer areas, realize the necessity for this.

Factory installed coolers already have this equipment plus other mechanical modifications, but even all that doesn't keep cars — air conditioned or otherwise, for that matter — from overheating under difficult conditions, most notably on grades and in stop and go traffic in hot weather.

Should your temperature indicator read "hot," the simplest remedy is to stop for a few minutes. In modern cars with pressure cooling systems it will go down rapidly and probably run more normally thereafter, at least until the next grade. Don't be alarmed if the gauge shows a warmer than normal running temperature in extreme heat, so long as it does not climb steadily and reach the boiling point.

Incidentally, whether the air conditioner is actually running makes no difference in the engine temperature. The fact of its being there under the hood is what matters, so turning it off when the car is running hot won't help.

Without a cooler, desert driving is best done at night and in the early morning.

Another age-old bugaboo of severe driving is tire failure. If you don't have nylon body tires (these almost never break), be sure to maintain the maximum allowable pressure. Your owner's manual probably recommends a specific pressure for high speed, hot weather travelling. Since tires expand under heat, it would seem to be a paradox that more instead of less pressure is needed, but we now know from experience that it works that way. We lost three tires on a similar trip three years ago by carrying only the normal pressure.

While brakes rarely fail these days, they do fade — lose some of their grabbing power — in extreme heat, and it's wise to be ready for this when you step on them.

Most newer automatic transmission cars have two driving ranges other than low. Using the lower of these in mountain driving provides better power going uphill and a braking effect going downhill.

If you are going from near sea level to mountainous country, or vice versa, you will undoubtedly note a loss of power in these foreign conditions. That's because your spark timing and carburetor are affected by atmospheric conditions. If you are only passing through, you might just as well leave them alone as you'll only have to go to the expense of resetting them when you get back to what is normal for you.

The hairpin turns of mountain driving are trying to even the most experienced drivers, but if you have power steering you're a lot better off. This device enables you to quickly and efficiently overcome most miscalculations in judging a curve.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Pauline S. I don't want to hear his side.

Gloria J. — She should take him back for the children's sake.

• • •

Pauline S. — To my utter shame and horror, my husband was recently named corespondent in a successful divorce proceeding. We have been married 12 years and have four children. I thought our married life was ideal.

As soon as I got wind of this thing, I packed everything and came home to my parents. My husband has tried to get in touch with me to give his "side of the story," but I am not interested. I want to think things out for myself. I realize I've been living in a fool's paradise and it makes me furious.

My husband has spoken to my sister and he says he still loves me and doesn't want to break up our home. She thinks I'm acting like a fool, but she doesn't know what it is to be hit by a thing like this.

• • •

Gloria J. — My brother-in-law says that this whole thing has been a nightmare to him. He doesn't know how he got into it and he wants to get out of it — in spite of the fact that the "other woman" is putting the pressure on him.

I feel that Jim really cares for my sister and the children and would behave himself from now on if she would take him back. He really isn't the roving kind. But this woman was a menace!

Pauline has loved Jim since the age of 16 and she has been an exceptionally devoted wife, so I know how it must be for her. She says she just doesn't feel that she ever wants to live with him again and I can understand that, but I do feel she should take him back for the children's sake.

• • •

The Council: We think it would be a mistake for Pauline to take Jim back "for the children's sake." In the long run her bitterness would seep through to infect the family life.

Far more important is the need of Pauline to come to terms with her own feelings and with the realities that face her in the future.

She has suffered the most painful kind of blow that can be dealt any feeling human being, yet she must recognize that much of the effectiveness of the blow was due to its unespectedness. In time Pauline will learn to accept the fact that for one reason or another her husband fell prey to temptation and she will have to deal with other realities — realities like loneliness, the difficultier of rearing children without a father, gnawing fears about the future.

In the future these last realities will loom much larger than the first one. At that time Pauline might well wish she had found it in her heart to make the effort to understand and perhaps forgive.

We're all for Pauline's taking the time to "think things out," but we don't think she can do it fully until she has given her husband at least a hearing. She does not have to hurry to make a decision about the future either. She should leave plenty of time for both her own feelings and her husband's to reach a levelling off point.

The final decision should not be based on the idea of making or not making a sacrifice for the children, but should involve a deep and thorough understanding of what happened in the past, and what can be done in the present to create a better future for everyone concerned.

Second Glance

By Viva Richmond Graham

"Spirit exists within the thing itself, as its very life."— Frank Lloyd Wright.

• •

At times, of course, the Rideau Canal's past is wholly cast aside by the insistence of the present. Over there is that little cove, a beautiful cruiser with its own TV antenna rides at anchor. Tied at this lock is a splendid sixty-five foot cruiser the epitome of all that is luxurious, nautically speaking, to most of us. Yet declares the corpulent owner, "We're selling it. It's too small. We need at least a seventy-five footer."

This morning, as we were leaving a small port, a young mother of four kiddies on a spacious house-boat sort of craft was industriously sweeping some scatter rugs on the wharf. She rested for a moment on the handle of her broom as she commented, looking so lithe and pretty in gay plaid pedal-pushers and a red bandana about her comely dark hair, "D'you know what? for my birthday, I'm going to ask my husband to take out all the broadloom carpeting and put in linoleum."

At a little village that borders the canal, the sole storekeeper confided, "Everybody's excited and helping to make crepe-paper flowers for the floats for the parade, next Sunday. It's the first time that we've ever had a centennial, you know!"

A farmer, living near a lock asked, "Would you mind waiting about half an hour before I get the ice for you? I have two cows to milk, first."

Some scenes link hands with either the past or present; the timeless, universal ones such as took place by a canal dock, where four little youngsters were fishing.

"I've no hook on my line-" stoutly pouted the littlest child, vexed indeed.

"But, you're a big boy now," pointed out his big sister, skillfully," and big boys need no hooks to catch a fish. They catch them without. Just you wait and see, Kenny."

As she spoke, the young father jumped out of a car parked close by. He was plainly annoyed. He had warned them against the danger of falling in the canal, by standing up. All were so doing now, in their excitement.

"Now — sit down!" he thundered in no uncertain terms. "Or: you'll get a spanking. Do you want a spanking? No? Well then sit down and watch your fishing lines. Say — you're a fine bunch of pals. How do you expect your kid brother to catch a fish without a hook on his line? Where's a worm son?" he queried the little fellow who answered with another, "I thought you use bait."

Finally Kenny was equipped with a regular hook, worm and line. He cast it in to the water, just like the others and waited. But not for long. Suddenly the line jigsted, then tugged away in his little fist, while the others cried out in envy and astonishment:

"Daddy, Daddy, Kenny's caught a fish!"

"Well, Kenny", ordered the amused father, "take it off the hook so you can show it to your mother in the car."

"I can't get it off". Kenny stood horrified at his wriggling possession while another brother stepped on the little jumpy fish as a possible- solution. But in vain. He jumped on it and this time landed on the hook — with screams.

"What's the matter with you?" the father shouted crosely in alarm. "D'yuh want to go to the hospital?"

He knelt down and freed the little fish and gave it to Kenny. Then together they all walked over to show "Mummy."

Now the Delric must leave the Rideau Waterway, but with reluctance. Delight lingers. Today it is sheer loveliness; the entire waterway is a cluster of azure dew drops fallen from an inverted delphinium petal that is the sky which shelters it, and memories of those once so alive and vital move in phantom fashion across the years and imagination. The enthusiastic Duke of Richmond pausing to gaze at the scenic site; the jovial, sunny tempered Colonel By passing along its construction on his famous black charger; his gracious wife, bravely waving good-bye to travelling guests who had breakfast at her pleasant home before going further on their journey; Indian canoes colorfully slicing the waterway; the ringing of the hammer and the chip, chip of the chisel against the quarry stone; the laughter and call, the songs and lusty shouts of the workmen. Fate the disposer has given the Rideau its atmosphere, its spirits and its form and the stone cut by the creativeness of man whether in despair or success can never go back to the quarry from whence it came. Here lies the poetry which is always inherent in that mysterious linking of the Past and Present— to become more and more poetical as Time's flight causes it to recede. Colorfast and ageless, the Rideau Waterway ever sings a song of its own.

GOOD MANNERS

CONCERNING ENGRAVED ENGAGEMENT-ANNOUNCEMENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Just two weeks ago I became engaged, and Bob and I have as yet told no one but our families. The present plan is to anounce the engagement in about threee weeks; my parents will send the formal anouncement to our local newspapers. On the evening before this is to be published, my parents are planning to give a small buffet diner here in our home, for the members of the immediate families and a few close relatives and friends. Then I had planned to send out quite a few engraved engagement announcements.

When I told my fiance about this last plan I thought he looked a bit glum, but he didn't make any response. Last evening he told me that he had told his mother about the engagement-announcement cards, and that she had "implored" him to persuade me not to do this, because it is absolutely incorrect and that we would be criticized for it.

Of course I don't want to do anything of which my fiance and his mother disapprove, and I have not and will not place the order for the cards. But I would like to know if these engagement-anouncement cards are so "absolutely incorrect."

— Bride-to-be

I'm sure your fiance and his mother are relieved to know that you are not sending out the engraved engagement anouncements, for indeed they are "absolutely incorrect." You'll be a very wise girl if, at your first opportunity, you thank your fiance's mother for her kind guidance about these cards. Instead of sending cards, you and your fiance should each write or telephone to relatives and intimate friends, telling them the wonderful news and asking them to keep it a secret until the date (tell them this date) planned for the public anouncement. (1) These letters; (2) your parents' anouncement party; (3) the newspaper anouncement . . . this is perfect engagement-anouncement procedure.

CONVENIENT TIME ARRANGED FOR FAMILIES TO MEET

Dear Mrs. Beeckman

My son is very serious about a young lady who lives with her family not far from here, and we think they will probably soon decide to become engaged. They haven't known each other very long, we've met the girl only three or four times, and my husband and I have never met her family.

She's a wonderful girl, and my husband and I want to do everything to show her and her family proper courtesy. I've read in your column that the engaged man's family is expected to call at once on the girl and her mother and father, to "welcome" their son's fiancee into the family. If or when our son tells us he is engaged, should I (or my husband and I?) go to call on the girl and her family unannounced, or should we make arrangements with them by telephone as to a convenient time to call?

— "His" Mother

Do first telephone the girl and her mother (and as soon as possible after your son tells you the happy news) to arrange for a time most convenient to them. This is such an extremely important call, this welcoming into the family call, that it is reassuring and comfortable to all concerned to be sure about the time-convenience. Yes, if at all possible, it is a splendid plan for you and your husband to go together to make this call . . . happily, proudly! These fine and so-right first gestures give relationship between the two families a splendid beginning.

Time for Castro to Water Roses He Has Shown People Or Critical Months Are Ahead

What hope is there that Fidel Castro's revolution will help Cuba's campesinos? William L. Ryan, Associated Press foreign news analyst, found on a survey trip to the island that it is time for Castro to water the roses he has shown the people. This is the last of a series of three articles.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

HAVANA (AP)—The development of Fidel Castro's revolution has its hopeful side.

The touching, unquestioning faith of the campesinos — the little people of the countryside—in their leader must be seen to be believed.

To them the revolution means only hope, and they—not Havana—represent Cuba. They are people who, like the vast majority of Cubans, depend on the land for a living.

Many now live in hovels, eking out an existence for their families. They have been told this is their revolution—a revolution of the farmers. If the promises are not fulfilled, their disillusion will be terrible.

CHOP UP BIG FARMS

The National Institute of Agrarian Reform has outlawed the huge federal landholdings and is intent on chopping up the big farms into smallholders' plots for distribution among the landless tenants, sharecroppers and squatters.

The landholders, however, have given out with anguished protests coupled with dire predictions about the future of Cuba's economy, which depends mainly on sugar.

Agrarian reform undoubtedly has a tough, uphill path. So far the institute has equivalent of $20,000,000 recovered from associates of former President Fulgencio Batista and $13,000,000 from voluntary contributions. Much more is still needed to pay for expropriated lands and finance prospective co-operatives.

Land redistribution is only one of the many enormous economic problems facing a nation pillaged by its former regime.

UNEMPLOYMENT RISES

Uncertainity under Fidel Castro's revolutionary government has led to a sharp drop in private and foreign investment. This has led to a near standstill in the construction industry and to consequent unemployment. Roughly 50,000 Cubans are jobless out of a total work force of 2,400,000.

To take up the slack, the government has embarked on a public works program and deficit spending. This is a political necessity and probably will be difficult to stop when it becomes necessary for Castro to ask his people to tighten their belts in an austerity program later on. He is reported only recently aware of the dangers of inflation in the current situation.

The critical time for Castro is still months ahead — perhaps in 1960. That's when his promises fall due.

As one Habanero put it, "Fidel has shown us roses, but unless he waters the plants they'll die."

MANY PROMISES

The people have been promised thousands of new housing units by the end of 1959. The peasants have been promised their first land before the end of the year. The government has promised jobs for all.

Cuba's present economic picture is spotty, but it is not yet frightening, and there is a more than even chance it will pull through despite gloomy predictions. The sugar crop has been good although world prices are down.

The road ahead, however, is not easy. The Cuban people are not going to be able to live indefinitely on enthusiasm while their leader lumbers about in his own private cloud.

If the Cuban revolution is going to succeed, Fidel Castro will have to climb down off that cloud and go to work in earnest.

The Week's News

By KEN SMITH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

This was a good week for all kinds of animals.

In Los Angeles, a dachshund was the centre of a divorce hearing. The judge finally awarded custody of the dog to Mrs. Mary Lieblich, 49, but ordered that her 49-year-old husband Ernest be allowed to visit it at regular intervals.

Rome police took steps to save a dog from a life of crime. They arrested Luigi Costarelli and said he went too far when he trained the pooch to steal chickens for his pot.

Firemen puffed up 400 steps to the top of a Frankfurt, Germany, cathedral after smoke was seen coming from a tower window. They were met by clouds of flying ants, buzzing happily around the old structure.

Mrs. Florence Hill of Denver, Colo., swallowed a live mouse—not intentionally, she explained hastily. She awoke from a nap and saw a mouse on a sewing machine beside her bed. She opened her mouth to scream, and the mouse popped in.

Crocodiles have entered Malaya's general election. Candidate Inche Hussein bin Noordin plunged into a croc-infested river to test a local superstition that good people will be allowed to swim across it safely. Hussein, either too good or too thin to interest the reptiles, was untouched during his crossing.

On the spiritual side, five Buddhist monks in Formosa prayed for the souls of mosquitoes, mice and other animals that have been sacrificed in the name of science.

The United States Navy decided to supply a husband for Miss Baker, one of the two monkeys that went on a 1,700-mile space trip. Scientists went to find out whether space radiation will result in any "abnormalities in reproduction."

"COLLOSAL BLUNDER"

The Mid-Canada radar system was described as an abortion, a colossal blunder and a shameful waste of money.

Group Capt. Charles Limbrick, 62, who retired in 1956 as RCAF director of radio warfare, said he opposed construction of Mid-Canada but "the scientists rammed it down our throats."

Defence Minister Pearkes said the radar line is an essential part of the North American warning system. It lies along the 55th parallel, between the Distant Early Warning line to the north and the Pine Tree line to the south.

MORE CO-OPERATION

U.S. Defence Secretary Neil McElroy and Defence Minister Pearkes met in Ottawa to consider North America's defences. McElroy called for more U.S.-Canadian co-operation in building additional radar stations to fill a hole in the Pine Tree system.

That line now extends from the west coast to Dawson, B.C., and from the east coast to the region of Winnipeg. Defence planners long have been worried about the gap in the Prairies.

Present plans call for seven new long-range radar stations to be built in the area, but McElroy said more are needed. The U.S. probably would pay most of the cost.

CABINET CHANGES

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, returning to Ottawa from a 10-day vacation in Saskatchewan, said there will be one or more cabinet changes soon.

Newspapers have been speculating for some time about the various posts and persons that will be involved, but the prime minister declined to give amy hints of the appointments he is considering.

RACE AND EDUCATION

A flag-waving crowd of 200 segregationisgs marched on Little Rocke's Central High School—where U.S. troops battled a mob two years ago—to protest the integration of Negro students into the previously all-white school.

The scene, as local and state police swung billies to break up the demonstration, was similar to the 1957 racial fights, but there was one important difference.

In 1957, local and state forces were trying to keep Negro students out of the schools. This time, they were trying to keep them in.

UGLY RUMORS

Charges and counter-charges, rumors and denials came in a flood from Cuba. Sorted out from the conflicting reports came a clear picture of a move to overthrow rebel leader Fidel Castro's revolutionary regime.

The move has been crushed, said Castro, whose healthy appearance appeared to refute reports that he had been wounded in an attempted assassination.

Not so, say supporters of deposed dictator Fulgencio Bastista, battles still are going on.

Hundreds and even thousands of arrests were reported as Castro's forces battled the uprising.

HASK DIES

A Sabre jet of the RCAF's Golden Hawks acrobatic team, Calgary for a landing, collided with a private plane killing three persons.

The jet pilot was Flt. Lt. Jebb Kerr of Welland Ont.

CANADIAN TUTOR

Lieut. Jean Lajeunesse, 27, of Montreal was selected to tutor Prince Charles during the summer. Reports said the French - speaking Canadian army officer was selected because the Queen wants her 10-year-old son to be able to speak fluently with French-Canadian intonations, instead of the Parisian French usually taught to the Royal Family.

CURTAIL LOANS

The huge demand for money to finance Canada's expanding economy forced banks to move to limit increasing lending.

After an announcement that the Bank of Canada's interest rate stood at a record 6.51 per cent, the Canadian Bankers' Association said the banks would have to "curtail further expansion in their landing policies."

BUST UP

Is Miss Universe's booming bust a flop?

A Tokyo plastic surgeon said he injected a cupful of a special liquid plastic into the bosom of Akiko Kojima, who measured 37-23-38 when she won the recent Miss Universe contest after being named Miss Japan.

It's not true, cried the statuesque Oriental beauty, her controversial bosom heaving with emotion.

Replied the doctor: It's a very common operation among Japanese women, very simple to do and very effective.

HERE AND THERE

The Queen, expecting her third child early next year, rested at Balmoral Castle in Scotland. She met the Prime Minister Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana, whose country she was to visit, and made him the first Negro member of the Privy Council. . . . The sceptre of King Tutankamen, valued at $3,000,000, has disappeared from the Egyptian museum. A total of 140 guards were replaced after the museum curator discovered 25,000 other priceless items have disappeared or been misplaced. . . . And in Copenhagen, Danish doctors gave up a campaign to switch children from candy to carrots — not even to save their teeth will the kids stop eating their sweets, the doctors sadly reported.

THE WEEK IN ONTARIO

Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte made headlines throughout the week as she threw open her deserted Bowmanville home to the public over the weekend, appealed for funds in Hamilton on Tuesday, and attended a Hampton court hearing that concluded Friday that her 107 charges were neglected.

Mom Whyte is undeterred by financial handicaps (her Hamilton funds appeal raised only $40) and the adverse decision of the court, and still plans to build a new $300,000 Whytehaven which will require $10,000 down payment for its 86 acre site.

A ray of hope however came on Monday when she announced that an anonymous Canadian had promised her home $10,000 a year for three years.

Her first two appearances at Hampton court (Wednesday and Thursday) Mrs. Whyte left early, the second time in tears. "She's tired of hearing evidence against her," a friend explained. Mrs. Whyte later likened herself to Joan of Arc. She listened to Judge W. R. Philp's ruling that her children had been neglected without emotion however.

FIDDLERS' CONTEST

The weekend Old Time Fiddlers' Contest at Sehlburne saw top honors go to two Ontarians, Ed Gyurki, 21, of Woodstock, and Al Churney, 26, of Wingham, who took the Novelty prize from Sleepy Martin of Louisville, Kentucky.

Monday and Tuesday saw anxious preparations to head off another traffic jam at Toronto's exhibition park similar to last Wednesday when 27,000 watched the Argonauts versus Chicago Cardinals football game. However all alarms proved groundless when the Argos played Saskatchewan Roughriders on Wednesday; only 10,000 attended the game.

Thursday marked the climax of many weeks of selecting and judging when Miss Rosemary Keenan, 19, of Fredericton, N.B., beat 23 other contestants at Hamilton to become Miss Canada 1959.

Throughout the week reports from various centres in the province, notably Oshawa, Peterborough and Brantford, showed that polio is increasing in Ontario. Health authorities have warned that more than two thirds of Ontario adults have not yet received Salk shots.

Your Car.

Do Not Let Car Neglect Ruin Your Vacation

Vacationland

By EUGENE MILMOE

If you're driving on a long vacation trip, first have your car checked over completely and plan your route as closely as you can. Then you can further guard against serious road difficulties by packing various tools and equipment that could come in very handy.

Naturally, a good spare, tire wrench and jack are always "musts." A hand pump and a flat wood plank (to support the jack base in sand or mud) can be lifesavers, too. In addition, find room for a flashlight, flare kit, hammer, pliers, screwdriver, friction tape, tow rope, spare valve cores and fuses. Even if you can't fix the trouble yourself, the right tools may help someone who stops to aid you.

And, as always emphasized here, the smart motorist keeps a first aid kit in the glove compartment.

• • •

From R. N.: "I had ignition trouble and had to replace the points because they were covered with oil. How does oil get on them?"

(A) Overlubricating the distributor causes this. In other cases, excess crankcase pressure which forces oil up into the distributor is at fault.

• • •

S. M. writes: "I'm studying to be an auto mechanic and wish you would enlighten me on a statement from one of your columns. You said that the type of brake linings used — even if in perfect condition — might cause a car to pull toward one side when braked."

(A) This can happen if the brake lining on one front wheel is of a different type than the other front wheel lining.

• • •

D. C. asks: "When starting a cold engine, shouldn't exhaust vapor come from both pipes of a dual exhaust system? Mine seems to come out through one pipe only."

• • •

From J. V.: "My dealer insists it is not unusual for power steering to require slightly more manual effort when the car is used a lot in hot weather. I've never had power steering before so I'm taking his word for it."

(A) It's true. When hydraulic oil in the power steering system gets hot, resistance incnases a bit.

SERIOUS FLOODS

VIENNA, Austria (Reuters)—Raging floods brought destruction and death to Austria and southern Germany Thursday. At least eight persons were reported to have died.

New Home James Texts Ltd. Will Be Opened on Monday

Just 280 days following the fire of last Boxing Day which destroyed the store, together with two other premises, the new home of James Texts, Ltd. will be open for business on Monday.

Virgil James, store proprietor, noted that the new store will not be entirely completed, but will be "workable" and it was decided to get stock in place as quickly as possible in order to be ready for the annual school re-opening rush in September.

With an area of approximately 9,000 square feet on two floors, exclusive of a third floor area to be used as a utility room and staff room, the new store will be much more roomy than the former premises. An elevator has been installed to faciliate the moving of stock to and from the second floor stockroom.

The second floor stockroom has been completed and stock will go in over the weekend, while on the ground floor workmen are busy putting on the finishing touches. For the time temporary doors will go in while the mosaic and tile store front will be added later.

The entire staff which worked at the former store has been retained and the expansion in the future it is expected will mean an additional staff of one or two persons.

TUGGED LOOSE

MONTREAL (CP)—Five tugs Thursday pulled the 663 -foot Great Lakes freighter Thunder Bay off a shallow mud bank near the eastern gate to the St. Lawrence Seaway. The ship, apparently not damaged, left for the Great Lakes.

BELLEVILLE CADETS MEET C.O. — While at summer camp at RCAF Station Clinton, Ont., Belleville cadets met with their squadron Commanding Officer, Squadron Leader E. Craighead, who is on the directing staff of the summer camp. S/L Craighead is taking one year leave of absence from Quinte Secondary School to accept an exchange teaching position in Selkirk, Scotland. He lives at 22 Wellington Crescent, Belleville. The others in the photograph include: Flight Lieutenant G. Locklin, who is in charge of the cadets at the camp, from 99 Wright Ave.; Cpl. Randy LaMorre, 266 East Moira St.; LAC G. Gray, 66 E. Moira St., and Cpl. Barton Durrant, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Durrant, 7 Carmen Ave., Belleville. (National Defence Photo).

On August 2, nineteen cadets of 608 Squadron Belleville, arrived at RCAF Station Clinton for a two-week stay at summer camp. The cadets rejoin the Commanding Officer of the Squadron S/L E. A. Craighead, of Belleville, who is on the permanent staff of the camp throughout the summer. Two of the Cadets: Cpl. B. Lamorre and FS A. Wardle, are receiving a special course for senior NCO's to fit them as better leaders in their home units. This Squadron is sponsored by the Bay of Quinte District High School. After winning the Strathcona award in 1959 for the best school Squadron they hope to win more awards at the camp.

During their stay at camp, the cadets receive training in such varied subjects as leadership, armaments, rifle firing, water safety and drill. Since healthy outdoor recreation and exercise is essential to the cadets, their course emphasises swimming and extensive sports activities, supervised by qualified instructors. This part of their program is climaxed by a gala track and field day and inter-squadron tug-o-war competition.

To make their stay at camp interesting as well as educational, informative tours of local industries and afternoon visits to nearby Lake Huron beaches are arranged for the boys.

A highlight of each cadet's brief stint at military life is a forty-five minute flight in an RCAF Dakota aircraft out of neighboring Station Centralia, which gives the boys a bird's-eye-view of a good part of south-western Ontario. This flight is a first for many of the cadets.

In charge of the cadets at the camp is Flight Lieutenant G. R. Locklin, 9 Wright Ave, assisted by Mr. G. Maybee, 159 Hastings Dr. Both of Belleville.

Officer Commanding of the summer camp is Wing Commander A. Allen of Toronto and the Chief Instructor is Flight Lieutenant R. W. Lanspeary of Leamington, Ontario.

Polio Outbreak Now Declared 'Mild Epidemic'

MONTREAL (CP)—City health authorities have officially described Montreal's wave of polio cases as a "mild epidemic" but they counsel "caution rather than fear."

City health director Dr. Adelard Groulx had firmly avoided the term, but Thursday, after the total number of cases in the area reached 206, a special meeting of federal, provincial and civic authorities was called.

After two hours Dr. Groulx announced "there is a mild epidemic but we wish to stress caution rather than fear."

For the first time in several days, no new cases were reported Thursday but Dr. Groulx said a number of possible cases were being investigated. So far 13 people have died.

NAME COMMITTEES

The meeting set up two subcommittees to chart the course of the outbreak and decide on measures to control it.

In an effort to put the outbreak into perspective the report emphasized that "traffic and other accidents kill many more persons than polio."

The meeting gave its approval to an already-announced decision to close city wading pools but recommended that public parks and baths be kept open because "it is necessary to insure open air and sun to the children".

Meanwhile the organization of free vaccine clinics continued. About half the 250,000 children in the city have received the full program of three shots.

SUDBURY (CP) — A 31-year-old Espanola woman is in critical condition in hospital here with this district's first case of paralytic polio since 1957.

Hospital officials declined to release the woman's name because they feared it might cause a panic in the Espanola area, 50 miles west of here.

BRANTFORD (CP)—A seven-year-old boy is in hospital suffering from paralytic polio. It is the city's first case this year.

Dr. G. M. Fraser, Brant County medical health officer, said the boy is not seriously ill. School records show he received two shots of Salk vaccine but not the final booster shot.

FARM ELECTRICITY

Nearly three out of four Canadian farms had electric power in 1956 compared with two out of four in 1951.

Clashing Views On Late P.M.'s Life Heard

SACKVILLE, N. B. (CP)—Clashing views on the life and work of the late Prime Minister Mackenzie King were expressed Thursday during a panel discussion on his career by a group of political experts.

Dr. Eugene Forsey, Canadian Labor Congress research director, said his work could be summed up thusly: "The prime minister believed that the good of his country was inseparable from his continuance in office as prime minister."

J. W. Pickersgill, Liberal Commons member who has studied and served under the former Liberal leader, said he was a "thrifty man who sought to control expenses and advocated that the government should be as economical as possible and as free from restraints as possible."

HAD EYE ON ELECTION

Dr. Forsey claimed King "never understood parliamentary government." The twin disservices of the King regime were subbordinating every consideration to the test of whether it would win an election and his "rise to power on the worst type of French-Canadian nationalism."

The panel was held on the first day of the Mount Allison University summer institute.

Dr. Forsey tempered his remarks with the comment the late prime minister had succeeded in building a capable and efficient civil service but this was largely due to work of subordinates and the careful selection of cabinet colleagues.

REPLIES TO FORSEY

Mr. Pickersgill countered that a man who sat in Parliament for so many years must have some sense of what Parliament is.

"Parliament means what Parliament is, and not some idea conjured up in the ivory towers of the Canadian Labor Congress," he said.

Mr. Pickersgill said he agreed Mr. King did things to win elections.

"I am a politician," he said. I don't pretend I do thing to lose elections."

Hasty Pees' Recruit Course Climaxes Summer Training With 'Graduation' Ceremony

Sixty-five members of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment Summer Recruit Course "passed out" in colorful ceremony at the Bridge Street armouries last night.

Trim and natty in khaki uniforms bearing the insignia of their famous wartime and militia regiment, the young soldiers climaxed weeks of intensive training with a ceremonial march-past, a civil defence demonstration and presentation of prizes and awards.

Results of efficient training and instruction showed plainly in the deportment of the school, its steadiness on parade and its near-veteran-like precision in marching.

Following the General Salute, Brigadier Eric Snow, O.B.E., C.D., Commander Eastern Ontario Area officially inspected the two platoons of the school. He was accompanied by Lieut.-Col. Angus B. Duffy, commanding officer, Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, and platoon commanders Lieut. R. M. Naughton and Lieut. W. L. Rothwell.

After the inspection the school marched past a reviewing stand in column of platoon and column of route. Brigadier Snow took the salute.

Highly interesting evidence of the new role assigned to the Canadian militia, was the demonstration of "National Survival' or civil defence, given by twenty members of the school under the supervision of Eastern Ontario Area instructional staff member Sergeant A. W. Marshal.

The highlight of the evening for four young soldiers in particular and the school in general came with the presentation of awards.

Symbolic of passing his recruit course, each member of the school was presented with a regimental lanyard by Colonel Duffy.

The award for the "best recruit" of Number One Platoon went to Private W. A. Dewsnap. The prize for the recruit showing the best improvement in this platoon was won by Private R. W. Brown.

The "best recruit" award for Number Two Platoon went to Private H. W. Tom, with the "best improvement" prize being won by Private R. L. D. Turner.

Following the wards the school received it final dismissal of the season.

Afterwards receptions were held in the officers' and sergeants messes for recruits parents and other relatives, Refreshments were served.

Members of the school and their friends unofficially wound up the season on an enjoyable social note at a dance held on the main floor of the armouries starting at ten o'clock.

Captain W. O. Cochrane was officer commanding the summer course. The course sergeant-major was WO2 W. H. Bennett and course QMS, Sergeant E. H. Burley.

Officers of No. 1 Platoon were Lieut. Laughlen, commanding, platoon sergeant, L/Sergeant R. G. Day and platoon corporals, Corporal H. W. McCullough and Corporal R. W. Bateman.

Lieut Rothwell commanded No. 2 Platoon his sergeant being L/Sergeant R. E. Tapp and his corporals, Corporal L. J. Evans and Corporal P. S. Jackson.

Members of the Eastern Ontario Area instructional staff were Sergeant Marshall and Sergeant W. G. Davidson.

The classroom, of the course has been armouries and the area surrounding this city. There has also been a similar course conducted by the Regiment in Port Hope with 21 recruits participating in that community.

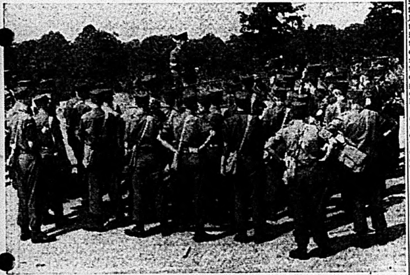
Subjects included on the curriculum were national survival (Civil Defence), fieldcraft, military law, first aid, drill, map using, training with the new FN rifle, dress regulations, history of the Regiment, padre's lectures, physical training and sports, the organization of the Canadian Army, its functions in peacetime and war, and nuclear — bacteriological warfare.

Much of this training was handled by Sergeant Allan Marshall, RCR, and Sergeant Jerry Davidson, RCA, the two permanent forec instructional staff officers. Regular militia officers also contributed to the teaching of various classes as well with Lieutenants Laughlen and Rothwell contributing full time in this respect. The course has been under the direction of Captain Cochrane of the Hasty Pees. These latter people are local high school teachers in their civilian life.

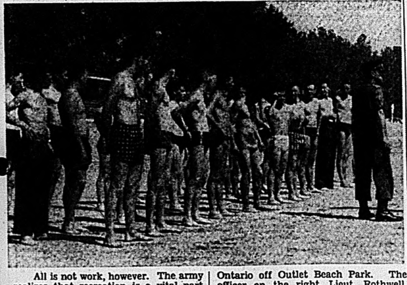
FINE ENTHUSIASM

The enthusiasm which the recruits have displayed during the course has been, in the opinion of the permanent force instructional NCO's, of a very high order from the very start of the course some seven weeks ago. This fact certainly was evident to the casual observer who chanced to wander into the Armouries during "working hours" in the past few weeks. The sounds of industrious application of the recruits could, on occasion, be heard in the market square or on Front Street.

With the conclusion of the course the participants have undoubtedly earned something besides a few dollars. The discipline, way of life, and friendships which have been realized will remain for a long time.



A lecture in fieldcraft is given the local high school students by Sergeant Marshall, RCR. As can be seen by the fact that no one is looking at the camera, full attention is being paid his every word.



All is not work, however. The army realizes that recreation is a vital part of the soldier's life and these lads have just enjoyed a dip in the waters of Lake Ontario off Outlet Beach Park. The officer on the right, Lieut. Rothwell, apparently was not able to take advantage of the opportunity.

Here a group of summer recruits apply their knowledge of first aid and survival techniques in a field near Marysville. The exercise required that the "rescue teams" find their "victims," diagnose their ills, and bring them to a central point by stretcher. Each team was timed in their performance.

Indian Leader Nehru Does Not Like Label of Imperialist

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

To Prime Minister Nehru, who graduated with honors from the prison cell of a colonial power, no shrewder insult could be offered than the label of imperialist.

The Indian leader, who has patiently endured a variety of difficulties with domestic and foreign Communists, was understandably moved to protest to the Chinese government when the offensive epithet made its appearance in official Peiping propaganda organs.

If the Chinese were in a mood to reply to Indian protests, they would probably explain that Nehru suffers from an old-fashioned addiction to dictionaries in his approach to the meaning of words.

DEFINITIONS DIFFER

To Nehru, an Imperialist is a believer in the rule of one people by another. To the Chinese propagandist an imperialist is simply someone who is being awkward about practically anything concerning foreign policy.

Nehru could, if he chose, apply his definition to the word to the Chinese government for its refusal to recognize the Indian nationality of long-time residents of the formerly autoomous region of Tibet. The progandist, in turn, unhestitantly invokes it when India insists that her present boundary with China should remain unchanged.

In provoking India's prime minister to wrath, the unkind adjective has probably done him a good turn politically. Indian newspapers have given increasing signs of restiveness with Nehru's sweetly reasonable attitude toward his northern neighbor.

Apart from his firm stand on the boundary question and his prompt ouster of the Comumnist government of Kerala State in the face of communal riots, Nehru has worked consistently to maintain friendly relations with Peiping and Moscow.

Many Westerns have not forgiven him for the marked contrast between his prompt denunciation for British and French actions in Suez and his tardy rebuke — barely a slap of the wrist — of Russia's simultaneous activities in Hungry.

While these far-off events made little impression on Indian public opinion, considerable feeling was aroused earlier this year by Nehru's restraint in dealing with Red China's rigorous suppression of the Tibetan revolt, which drove the Dalai Lama to exile across the Indian border.

In continuing to press for the reconstitution of the three-power commission in Laos, against the wishes of the Laotian government, as the result of the renewed outbreak of resistance from the Communist Pathet Lao, the prime minister has shown himself determined to hew to his neutralist course wherever possible. Under the circumstances, the Chinese propagandists are shooting at a sitting target. But Nehru's anger suggests that the open season may be about over.

Pilot Killed At Sioux Lookout

SIOUX LOOKOUT (CP) — A pilot was killed when his single-engine float plane crashed and sank in Lake Eyatanikana in northwestern Ontario late Thursday. It was not known whether there were any passengers in the aircraft.

Police said pilot Gerald Allard, 24, of Val d'Or, Que., apparently was landing at Anaconda, a copper mining camp about 225 miles north of Kenora, when the crash occurred. The aircraft was owned by Severn Airways of Sioux Lookout.

Dies of Injuries

ST. THOMAS (CP) — Russell Alfred Foe, 21, of Preston, died in hospital in London Friday night following a two-car collision two miles south of here.

Four other persons are in hospital, one of them in critical condition.

Britain's Biggest Newspaper Deal Is Concluded

LONDON (Reuters)—The final formal stage in Britain's biggest newspaper deal since the war was concluded in London today in under four minutes.

Less than 20 holders of the stock in Lord Kemsley's newspaper group were present at the meeting at which it was agreed that Canadian publisher Roy Thomson should take over the group for £11,250,000.

Kemsley, who presided, was told by one woman stockholder that the prospect of his relinquishing the editorship of The Sunday Times was "almost more than I can bear." She hoped he would have a long retirement.

Thomson, who already owns a group of newspapers, radio and television stations in North America, now takes control of three British national Sunday newspapers—The Sunday Times, Empire News and Sunday Graphic—four daily morning newspapers and seven evening newspapers in the British provinces, as well as some weeklies.

He already controls a big commercial television group in Scotland and the Scotsman group of newspapers there.

Attitude Being Reconsidered by Prime Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Friday that under present circumstances in Laos there is nothing to indicate that reconvening the international truce supervisory commission "could render any effective assistance in resolving the present difficulties."

He thus reaffirmed the Canadian position which has prevailed since the Canada-India - Poland commission in Laos was disbanded 13 months ago.

Mr. Diefenbaker told reporters Thursday that Canada's attitude in the matter was being reconsidered.

Canada Ought to Reappraise Her Share in Air Defence

LONDON (CP) — The Times says Canada ought to reappraise her share in the air defence of North America to avoid "an agonizing conflict" between the continental and Atlantic interests.

The independent newspaper, commenting on United States requests for improvement in radar coverage of the Pine Tree line, says air defence is "a touchy subject" in Canada since American unwillingness to buy the Avro Arrow aircraft resulted in its manufacture being stopped by the Canadian government.

"But the trouble goes deeper than this," the Times editorial continues. "Canada has always clung to her Commonwealth and European associations — she keeps a brigade group and an air division in Germany at great cost—as a counterbalance to the inevitable pressures on her from the United States.

"The American idea of air defence is that cities, industry and populations must all be actively protected as well as the deterrent bases. To many Canadians this savors of a Fortress America policy and there is an understandable fear that if Canada continues to be sucked into the vastly expensive business of air defence her continental commitments will come into conflict with her Atlantic interests."

The Times says there are also sound strategic arguments against the scheme. If the early warning system proves adequate to get interceptor aircraft off the ground before they are attacked, the nuclear deterrent remains valid and the active defence of air bases becomes 'an insurace policy," while that of cities, industry, and population is "sheer luxury."

The newspaper says the problem would not be solved by merely leaving the U.S. to bear the financial burden. The more Canada dropped out of the present partnership, the more the U.S. would have to take over, and nationalist sentiment already was opposed to the introduction of more American servicemen and civilians on air defence duties than are absolutely necessary.

"Politically, therefore, compromise may be necessary for some time yet. But if this nationalist sentiment is not to lead sooner or later to an agonizing conflict between Canada's continental and Atlantic interests, a reappraisal of her share in the air defence of North America should begin now."

Reaffirms American Policy Non-Recognition Red China To Seat in United Nations

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GENEVA PARK, Ont. (CP)—Strong reaffirmation of the United States' policy in regard to Communist China was given Friday night by J. Graham Parsons, U.S. assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs.

Speaking to the closing session of the conference of the Canadian Institute on Public Affairs, he upheld non - recognition of China and American opposition to her seating at the United Nations.

This does not mean, he said, that the U.S. does not negotiate with China. She had done so many times and for long periods and with disappointing results.

CANADIANS DISAPPROVE

Mr. Parsons set out the U.S. position in the face of disapproval of American attitudes by two Canadian panelists — Walter Gordon, Toronto accouncant known publicly through the Gordon report on Canada's economy, and Peter Stursberg, Canadian writer and broadcaster.

To many observers here the conclusion from Mr. Parsons' words are that the U.S. has made up her mind that if the two countries are to get together it won't come through the U.S. showing weakness.

The Canadian speakers did not recommend that the U.S. should recognize China, They seemed to regard that as out of the question for a long time but they felt there must be some way to ameliorate the stalemate.

UN ADMISSION

Mr. Gordon suggested more exchange of visitors between the U.S. and China and removal of the blockade of mainland China. He said if there is a vote in the UN on admission of China the U.S. should acquiesce in the result of that vote no matter what her own stand might be.

Mr. Parsons said: "We have some Americans in China — in jail. In that situation we don't feel we are in a position to protect our citizens."

Mr. Stursberg, while disapproving of the U.S. attitude said, "The Americans are our friends and neighbors and we are not going to kick them in the teeth over Communist China."

DIVIDED NATIONS IDEA

Mr. Stursburg suggested that as an approach to UN recognition of China a way might be found through first admitting as "divided nations" North and South Korea and North and South Vietnam. This might lead to the seating of two Chinas.

"It seems to me," he said, "that the Western policy in Asia hinges on the admission of Communist China to the United Nations. My own view is that it is common sense to allow her to be seated and dangerous not to."

Malcolm Hollett Constant Critic of Smallwood Regime

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Malcolm Hollett at 65 heads the chief opposition party in the August 20 Newfoundland general election, and faces Premier Smallwood himself in a personal fight.

The Progressive Conservative party leader, Opposition leader in the last legislature, promptly accepted the Liberal premier's challenge of a personal election battle. When nominations closed it was a two-way fight in Mr. Hollett's riding of St. John's West, Premier Smallwood having switched his candidature from his former riding of Bonavista North to Mr. Hollett's riding.

The Opposition leader's party, which held four seats in the 36-seat legislature after the 1956 election, was split when two PC members formed the United Newfoundland party. This action came when the Progressive Conservative party was supporting Ottawa's stand on special federal aid to Newfoundland. The issue of federal allowances to the province sparked the coming provincial vote.

MANY CANDIDATES

At dissolution the official Progressive Conservative Opposition in the chamber consisted of Mr. Hollett and one other member. But the party has nominated 32 candidates in an attempt to unseat the Liberals.

During his years in the legislature, Mr. Hollett has been a constant critic of the Smallwood government. Depending on the occasion, he has been witty or scornful. However, he led his party in support of the controversial Smallwood labor legislation of last March.

Mr. Hollett covered the 1951 session of the legislature as news editor of the Gerald S. Doyle news bulletin, a radio program heard locally over the CBC.

He jumped into the election campaign later that year and was defeated by a small margin. The following year he won the St. John's West seat in a by-election. He was elected leader of the provincial Progressive Conservative party shortly afterwards, and in the 1956 provincial election was returned by acclamation.

Mr. Hollett graduated with honors from Mount Allison University in Sackville, N.B., in time to fight in the First World War, in which he was wounded. Afterwards he went to Oxford as a Rhodes' scholar, earning a master's degree in mathematics and ecocnomics.

Joey Smallwood Central Figure in Nfld. Election

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Premier Joseph Smallwood is the central figure in the Newfoundland general election Aug. 20. He called the election and went into the campaign with his customary gusto.

Early this year he took on the federal Progressive Conservative government of Prime Minister Diefenbaker on a variety of issues. In the current campaign he is personally challenging the provincial Conservative leader, Malcolm Hollett, as a candidate in the Opposition leader's own district of St. John's West.

"We'll see who speaks for Newfoundland—Mr. Hollett or yours truly," he says.

FAMILIAR FIGURE

"Yours truly" is known as Joey throughout Canada's 10th province. His sharp features, bow tie and owlish glasses make the 58-year-old provincial Liberal leader one of the best-known figures in Canadian political life.

Premier Smallwood started as a printer, reporter and editor. Early in his career he wrote The Croaker of Newfoundland, The New Newfoundland and The Book of Newfoundland, the latter printed in two large volumes. He was an active labor organizer and an unsuccessful pig farmer.

He shows no sign of slowing down, although he's been hinting of retirement for several years.

"I'd like to get out of politics," he told reporters recently, "but I can't until Newfoundland gets a fair deal from Ottawa. I got Newfoundland into this and I'll get Newfoundland out."

But he wasn't threatening secession from Canadian Confederation, which Newfoundland entered in 1949. "It would be easier to defeat Mr. Diefenbaker than to lead Newfoundland out of Confederation," he said.

Mr. Smallwood called the election in an avowed attempt to wipe out the Progressive Conservative Opposition which held two of the 36 seats in the last legislature. If successful, he will probably make a Canadian speaking tour. He left his former riding of Bonavista North to contest the Opposition leader's own seat.

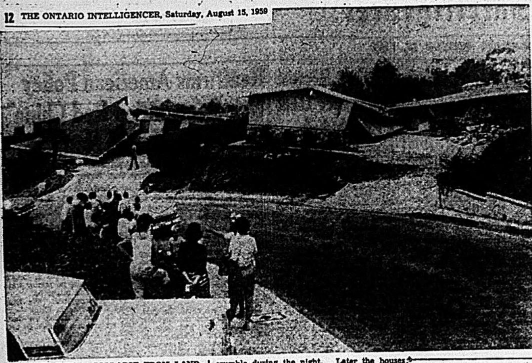
MAIN ISSUE

But mainly the election, in Mr. Smallwood's view, is aimed at showing the rest of Canada how Newfoundland has been "betrayed" by the federal goyernment in the matter of federal assistance.

Small in stature, big in voice, the fiery premier is one of the most colorful political speakers in Canada. Widely - read and largely self - taught, Mr. Smallwood has been awarded five honorary degrees by mainland universities.

He was secretary of the Newfoundland delegation that negotiated the terms of union with Canada and he campaigned vigorously before provincial voters approved union by a marrow margin. He became premier after the first election as a province in 1949.

Married, with three children—one son was a member of the last legislature — Mr. Smallwood is a member of the United Church.



TWO HOMES COLLAPSE FROM LANDSLIDE — Two homes valued at $50,000 each are reduced to rubble in nearby Pacific Palisades as the result of a landslide Thursday, near Santa Monica, Calif. The houses are located at the top of a 200-foot cliff which began to crumble during the night. Later the houses toppled into a crevice 15 feet deep. A third home, just completed and sold only a week ago, is threatened with a similar fate. (AP Wirephoto.)

Study Use of Atomic Blasts To Create Harbor in Alaska

By EDNA ATKINSON

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (Reuters)—A comprehensive survey of the complex problem of using atomic explosions to create a harbor has started in Alaska.

Tentative plans call for five underground nuclear blasts which would "dig" a channel of about 250 yards by 600 yards and a harbor of some 550 yards by 900 yards.

The explosions would take place on Ogotoruk Creek on Alaska's remote northwest coast.

Though the proposed site is near Cape Thompson, on the northwest coast, an over - all study of surrounding areas will be made.

PROJECT CHARIOT

Project Chariot, as the proposed harbor excavation has been named, is a part of Operation Plowshare, a program to utilize the atom for peaceful purposes under the direction of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission.

The studies being undertaken during 1959 are aimed at determining safety features of the experiment and to suggest a suitable time for setting off the atomic blasts.

Scientists will invade wildlife domains of fowl and fish, study feeding habits, observe caribou herd migration patterns and get other significant biological data. Individual field workers will scramble up sea cliffs, peer into fresh water and probe beneath the sea to trace the biotic links of the region.

MAIN OBJECTIVES

The major objectives of the survey are to obtain engineering and geological data, make an inventory of plant and animal life in the vicinity of the site and study human geography and habits.

It will help to establish characteristics of an area of about 20,000 square miles, from the Bering Straits to Cape Lisbourne and out to 169 degrees west longtitude.

One phase of the investigations will be designed to determine the probable dispersal of radio isotopes in the sea, the size and nature of any surface wave which might be created by such an atomic detonation and the best time of year for firing the blast.

The Atomic Energy Commission early next year will review preliminary results of the investigations. If found feasible, continued studies will be made in 1960 and Project Chariot put into action early in 1961.

Marline Coasts to Finals Of Canadian Women's Open

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — It doesn't pay to make mistakes against Marlene Stewart Streit. Golfers from Canada, the United States and England will attest to that.

The 25-year-old Toronto matron, who looks like a school girl playing a woman's game, has proven that since she first won the Canadian women's open championship in 1951.

The latest victim of Marlene's uncanny game is Mrs. Marley Spearman of England. She piled up a flock of errors on the greens Friday in the semi-finals of the Canadian Open and bowed out of her first North American tournament by a 5 and 3 count.

CANADA-U.S. FINAL

This victory, plus a 6 and 4 decision by Mrs. Bruce McGhie of New York over Toronto's Mrs. Mary Jane McCarter set the stage for today's Canada-United States final, the first since Mrs. Streit lost on the 37th hole in the 1956 final at Winnipeg to Pat Lesser of Seattle, Wash.

"I let her get away with murder," the 31-year - old English woman from Middlesex said after the match. She didn't discount Mrs. Streit's game — she was amazed at her own horrible putting.

Every time she missed a shot, the Canadian five-time champion stepped in to take the hole or halve it.

Mrs. Streit's score card at the end of nine showed her with an approximate one-under - par 36. She played consistently good golf and proved with pressure putting that a game is won or lost on the greens.

EASY FOR INVADER

Mrs. McGhie, whose golf career was interrupted for nearly five years since 1953 when she suffered glandular fever, had an easy time with Mrs. McCarter.

She also toured the front nine in an approximate 36 medal score and was four up at the turn.

This was her second appearance in the Canadian Open and she went into the final in the underdog role against the only Canadian to win the U.S. and British amateur titles.

Harness Racing

TORONTO (CP) — When Rocky Hal Can stays down at the start, as they say around the harness tracks, it's a rare pacer that can beat him.

The six-year-old son of Atomic Bomb-Ada Lee, owned by M. C. Pappin of Pembroke, stayed down Friday night, meaning he did not break stride getting away from the mobile starting gate.

He wasnt pushed at any point in winning the $2,000 Class A pace featured eight race.

Rocky Hal Can, in winning his fifth race in seven starts here this season, raised his earnings to $5,003 in the good time of 2.03.1.

Dunc Campbell's Argyel Duke was a pallid second nearly six lengths back.

HULL, Que. (CP) — Pari-mutuel wagering at Connaught Park Raceway reached an all-time track high of $96,454 Friday night, up about $5,500 from the previous record set about a month ago.

The nine-race program also produced the highest quinella of the year — $190.80 on pacers Judge Hi Lee and Progress, in the $300 D pace seventh.

Frank Brook, 11-year-old former Perth pacer bought two weeks ago by Wilf Zeron of Morrisburg, and driven by his son Jimmie, won the featured invitation pace — the eighth — by touring the mile in 2:08 3/5.

Second was Don McKay, owned and driven by Ken Kerr of Goderich, and third was Tnias Joe, owned and driven by Cecil Stone of Petrolia.

RADIO ACTIVE FALLOUT

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet scientist has warned that planned French atomic tests in the Sahara would inevitably contaminate the atmosphere over southern Europe with radioactive fallout, the Soviet news agency Tass reported today. Prof. Norair Siskyan, head of the biology division of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, said northerly winds would carry nuclear fallout to the southern areas of Italy, Spain and France itself.

Colts Kick Up Heels in Win Over All-Stars

CHICAGO (AP) — The passing arm of Johnny Unitas and the massive power of Baltimore Colts overwhelmed the college all-stars 29-0 Friday night in the 26th annual football game.

A crowd of 70,000 that included Vice-President Richard Nixon sat in awe at the form shown by the Colts, the 1958 National Football League champions.

Unitas threw three touchdown passes, all in the first half. They were for three yards to Raymond Berry, for 13 to L. G. Dupre and 29 to Jim Mutscheller. The three TDs were converted.

Nick Pietrosante, sturdy Notre Dame fullback, gave the all-stars their only real excuse for cheering. At the start of the second half he took a screen pass from Buddy Humphrey of Baylor and galloped 51 yards before he was hauled down on the Colts' 29.

The game was marked by two injuries. Don Brown of Houston was hit hard in the first quarter and suffered a concussion. He was taken to hospital where his condition was termed fair. Dick Schafrath of Ohio State also suffered a concussion, but less serious.

Musial Hopes For Comeback Next Season

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Stan the Man Musial, benched for the rest of the season, was holding court near the locker where uniform No. 6 hung.

"Casey Stengel says he's going to make a comeback in '60," Stan said. "I'm predicting a comeback. I wonder what's keeping Ted Williams."

It's been a bad year for baseball's two top players of the last 20 years and for the perennial title winning-manager of New York Yankees.

But Musial for one is confident he will do better next season.

"I feel this has just been a bad year, not one in which old age caught up with me," Stan said. "It's a mechanical problem. I'm doing something wrong at the plate.

"I can hit the fast ball. It's the other stuff that has been giving me trouble. I feel strong. There's nothing wrong with my reflexes.

"If they were throwing the fast balls by me and I couldn't pull the ball, I'd quit.

St. Louis Cardinals have announced that for the rest of the season Musial will see only occasional pinch-hitting duty or perhaps get a starting assignment now and then, so that young players can be tested.

India Splits With Aussies In Cup Play

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP)— Ramanathan Krishnan of India defeated Rod Laver 6-1, 6-4, 8-10, 6-4 Friday to give his country a surprise opening-day split with Australia in the Davis Cup tennis inter - zone finals.

After Krishnan's stunner, Neale Fraser, Australia's No. 1 star, levelled the score with a 10-8, 6-4, 6-1 triumph over Premjit Lall, 18-year-old rookie from Calcutta.

Lall, playing in his first important international match, was called from a London holiday to replace veteran Naresh Kumar, summoned home because of his father's illness.

For the better part of an hour Lall swapped booming services with the lefthanded Fraser in a battle of cannonball deliveries. Finally experience won out.

But Krishnan's victory shook the confidence of the Australians and put real importance on today's doubles match. Australia will send its Wimbledon champions, Fraser and Roy Emerson, against Krishnan and Lall.

The Australians are favored but the Indians' performances showed the match will be no cinch. Krishnan, 22, twice conqueror of Wimbledon champion Alex Olmedo this year, is a tremendous player. Lall has the service and volley to be destructive.

The winner of the best-of-five series goes into the challenge round against the United States Aug. 28-30.

Miteff Wins Over Johnson

NEW YORK (AP) — Argentina's Alex Miteff snapped Alonzo Johnson's 13-fight winning streak by bombing away to the body for an unanimous decision Friday night after 10 gruelling rounds.

Johnson weighed 185½, Miteff 208.

It was simply a matter of too much body punching by Miteff against a faster, lighter man who gave away 22½ pounds and could not tie up his man inside.

Both referee Mark Conn and judge Phil Botwinik scored it 6-4 and judge Leo Birnbaum had it 7-3 all for Miteff. The AP card was 5-3-2 for Miteff.

There was an ugly egg-sized lump under Miteff's left eye during the final rounds of the brawl. Johnson, fast - rising Braddock, Pa., contender, had cut open the left eye in the sixth.

Toronto Bowler Wins Ontario Singles Crown

TORONTO (CP)—D. McKerihan of Toronto Friday night wrested the Canadian Kodak Trophy from Bill Duncan Jr. of Kingston, 21-18 in a hard-fought singles bowling contest.

Duncan took a one-point lead early in the 21-point Ontario lawn bowling tournament final after the score was tied 2-2. He clung to the lead until the late stages.

Duncan's wins through the singles events were by narrow margins. Many weren't easy.

McKeriran, however, was seldom pushed hard.

A surprise defeat was that of Toronto's W. McChesney who Thursday night won the tournament doubles with partner Tommy Mawson. Toronto's C. Beacom fought a tough 14-12 third-round game to knock McChesney. Beacom was beaten in the next round.

Another surprise defeat was that of H. Duke of Toronto who won the tournament rinks Tuesday night. Duncan took Duke 14-12.

Last year's Canadian singles champion Neil Salkeld of Caledonia went down in the first round to Toronto's Gordon Picken in an extra end.

BC Golf Team Favored for Willingdon Cup

VANCOUVER (CP) — The battle for the four-man interprovincial team golf championship and the Willingdon Cup was to start today with British Columbia the favored team.

The edge went to B.C. on basis of depth and experience.

Bob Kidd, 31, Johnny Johnston, 33, Bert Ticehurst, 29, and Ron Willey, 23, all of Vancouver, have the variety of shots needed to play the flat fairways and treacherous greens of the 6,432-yard, par-71 layout.

The team from Ontario, the defending champion, is headed by Nick Weslock, 42, of Windsor and Bruce Castator, 33, of Toronto, with able support from 17-year-old Bob Panasiuk of Windsor and Billy Parks, 31, of Woodstock, who has a deadly iron game suited to the course.

TORONTO (CP)—Ada Mackenzie looks like any other well-preserved woman of 60 or so who likes to drive to the country club for tea "with the girls," and sit on the lawn to watch the golfers. But Ada is different—she knocks the ball around with the authority of a pro.

This round-faced woman of 65, who won her first big Canadian golf title exactly 40 years ago, doesn't yearn for the old days or tell stories how she used to do it. She can still take on golfers a third of her age, and hit the ball farther and straighter off the tee.

Ada is a pleasant and well-liked person. She doesn't try to tell promising youngsters how to use their clubs but she keeps an eye on them and "suggests" how they might improve their game.

STILL STRONG

There was some speculation this year when the Canadian Women's Open Golf Championship was coming up. People asked officials of the Canadian Ladies Golf Union if Ada would compete and the stock answer was that a pack of wild horses couldn't keep her away.

Last Monday, the well-dressed Miss Mackenzie — she owned a swanky women's apparel shop in an exclusive section of Toronto until a few years ago—took her turn on the tee in the 18-hold qualifying round. Some would-be experts figured that this time Ada might not make it.

She not only qualified but turned in a nifty six-over-par 82, the sixth lowest score of the 170 or so golfers from all parts of Canada, a few from the United States and a couple from England. She was no pushover.

Ada in short is one of those ageless wonders who crop up once in a long time. She has been one of Canada's goodwill sports ambassadors for years, making friends easily with a big hello and a glad hand for golfers in the U.S., England, Scotland, Bermuda and across Canada.

RELAXING HELPS

"I'm not striving to win any more," she says. "Golf has been strictly my pleasure since I left school. I had my shop as insurance and when you have no worries it is easier to play.

"I just live naturally. Don't eat as much during a tournament because the excitement cuts my appetite—you have to get excited a bit or you're no good. As for training, that would be necessary only if you were earning a living at the game, and I can't imagine anything worse."

But she has worried many golfers in the past few years.

One is Rae Milligan, 25-year-old long hitter from Calgary who met Ada in the semi-finals of the 1958 Ontario women's championship. They went to the 18th hole with the score even, "then I missed a three-footer to give Rae the match," says Miss Mackenzie.

She has won 39 major tournaments in 40 years, including five Canadian open crowns, five Canadian close titles, seven Ontario, two Bermuda and 10 Toronto and district, and currently is on a streak of five consecutive Canadian seniors' titles.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Now that Marse Bob Temple has settled down to doing a spot of legal work and his Cats, having torn themselves loose from the throats of the stubborn Cobourg Merchants, are licking their wounds, and spending the odd evening with their wives, softball attention has turned to the dipsy-doodle series between the Ox Pointers and Charlie Drake's ducklings from Trenton.

And the consensus of a lot of fans we have contacted on the matter is that if the Ox Pointers don't shake that don't-give-a-dam diamond attitude their glory of having won the league leadership and completing a fine schedule record, will be tainted by the fact that the seasonal cellar-dwellers, with no offence intended, will give them the well-known boot in their southern exposures and hoist them, more or less ignominiously, out of the loop playoffs.

The Loft-Shawmen, strong favorites to cop their semi-finals series, with not a few willing to wager they would take it in four straight, substantiated their supporters' feelings by taking the first three games in order. But Drake's doughboys were far from beaten. True, three games down, they had a slim chance. Then somebody reminded them of what the Yankees did in the world series last year.

So they came back fighting and took the fourth game from the not-so-peppy Pointers. That, said Maracle and Company, was to be expected. One game doesn't mean anything. We'll take the fifth and final tilt, the next time out. Even Gabby Bennett took time out from tonsil-torturing Shud Ethier, to second the motion.

But after the next time out, there "warn't no joy in Cementville." The Pointers went out there and played softball like a bevy of one-armed old maids taking on a senior lacrosse team and were given a sound 7-1 thrashing by the Drake Dukes who were full value for their victory.

"That's the bad one out of our system," chirped the beaten but undaunted Pointers. "The next time it will be different." It was. It was worse.

Whether by design, accident or with malice aforethought, they contrived to inject some of the don't-give-a-dam, kick-it-around attitude into the Drake ensemble. But it didn't work. The Loftmen discovered that at their worst they couldn't beat the Trentonians, then discovered their worst was not as good as Trenton's worst.

For in the sixth, after Garry Alexander had filled two miscue columns in his scorebook and separated the sins from the good deeds, he found that the teams collectively had kicked the ball around 17 times, and Trenton had shoved the odd runner in thirteen across the plate. The strange part was that while Trenton had erred and strayed from their ways like lost sheep some ten times they emerged on the long end of the score.

The Ox Pointers didn't feel too bad. Seven errors, after all was only one more than they committed the night before, and that was five over par for the course. The only guys who were awarded halos for a sinless evening were the umpires, who by this time, had collectively agreed that any ball that falls inside a foul line is a fair one.

However, this trio hasn't played the Cobourg course. Up there they have movable ground rules and stationary foul lines. Or is it the other way around. Oh, well, they alternate. Only that controversial tree remains put, for the simple reason it cannot be moved for the summer months.

Rumor has it the Cobourg crew is installing a radar station in Rochester next summer so that fly balls that fall into Lake Ontario, or ground balls that roll in it, can be properly judged fair or foul. This should stop a lot of argumentative bickering, besides prolonging the life expectancy of Chief Ranger Harold Bawden and his twenty-six men who roam the softball territories.

One thing is certain. The Ox Pointers must heave their softball britches out of the dust of lethargy, and regain the form that swept them to the league leadership. They should know by this time the Trenton crew will take care of every advantage thrown their way. A good idea is not to toss any. The game could go either way.

Meanwhile that slurping noise you hear in the background is the Temple Bobcats licking their chops. They have been anticipating a no-quarter torrid-action series with the Ox Pointers—but, who knows, it could be Trenton? Tonight tells the tale.

Stamps Defeat Sasky Riders In Western Grid Loop Debut

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan Roughriders, tagged in pre-season as the weak sisters of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, did little Friday night to change that rating.

They lost 28-8 to Calgary Stampeders in a game that was the 1959 WIFU debut for each club.

The season began Thursday night with Winnipeg Blue Bombers defeating British Columbia Lions 42-20. Monday night, Lions meet the Eskimos in Edmonton and Bombers go to Calgary.

Joe Kapp, a quarterback from the University of California, kept Riders guessing with a varied offence. He threw touchdown passes to ends Jack Gotta and Ernie Warlick. Fullback Earl Lunsford plunged over from the one-yard line for two touchdowns. Doug Brown converted all four touchdowns.

MULGADO IN FINE RUN

A spectacular 35-yard run by fullback Bobby Mulgado accounted for Saskatchewan's touchdown. Reg Whitehouse converted and quarterback George Herring kicked a third-quarter single.

Herring, formerly with Lions, started for Riders but gave way late in the first half to Bob Brodhead, from Cleveland Browns of the National Football League.

The score was 21-0 when Brodhead came in and three plays later he set up Mulgado's touchdown with a lateral after being trapped near the line of scrimmage.

Kapp and veteran quarter Nobby Wirkowski gained 194 yards by completing 12 of 22 passes, while Herring and Brodhead completed nine of 26 passes for 167 yards.

Stamps outgained Riders 273 yards to 199 on the ground and picked up 25 first downs against 16 by Saskatchewan.

Minor Baseball

Bobby Boyle pitched and batted the Indians to a 4-1 victory over the Dodgers in a bantam baseball fixture.

Boyle threw five-hit ball, allowing the only Dodger run in the first frame. He paved the victory path at the plate with a home run, triple and a double.

Brian McBride hurled for the losers, tagged for seven hits. Larry Brant rapped a two-bagger for the Dodgers.

Sherm Lollars' Two Homers Spark 5-1 Win Over Kansas; Braves, Giants, 'Bums' Lose

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

If Chicago Cubs had to play only the National League's top three clubs, they'd probably win the pennant.

The fourth-place Cubs, playing only .478 against the second division teams, hold the season's edge on the first-place San Francisco Giants and the third-place Milwaukee Braves while holding the second-place Los Angeles Dodgers even.

Chicago's record against the Giants is 8-7. Against the Dodgers it's 8-8 and against the Braves 8-7.

The Cubs made it two in a row over the Giants Friday, winning 7-5 on the strength of two-run homers by Walt Moryn, Dale Long and Ernie Banks.

LOSE NO GROUND

Despite the defeat, the Giants lost no ground to their closest pursuers as the Dodgers were beaten 2-1 in 11 innings by St. Louis Cardinals and Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Braves 2-1. Cincinnati Redlegs swept a doubleheader from Philadelphia Phillies 15-13 and 5-4.

Trailing 3-1 in the sixth inning, the Cubs tied the score on Moryn's 16th home run with a man on base. Rookie Willie McCovey put the Giants in front 4-3 in the seventh with his third hit but the Cubs went ahead in their half on Long's homer. Banks followed with another two-run homer, his 35th of the year, to clinch the victory.

Pinch hitter Alex Grammas' bases-loaded single in the 11th won for the Cards after they had tied the score 1-1 in the ninth on Joe Cunningham's home run. Clem Labine was charged with the loss, his 10th. Lindy McDaniel, in relief, won his 12th.

13th VICTORY

Vern Law pitched a five-hitter against the Braves for his 13th victory. Pittsburgh's two runs off Joey Jay came in the first inning on singles by Bob Skinner, Bob Clemente and Smokey Burgess and an error by outfielder Lee Maye.

The Reds pounded out 30 hits in their sweep over the Phillies. They got 23 in the opener as they overcome an early 8-0 Philadelphia lead. A five-run rally in the ninth inning won it. Frank Robinson and Vada Pinson had five hits each and Willie Jones had four in the opener. One of Robinson's hits was a three-run homer, his 27th.

The Reds snapped a 4-4 tie in the eighth inning of the nightcap when Johnny Temple doubled off Jim Owens and scored on a single by Gus Bell.

Don't tell Sherman Lollar that Chicago's American League leaders are a bunch of cream puff hitters. The White Sox catcher may hit you with that hot bat he's been swinging lately.

Sherm is a quiet, easy-going guy who rarely has much to say but oh, how his bat has been talking lately.

The reticent Arkansan walloped two home runs Friday night, each with a man on base, to lead the White Sox to a 5-1 triumph over Kansas City. It was Lollar's fourth home run in three days during which he's driven in nine runs.

The triumph together with Detroit's 11-1 shellacking of Cleveland, increased the White Sox' lead over the Indians to 3½ games, five in the important lost column.

TEAM LEADER

Lollar leads the Sox with 17 home runs and 65 runs batted in for the season. He was the team leader last year, too, with 20 home runs and 84 rbi.

Boston Red Sox erupted for nine runs in the eighth inning, overcoming a four-run deficit to defeat New York Yankees 11-6. Washington won its third straight, topping Baltimore 7-3.

Bob Shaw pitched a five-hitter for the White Sox, his 12th victory of the season and his sixth in succession. He has lost three.

Eddie Yost, veteran Tiger third baseman, banged five straight singles—his first 5 for 5 game in 15 big league seasons—to help Frank Lary register his 15th triumph of the campaign.

McLISH THE LOSER

Tito Francona homered for Cleveland in the ninth. Detroit collected 14 hits and drove loser Cal McLish out of the box with a four-run outburst in the third to take a 7-0 lead.

The Red Sox pounded three Yankee pitchers for nine hits in the big eighth, including a grand slam homer by pinch-hitter Vic Wertz. Ryne Duren was the victim after relieving starter Whitey Ford with the bases full, one out and the Yankees leading 6-2. Gary Geiger also had a Boston home run.

Harmon Killebrew hit a home run, then doubled home the tie-breaking run in Washington's victory over Baltimore. It was No. 36 for the young third baseman, the most in either league.

Tuffy's Croc. a Gentleman Compared to Hardboiled Hag

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Compared to the man-mauling Hardboiled Haggerty, Tuffy Truesdale's animated ladies luggage is a gentleman.

For Tuffy's refugee from an Everglades swamp is not averse to nipping off a man's leg, but he stays inside the ring to do it.

Not so Hardboiled. He developed a new technique against Yukon Eric last night. It's called the Pumphandle Break-off.

Hardboiled concentrates on a leg. He munches, punches and crunches the member until the foeman is wobbly, then drags him to ringside.

He pushes the leg over the apron then hops outside and works it over the edge like grandpappy did the barnyard pump when watering the cows.

Referee Bert Maxwell apparently never saw this one before. Once, twice it happened while the rotund Bartie stood agape and almost forgot to count.

The third time he did his digit arithmetic and it so happened it was the third fall. Hardboiled was so intent on whittling the Yuke down to pygmy size, he never heard the count, so Bertie spread his arms and awarded the brawl to the lumberjack.

What infuriated the Hardboiled one, and nearly drove him berserk in the second fall, was the Yuke's Kodiac Krunch.

Eric applied it to win the first fall wrapping Hag's ribs around his innards like a Scotsman's fist around a shilling.

Hag didn't like it and he came out for the second brawl like a stampeding Shorthorn in the fall round-up. He ripped into the Yuke from all angles then applied the Pumphandle. Yuke was all done in less than three minutes.

An unsuccessful application of the Krunch in the third fall started the Hag seeing red again. Again he ripped into the Yuke and was well on his way to tearing off a lumberjack leg when Maxwell decided it wasn't cricket and besides the Hag was wasting too much time outside the ropes. He called it off.

The golden cloaked Tuffy and his overgrown lizard staged an eye-catching bout with Tuffy winning of course, or when would the croc eat again, and whom would it wrestle?

The crittur had the snappiest pair of jaws ever seen here inside the ring, although there's plenty in the pews that would give it a run for the money.

It crunched down futilely on the wand Tuffy carried, but disdained a juicy hand when the boss stuck his mitt between the gaping jaws. It struck out several times with a wildly swinging tail when Tuffy ventured too close.

Then the boss tapped it gently on the noggin, and looked it squarely in the eyes. Mayhap Tuffy offered it a bout with Archie Moore, but whatever it was the croc sagged gently to the canvas and Tuffy flipped it over on its back, muzzled it and another victory went into the Truesdale records.

Sam Steamboat and Dick Hutton staged a rough-and-tumble bout with Hutton getting the worst of the punishment and handing out plenty until the gong rang for a draw.

Kearns Goes To Sweden To Make Offer

MONTREAL (CP) — Fast-talking Jack (Doc) Kearns said Friday he plans to go to Sweden soon and personally make his $1,000,000 offer to heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson for a title defence against Archie Moore.

The 77-year-old manager of Moore, the light heavyweight king, said "this would be the battle of the century. It would draw at least $3,000,000—maybe even $5,000,000 counting everything. They're the two most colorful fighters in boxing."

Kearns made and tossed away millions as manager of Jack Dempsey, Mickey Walker and other champions. He talks millions like an ordinary clerk discusses a $5 purchase.

"I expect to wind up the financial details of the (Yvon) Durelle fight here today and then Archie and I will head for New York," said the old pitchman. "As soon as I get some things straightened out I'll leave for Sweden. That may be in a few days.

"My backers are more interested than ever. I want to talk to Johansson and Edwin Ahlquist (Johansson's adviser) and find out what their plans are."

CHAMP INTERESTED

In Sweden, Johansson said he was interested in the fabulous bid but had not received any word yet from Moore or Kearns.

"If this really is serious, Archie Moore is welcome here," Johansson said. "But of course, not before I have met Patterson in a return fight."

Kearns said he also plans to see British promoter Jack Solomons and other boxing figures in Europe.

"Jack will be in the promotion if the fight is made for the United States," added Kearns. "He was the co-promoter of the Moore-James J. Parker fight in Toronto a few years ago and adds class to a promotion. Then Solomons might have something in mind for London and I always work with him."

Swede Proposes World-Wide Boxers Union

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Sweden's Ingemar Johansson, who still hasn't been paid for his knockout victory over Floyd Patterson, Friday proposed the formation of a world-wide pro boxers union so that "fighters can get their rights."

The touring world heavyweight champion told Swedish reporters such an organization "could clear up the present situation to the boxer's benefit."

Johansson earned an estimated $250,000 for his upset third-round knockout of Patterson at New York's Yankee Stadium June 26. His purse has been held up in a snarl of legal red tape and court actions.

At the same time Johansson repeated that his conditions for a return fight with Patterson included receipt of at least $100,000 and an acceptable accounting of the financial details of the first fight.

No Change Leafs Beaten, Royals Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Buffalo Bisons have found that the shortest road to success is via Jets. Columbus Jets, that is.

Leading the International League pennant race by eight games, the Bisons owe a large part of their success to their ability to manhandle the Jets. They've beaten them in 15 of 19 games this year.

The Bisons had to go 11 innings Friday night to whip third-place Columbus. They won 4-2 on Lou Vassie's pinch-hit two-run homer.

Elsewhere, second-place Havana moved 2½ games in front of Columbus with a 3-2 victory over Toronto; Rochester defeated Richmond 6-3 in 11 innings, and Montreal nipped Miami 3-2.

HOMERS BEAT JETS

Lefty Joe Gibbon had held the Bisons to three hits—one of them Bobby Morgan's 19th homer with one on—going into the 11th. But Ruben Amaro opened the inning with a double and Vassie popped his ninth homer to give relief ace Henry Mason his 10th victory against three defeats.

The Sugar Kings won in the first inning as successive homers by Tony Gonzalez and Carlos Paula built a 3-0 first inning lead. Pedro Carrillo's one-hit relief pitching over the final four innings clinched the verdict after the Leafs had closed to within one run against starter Raul Sanchez.

COX VICTIMIZED

Charlie James opened the 11th for the Red Wings with a double and Glenn Cox, third Richmond pitcher, walked the next two men to load the bases. Frank Verdi then drove home the winning tally with a sacrifice fly. An infield out brought in an insurance run.

Mike Goliat's two-out single in the eighth inning drove in Bob Lennon from second base with the winning run for the Royals and snapped Miami's four-game winning streak. Lennon's double had knocked in the tying run.

DONATES TROPHY — The Parkdale Wine Company has donated a handsome trophy for annual competition in the South Hastings Minor Baseball League. Floyd Crawford, company representative here, proudly displays the gift.

Yvon Durelle Near End of Ring Career?

MONCTON, N.B. (CP)—Chris Shaban, a grocer turned fight manager, has indicated Yvon Durelle may be near the end of his boxing career.

"I don't think Yvon will have too many fights in the future," Shaban said Friday.

Durelle, 29-year-old fisherman from Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., whose boxing career began 14 years ago when he knocked out a professional on a fishing pier for a purse of $1.75, was crushed Wednesday in his attempt to lift Archie Moore's world light-heavyweight title in Montreal.

Shaban said in an interview that Durelle's future is indefinite at the moment. "I'll discuss the matter with Yvon this weekend."

Durelle, British Empire light-heavyweight champion, said earlier he was not planning "to stick in this business too long . . . maybe one more year."

Big Four Football Season Gets Under Way Tuesday

Alouettes Visit Tiger-Cats With Ottawa Hosting Argos; Visiting Clubs at Home Friday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Big Four football season gets under way Tuesday night amid reports that all clubs except Montreal Alouettes are stronger—at least on paper.

For the opening games of the four clubs' 14-game schedules, Alouettes visit Hamilton Tiger-Cats, defending eastern champions, and Toronto Argonauts, perhaps the most improved club, meet Ottawa Rough Riders in the Capital.

The visiting clubs Tuesday will have their home openers Friday, with Ticats playing in Toronto and Riders in Montreal, also at night.

REPORTS ON CLUBS

Capsule reports on the clubs, by order of finish in 1958, go something like this:

Hamilton — Strong ground offence stronger; line bigger and better.

Montreal—Almost a stand-pat club, with a few changes among import backfielders; stronger at quarterback; thin on proven Canadian reserves.

Ottawa—Improved passing attack with better quarterbacking; more beef on the line; backfield on defence a question mark.

Toronto—Quarterback problem solved before the season starts; better strength on the line: some good Canadians out for the season with exhibition and training camp injuries.

Now, the details:

Hamilton coach Jim Trimble has a reputation for never going out on a limb. His terse reply when asked for a prediction on the 1959 season:

"It's too early. Can't tell yet."

ON DEFENSIVE

But looking to the opener against Montreal, he said his choice of his 12 imports will be a defensive combination rather than an offensive crew.

"That (Hal) Patterson is excellent," he said referring to Alouettes' star end. "Montreal's offense hasn't changed much in the last two or three seasons."

This was interpreted to mean that he expects Alouettes to rely mainly on Sam Etcheverry's passes to Patterson or end Red O'Quinn as their main offensive threat.

Trimble looks on his own club as "more rounded" with the emphasis on rushing and defence. On the ground, the top newcomers are fullback Don Schaefer from Notre Dame and halfbacks Billy Reynolds from Pittsburgh and Duane Wood of Oklahoma State, all potential running mates for star Gerry McDougall.

The Ticat line undoubtedly has been improved by the acquisition of centre-linebacker Jim Taylor of Chicago Cardinals and two Canadian tackles. They are veteran Oattem Fisher, a former import who now is a Canadian citizen, and Bronco Nagurski, Jr., Ticats' find of the year, from Notre Dame.

Famed Bronco Sr., was born in Rainy River, Ont., thus making it possible for Junior to choose Canadian citizenship, despite his birth in Minneapolis, and not have to fight for a spot on the 12-man import list.

WALKER UNWORRIED

In Montreal, the sport writers who follow the Alouettes are predicting a last-place finish this year, but coach Doug (Peahead) Walker doesn't let that worry him.

He'd rather prove them wrong next November than miss out on a prediction that the club will be a big winner.

The Alouettes are stronger where they were best: At quarterback and in the pass-catching department. Most impressive of the new imports is quarter Wes Gideon from Trinity College, Texas, who likely will be used mainly as a defensive half and as the veteran Etcheverry's understudy.

Walker still is looking for backfield strength to go with Joel Wells. In camp, he now has a fine pass receiver in Bill Glossom from Texas Southern and import fullback Veryl Switzer, obtained from Calgary in an off-season swap for Pat Abruzzi.

The two-way imports on the line are virtually unchanged, except for newcomer guard Ed Hill from Miami University in Ohio. Centre Tom Hugo, guard Jacki Simpson and tackles Billy Ship and Bill Hudson are back.

MAY BE TOUGH

Ottawa's Frank Clair has quality in quantity and may have the team to beat this season. He has three quarterbacks, any one of which could do the job: Veteran Frank Tripucka, obtained in a trade with Saskatchewan Roughriders, Don Allard from Boston College and Canadian Russ Jackson who was a sensation late last year.

He has added a power runner in Ohio State half Don Clark but still is looking for a top-flight two-way end.

Canadian end Ted Smale, a top defensive player, has blossomed into a pass-catcher during the exhibition season and may be switched to the offence as a mate for Bobby Simpson.

Clair is openly worried about his deep backs on defence and has stressed that facet in training. The line, one of the best last year, is unchanged except for the addition of rookie Moe Racine, 235-pounder from Cornwall, Ont., and veteran John Bove, a former import who now is a Canadian citizen.

MUST PRODUCE

For coach Hamp Pool, in his third season with Argos, this is a produce-or-else year after finishing out of the three-team playoffs the last two years.

His team sputtered into life last year with a sensational performance by glamor-boy quarterback Ronnie Knox, on loan from Chicago Bears, who'll try to break fast from the gate this year.

With Knox in camp at the start of the season, the quarterback problem of last year doesn't exist. He has Johnny Green, passer and punter from Chattanooga, as understudy.

The other big Argo problem last year was the lack of good interior linemen. To correct this, Pool picked up guard Cleve Wester, Auburn's most valuable player last year; guard Charley Horton from Baylor, Detroit Lions' No. 2 draft choice, and tackle Jimmy Burks, Virginia Tech team captain.

But Argos will miss defensive end Paul Fedor and centre Norm Stoneburgh, both Canadians who are out for the season with injuries.

CANADA'S SPRINT HOPES — Harry and Valerie Jerome of North Vancouver, B.C., form the first brother-sister team to represent Canada in International track competition. They are entered in the sprints in the forthcoming Pan-American Games at Chicago. Harry, 18, has come within two-tenths of a second of the world's record of 9.3 for the 100 yard dash, and Valerie, 15, has run the 60 metres in 7.5, also two-tenths of a second off the world's record. Brother-Sister Sprint Act Has Given Canada Hope for International Track Honors

By BOB TRIMBEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — An 18-year-old Negro sprinter and his kid sister who speed along the cinder tracks in near world-record times have given Canada hope of international track laurels for the first time since the Percy Williams era of the late 1920s.

Harry Jerome and his sister Valerie, 15, of North Vancouver, will form Canada's first brother-sister entry in an international track meet when they compete in the Aug. 27-Sept. 7 Pan-American Games at Chicago.

Both moved into top international class competition this summer with sprint times that came within two-tenths of a second of listed world marks.

BEST SINCE WILLIAMS

Harry has been called the greatest Canadian sprinter since Williams—winner of the 100- and 200 - metre events in the 1928 Olympics—by Prof. Bob Osborne, manager of Canada's Pan-American team.

"He's in world-class competition right now," says Osborne. "He's improving every week and definitely is the dark horse in the Pan-American sprints."

Lloyd Swindells, Pan-American track and field manager says: "We would be expecting quite a bit of Harry to win the 100 and 200 metres at Chicago, but still he has a good chance.

"He has a better chance in both events in the Rome Olympics next year. He'll be a year older, stronger and have a full season of good competition."

Swindells says Valerie's sudden climb is "More fantastic than her brother's."

She didn't hit form until three week before the Pan - American trials at Winnipeg last month.

VERSATILE ATHLETE

"She should do better than her brother because she can do more things," says Swindells. "However, she lacks confidence. But at 15 there are few athletes who can come within shouting distance of a world record sprint time."

Valerie, a slender five feet, 11 inches and 120 pounds, ran the 60 metres in the Pan-Am trials in 7.5, two-tenths off the world record.

A shy youngster in comparison to her confident but easy-going brother, she also won the 100 metres and the broad jump and was third in the high jump.

It won't be the first time a member of the family has been on a Canadian track team. In 1912, Army Howard of Winnipeg —Harry's grandfather — ran the 200 metres in the Olympics.

The Pan-American Games will be Harry's first test. He will meet Ray Norton, U.S. champion and considered the world's best.

SLOW AT PHILADELPHIA

Norton is one of several sprinters sharing the world 100-metre record of 10.1. However, this summer he won the event in a special Russia-U.S. track meet at Philadelphia in a slow 10.5 on a good track.

Canadian officials take heart in that Jerome's best time for the 100 metres was 10.4 on a soft track and in poor weather at Winnipeg.

Jerome's confidence in his ability is his big asset, says Swindells. He is relaxed and enters a race with the right mental attitude.

"He eases home over the last 30 yards the way only top American runners dare to do," says Swindells. "He almost toys with competitors in winning 100-yard sprints in times of about 9.8."

Jerome's best 100-yard time is 9.5 (the world record is 9.3) set in the Oregon State championships this year.

Harry began sprinting after deciding he could run faster than other students training for school meets.

MADE FINE TIME

In his first test—the Vancouver Inter-high track meet — Jerome knocked one-tenth of a second off the 220-yard record of 22 seconds set 31 years ago by Williams.

From there it was a continual improvement and by the time the Winnipeg trials rolled around, Harry had cut six - tenths of a second off both the 100- and 220-yard Inter-high times of 10.1 and 21.9 respectively.

"Harry is no flash in the pan," says Swindells. "He can improve his starts with more concentration and coming out a bit lower. To improve his 220 times he'll need more endurance. It's just a question of knocking off the tenths bit by bit."

Harry and Valerie were born in Prince Albert, Sask., the youngest of five children of a Canadian National Railways porter. The family moved to Winnipeg in the early 1940s and to North Vancouver after the 1950 Red River flood.

This fall, Harry will attend a U.S. university on an athletic scholarship, but he has not decided which. Included in those seeking his talents are Washington, Oregon and South California.

Harness Racing Bits

By Phil Stewart

From a standpoint of speed and quality of the racing the meet sponsored by the Gananoque Driving Club ranks with the best seen in the district this year. Although the 3 two heat races produced two double heat winners the finishes were all very close and vigorously contested. Of particular interest to local fans was the stellar performance of Irvin Ness of Belleville and his fine pacer "Lee Mor S". "Lee Mor S" by "Dillon Mc" is racing in his first full season and is still just eligible to the 2.28 class for non winners of $400, but he started in the 2.25 class on Saturday afternoon. The first heat saw Irvin take his pacer into an early lead and beat "Miss Triplewyn" owned and driven by Charles Gollogy of Kingston and "Mr. Bobby R. Grattan" driven by Guy La-Rush of Wolfe Island in the time of 2.15. The second heat was a little different as Charlie Gollogy shot "Miss Triplewyn" into the lead at the start with "Lee Mor S" about 2 lengths back followed closely by "Mr. Bobby R. Gratton". These positions remained unchanged through a fast first half in 1.05 and before reaching the ¾ pole Guy La Rush sent his horse out after "Lee Mor S". However Irvin Ness' tough pacer had too much for him as he went around "Miss Triplewyn" with ease to win going away in the fast time of 2.10 1-5, four and 4-5 seconds faster than his previous record. "Miss Triplewyn" who finished 2nd was placed third for changing course in the stretch, placing "Mr. Bobby R. Gratton" second.

The 2.22 class saw "Sharon Renown" owned by Ken Clement of Napanee and "Tester" the trotter owned and driven by Vic Keyes of Gananoque share wins and seconds with "Tester" trotting a great mile to win a thriller in the 2nd heat.

The featured "Thomas Adams" 30 class trophy stake saw a field of eight top 30 class horses go to the wire.

"Abbe Elkington," the winner of the Hiram Walker Stake in Kingston, paced a mile in 2.10 to win the second heat after winning the first in 2.11. "Abbie" was driven by Ross Curran, the top driver at Connaught Park Raceway. Also receiving trophies were Martial LeBlanc, owner and driver of "Vitan Frisco," who was twice second and Cecil Carleton, driving Leo and John Murphy's trotter "Prince George," who was fourth and third. Linda MacDuff," owned and driven by Art MacDonald of Kingston was third in one heat.

Irvin Ness shipped "Lee Mac S" to Toronto to race at the Woodbine Friday night, but will be back for the Belleville Fair where he will start both days.

The classes for the Quinte Driving and Riding Club's meeting on August 29 are filling very well with the fast class to include such performers as "Mr. Griff," "Don Mackay," "Sharon Renown" and "Bobby Henley." Betting privileges at the track have been obtained and a good race program is expected. A good crowd would assure local fans of many more regular meets in the future.

So come and bring your friends and neighbors, and perhaps you'll have a good day at the book.

Souchak Leads Detroit Golf

DETROIT (AP) — Mike Souchak came through Friday with a blistering eight-under-par 63 that equalled the course record and gave him the half-way lead in the $25,000 Motor City open golf tournament.

Souchak's 132 total after two rounds in the 72-hole competition gave him a three-stroke lead over Arnold Palmer.

First-round leader Mason Rudolph and Dow Finsterwald and Frank Stranahan, who trailed Rudolph by one stroke, all went over par Friday as the field of 148 reached the cutdown stage.

Rudolph, rookie pro from Clarksville, Tenn., faded to a 75 while Finsterwald and Stranahan played the 6,616-yard layout in 73. Rudolph's total now is 142. Finsterwald and Stranahan are at 141.

Al Balding of Markham shot a second-round 72 for a 26th-place tie at 143 with Milton Marusic of Webster Grove, Mo.

Plan Ahead for Your Vacation

All too often people returning from their vacations will give you the same report. "We were unlucky this year," they tell you. "Cold weather, cold with too much rain. Sun shone only three days during the two weeks we were in camp." Or, possibly, this — "Never felt such heat. No sense in going away to roast to death. We can be uncomfortable at home."

Vacations, to the great majority of the people in this country, are important times, the high spots of each year. In large organizations, where vaction times must be staggered in order to keep the plant running, the times of vacations are fixed well in advance. Then, when those golden days finally do roll around, the weather refuses to co-operate and much of the fun is spoiled.

Choosing your vacation times need not be the random, trust-to-luck sort of thing that most folks make of it. It is possible to plan weatherwise just about as well as it is to choose favorable seasons. Of course, you can't be one hundred percent sure (after all, name anything that is, excluding death, taxes, sunrise and sunset) but you can come far closer to choosing good weather than you can if you just go about it blindly.

CONSULT AN ALMANAC

Here and there about the country there are printed almanacs which will tell you a great deal about the weather. In Pennsylvania we use the one that is printed in Lancaster, Pa. How the people who publish those handy little books can figure out a year in advance what the weather is going to be, I'm sure I can't say. The fact remains that they do, and they come surprisingly close to it too, so consult your local almanac when choosing vacation time.

But a great many vacations are planned with good fishing in mind and the almanac won't tell you much about that. How, then, will you plan for good fishing? Here are some hints that may be of help.

Weather permitting, the time of the month has a great deal to do with the quality of the fishing. Generally speaking, by far the better fishing can be found during the time of new moon and the first quarter. We have, over the years, checked into the vital statistics surrounding the capture of better than two hundred record catches, both record fish and record numbers of fish. Better than ninety percent of these have been made during the warm summer months in the three days immediately following the arrival of new moon. Moreover, these catches were made during the major solunar periods of those days, at noon or shortly thereafter, right under the hot summer sun.

CHECK THE MOON

Another factor which has bearing on the geenral quality of your fishing lies in the apogee and perigee phases of the moon. To explain, the moon swings approximately every twenty eight days through its own orbit. At the bottom of its orbit, when the moon is closest to the earth, the moon is said to be "in perigee." Conversely, at the top of the orbit, farthest away from the earth, the moon is "in apogee."

Generally, the fishing is better when the moon is in perigee, gradually falling off as it moves again to the apogee stage. This August the moon is in perigee on the 13th. New moon comes on the 4th. Thus, you should have good fishing from August 4th through the full moon which arrives on the 18th.

So don't trust to luck next time you plan a vacation or a fishing trip. Consult your almanac for weather and moon phases and keep track of the daily solunar periods. That way, chances are that you will enjoy your vacation more than if you go at it blindly, trusting to luck.

Giants' Protest Thrown Out

CINCINNATI (AP)—Warren C. Giles, National League president, Friday threw out a protest lodged by Bill Rigney, manager of San Francisco, during the Giants - Chicago Cubs game Thursday.

In the fifth inning, with the Cubs ahead 10-7, Chicago's Tony Taylor was on third base with two out. Teammate Ernie Banks, the batter, tapped a foul ground ball outside the third base line. The ball was travelling toward the coach's box when Taylor picked up the ball.

Rigney announced he was playing the game under protest when the umpires refused to call Taylor out for interference.

The Cubs won 20-9.

Canadian Has First Effort At Directing Live TV Shows

By DAVID ROWNTREE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP) — Sunday night between 10 and 11 p.m. "will be the most exciting time in my career," says television director Alvin Rakoff.

For that hour, the NBC network will carry the 32-year-old Canadian's first try at directing a live video production in the United States.

The story is an adaption of O Henry's The Ransom of Red Chief in which a pair of confidence men (William Bendix and Hans Conreid) who kidnap a rambunctious boy of 10 (played by Ted Rooney, son of actor Mickey Rooney) have their plans of holding him for ransom painfully upset.

The comedy may be seen by Canadian viewers who can receive border-area NBC stations.

PARTICULARLY DEMANDING

An hour-long television show is particularly demanding of a director's talents and it was Rakoff's direction of the BBC version of The Caine Mutiny Court Martial last year that won him his present assignment.

David Susskind, a leading American producer, saw The Caine Mutiny on a set in his London hotel and "then and there I wanted him to direct some shows for me."

After Sunday's O Henry story, the big moment for the former University of Toronto student will be the job of directing another Susskind production, Body and Soul, which will open the 1959-60 series of du Pont's Show of the Month on CBS Sept. 28.

"You get something out of live TV," Rakoff told an interviewer. "With filmed half-hour shows, it's just a matter of everyone getting a buck. There's no idea of creating anything."

While in the United Kingdom, Rakoff also directed two movies —Long Distance and Room 43—neither of which have been released on this side of the Atlantic yet.

"Movies are even more satisfying than live TV. You can keep working at it, within economic limits, until it's exactly right as you see it." Rakoff would also like to try directing a play on the stage bug hasn't yet had an offer for one he'd like to do.

IN KIRKLAND LAKE

He got into television by way of newspapers. He worked in Kirkland Lake and Windsor and then in Toronto where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rakoff, live.

The CBC bought some radio plays he had written in his spare time. Then in the spring of 1952, Rakoff left newspaper work to train as a writer with the CBC which was then setting up its television service. A few months later he suggested he be sent to London for experience. The proposal was turned down but Rakoff went on his own.

He soon had a writing job with the BBC and in April, 1953, was catapulted into a directing job when the corporation was short-staffed at the time of the Queen's Coronation.

Two years ago Rakoff left the BBC staff to become a free-lance director. One British actress he directed, Jacqueline Hill, now is Mrs. Rakoff.

AT THE PARK — Alan Ladd stars with Veronica Lake and William Bendix in the punch-packed thriller from start to finish "The Blue Dahlia", and on the same program the greatest spectacle of all times in Technicolor and Techniraina, "Tempest", starring Van Heflin, Silvana Mangano, Viveca Lindfors and Geoffrey Horne. T-V TIPS

by JOHN WETTLAUFER

Even though the TV antenna itself may be in good condition, reception can suffer badly if the lead-in wire is neglected. A lead-in that has been up for more than three years probably needs to be replaced because after this time the insulation has dried out and become cracked. This allows moisture to enter, which spoils the quality of the TV picture . . . even though the set itself may be in perfect condition.

Replacing the lead-in wire isn't an expensive job and it certainly pays off in better reception. CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 364 Coleman St. have the equipment and experienced men to do this work quickly and efficiently. Phone WO 8-6791. (In Trenton EX 2-7669) and let us give you an estimate on checking over your complete antenna system.

COAST TO COAST

The cross-Canada TV network was completed in June, 1959, with extension of the microwave system to Newfoundland.

How a Firm Can Teach Its Employees How to Retire

By THOMAS COLLINS

Business keeps searching its cupboard for a formula that will show its employees how to retire.

It's not having much luck.

It's spending a lot of money at it, and it's tapping some of the best brains in the front office. Still, employees who graduate from the elaborate retirement programs that some industries have set up seem to be doing little better than anybody else six months later.

One trouble, of course, is that an average employee is a bit inclined to steal down the alley to participate in a company retirement program. He's embarrassed at the idea of letting anybody know he needs help.

Another trouble is that information on the pension and insurance, training in a couple of hobbies, some free books to read, and a down-to-earth talk with a counsellor — helpful though they may be — are not enough. It takes some meat and potatoes to replace a job and paycheck. And most companies don't have this on the retirement menu.

But this week came a report on an appliance manufacturer that may have found the formula.

The manufacturer has set up a school in which it is teaching older employees how to repair appliances — its own, naturally. The school is open to any employee reaching 59. Retirement is compulsory at 65.

According to Robert Thomas, a company official, the school, which also teaches carpentry and electrical work, is in session from 8:30 to 11:30 A. M. every Saturday. Top service people of the company are the instructors, and all necessary tools and equipment are provided free.

"We find that 37 weeks are about right for the normal employee to become proficient at repairing appliances," Thomas says. "We find, too, that the closer a man gets to 65 the more likely he is to enroll.

"Our purpose in the school is primarily, of course, to equip our employees better for retirement. We teach them a trade that will fill their time with more substance than hobbies will . . . and a trade that will make them considerable money if they choose to work at it.

"It makes a package a working man can understand . . . it's socially acceptable among his friends. . ."

But the company gets a playback on this program that is valuable, Thomas explains. Its appliances are in general use, and as any housewife can tell you, repairmen are hard to come by. The company garners good will, and certainly builds up sales prospects for the future, if one of its retired men is sitting down the street with a screwdriver when somebody's refrigerator goes wrong.

Many a company, with less effort than it is now putting into the psychological and paternal approach, could adopt some version of the appliance firm's plan with telling effect. Certainly the manufacturers of anything that breaks down — from autos to TV sets — could. Other businesses could train retiring employees in some outside trade that would have a playback beneficial to them. A department store, for instance, might train its employees in the delivery business, or in the production or supply of goods the store buys. A railroad or air line could teach its employees how to be travel agents. There's always an angle.

Most companies continue to regard retiring employees as a different breed of animals. They aren't. If a 37-year-old employee asks for a promotion and a raise, what he really wants is prestige and money. If he's good the boss makes him Second Assistant Chief Clerk and gives him five bucks.

A little prestige and a little money will do very nicely at 65, too.

Last of Eighty Witnesses Will Be Heard

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Pauline Shapero, a York Township business woman who sparked the inquiry into affairs in the township, was to testify before the inquiry today.

Unless rebuttal witnesses were brought forward by township counsel John J. Robinette, she was to be the last of more than 80 witnesses to be heard.

At Thursday's session Judge Joseph Sweet of Hamilton set a tentative deadline of Sept. 5 for ending the inquiry, which opened May 19. This would allow him to resume his Wentworth County duties as scheduled Sept. 8.

The deadline could be extended, he said. "It is only a target . . . any persons who have evidence relevant to the inquiry will be heard."

Judge Sweet, T. Kelso Creighton, commission counsel, and John Brooks, acting township counsel, conferred Thursday with Attorney - General Roberts. Judge Sweet said the meeting was held to clear the way for a commission secretary to help in the preparation of his report.

W. J. Adams, solicitor and secretary-treasurer of the Lakeshore Investment Corporation, testified that the corporation made a profit of more than $200,000 on the sale of lands purchased from the township and later redeveloped into a subdivision.

the second stop of her planned cross-country tour to raise funds for a proposed new Whytehaven.

She needs $10,000 to meet a property option which expires Aug. 28. She estimates the entire project will cost $300,000.

Mrs. Whyte says an anonymous benefactor has pledged $10,000 a year in monthly payments for three years to maintain the new home.

Mr. Wilkins, before going into court, said that, as an act of faith, he would be willing to let Bruce return to Mrs. Whyte.

COULDN'T TELL HER

Mr. Wilkins said he applied for Bruce without Mrs. Whyte's knowledge because he did not have the heart to tell her. She only found out when he testified on his plans for his son.

Mr. Wilkins had only praise for Mrs. Whyte but he felt it was time Bruce returned to his family.

"I think he will be happy with us," he said.

He said Mrs. Whyte's downfall was caused by "her great big beautiful heart—she couldn't turn any child away. Whytehaven is a good place for children to grow up and I'm going to do all in my power to see that Mom gets back in business. In fact, if I were to die, I wouldn't want my children to go to any other place but Whytehaven."

Garden Notes

Plants for a Long, Hot Summer

By FLORA M. SAVELLE

The gardener who is enthusiastic in Spring has lost a lot of his vim by August. He still wants color, bloom and a neat appearance for his garden but is looking for plants of easy care. Ones that will not need frequent dividing, replacing or reconditioning.

Here are a number of perennials that will look well for years with a minimum of care, seldom need dividing, do not crowd out their neighbor plants and offer a good range of color, height, foliage forms and all are quite hardy.

For the back of the border where tall shrubby perennials have room to spread to their full growth plant buddleia. The new hybrids have lilac shaped trusses of bloom. It is often called "summer lilac" or butterfly bush. If the flowers are cut off as they fade new ones will form through the summer. Colors white to deep carmine. Cut off tops back to one foot each spring. Eight feet tall, four to six feet spread. It thrives in poor soil.

Another space filling plant is the mallow. The new giants are six to eight feet tall and have blooms the size of a tea plate. Red, white and pink blooms in August and September.

For the middle border choose salvia farinacea, it has spikes of powder blue bloom from June to November, three feet tall.

Perennial asters are known as Michealmas dasies in England. They do need dividing every second year but are of easy care with masses of single or double daisy-like flowers over a long period in late summer when many other plants are spent. The dwarf types are about one foot high, tall two and a half to three feet and the English hybrids three feet tall. All produce hundreds of bloom in colors from white through lavender, pink, purple and carmine.

Shasta daisy specials are Kingsville Beauty, the largest single type, Wirral supreme, a beautiful double type and Elsie Gilbert a chiffon type with double fine fringed bloom. All will bloom through the summer if the faded blooms are cut back.

Lavender munstead and L.vera will add a soft mound of grey folliage with delicate blue bloom. Can be used as an accent plant or as a low hedge.

Lythrum Morden pink or L. Dropmore purple blooms July to September with feathery spikes of tiny bloom. Three to four feet tall, likes head in the sun and cool feet. Will thrive in poor soil.

Astilbe has no preferance for soil, will grow well in semi-shade or sun and has lacy foliage, panicles of soft fluffy bloom in white, peach or fiery crimson.

For a low border choose Armeria maritima also called sea pink. The evergreen foliage looks well all season. Blooms from May to August, flowers bright pink, can be dried. A. Formosa hybrids are taller, up to two feet. Thrives in poor soil.

Peonies will live happily in the same position for a quarter of a century or longer. They need a dressing annually of compost or bone meal. Seldom bothered with pests. If botrytis threatens dust with captan, or spray. Cut off tops and burn every fall.

Tritomas, or red hot poker will add spikes of scarlet orange to the border. Thirty to thirty six inches tall, rush-like foliage. Plant in light eil and mulch lightly over winter.

Sixty-Nine Hurt, Trains Collide On CPR Mainline

Fast Freight Hits Crack Passenger at Gull Lake

GULL LAKE, Sask. (CP)—At least 69 persons were injured and nine were still in hospital today after a rear-end collision early Sunday between a fast freight, baggage and passenger train and the crack passenger train, the Dominion.

Both Canadian Pacific Railway trains were eastbound from Vancouver to Montreal with the Dominion running about an hour late when they collided.

W. McCracken, CPR superintendent of the Medicine Hat division, said it was a miracle no one was killed.

The crash occurred, about 5:35 a.m. as the Dominion, No. 8, made a scheduled stop at Gull Lake, 190 miles west of Regina. The train was about five hours late reaching Regina after the collision.

REAR-END SMASH

The last three cars of the Dominion were wrecked when the other train, No. 6, crashed into the rear. The first diesel of No. 5 was demolished and its second engine and a coach were damaged.

The tiny 18-bed Gull Lake hospital treated 69 passengers after the wreck. None of the nine detained was in critical condition though there were serious injuries.

A hospital official said several of the 11 patients in the hospital before the wreck were discharged to make room for the injured.

J. Breen, of Brandon, Man., said the tail car of the Dominion was "smashed to smithereens.

"I don't know how people that were in there are still living," be said. "It really is a miracle." About four persons were believed to have been sleeping in the car.

The second-last car was tossed on its side. Eyewitnesses said the passengers had to be taken out through the windows.

TELLS OF HEROISM

One unidentified witness said the injured engineer of No. 6 "worked like mad in the rescue operations" though his head was gashed and blood streamed down his face.

"Finally he weakened and someone took him away."

Earlier reports said Dave Ralston of Medicine Hat, the engineer, suffered head lacerations.

Mr. Breen said the Dominion had backed into the Gull Lake station yard after stopping east of it.

"A green signal light was on showing the station to be clear, and I think that's why the other train hit us."

The injured included Mrs. Beulah McIlvraith, Toronto.

Fleet Admiral W. 'Bull' Halsey Dies Suddenly

FISHERS ISLAND, N.Y. (AP) President Eisenhower led the United States today in mourning the death of Fleet Admiral William F. (Bull) Halsey.

Halsey, 76, died here Sunday of a heart attack while vacationing.

He gained fame as the admiral who chased the Japanese fleet to its death in the Pacific during the Second World War.

Eisenhower, who heard the news of Halsey's death at Gettysburg, Pa., said he had lost a warm personal friend, and the U.S. one of its "great natural leaders."

SHINING EXAMPLE

Only four men have held the title of fleet admiral—a life rank. Halsey's death leaves Chester W. Nimitz as the only one surviving. At Berkeley, Calif., Nimitz said that Halsey "has left for all of us a [illegible]hining example of courage [illegible] service."

Halsey was born in Elizabeth, N.J., the son of a ship captain. He graduated in 1904 from Annapolis.

When Halsey took command of navy forces in the South Pacific in 1942, the tide of war was running heavily in favor of Japan.

"We had nothing but a shoestring," he said later. "We were told to hold on and we held on—from Guadalcanal to Tokyo."

His daring made the shoestring fleet a telling weapon. His motto was simple—"Hit hard, hit fast and hit often."

A few months after taking command, he led his forces deep into the Pacific for a strike at the Marshall and Gilbert islands, the first big naval offensive of the Pacific war.

Repeatedly he scored against superior enemy forces.

"We get away with it," he once [illegible]ained, "because we violate [illegible] traditional rules of naval warfare. We do the exact opposite of what they expect us to do. Most important, whatever we do, we do fast."

Finally his forces gained control of the Pacific and in 1945, during a 35-day period, his command destroyed or damaged 2,804 enemy planes, sank or damaged 148 Japanese combat ships and sank or damaged 1,598 merchant ships.

Historians expressed mixed views of his role in the 1944 battle of Leyte Gulf. Sir Winston Churchill said Halsey was decoyed into a trap. But Halsey maintained he was right.

METRES PAYING OFF

TOKYO (Reuters) — Parking metres have become one of the major sources of income for the Tokyo metropolitan government. Officials said that in the first six months of operation the government collected 54,000,000 yen ($135,000) from the meters. The revenue is being put aside for the construction of underground parking garages in downtown Tokyo.

Eleven Killed In 2-Car Crash

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Two cars smashed head-on Sunday night in a crash that killed 11 persons, a record toll for an automobile accident in Missouri.

Eight others were injured in the two cars. Six of the dead were adults and five were children.

Three other persons were shaken up. They were in a third car that skidded into the wreckage eight miles east of Columbia on U.S. Highway 40.

One wrecked car was owned by G. W. [illegible]dy of White Hall, Ill., and the other by LeRoy Thompson, 31, of Richmond, Mo.

SOUTHERN NATAL NATIVES RENEW THEIR PROTESTS

New Disturbances Reported in Region

DURBAN, South Africa (Reuters)—Violence flared again today throughout Natal province following a weekend of rioting and arson by African natives protesting government regulations.

Trouble hit communities in South Natal and extra police were moved to the area from Port Shepstone and Pietermaritzburg.

More than 100 African women were arrested at Umtwalumi near Port Shepstone on charges of creating a disturbance. The women were reported to have built roadblocks, stopped seven buses and demanded to be taken to Durban or Pietermartizburg to rescue Africans imprisoned there.

HOSTILE ATTITUDE

Durban city officials sent to the suburb of Cato Manor to deal with health services were forced to leave again because of "the attitude of the Africans."

Police left the south coast resort of Port Shepstone for a community store in Ifafa village after a crowd of demonstrating natives cut telephone lines.

Police arrested 84 women Friday and another 42 Saturday for creating disturbances at Ifafa in the Isipofu area.

Two armored cars carrying 18 policemen went to the South Natal community of St. Faith's Mission following reports that a crowd of about 1,000 converged on the mission and refused to pay taxes due today because South Africa's racial segregation laws were keeping men unemployed.

African unrest simmered elsewhere under the guns of extra police patrols. Rioting and arson hit communities in southern and central regions of this east coast province during the weekend.

Two Africans described by police as "agitators" were killed Saturday outside Pietermaritzburg when police opened fire on a crowd of about 300 rioting Africans.

Three schools burned down in the Pietermaritzburg suburb of Sobantu during the rioting.

Canadian Woman Gives Birth to Girl in Plane

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Suzanne Ector was born Sunday 10 days ahead of time and 9,000 feet over Missouri.

Mrs. Hugh Ector, 27, of Argenta, B.C., gave birth to the eight-pound, four-ounce girl in an airliner with the stewardess and two passengers as midwives.

Mother and daughter were taken to a Memphis hospital after the Delta Airlines plane landed here and are doing fine.

Mrs. Ector was en route from Canada to visit her parents at Sylvarena, Miss. She felt the first faint labor pains at Chicago but figured she would reach Jackson, Miss., in plenty of time. She was wrong.

Suzanne's birth certificate will list Memphis, since that's the first place she touched land, but she actually was born high over Malden in the Missouri bootheel.

Keeper Bitten by Cobra Expected To Live, Long Serum Flight Made

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — A four-foot-long Indian cobra bit an employee of a reptile garden near here Sunday but the man is expected to live because of a 1,300 - mile serum flight from Miami, Fla.

The coast guard and the air force flew anti-cobra serum from Miami after 32-year-old William White was bitten. The serum was administered six hours after the accident.

A single drop of cobra venom can be fatal. And usually it takes only four hours to kill, said William H. Haast, operator of the Miami Serpentorium.

But the cobra's fangs pierced a sack of heavy material before they hit White on a thumb. The bag apparently absorbed some of the venom.

A few minutes after midnight, Dr. C. C. Dumont said White's condition was satisfactory.

"He has a chance to recover," said Dr. Dumont. "I think he'll be O.K."

The doctor said White has experienced some symptoms of cobra poisoning — particularly stiffening of the joints in his legs and low blood pressure.

The owner of the reptile garden, John Flinchpaugh, said White's job was caring for the snakes. Using a long instrument with forceps on one end, White had put the cobra in the heavy bag preparatory to cleaning its cage. It was a job he had done many times.

After White was bitten a telephone call was made to the Miami Serpentorium, only source of anti-cobra serum in the United States. The serum is made in Bombay, India.

While air force lieutenants James H. Ahmann and Larry Marks tood by a T-33 jet trainer, a coast guard helicopter picked up the serum at the serpentorium. Miami police blocked traffic off a highway so the helicopter could set down beside the serpentorium. The helicopter made a 15-minute hop to the air base.

The jet covered the 1,300 miles from Miami to this city in northwest Missouri in three hours, 48 minutes.

Steel Users Well Stocked, Laid in Supplies Before Strike

What has the steel strike done so far to the American economy and when will it really hurt? Sam Dawson, AP business news analyst, summarizes a nation-wide survey of present conditions.

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The government will step into the steel strike when it's a national emergency and not before. So says President Eisenhower. How long before the strike becomes a threat to the over-all economy?

A nation-wide survey by Associated Press reporters shows that with few exceptions users of steel are well stocked. Unemployment has hit the transportation and mining industries, where closely tied to steel production.

But most steel users were able to lay in supplies from domestic or foreign mills. A few have been paying higher prices. A. O. Smith says it must close its pipe mill in Milwaukee now. Some firms say they will run out of steel after Labor Day. More say they can hold out till October or later.

At Groton, Conn., the Electric Boat division of General Dynamics says it ordered steel so far in advance it can continue work on seven A-subs for at least a year.

The auto industry, which uses about one-fifth of all steel output, reports large stocks on hand because the strike seemed so sure for so long. It has a breather ahead because no steel is used during the model changeovers. Also Detroit Steel Corporation isn't on strike and Ford's own steel plant isn't affected.

Appliance makers say the pinch may come in another month—although some can go still longer. A few put Labor Day as the trouble date.

In Pittsburgh, Westinghouse says its supplies of various steel products will last from 60 to 90 days. In New York General Electric says various divisions have varying amounts and there may be some trading between plants.

Helped by a two-weeks vacation just ended, International Harvester of Chicago says it expects to run at least till the end of September. Fairbanks Morse may have trouble after August.

The International Business Machine plant in Lexington, Ky., has a four-months supply.

In New York, Continental Can says its over-all steel tonnage is high, but demand for various kinds of cans varies widely, and its Chicago plant expects to feel the effect in October.

Briton States Reds Believe They Could Win World War

WASHINGTON (AP) — A British expert on Russian military affairs says military leaders of the Soviet Union believe they could win a world war.

But these military leaders do not think a surprise nuclear attack by either side can be decisive, reported J. M. Mackintosh, adviser on Soviet military affairs to the Institute of Strategic Studies in London. He was quoted in a copyrighted interview in the magazine U.S. News and World Report.

Mackintosh served during the Second World War as a British liaison officer with the Russian Army. He based his belief mainly on material printed in what he called semi-restricted Soviet military journals.

He said that according to the present Soviet military doctrine, war against the West could be won in six steps. They are as follows:

1. The war would be launched with a "forestalling blow," a nuclear strike at military targets inside the United States.
2. Soviet ground forces would quickly overrun and neutralize Western Europe, escaping from return nuclear blows on Russia.
3. A slow war of movements that might last for years would follow, with Red troops moving into Africa, others through Siberia to Alaska.
4. Soviet armies would cross the Atlantic to South America and move north toward the United States. Others from Alaska would move south through Canada.
5. Red ground forces would advance across the borders of the United States, making the U.S. the No. 1 battle area.
6. By sheer weight of numbers, they would achieve a final victory, with Soviet forces occupying the U.S.

Mackintosh said a "forestalling blow" is not a preventive war, something he said the Russians rule out. A forestalling blow is "an attack launched against an enemy who, intelligence reports and other information indicates, is on the point of launching a nuclear attack on the Soviet Union."

Soviet strategists do not plan any limited wars or wars "by proxy" as the Korean War was, he continued. He said the Hungarian revolution proved that they cannot rely upon the satellite armies, perhaps with the exception of Bulgaria.

Consolidation Of Five Railway Unions Proposed

CLEVELAND (AP)—The president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers proposed Sunday consolidation of the five railway operating unions. The five have a combined membership of 250,000.

H. E. Gilbert addressed a letter to the four other union chiefs, asking them to join in a discussion for uniting all engine, train and yard service employees on the railroads of the North American continent.

Gilbert said the idea is not new and that his union's recent convention reaffirmed the belief in rail labor unity and instructed him to make contact with the four organizations with the consolidation proposal so labor can "present a united front against the Association of American Railroads and other railroads on the North American continent."

The letter went to Guy L. Brown, grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; W. P. Kennedy, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen; J. A. Paddock, president of the Order of Railway Conductors and Brakemen; and N. J. Speirs, president of the Switchmen's Union of North America.

Negotiations in the rail industry will be opening shortly on contracts to replace the three-year agreements expiring Nov. 1.

In Montreal A. R. McCormack, secretary of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers (Ind.) for eastern region Canadian Pacific Railway employees, said the engineers' union is opposed to consolidation. It had rebuffed previous consolidation suggestions.

At Ottawa, A. J. Kelly, deputy president in Canada of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, declined to comment.

Quebec's 16 fatalities included nine in traffic, four in water mishaps, and three miscellaneous accidental deaths.

Only Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island were free of fatalities.

British Columbia led the western provinces with three traffic deaths, three drownings and one other fatal accident.

Six Youngsters Suffer Burns as Boat Destroyed

ORILLIA (CP)—Six youngsters suffered slight burns Saturday when a 16-foot inboard runabout burst into flames on Go Home Bay about 40 miles northwest of here on Georgian Bay.

The vessel's tank had just been filled with gasoline when a spark from the starter apparently fired gasoline fumes.

Mary Anne Henderson, 15, of Toronto suffered slight burns and James Leckie, 20, of Stoney Creek who started the engine, suffered scorched feet.

The other occupants of the boat were: Margaret Joan Leckie, 16, of Burlington, Diane Henderson, 12, of Toronto, Barbara Allen, 16, of Burlington and Bill Ogilvie, 20, of Stoney Creek.

When the fire broke out boat's occupants dived into the water through partly-fastened side curtains. The boat sank in flames.

Morale of Couple 'Hit Rock Bottom' After Six Days in Fallout Shelter

AURORA, Ont. (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. Ross Parry stepped Sunday from the eight-by-10-foot concrete shelter that had been their home for exactly a week and the first thing they wanted to look at was something distant.

Parry, 37, a Toronto Telegram reporter, and his 35-year-old wife, Kay, both said they felt fine although they were a bit weak in the knees and had difficulty focussing their eyes at first. Ross lost five pounds but Kay's weight remained the same as when they entered.

Purpose of their exile was to find out what life would be like after an atomic blast. A series of articles which appeared daily in the newspaper record the physical and psychological aspects of maintaining life in such a confined space.

A crowd of about 500 were on hand to see them emerge. A doctor said the Parrys were obviously all right and a medical check was unnecessary.

After a reunion with two of their four children—the others are away at summer camp—Parry told the crowd they were happy to see the sun shining. It was raining when they went in.

A copy of Parry's stories will be given to Charles Rea, member of Parliament for Toronto Spadina riding, who plans to turn them over to the minister of health and welfare.

The shelter, in a subdivision of this town 20 miles north of Toronto, was built by Consolidated Building Corporation according to specifications and information supplied by the Canadian and United States governments.

In a story written after six days underground, Parry reported that while the shelter "would shield us from lethal radioactive fallout, it affords no protection from the phantoms of the mind." He said their morale had "hit rock bottom."

"Nothing changes here — only the hands of the clock. And time has no meaning unless it is related to day and night or going places and doing things."

R. Castro Flies To Chile Meet Of American States

Rumored Brother Fidel Also on Way to Parley

HAVANA (Reuters) — Rumors circulated today that Premier Fidel Castro is on his way to Chile to attend the conference there of the foreign ministers of the Organization of American States.

The rumors could not be confirmed although it is known Castro's younger brother, Raul, chief of the Cuban armed forces, is on his way to Chile and is expected in Santiago today.

Raul Castro is believed to be carrying documents giving details of what the premier has described as the "conspiracy" by Rafael Trujillo of the Dominican Republic against the Cuban revolutionary government.

The foreign ministers meanwhile hammered out agreement on a set of resolutions, expected to be signed at a final conference session Tuesday.

TO STUDY INVASIONS

The key resolution would give the already existing inter-American peace committee of the Organization of American States temporary powers to study "methods and procedures to prevent activities originating abroad designed to overthrow constituted governments."

The aim is to prevent such things as the invasion of Panama last April by about 100 men, mostly Cubans; recent invasions of Nicaragua from Costa Rica and Honduras, the Dominican campaign against Castro and Castro's against Trujillo.

The resolution balances this fire-prevention agency urged by the U.S. with provisions to meet demands by Cuba and Venezuela for emphasis on strict observance of human rights and representative democracy and economic help for underdeveloped lands.

The U.S. is chairman of the peace committee at present.

SAYS OAS USELESS

Raul Castro said he was going to Santiago to convey the goodwill of the Cuban people. But during a stop in Caracas Sunday night he described the conference as "farcical" and said his brother is not interested in it. He also described the OAS as "useless."

"Nobody in it realizes or will deal with the real problem in the Caribbean and in all Latin America, which is the economic problem," he said.

He also charged that the OAS "frequently is used by certain people for their own needs." He asserted that Trujillo wanted the conference held to coincide "with the plot to invade Cuba."

Castro, who is commander-in-chief of Cuba's armed forces, was accompanied by his wife and 40 other Cubans.

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP) — A high Dominican army officer said Saturday night the Dominican Republic government has played no part in any attempt to invade Cuba.

Gen. Jose Garcia Trujillo, armed forces secretary, declared statements by Cuban Premier Fidel Castro show that an alleged invasion of Cuba was set up by Castro himself. No Dominican citizens participated and no Dominican weapons were found in the reported invasion, he said.

Garcia Trujillo said Cubans did invade the Dominican Republic in June and were wiped out, but not before Dominican blood was shed.

SAYS PLANE TALE HOAX

Sunday night, the intelligence chief of the Dominican army said Castro's account of the seizure of an arms-laden plane is "one of the greatest swindles ever perpetrated on public opinion in the Americas."

Castro has charged the plane came from the Dominican Republic and was part of a conspiracy against his government.

Col. John Abbes Garcia, the intelligence chief, said it is "an irrefutable fact" that a revolutionary movement broke out in Cuba headed by Majors Gutierrez Menoya and William Alexander Morgan. He said the uprising erupted into armed action Aug. 7.

Castro's story is full of contradictions, he said, which show the tale was a "farce invented by Castro to spread confusion among those participating in the insurrectional movement against the Castro tyranny."

RELEASE HUNDREDS

In Cuba, authorities continued to release hundreds of persons jailed during a drive against what the government called a Dominican-backed conspiracy. Officials apparently are satisfied the reported plot against Castro's regime has been smashed.

About 4,000 civilians and army men were taken into custody by a big military dragnet.

There has been no estimate, official or unofficial, as to how many persons will remain in custody to face formal charges. A recently decreed law establishes the maximum penalty of death for counter-revolutionary activity.

Considered certain to be among those held are Arturo Hernandez Tellaheche, a former senator who Castro claims was to be president of the National Cattlemen's Association who is accused of contributing financially to the plot, and Luis Pozo, the son of a former Havana mayor. The government says Pozo came to Cuba aboard a plane seized by Castro forces when it landed in south-central Cuba Thursday.

INVEST IN GHANA

BONN (Reuters) — Western Germany is prepared to grant federal guarantees to a value of 200,000,000 marks ($50,000,000) for investment in Ghana's development the foreign office announced Sunday. The announcement was issued in a communique marking the end of a three-day visit to Bonn by Ghana's minister of finance, K. A. Gbedemah.

Nudists' Open House Success, Weather Bad

SURREY, B.C. (CP)—The secluded trails of a thriving community of nudists were opened to the public Sunday.

The Sunny Trails Club agreed the whole thing was a huge success. The public — standing clothed and in little groups—generally termed the day "interesting."

Possibly the biggest handicap was the weather. Nudists shivered or wore clothes as the temperature hovered in the low 60s beneath a threatening sky. Others disregarded the weather and played a lively game of volley ball or swam in the pool.

The nudists' open house was the first of its kind in western Canada. Only married couples and single girls were admitted to the park-like club. Visitors were asked to sign a document agreeing they would not be offended by the sight of a naked body—or the activity inside. Private cameras were not allowed but the day's activity was well documented by press and television.

PROVINCIAL POLICE KEPT BUSY WITH MINOR ACCIDENTS

Belleville Provincial Police were kept busy over the weekend with no less than ten minor accidents in the immediate Belleville area being investigated. No injuries were reported as result of any of the mishaps.

Five mishaps were reported on Saturday, including one on 401 highway north of the city in which the car of a Toronto fishermen trio broke an axle and caught fire, badly damaging the late model car.

Four accidents were reported on Sunday and one early this morning.

SEEING DOUBLE

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (Reuters)—Teachers at Kauwhata Primary School sometimes think they are seeing double when they enter their classrooms. The school has nine sets of twins in a total roll of 380. However, the teacher of most of the twins doesn't let it bother her. She is a twin herself.

V.O.N. Service Highly Praised By Families

"By golly, I'm telling you the truth. They're good. They can't be beaten, everyone of them. They're ten times as good as any nurses I ever saw. They called here every day for ten months. They always come when you call them, sometimes twice a day. They never hurry. They do the job well, no matter how long it takes. They never give you the feeling that they have to rush off to another job. Well, I couldn't say enough good about them". So speaks Mr. Alec Bremner, 383 Bleecker Avenue, referring to the Belleville Victorian Order of Nursing service.

"I think they're wonderful. They have been looking after my father for 12 years. They come anytime you call them and if, for instance, there is something that needs constant attention, they come every day to treat it", says Mrs. Ralph Bowerman, 54 Crestview.

"They are just out of this world. They are so different from anybody else. They are just out to do the best they can for anyone. When our doctor came and saw how well the nurses were looking after my husband, he said, "Well, you won't need me". And although people said I could not look after my husband here in the house, I find that with the help of those wonderful nurses I can". Mrs. E. T. Austin, 81 Cedar Street.

The quiet and steady nurses who elicit such remark are the Misses Dorothy and Grace Connor, Miss Theresa Callaghan, and Mrs. Ethel Neil, a relief nurse, who operate within a three-mile radius of the city and include Point Anne. They cope with about 110 cases every month, some for a few days, some for several years. The V.O.N. service in Belleville is now in its 35th year.

Welcome Wagon Club Enjoys Social Parties

Mrs. B., who has been living in Belleville for the past six months, held a party the other day, for her friends, all of them newcomers and who had met and become friends through the Welcome Wagon Club, which has been operating for about a year.

The club holds parties and pot luck suppers for husbands and wives periodically. The money raised will be given to the Belleville Retarded Children Association.

The club is derived from the Belleville Welcome Wagon, which is sponsored by some 20 local firms and whose hostess, Mrs. L. M. Hagerman, during the past ten years of its operations, has visited more than 2,500 newly-arrived families to Belleville.

People come to Belleville from all over the world. Almost invariably they can speak English. But wheer is there a baby sitter? The nearest school? A good music teacher? Boy Scouts? Girl Guides? Who will look after children while a mother is in hospital?

Mrs. Hagerman, conveying a letter of welcome from Mayor Gerald Hyde, knows all the answers. A visit requires one or two hours. She often refers mothers to the Canadian Red Cross homemaker service and the V.O.N. service. She tells them, as is often requested, the nearest church of their denomination and the name of the minister, and then telephones the minister, who subsequently calls himself.

At least 30 new families arrive in Belleville every month. On the average Mrs. Hagerman visits about 22. She cannot see more due to lack of time, and she can only learn about their arrival by word of mouth, sometimes six months later.

This is an invaluable service, solves the difficulties and abolishes that very uncomfortable feeling that very uncomfortable feeling of being lost and bewildered among strange people in a strange land.

Exhibition Park Readied To Stage Finest Four Days In History of Local Fair

Sullen rain-dripping skies greeted the opening day of the four-day Belleville Fair this morning.

The exhibition Park was the scene of feverish activities over the weekend as the Conklin Shows moved their paraphernalia into positions, erected rides and tents for the various shows and other forms of entertainment.

Fair officials were busy too looking after last-minute details, while livestock and horses accommodation was readied for the largest entry list on record.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police arrived in the city yesterday and housed their mounts in special barns. They worked out during the afternoon. They will stage their first sensational exhibition of horsemanship at the evening show tonight immediately following the stage attraction.

Mr. C. D. Graham, Ontario deputy minister of agriculture, will officially open the fair tonight at 7:45 in brief ceremonies conducted on the stage in front of the grandstand.

A feature of the midway is a special children's section where rides and other attractions are packaged so the youngsters do not have to wander all over the grounds looking for their own specialties.

This has proved a boon to parents in other centres where the Conklin Midway has appeared.

Judging got off to an early start today with the junior fair taking the spotlight.

JUDGING UNDER WAY

In this department there was early home-making activity, judging competitions and tractor driving contests. At 9.30 a.m. the judging of grains and seeds got under way.

At twelve noon judges picked winners in the roots and vegetables; flowers and school-work departments. Judging of ladies' work took place at one o'clock.

Proud mothers from all parts of the district, and not a few from the city, paraded their offspring in the colorful baby show with the up-to-twelve-monthers" being judged at two o'clock and those up to 18 months at three o'clock.

Excerpts from the colorful stage show were offered during the afternoon.

This entertainment said by directors to be one of the best in years will be shown in its entirety tonight. Featured is a sensational aquatic act with a dozen beautiful female natators and divers performing in thrilling stunts.

Then there is Tonimara and the Five Singing Falconss, a highly rated singing act that has drawn raves wherever it has appeared. The Fabulous Paul Krohler and other acts round out a highly enjoyable program of variety entertainment. Then follows the Mounties.

The fair gives all appearances of living up to the directors' claim that it is by far the best ever held.

The horse exhibits are exceptionally outstanding, with emphasis on the pony and hackney classes. Livestock and other farm exhibits are also well above those of former years.

GOOD RACING PROMISE

Lovers of harness racing get their innings on Tuesday and Wednesday when the finest sulky horseflesh in the province vies for outstanding purses.

Tomorrow there will be 2.30 and 2.25 classes while on Wednesday will be featured the 2.28 and 2.24 classes. Entry lists have been filled for many days.

Industry and business is well represented at the fair besides many special features. There will be exhibits of new cars, farm machinery, furniture, electrical appliances, household goods and building materials. Many outstanding displays have been readied in the various buildings.

The fair patron has not been neglected in other departments. Full course meals and lunches can be obtained on the grounds while there is plenty of new parking space inside the park.

Incidentally the Mounties Ride will be shown on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons as well as every evening.

Labor-Backed Party Hopes to Form Opposition

By DON HOYT

Canadian Press Staff Writer

CORNER BROOK, Nfld. (CP) A maverick political party hopes to supplant the Progressive Conservatives as the official opposition party in the Newfoundland legislature after Thursday's general election.

Created less than three weeks ago, the Newfoundland Democratic party has 19 candidates contesting seats in the 36-seat legislature, dominated before dissolution July 28 by the 31-man Liberal government of Premier Joseph Smallwood. The Liberals have 33 candidates, the United Newfoundland party nine and the Conservatives 32. There are two independents.

Democratic party leader Ed Finn Jr., a 33-year-old former newspaper man, says his party, supported by the Canadian Labor Congress, can elect "as few as four or as many as 10 members."

"But if we can get our voice in there to represent the average Newfoundlander, the campaign will have succeeded."

STRONG IN MILL TOWNS

Western Newfoundland—with a heavy labor vote from the 3,000 union members of Bowater's Newfoundland Pulp and Paper Mills and 2,000 more from trade unions in smaller labor groups—is the main area of the Democratic party's campaign.

"There is no doubt that the Bowater unions will support us," says Baxter Fudge, CLC representative and Democratic party campaign manager in western Newfoundland.

Mr. Fudge says the election results "will surprise the mainland." The voters would show that the one-man government of Newfoundland was not supported by 99 per cent of the voters as Premier Smallwood has claimed.

Observers of all political shades here say the Democratic party will poll a strong popular vote, particularly from labor.

LIBERALS CONFIDENT

Liberal party workers are confident the fighting premier will be given a strong vote of confidence and the 33 seats in the legislature he is seeking to back his condemnation of Ottawa's handling of special financial assistance to the province as "a betrayal" of Newfoundland.

Liberal speakers in constituencies along the west coast are sticking mainly to the term 29 question which Labor Minister Charles H. Ballam says is "the basic issue."

Democratic and Conservative candidates are emphasizing their opposition to controversial labor laws passed unanimously by the legislature in March during a loggers' strike in central Newfoundland.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT

Blood Sugar Most Important in Diabetes

Q. Can sugar be in the urine without being in the blood? If so, is there danger of it eventually leading to diabetes?—J.D.

A. As you probably know, the blood normally contains sugar whereas the urine does not. In true diabetes there is an increase in blood sugar above normal and some of the excess spills over into the urine. There are other situations in which the urine may show sugar or sugar-like substances. For example, in renal diabetes the kidneys allow sugar to seep out but there is no elevation in blood sugar as in true diabetes. From a health standpoint, sugar in the urine is the least important thing about diabetes. However, the urine test does offer a convenient means of detecting possible trouble and is used to keep tab on patients who are being treated for diabetes. Doctors can diagnose diabetes more certainly and detect it in milder form by determining the amount of sugar in the blood than by testing the urine for sugar.

Answers do not necessarily reflect the opinion of all doctors. The diagnosis and treatment of disease is the function of the patient's personal physician. Question directed to Science Editors, P.O. Box 97,-Terminal "A", Toronto, Ontario will be incorporated in these columns when possible.

Boy Injured When Bicycle Struck by Car

TRENTON — A local youth was injured Saturday when he was struck with a car at the intersection of Herman and Bocage Streets while riding a bicycle. Richard Bull, 10 to 12 years of age, of 2 Bocage St., was taken to Trenton Memorial Hospital where he was treated for bruises and lacerations to the right shoulder and arm.

Eric Perry, driver of the car, was proceeding east on Herman Street. When he looked back to speak to a person on the lawn at the corner, he failed to turn the corner and proceeded across the road where his vehicle struck the boy on the bicycle.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Bull are the parents of the lad.

MEMBERS VISIT CAMP

Thursday evening the Kiwanis Club of Trenton journeyed to the Salvation Army Fresh Air Camp at Roblin Lake for their regular meeting. The group, headed by P. R. Fraser, president, had supper with the boys which the club had sponsored. The members later toured the camp and joined the boys for games.

The club has sponsored 24 boys at the camp this year. The lads range in age from eight to 12 years old and stay at the camp for one week. There are seven counsellors and a life guard to take care of the boys. Brigadier S. G. Gennery of the Mid-Ontario Division of the Army at Belleville is in charge of the camp, which handles about 1,000 boys each year.

Benny Fields, Old Vaudeville Star, Is Dead

NEW YORK (AP) — Benny Fields, song and dance man of the old vaudeville era who came back in recent years to headline in night clubs and television, died Sunday. He was 65.

At his side when he suffered a heart attack at their hotel was Blossom Seeley, his wife of 37 years and a former Broadway star who helped her husband to show business fame.

The couple recently returned from a month-long engagement at a Las Vegas night club.

Fields, once hailed by Bing Crsby as American's first crooner, trouped with Miss Seeley for 32 years. Benny always credited Blossom with his success.

"Blossom was the biggest star in vaudeville when she discovered me while slumming one night in Chicago, singing and dancing with a trio," Fields once said. "She started promoting me right then and she's been at it ever since."

The Fields were one of the few career couples in show business who were married for almost four decades.

WIFE AMONG VICTIMS

MANNING, S.C. (AP)—Charlie Poole Sumter happened along when police were starting to remove the dead and injured from a two-car collission near here. Poole had a crowbar in his automobile and helped officers pry the twisted metal so the mangled bodies could be extricated. It was not until later that he learned one of four women killed on the way home from their garment factory jobs was his wife.

Pyjama-Clad Stirling Cottager Catches Muskie With Bare Hands

Ride him cowboy.

The Calgary Stampede may have its own particular brand of excitement with bronc busting cowpokes doing their stuff, but Easterners have their own brand of marine style cowboys.

Take for instance the private rodeo staged Sunday morning in the Trent River by pyjama-clad Grant Potter of Stirling who successfully rode a 22-pound muskie and landed him with his bare hands.

Mr. Potter didn't even require the assistance of Mrs. Potter who hastily ran to the cottage to get a fish net. When she returned her husband was astride the 42-inch muskie off the end of their dock. He landed the big fish minutes later without assistance.

Still in his pyjamas after a cool night's sleep, Mr. Potter was taking a Sunday morning stroll in the vicinity of his cottage when he noticed what appeared to be a dead fish lying just under water off his dock.

He got a pole with the idea of shoving the dead fish out into the current to allow it to drift downstream.

But the fish wasn't dead and it started to swim away when touched by the pole.

Seeing that it was a live muskie, Mr. Potter dove head first into the water and grabbed the fish with his bare hands.

Neighboring cottagers, hearing the commotion, arrived in time to see the fish being landed, barehanded.

"When I got back from the cottage with the fish net, Grant was astride the muskie off the end of the dock," Mrs. Potter related. "He didn't even require the fish net."

"It was once in a lifetime," she said. "It will never happen again."

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Banks and steels were the major losers as industrials led the stock market down today in moderate morning trading.

Industrials dipped more than two points on index. Other group losses were not nearly as severe. Base metals gave up more than one-third but western oils and golds were off only a few decimal points.

The 11 a.m. volume was 656,000 shares, somewhat higher than Friday's 478,000 at the same hour.

A.V. Roe Canada featured industrials as it dipped 1⅜ at 9¾ points on a turnover of 5,460 shares. The company failed in its bid to win the contract for the airframes for Canada's new aircraft.

Bank of Montreal dipped 1½ at 57¼. Dominion Foundries eased ¾ at 47 while Algoma and Steel Company of Canada gave up ¼.

Kerr-Addison was up ¼ at 20¾ in a quiet gold list. Losses were limited to pennies by several juniors.

Local Racing Enthusiasts Had Good Day

Local sports car racing enthusiasts had a successful day at the Sports Car Club Trophy Races held at the Harewood Acres circuit near Jarvis, Ontario, last Saturday. Most successful was Ray Rockall, of St. Paul Street, in his English Elva Mark I, which was on the course for the first time in modified form.

In the third event of the day he placed fourth in class and was invited to compete in the one-hour race, the major event of the day. Starting off in field of 12 class competitors, the local driver managed to work his way up to first position in class when a leaking oil line gave difficulty. After about eight minutes in the pits the trouble was remedied, new oil added, and the car was back on the course. Mr. Rockall managed to finish second in his class despite the time lost by the pit stop.

Also competing from Belleville was Bill Hough of Wright Ave. driving an A.C. Ace-Britsol. He managed to place sixth in a class of 14 cars in the fourth race of the day, despite ignition timing difficulties which seriously restricted the performance of the vehicle.

Other members of the St. Lawrence Automobile Club who were successful in competition included Viv Yachuk of Cataraqui, who placed second in the Canada class race but was forced into retirement by a blown tire in the one-hour event. Homer Trotter, of Watertown, N.Y., placed his Saab Gran Turismo machine in second place in class in the first race of the day.

Ray Rockall, local motorsport enthusiast, is shown above driving his Elva Mk. I sports-racing car at speed on the Harewood course last Saturday. The small, light (850-pound) machine, which is powered by an 85-horsepower Coventry Climax engine, is capable of speeds up to about 125 miles an hour. The local driver took second place in a field of 12 class entries in the main one-hour event.

Queen Appears Healthy, Happy At Church

BALMORAL, Scotland (AP)—The Queen smiled and waved happily Sunday during her first public appearance since Buckingham Palace anounced she is expecting another child.

A crowd of several hundred got a fleeting glimpse of the 33-year-old Queen as she drove from Balmoral Castle and entered nearby Crathie Church for Sunday services.

Dressed in a bright lemon short coat and skirt with matching hat, the Queen stepped from her car unassisted by Prince Philip or Princess Margaret. Prince Charles and Princess Anne, who was nine years old Saturday, came along in another car and followed their parents into the church through a private entrance screened from public view by a row of trees.

Saturday, the Queen took Princess Anne on a birthday picnic in the forest near Balmoral Castle. Anne pranced through the woods in a game of hide and seek with 10-year-old Charles.

"Come and play with us Daddy," they called to Prince Philip. The prince did, and the Queen chased after them.

A blustery wind, which rustled across the picnic ground ruled out one birthday treat for Anne. She could not try casting in the lake with her new fishing rod.

Spokesmen at Buckingham Palace refused comment on a report in the London Sunday Pictorial that President Eisenhower will be named the royal baby's godfather.

The paper said the Queen may extend the invitations when Eisenhower visits Balmoral late this month.

France Will Not Be Pushed About Says Premier

L'ILE BOUCHARD, France (AP) — Premier Michel Debre says France won't be pushed around by her allies any more and will demand that they back up her war in Algeria all the way.

His speech seemed to be a public preview of what President de Gaulle will tell President Eisenhower when the two confer in private next month.

The premier, a faithful supporter of de Gaulle's goal of restoring the authority of France on the international scene, insisted this does not mean France is doomed to stand alone within the Western alliance.

Commenting that Algeria had been "created by us, that is to say by Frenchmen from our soil," the premier said:

"It is for renovated France to make her allies understand that she has the right to demand all their most complete support for a cause which goes far beyond a people and a generation."

Russian Dancers Storm Out of Private Hotel

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) — Dancers from Russia's Bolshoi ballet stormed out of a private hotel in a back street of a Sydney suburb Saturday after saying: "It is not proper for the Bolshoi to be here."

The dancers, now on an Australian tour, demanded separate rooms and were moved to the Hampton Court, one of Sydney's leading hotels.

When the Russians arrived at the private hotel, the Galan, they told proprietor Sam Edwards they had expected to stay at the Hotel Australia, one of the country's best.

They demanded authentic Russian-style meals, a private room with bath or shower, breakfast at 10, lunch at 3 and dinner at 11 p.m.

A spokesman for theatre company which brought the ensemble to Australia said the Galan accommodation was "only a temporary measure."

At the Hampton Court, which is popular with overseas tourists, the Russians will pay the equivalent of $6.75 a day without breakfast instead of the usual $8 "because we are very glad to have them," the manager said.

Federation Will Try to Appease Ontario Members

HALIFAX (CP) — The 36,000-member Canadian Teachers Federation, in an attempt to appease its largest participant—the 42,000 - member Ontario Teachers' Federation — has named a 15-member committee to outline an appropriate program for its affiliate organizations.

Whether Ontario will stay with the parent body was still uncertain as the federation's annual meeting ended here Saturday.

A rift occurred between Ontario and the parent body over a 25-cent-a - member membership fee increase instituted last year. Ontario is withholding approximately $10,000 in fees.

The federation has agreed to waive the arrears if Ontario indicates by Jan. 15, 1960 that it will pay its 1960 fees. If Ontario fails to meet the request, it will be suspended.

The study committee will consist of representatives from each of the 15 organizations within the federation. This gives Ontario five representatives because there are five organizations within the Ontario federation.

An interim report is to be made [illegible] the Canadian federation [illegible] by Dec. 10, about a month before the Ontario federation must signify its future plans.

Heigh-Ho! Let Us Go to the Fair

The Fair, opening today and continuing for three days, should be a record one. Crops are exceptionally good. Farmers report they are better than last year's. And the outstanding event is likely to be the Exhibition Ride of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

For 22 minutes sixteen riders from the force display horsemanship of a high order. The Exhibition ride is reported superior in many ways to the Musical Ride which it replaced.

The prosperity of the Province depends a great deal on its farming produce. What others have been able to grow, using what fertilizer, what implements, what methods, are always of interest to others. The Fair stimulates this competition.

Ribbons and prizes may be of casual concern to the general observer, but not to the farmer. No doubt some of them will grace their parlors at home throughout the winter, or perhaps only be brought out on special occasions.

The pigs do not care. But pigs actually represent pork, bacon, sausages and leather and what not else. And the farmer who raises the best pigs achieves something important for himself, the province and the nation.

This applies to all entries in all fields. And let the losers not be downhearted. They are sure to learn something at the Fair. And there is always another year.

The Belleville Fair, in addition to the usual attractions, invariably offers a tip-top grandstand show, and this year it promises to be no exception.

See the cattle, ponies and horses, one of the loveliest of animals, groomed, sleek, manes combed and flowing; poultry, flowers, vegetables, everything of the best the countryside can produce.

Each building and tent holds excitement and competition. The barkers shout along the midway. The flags are flying. Let letters remain unwritten. Let dishes pile up in the sink. Come, let us go to the Fair.

The Ache That Does Not Go Away

"The principal incentives to living are hope and curiosity," states The Stratford Beacon-Herald, "and the greater of these is curiosity."

Hope is one of those words that has been almost emptied of its truest meaning. Hope is, in fact, one of the theological virtues and its significance is vital.

Hope is the longing that cannot be satisfied in this world. Despite any, despite the best of advantages in education, marriage, means or ability, or all of them, there exists at times in all of us a yearning, an old ache that does not go away.

There are several views about this.

Some blame it on a job, or lack of one, on circumstances or maybe on a marriage. "If only I had that job, or lived in Vancouver, or had married that girl . . ." Many bored people are of this type. They change, move, remarry, always seeking the rainbow—in vain. The old ache returns regardless.

Another view is, "Of course, I used to feel that way when I was young. I know better now. I know better than to go around 'crying for the moon'." These people at least rub along more happily than the first type.

The Christian view is that for a longing that cannot be satisfied in this world, the most probable explanation is that it will be satisfied in the next, which is the one that matters more and should never be lost sight of.

That is what Hope is.

VOLUNTEERS!

Communist China's communes have "voluntarily" enrolled 99 per cent of the Chinese rural population in three months. As our drill instructor used to say, "Fall in the volunteers, Hu, Hu and Hu." — (Peterborough Examiner.)

PROOF OF WINNINGS

The only use some women have for their husbands is to flaunt them before unmarried women, as a trophy of no intrinsic value but merely as evidence that they have run the race and won. (Vancouver Province.)

JUST FOLKS.

WHAT HE'D THINK

By EDGAR A. GUEST

"Oh, will you think of me," she said,
"When I am far away from you,
When I am resting by the sea
And bathing in the ocean blue?
Oh, will you think of me, my dear,
As I shall think of you each day,
Or will I be forgotten quite
Because I am so far away?"

"Oh, I will think of you," he said,
"When you are resting by the sea
And I am left at home to toil
With no one here to care for me.
Yes, I will think of you each day,
With thoughts of you my head will brim,
For I'll be wondering every day
Just who is teaching you to swim."

Strictly Personal

Self-Styled Virtues Can Be Damaging

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The very traits we pride ourselves on may be those that are most damaging to us. This far-from-original thought occurred to me recently, when I learned that a couple we knew slightly had not been invited to a party the wife ardently desired to attend.

The reason they were not invited would have been an unbelievable shock to the wife. She considers herself a scintillating personality, always ready with a quip, and the life of every party.

On the other hand, she regards her husband as a sweet, dull, stick-in-the-mud, whose social success depends wholly upon her gaiety and aggressiveness.

Actually, people see them both in a quite different light. The husband is liked and wanted — but the couple is frequently not invited to parties because hostesses can't stand the wife.

He is shy, but quite bright and amusing in his own dry way, with a hidden charm that repays digging for. He is also supremely unconcerned with what others think of him, and couldn't care less whether he is or isn't included on any guest list.

The wife, however, is frantic with a need to seem popular. As a result, she laughs too frequently and too loudly, is willing to be malicious at the expense of others, and when she feels she is failing to make an impression she will set out to shock her audience with candid comments which she imagines are cute but which are only in poor taste.

"I just couldn't invite them" the hostess of the evening confided to me, "because although I'm crazy about him, I couldn't take the chance that she might offend some of my guests."

I am sure that in the privacy of their own home, this wife blames her husband for their sparse social life. She probably is convinced that if she had only married a more vivacious man she would by now have been the toast of society.

It is utterly impossible for her to see that what she calls "gaiety" is only desperation; what she calls "wit" is only hostility; what she calls "frankness" is only adolescent fence-scribbling; what she calls "animation" is only an embarrassing form of nervousness.

When our self-styled virtues are spoiling our lives, we ought to seriously consider cultivating what we think of as our "defects" — they might easily prove to be the best parts of us.

Canadian PLACE NAMES

GRANDE PRAIRIE, ALTA.

The city of Grande Prairie was named by the Roman Catholic missionary who later became Bishop Grouard. Although he established his first church in Dunvegan about 1865, it was not until seven years later that he wrote of the prairie and rolling plains south of Spirit River as "Le Grande Prairie." The district is noted for the many wheat championships it has won at the Royal Winter Fair and the Chicago International.

Neither, Alas, Could Swim

Windsor Daily Star

Canada's waters are among our greatest resources. They are also among our greatest dangers. Every year hundreds dies in them. Most all these deaths are unnecessary.

This is brought home to this community by the drowning of two lovely little lasses in the Detroit River. The tragedy is summed up by one sentence in the news report: "Neither of the girls could swim."

We do not wish to add to the sorrow of the families by pointing out they could have been taught to swim. We do wish to emphasize it, however, as a warning to other parents so they will be spared similar sorrow.

There are ample opportunities to learn to swim in Windsor. The Windsor Swimming Club, with its programs in the school pools; the Recreation Department with its summer classes; the Y. W. - Y. M. C. A. and the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides all provide training. The Windsor Star offers its annual learn-to-swim program.

The Windsor Swimming Club is one of this community's finest assets. It teaches hundreds of youngsters each year. It doesn't just teach them the rudiments of swimming. If the youngsters stay with the classes, as they should, they become really excellent swimmers.

More than that, they learn all about water safety. They learn that the best of swimmers do not take unnecessary chances.

In this country where water abounds, children and others are bound to go into it. It is only a prudent precaution they be taught how to swim and the essentials of water safety.

It is a knowledge they can enjoy throughout life. Swimming is one of the healthiest and most graceful of sports. It can also be, when properly taught, one of the safest.

If you're going to the Belleville Fair, you won't want to miss the historical display under the grandstand.

A few of the highlights of last year's exhibit will be repeated, but ninety per cent of the material will be new.

On display again this year, as the result of several requests, will be the 1874 Bird's Eye View of Belleville. This shows all the streets, stores, industries and homes. It dates back to the time when a thriving lumber business was carried on at the mouth of the Moira.

Two photographs (taken about 1880) also show these lumber mills, especially the one where Victoria Park is.

Also on display will be several copies of the "Intelligencer," which celebrates its 125th birthday this year. The earliest of these papers is dated December 2, 1837. Another paper of June, 1866, announces that the Fenians have invaded Canada and captured Fort Erie.

Space is also being given to the home butter-making industry, with butter churns, ladle, bowl, prints, etc., on display.

There'll be many other interesting articles on display, so, be sure to visit the Hastings County Historical Society's exhibit under the grandstand. We'll be glad to see you.

Old Fashioned Ways Required

Ottawa Journal

A parent we know has been leafing through some school literature these last few days, pondering the important question of where to send his boy. If speeches and claims were to decide, he had made his choice on reading the following words of a headmaster:

"Boys are the potential, but we must avoid the false notion that all men are born with the same capacities to learn and to grow in wisdom. The law of human variation is made by God, not man. We might as well try to avoid the law of gravity . . .

"And we must bar fancy theories and subjects which are creeping into curricula south of the border, for example: 'Life Adjustment Periods', learning to live together, driving, traffic laws, and so on. Such things can be taught outside the classroom. Although school can be interesting its main purpose is not to make people feel that it has to be enjoyable. There are difficult tasks to be done, and I feel that competitive training with lots of hard work is an excellent thing. We do not need a psychologist to tell us that a child whose will is never crossed is one who will make himself most miserable."

Our friend was radiantly happy upon stumbling upon these old-fashioned principles of education. Whether the other factors that go into choosing a school will fall in line for him we don' know: accessibility, extra - curricular activities, known friends, and so on: there are many considerations confronting a parent, including cost. But here at any rate was a beacon in an uncertain course.

"You should publish those paragraphs", he said, "for the benefit of all teachers and all parents."

HOW TO DETERMINE WHETHER BACK PAIN IS CAUSED BY THE SCIATIC NERVE

Today we'll discuss how to find out whether back pain means trouble with the sciatic nerve, and if so, how to determine what is causing it.

We'll start with a remark in yesterday's letter from L. P. that he (or she) had "been to 14 doctors and the diagnoses have been numerous."

I am unable to account for this unless (and I've known it to happen) too much was expected too soon. It is rare indeed for a doctor to say positively (or to say at all) what is causing back pain on the first visit. When one has been to 14 doctors, it would seem to indicate that not much time was spent with any one, or that not any one's advice was followed completely.

It is possible to suspect that overweight, faulty posture, heavy lifting with the back instead of the legs, tension, or some other obvious thing MAY be the matter.

Indeed, it is quite natural for a patient to want the doctor to say, right off, what is the trouble, or what probably is the trouble, or what possibly is the trouble.

Let's imagine a case. The patient stands hip-shot, and sits with a slouch, sits up for moment, presses a hand against the back, feels a bit of relief, then unconsciously slouches again into a posture acquired by long habit. And presently the back hurts again.

The physician, a polite sort of fellow (maybe sometimes doctors should be brutally frank), says something like, "I suspect we may have to get your skeletal structure straightened up a bit before we can expect much improvement.

That's better, isn't it, than saying, "You've developed a terrible slouch!"? Then the doctor prescribes medication, perhaps, to ease the immediate pain, and contemplates a gradual process of persuading the patient to stand and sit straighter.

A WASTEFUL CYCLE

My suggestions are these:

First: Have a regular physician. If back pain does not yield to ordinary treatment, don't quit your doctor and 'go shopping.' Stay with him, but on this particular problem have him refer you to an orthopedic specialist.

Second: Keep in mind that common, every-day items like infections, too much weight, poor posture, over-fatigue, straining the back, and so on, cause more of this sort of trouble than the rare things like ruptured discs, tumors and the like.

Third: To be certain, X - ray, neurological and sometimes other tests are necessary.

I have in mind a patient who had been to, not 14, but 18 doctors (of one sort and another!(because of pain in the neck and shoulders. She "shopped" for a quick cure but didn't find it, that is, until finally she agreed, in desperation, to have X-rays of the neck area. They showed the trouble — pressure on a nerve. Then, at long last, she got relief promptly.

As we used to say, "Sometimes the longest way around is the shortest way home."

Personally, I think we've said enough for right now about back pains, and will go on to some completely different things tomorrow. But I have noted down some other important thoughts about the back, which I'll report to you in the near future.

London, Ont., Children Soft

London Free Press

No one who knows living conditions in Canada and in Europe will be surprised to learn that the young children of London compare in physical fitness with their vis a vis in the United States, and are therefore much below the standard of Europeans. Tests to which children between six and eight years of age were subjected here included "chinning" on a bar, arm and shoulder strength, sit-up exercises measuring the abdominal muscles, sprints and standing broad jump.

Said school trustee Evelyn Harrison, on hearing the report read to the Board of Education: "It is a matter of no gratification." Indeed it is not. Children are the product of their environment. Our children belong to the automobile age. Most European children walk and run. Our city-dwelling children have no manual chores. European children have many.

It is our hope that gymnasia in schools may provide the necessary exercise, and perhaps they may, but the essential thing is that our children shall walk and run, and carry, and "do", and the less they ride in our posh cars the better.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In the Manchester Guardian lately, the newspaper most respected by newspapermen except the one they are working for, Richard Fry remarked that some newspapermen "forget that the freedom of the press is a right of the people, not of the press." I wish I had had that quotation handy in the chair car yesterday when I was verbally assaulted by a member of parliament who got the porter to change his seat so he could sit next to me and give me a six hour drubbing. What irks him is the assumption of authority by newspapermen.

"We," he said, "members of parliament, and therefore the government of the country, have to win the approval of our fellow citizens in an election before we are at liberty to express opinions binding on the public. But you people! Who elects you? By what authority do you sound off editorially, telling the lawfully chosen representatives of the people what they should do and how they should think? You are private citizens who work your way up in a semi-professional, semi-commercial enterprise, and then assume you have the right to govern public opinion."

The people have a right far easier to exercise than the vote. They have the right to choose a newspaper every day, often twice a day. They give it their patronage, or they withhold it. If it faithfully represents their opinions, points of view and attitudes, they support it. If it offends them, they drop it. They don't have to wait four or five years before they can change their vote. The press is fairly safe in the public's hands. The Freedom of the press is a right of the people, not of the press.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

PRODUCE! PRODUCE!

Production is the key to prosperity, providing that you produce something useful, and what people want — especially something that helps to make life easier and more enjoyable. Said Thomas Carlyle: "Produce! Produce! Were it but the pitifullest infinitesimal fraction of a product, produce it, in God's name! 'Tis the utmost thou hast in thee. Out with it, then. Up, up."

Each of us possesses a production factory — if we learn to use it. I refer to the human mind. How infinite in power it is! How noble in concept, one of God's great gifts to man. Who could produce without it? Where else could we look for the inspiration to attempt the heights?

A nation that fails to produce soon dies as a force in human activity. It is the same with each one of us. Nature is always producing. That is why we live in a world of contrasts — to give hope and desire to store in the heart. A full mind is like the full barn bulging with grain and produce from the fields.

Thomas Edison could not find time in which to be idle. Quickly, from one invention to another he produced, over and over again, to the last mile! What a satisfying life to have lived as he did! We must keep learning more and more about ourselves, so as to grow in efficiency, wholesome desires, and the urge to be someone, anl to go far.

People who create and produce never turn into idlers. They become "men of the hour," leaders, and nation builders. Produce! Produce!

MIRACLES

Do miracles still occur? If they do not occur today, then they probably never occurred. Furthermore, if they did occur in the past, we ought to believe in them a lot more than we do today. Miracles are either real or they are not real. They are either continuous or they never happened. Most of us believe that they did occur, that they do occur, and that they would occur in much greater numbers if we had faith enough to bring them about.

We often hear that the age of miracles has ended. Who said that? Where does one find that in the Bible? If there was ever anything thought up by a faithless generation in an attempt to excuse such faithlessness, it is just such a declaration as that. Miracles are still occurring if we have eyes to see them. Miracles would occur in greater abundance if we had faith to call them forth.

Every physician will tell you of miracles which occurred in his practice. Everyone of us has had providential experiences which indicate nothing but the loving hand of God in our affairs. Many of the sick given up for dead have not died. Even some who have been regarded as dead have sometimes stood up and lived for decades.

Miracles? Why certainly. And there would be millions more to bless us if we only had the required religious faith.

Black Knights and Crystal Chapters of Orange Order Commemorate Derry Day

Saturday was "Derry Day" in Belleville — the day when loyal members of the Royal Black Preceptory and Crystal Chapters commemorated the liberation of Protestantism from Roman Catholicism in Londonderry, Ireland, 270 years ago.

The commemoration ceremony was held Saturday afternoon at the Fair Grounds under the auspices of the Belleville Preceptory 853 and Crystal Chapter No. 19.

Only about half of the expected turnout of 500 Orange Lodge representatives from Hastings, Lennox, and Addington Counties turned out in the 90 degree heat and humidity to participate in the traditional ceremony which commenced at 1.30 p.m. with a parade.

Led by Parade Marshal J. Botting, Cannifton, member of the Belleville Preceptory, 853, astride a large, black horse, and holding the traditional unsheathed sword, and featuring four bands and representation from 11 lodges and chapters, the parade formed up on the track, moved out the main gate and wended its way down Yeomans Street to West Moira, from West Moira to North Front, over the upper bridge to Front Street, down Front to Bridge Street, up West Bridge to Yeomans Street and back to the fair grounds.

The approximately 250 marchers arrived back at the Fairgrounds damp and sticky at 2.45 p.m.

Parade participants in order of appearance were as follows: Parade Marshal, two standard bearers, the Frankford Pipe Band, L.O.L., led by the drum major, Frankford Lodge 631, R.B.P., Marmora Lodge 748, Bancroft Lodge 614, Trent Valley (Trenton) Lodge 878, Fife and Drum Band, Trenton, Crystal Chapter 20, Trenton. Forest Mills Lodge 944, Crystal Chapter 55, Pembroke, L.O.L. 3190 Napanee Fife and Drum Band, Havelock Lodge 946, Havelock Pipe Band, Crystal Chapter 36, Havelock, Crystal Chapter 36, Mavelock, and Belleville Lodge 853.

Most of the lodges were preceded by the lodge banner and the open Bible, symbolic of the Orange Order. The men, representing the "Black Knights of old", were dressed in black sashes trimmed with red and white and similar-colored hats. The women, representatives of Crystal Chapter, were dressed all in white.

Mrs. William Douglas, Crystal Chapter 1135, Sulphide, 82-years-young, "carried the banner" for the oldest Chapter representative present, while 79-year-old Mr. W. J. Tyner, R.B.P. 944, Forest Mills, held the distinction of being the oldest man present.

During the afternoon prior to the return of the marchers to the Fair Grounds, the Kendal L.O.L. 405 Fife and Drum Band entertained with musical selections.

The program was held in the grandstand, and the chairman was Rt. Wor. J. N. Bentley, of Belleville Preceptory 853.

Guest speaker was H. Small, M.P., of Toronto, Most Worshipful Past Grand Master of Grand Lodge of British North America.

In his lengthy address, Mr. Small particularly stressed the reasons for the observance of Derry Day.

It is not a celebration, he stated, but a gathering to commemorate the liberation of the Protestant religion some 270 years ago.

"We should rejoice in the liberties those 13 Black Knights gave us (at Londonderry) 270 years ago, and held down through the years," he said.

He said the freedoms Protestants enjoy today are the same ones fought for then.

The speaker particularly emphasized the motto of the Orange Order — "Equal rights to all, special privileges to none," and noted the Order is continually striving to maintain these civil and religious liberties.

Mr. Small also emphasized the need for concerted effort on the part of all Lodge representatives to maintain the strength and vigor of the Orange Order.

He explained the word "Protestant" does not mean "to protest" but rather "to stand for something" — freedom from oppression and tryanny. He added the Orange Order is not against any religious sect, and only fought against Roman Catholics in the battle of Londonderry because 'the Roman Catholics chose to stand on the side of tyranny and oppression."

SPOKE FOR WOMEN

Noting the division of the world into separate camps behind Iron, Bamboo, and Paper curtains, each with their own symbols, he said only Commonwealth countries have the Orange Order with its symbol of Christ.

"What the Order stands for cannot be taken away", he said.

The speaker was introduced by Rowland Darling, Lakefield, Past Grand Master of Black Chapter of Ontario East.

Mrs. Clarence Holmes, Past Senior Preceptress of Crystal Chapter No. 20, Trenton, and Grand Treasurer of Ontario East, spoke on behalf of Crystal Chapter members.

She thanked all Crystal chapter members who participated in this year's commemoration, and called on both halves of the Order to exemplify the Order's faith, not only on Derry Day, but every day throughout the year.

She particularly stressed the need for concerted action among members of the Order so the "Christian Protestant crusade will go forward strong and progressively."

Others who spoke briefly were Elmer Sandercock, M.L.A. for West Hastings who expressed the regrets of Lee Grills, M.P., in being unable to be present; Rt. Wor. Sir Knight Sidney Brown, Assistant Deputy Grand Master Grand Black Chapter of Ontario East; and Rt. Wor. Sir Knight William Baldock, Grand Standard Bearer of Ontario East.

A sermonette was given by the Rev. L. A. Page, representing the Belleville Ministerial Association, and the blessing was invoked by the Rev. W. Plager of Queensboro. Chairman Bentley gave a brief address thanking those who participated and particularly the Belleville Preceptory 853 and Chrystal Chapter No. 34 for organizing the event. He also read a written greeting from Mayor Gerald B. Hyde, who was unable to stay for the program.

HIGHLAND BAND — Frankford Pipe Band led off Derry Day parade. Here Helen Hall, tenor drummer; Neal Roote, drummer, and Peggy Conly, piper, hold big bass drum.

DERRY DAY PARADE — Lodges from all over Quinte District marched in the parade leaving from the fair grounds at 1.30 p.m. Here Forest Mills Lodge is seen passing through fair ground gates.

Nearly Million 1959 Model Cars Yet to Be Sold

DETROIT (AP)—The next 60 days are vital to the automobile industry in the United States.

What happens between now and mid-October will go a long way in determining the economic health of the business which employs directly one of every seven of American wage earners.

There are about 950,000 new 1959 model cars to be sold. By the end of the 60-day period, all but one of the 1960 models should be in dealers' showrooms.

Any substantial carryover of year-old models slows the new model sales. And a sales year that gets off to a slow start usually has trouble picking up speed after winter sets in.

The disposal of the 59s is a big problem, especially since new car sales in July ran noticeably below the rate necessary for an orderly sellout. Of even more importance to the industry, however, is the public reception of the 1960 cars. Will they be greeted with open pocketbooks? Or will they fall flat on their chrome-trimmed bumpers?

Ford, General Motors and Chrysler have decided this is the year for their versions of a compact car. Two of these small ones —Chevrolet's rear - engined Corvair and Ford's Falcon—will be on sale by Oct. 1, two weeks earlier than first planned.

If buyers rush for them, it's certain that the Big Three will speed plans to market additional smaller cars. For example, General Motors' three medium-priced lines—Buick, Oldsmobile and Pontiac—have a small car almost ready to go. If the small 1960 cars catch on fast, this will be rushed into production. If not, it will be held off or scrapped in its present form.

Much the same situation may exist at Ford. Trade gossip says the reception of the Falcon will have much to do with whether the Edsel of 1961 appears in a standard or compact size.

Chrysler's small car development has been running behind GM and Ford and its Valiant won't be on sale until late November.

MITTS — DOIG

BATAWA — White and blue carnations decorated Sacred Heart Church in Batawa, on Saturday, August 8th at 9.30 a.m., when Mildred Arlene Doig, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Doig of 243 Byron Street, became the bride of Roger Allan Mitts, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Mitts, 134 King St.

The Rev. Father W. H. Dunphy conducted the double-ring ceremony. Miss Peggy Laval played the wedding music and Glenn Mitts, uncle of the bridegroom sang the solos.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride, wore a gown of Chantilly lace, featuring a full-tiered skirt underlined with satin, high neck with wing collar and illusion front panel; short sleeves and long matching gloves. Her imported silk illusion veil was held by a mother-of-pearl tiara.

The bride was attended by Miss Diane Randa, maid of honor, and Miss Kathie Hunter, bridesmaid, both of Toronto. Both attendants wore misty-blue strapless gowns of sheer crystalette underlined with satin with white accessories and carried bouquets of blue and white carnations. Both girls wore matching tiaras of mother-of-pearl which they wore on their graduation from St. Joseph's Hospital of nursing in Port Arthur, Ontario.

The best man was Douglas Mitts and the ushers were: Maurice Mitts and Robert Mitts all brothers of the bridegroom.

The wedding breakfast was held at the Dutch Mill Inn, Trenton, and later the guests went to the bride's home where the bride's mother greeted them wearing a powder-blue lace sheath with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother wearing a pale grey and white tweed dress, pale blue accessories and a corsage of red roses.

At the afternoon reception, Mrs. H. McLean aunt of the bride, from Toronto, poured tea. She was assisted by Mrs. J. Doig of Smiths Falls, Ontario. The bride gave her bouquet to the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. C. Mitts.

For their wedding trip to the United States, the bride chose a charcoal sheath dress with matching duster coat, white accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitts will reside at 224 Front St. upon their return. Out-of-town guests were present from Smiths Falls, Ottawa, Toronto, Brockville and Merrickville.

GIMPEL — EDWARDS

MADOC — A pretty wedding took place at Christ-Lutheran Church, Peterborough on Saturday, Aug. 1st when Miss Grace Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernhardt Edwards of Madoc, Ontario, was united in marriage to Mr. Alvin Conrad Gimpel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Gimpel. The Rev. H. W. Gastmerier conducted the double-ring ceremony following the singing of the "Wedding Prayer" by Mr. Raymond Smith, Madoc, uncle of the bride.

The bride was gowned in white silk chiffon with a hooped, bouffant skirt flowing to a cathedral train. She wore a finger-tip French silk illusion veil and carried a white-silk covered Bible from which fell a cascade of white stephanotis and pale pink rosebuds.

Attending the bride were Miss Joy Anne Fox, maid of honor, Miss Joan Holmes and Miss Donna Devolin, bridesmaids, who wore street-length dresses in peacock blue silk chiffon and carried nose gays of white gladioli cups and pink rosebuds.

Miss Cindy Gimpel, as flower-girl, in a white silk chiffon embroidered in pink carried a small nosegay similar to those of the bridesmaids.

Mr. Donald Gimpel was groomsman and the ushers were: Mr. Thomas Merry and Mr. Douglas McKinnon. Mothers of the bride and bridegroom were dressed in navy crepe with white accessories and wore corsages of red Sweetheart roses.

Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Gimpel left for a wedding trip to Texas and Mexico and upon returning will take up residence in Toronto.

MADOC TRINITY W.M.S.

MADOC — About 20 members of Trinity Woman's Missionary Society enjoyed a car drive to the summer home of Mrs. Frank Dafoe at Moira Lake on Wednesday evening, where they held the August meeting, presided over by Mrs. Empey, who conducted the business and received reports from the treasurer, friendship, and literature conveners.

Mrs. Fred Fleming was in charge of the worship service, the topic being "Friendship." She chose her Bible story from St. Luke and gave a reading which was much enjoyed. "A letter by a friend to Zacchaeus, telling the story of Jesus' visit to their home." Assisting were Mrs. Bennett who gave a reading, "My Brother"; Mrs. E. Burnside a poem, "I Shall Not Pass This Way Again"; Miss A. Holmes, a reading, "Sharing."

The associate members were in charge of the program and presented a skit, "The Associate Members of the WMS Pay a Call." Those taking part were: Mrs. W. McCoy, Mrs. B. Tanner, Miss Ashe, Mrs. Geo. Devolin.

The closing prayer by Mrs. Dafoe concluded a fine meeting.

Hart Family Holds Annual Reunion Picnic

On August 2 the Hart family held its annual picnic on the Canada Cement picnic grounds. Dinner was served at 12.30 by the women, which was delicious and plentiful.

The members consisted of the sons, relatives and families of Mrs. Joseph Hart of Roslin, who was also the eldest woman present, in her 74th year. The oldest man was Mr. Ed Fraser of Point Anne, in his 76th year.

The youngest member was baby Teddy Hart, six and one-half months, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hart, of Point Anne.

Mrs. Harold Hart and children travelled the farthest, from Winona, Ontario. The youngest married couple were Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hart of Belleville and the longest married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fraser, 46 years.

Those in attendance were from Winona, Roslin, Plainfield, Belleville, Prince Edward County and Point Anne.

Visiting, reminiscing and scrambles took up the best part of the afternoon. The younger ones enjoyed the refreshing swimming.

After a bountiful supper, all departed for home, looking forward to another successful picnic next year, with a hearty invitation to those who were absent this year to come next year.

HAVANA (AP)—Premier Fidel Castro of Cuba has been invited to England by Oxford University president Joseph Trattener to participate in Oxford Union Society debates starting Oct. 15, the premier's office announced. There was no immediate indication as to whether the voluble Castro had accepted.

OPERATION COVER UP

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—The classic nude portrait of the Duchess of Alva, painted by Francisco Goya, has been put in a bikini by local authorities. The portrait was featured on a poster for a movie of Goya's life. Officials said it was immoral and ordered the bikini painted over it.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Diane J. — Let's live while we can.

Michael J. — I work too hard to throw money down the drain.

• • •

Diane J. — My husband and I were brought up during the depression and were married on his army corporal's pay and mine as a typist. The going has been rough, but now at last we are comfortably fixed.

We have three children and are making adequate provision for their education. I think it is time we started thinking about ourselves. I have always loved clothes and lots of social life and I would like to spend money on myself, fix up my home, do some entertaining and go places.

Michael thinks these things are not important. He is making investments that may or may not amount to something — some day. I say let the future take care of itself. Let's live while we can.

• • •

Michael J. — With some people it's a case of easy come, easy go. As for me, I sweat blood for my money and I can't see throwing it down the drain in booze for people I care nothing about. Of course, I want my wife to dress well, but when I see some of the things she wants to buy I am glad we haven't had the money until now. Some of these styles — whew!

The investments I am making will really come to something in future years. They will provide for us in our later years and will give something more for our children so they won't have to struggle the way I did:

Diane is aways crabbing about my being antisocial. I can't help it. I've always been that way — just freeze up at parties.

• • •

The Council: Michael appears to be frightened by the radically different way of life his wife is suggesting. Diane has unfortunately worried about this problem too long without doing anything — so that all of Michael's fears have had time to flourish and he hasn't ever had the opportunity to know any of the pleasures of social life.

Diane appears to consider herself a social butterfly and feels she has been deprived too long, sacrificed too much. She blames her husband and he feels guilty about it. Yet we suspect that Diane has a lot of social fears of her own and her hesitation about arranging agreeable social activities has induced her husband to be even more rigid in his patterns. In retaliation she has perhaps gotten a bit shrewish on the subject.

People who really enjoy contact with others usually manage to entertain and keep up social appearances enough to have a circle of friends who like them for themselves — not the impressiveness of their homes, clothing or amount of "booze" served. So we'd suggest that Diane change herself in this matter before trying to change her husband. She should make an effort to cultivate the friendship of a small number of congenial couples, learn to entertain informally and let nature take its course.

We have an idea that Michael will eventually begin to look forward to the relaxing kind of sociability and will come out of his "freeze." This may have the beneficial result of reducing his anxiety about the future. He may develop a taste for some of the advantages of an economically secure life. Diane at the same time will learn that a social life doesn't necessarily call for large scale extravagances. In short, the way will be opened for a compromise.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

AN "ADORABLE" FLOWER GIRL

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to have a small afternoon church wedding. I am wearing a white wedding dress and bridal veil, and will have my only sister as matron of honor. My sister has a 5-year-old daughter, whom I love very much (she is [illegible] godchild), and she would [illegible] an adorable flower girl. [illegible] would it be out-of-order in [illegible] a small wedding with only [illegible] adult attendant? — H.

[illegible] would be entirely proper, [illegible] charmingly appropriate, for [illegible] to have your 5-year-old niece [illegible] flower girl at your small wedding. She might wear a pastel-shade dress, and carry an old-fashioned nosegay.

WHERE SHOULD GROOM'S FATHER, THE BEST MAN, SIT?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My father is to be my best man at my wedding in October, and this brings up a question we have never thought of before. We are to have a bridal table, and also there will be a parents' table. At which table should my father, the best man, sit? My mother thinks he should sit at the parents' table. — Bill D.

This double-duty for your father . . . best man and also man guest of honor . . . does indeed present a problem. And although there is no definite rule that applies to this, I agree with your mother that it is really best that he be seated at the parents' table, to take his honor-place at the right of the bride's mother, the hostess. At the bride's table an usher, the head usher if there is to be one, can take the best man's place at the bride's right. Then, when it comes time for the best man's toast "To the Bride and Groom," this usher can give the signal to your father to come to the bridal table to propose the toast.

GIRL SHOULD SUGGEST DEPARTURE TIME

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a girl and her boy friend go together to spend the evening with mutual friends, which one should suggest that it's time to go home? We're having a discussion about this. — A. and B

It's the girl who should make the suggestion that it's time to leave . . . that is a "woman's social perogative." However, if the girl is thoughtlessly disregarding the hour she and her boy friend promised her parents to return home, the boy may, and should, take over, and remind her, "Dorothy, we really should leave now . . . remember we promised to be at your house by eleven."

WATCH HOW YOU SAY "CHAISE LONGUE"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When one is speaking of a chaise longue, isn't it really incorrect to call it a "chaise"? One hears this so very often that I'm wondering if this short-cut is now accepted? — F. S.

It is not correct to refer to a chaise longue as a chaise. Chaise longue means a "long chair," and chaise means "chair" . . . very different.

Incidentally, and very importantly, remember that the longue in chaise longue is pronounced long (not "lounge").

Substantial Sandwiches And Iced Coffee

by Mary Moore

Irenee Williams had been my guide through Soest's quaint but flourishing outdoor market. After tottering over the cobblestones in high heels (poor fool me) I was ready for it when she suggested a cup of coffee at the Kondeterei.

We jauntily ordered "Eis Gekuehlt Kaffee" from the menu and were served parfait glasses full of ice cream with what seem to be coffee syrup over and under, topped with a mountain of coffee-flavored whipped cream? Wonderful to taste, but the name was the understatement of my trip. Not iced coffee as we know it.

Today I have sandwich ideas that will be adequate to serve with a tall glass of iced coffee made North American style, when you want to have folks in but do not have the time or energy or money to provide a more elaborate meal.

OPEN SALMON SANDWICH PIE:

For this you need one 7-inch round loaf, softened butter, Salmon Spread, Cucumber Spread, slices of cucumber. Cut away top and bottom crusts from bread and cut into 2 thick crosswise slices. Spread with butter. Spoon some Cucumber Spread at centre (1-2 cup each grated cucumber and cottage cheese, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon vinegar, few grains each pepper and dry mustard). Surround with Salmon Spread to within 1-2-inch of edge (1 one-lb. can salmon drained and flaked, 1-2 cup chopped cucumber, 2 tablespoons each chopped onion and mayonnaise, 2 teaspoons lemon juice mixed well). Border with more Cucumber Spread. For each "pie" halve unpared cucumber slices and arrange like petals around centre. Sprinkle centre with paprika. Serve at once, cut into large or small wedges.

LILLIAN'S SANDWICH LOAF CENTREPIECE:

Buy a hearth-baked round loaf of bread and peel off crusts (like you would a big turnip, Lil says, and butter and eat the crusts to sustain yourself!) Cut the loaf into 3 or 4 slices and spread each with some good zippy filling — cheese, ham and egg are good. Re-assemble the loaf, "ice" with 2 small packages of Baumert cheese which have been softened enough to spread with milk, and decorate top like a fancy cake, with chopped almonds or sliced candied cherries or angelica or citron peel. Use as a centrepiece at a luncheon or supper where first course fruit cup or soup precede this main course sandwich. At Lillian's luncheon party she bordered the loaf with nasturtiums and daisies but forgot to say "Please don't eat the daisies!" and the girls did!

ICED COFFEE:

Fill ice cube tray with freshly made but cooled full-strength coffee and freeze. When ready to serve fill tall glasses with frozen coffee cubes and pour over fresh hot coffee. If used, add sugar and cream. Or for fancy effect pour heavy cream slowly over upturned round bouillon spoon to form a thick layer on top. Sip through straw.
